ERSKINE NEWS

The rain which fell on Saturday and Sunday insured sufficient moisture for the next few weeks, and all crops are looking fine. It is the opinion of many that the rain was the heaviest since 1916. In any case there is water in some of the sloughs which have been dry since last summer.

The Methodist Day services at the Presbyterian Church last Sunday were attended by the lovers numbers, and the choir rendered splendid the service being repeated at a later date.

Glad that the celebration at Community Hall on the 24th was such a success. The baseball was good, the supper was better and the crowd was good natured. Let us have one at any similar celebration in years.

The fact that Mr. A. Scotland, still in the hospital in Calgary, has to undergo another operation arouses a lot of sympathy, and the Erskine Board of Trade, which met last Monday night under the chairmanship of Mr. Fotheringham, instructed the secretary to write him, and accompany the message with some flowers.

The C.P.R. Company have had a camp at the hill station for the past few days.

BUFFALO LAKE COMMUNITY CELEBRATION

Victoria Day was not celebrated in Stettler or Erskine, but many of the residents journeyed to Liscard for the day where a celebration was carried on under the auspices of the Buffalo Lake Conservation Club, for the benefit of the Community Hall. The day was a striking success, there being a large attendance of boys' and girls' events.

The feature of the afternoon was the baseball competition, four teams being represented—Erskine, Ramsay, Ramsden and Bohemia. As the players were all known to the crowd the interest in the competition was keen and the players themselves took a big range celebration when the New York Giants take a day off to rest the overworked baseball. The baseball was even more close when it was about during the course of the games that there were several Babe Ruths, Ty Cobbs and Geo. Sislers among the players. Some pitchers as Reg Johnson, Harry Lyon and Jack Ramsden were on their best, and the umpires were given little work, neither being troubled by kicking players.

The final game was between Erskine and Ramsden, although Erskine took the lead throughout the game, nevertheless, a neat interesting one as there were some brilliant plays made on the bases. Lyon for Erskine has developed into quite a pitcher and it was through his work that Ramsden was held down, the Erskine batters went after the ball with their old-time vim. Batting—Fletcher, 1; Ramsden pitcher, to bat when most of the time. The final score was: Erskine 14, Ramsden 4.

Geo. Wood acted as umpire for the first game and Lyle Simmons for the second.

The prizes for three competitions were free suppers for the successful players and they took full advantage of the occasion after the games were over.

The event of the day, however, was the chicken supper at the Community Hall which started at 5.30 and continued until 8.30 in the evening. This was handled by many who did not arrive in time for the afternoon, and notwithstanding the large crowd of guests who were served, the affair went off without a hitch. The tables could all at one sitting, and as they were emptied three or four times the number of guests can be easily imagined. The room was a varied one consisting of chicken as the chief course and the ladies must have expended a good deal of time and skill in making the supper the event of the day.

The hall was cleared for the entertainment at nine o'clock and the program consisted of songs, recitations and speeches. Miss Mrs. Fred Holder and Scotty Cameron furnished the songs which were all encored. Jim Hudson gave the most popular number of the evening in his Irish and Scotch recitations and the rest of the program was taken up by A. L. Bowden, M.P.P., and C. L. Wills.

Mr. Bowden, in his address, went over the events of the past year, the last session of the legislature and outlined his stand on some of the important issues. On the prohibition question he discussed the matter in detail, stating that he was an out-and-out prohibitist, but that if the people decided not here by vote of school he could to have them enforced. He considered that the present liquor act was working out well and that time only was needed to make it a complete success.

In regard to the banking question he considered that the time was not ripe for a province-owned bank, that the farmers owed the chartered banks not before a province could start and established this money would have to be taken out of the banks which are doing business in the province and that debts be considered impossible at the present time.

Other members also spoke on the road question, outlining that it had been impossible owing to lack of funds to do more on the roads during the past year than had been done on the question of school inspection and stated that with a better class of teachers now being employed in the province, schools the same amount of inspection as in past times was not required. He wished the various locals in the constituency to inform him from time to time as to matters required in their various districts, and by all means to attend the local conventions.

C. L. Wills congratulated the Buffalo Lake Conservation Club on the event of their first celebration and he expressed the hope that the affair would be an annual one. He considered that the success of the day was due in large part to the work of the ladies who were on hand to give support that had been provided. The officials of the Club had also been instrumental in their efforts in putting on a good sports day. Buffalo Lake district was not merely a rural district but a cosmopolitan one as many visitors passed through it every summer in sports some of their holidays at Buffalo Lake, which was one of our conventional scenic. He had travelled the roads of the district as much as anybody and there was many times when the roads were almost impassable on account of the mud. What had happened often before and will happen many times again, and the older settlers particularly had no fears but that the cycle of wet years would come around again. The driest year we have had, that is 1922, furnished 12½ inches of rain but the trouble was that the rain was not distributed, most of it falling in April and August when it was needed the least. The year 1923 has opened up well with a crop starting until the month of May and if the altogether unlikely that it will not prove a good year.

Mr. Wills then continued what he claimed were the fundamental things in the development of the province, that is, Education and Agriculture, and stated that while development was good, individual development was the supreme thing.

The speaker closed with a reference to Victoria Day and outlined some of the benefits of being born in previous the Alberta as contrasted with some of the countries of Europe.

The music started at eleven o'clock and lasted until early morning. The hall was crowded for the first part and more room would have been welcome. The music was furnished by the Red Deer Brothers, who kept going for several hours. Refreshments were served at 1.30 a.m. and some of the children which had been put to sleep on the supper early in the evening were also entertained.

The results for the supper and refreshments successfully over two hundred dollars.

School Notes

SPORTS DAY

We have Sports Day because it teaches boys and girls to play fairly.

Sports make children's bodies strong and healthy and keen.

I like to go down to the Sports because I like to go in the chipping and jumping and running.

They give prizes so that more children will take part, and it makes the children feel more happy to get a prize.

Sports Day also teaches children to lose without crying. I think it is better to get and lose than never get that to stay home because you thought you would not win.

Grade III Pupil.

SPORTS DAY

The third of June is the King's birthday. We have sports that day. We have races, jumping, high jump, basket ball, base ball and many other games.

We have three sports to make our bodies healthy. If we do not practice we will not be able to become good. The number of athletes we get there whether we have kept up these exercises or not.

We all have sports day because we like to play. We have prizes to be passed too, when we come home real tired and weary with ribbons. That is when we like to pass Mr. Tanner and Mr. Tuberculosis on the street.

BASEBALL AT CASTOR MAY 24th

At 11 o'clock the Stettler High School baseball team entered the grass, followed shortly by the Castor High School team. The game between Stettler took the field with Cotterill at the bat, and the first of the third inning Burkle stepped on the home plate with Cotterill. The players finally ended 5-1 in favor of Stettler High School. At 4.30 Stettler again took the field with Cotterill pitching, who had beaten Castor 7-2. With Burkle in the box pitching a wonderful game, we defeated Coronation 5-0. Time we journeyed home victorious.

Fenn News

The Fenn district came out in its true colors last Sunday, much to the gratification of the old timers when a half shower of real rainfalls in place quite by have been rather taken with a grin by the newcomers. .75 inches of rain fell in 45 minutes on Sunday morning, and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. a total of 1.61 inches of rain fell which is rather more than half of the total rainfall during the entire growing season of last year. During the whole of last year only 3.1 inches fell during the growing season here, whereas this May alone we have already a total of 3.31 inches.

Even crops, hay and pastures are rapidly responding to the beneficent and liquid moisture, and brand coming over the color of the day.

Mrs. Pooley has presented her husband with a small son. The baby was born on Monday night and we understand that both mother and child are coming along fine.

Austin Crawford is now home again after the weather, with colds and minor indispositions.

Don't forget the U.F.W.A. meeting at Mrs. Charlie Hamm's on Wednesday, June 13. Everybody welcome. We expect to have a very lively discussion on the subject of the meeting—Birth Control.

At an informal meeting at Mr. Crawford's, it was decided to start a local ring in this district, commencing June 8th. This local ring was a great success last summer and in one of the most useful pieces of work that our local U.F.A. has accomplished.

The farmer and the banker

THOUSANDS of farmers throughout Canada have proved for themselves the value of a connection with The Bank of Toronto.

The opening of a small deposit account has, in hundreds of cases, been the means of establishing friendship and confidence, and the loans obtained from the Bank from time to time for farm operations have been of great assistance in helping many a farmer towards success.

Farmers' business is as important to The Bank of Toronto as any other business. We welcome the Farmer at any of our Branches.

Bargain-Hunters

In this community are hundreds of individuals and families on the watch for an advertisement which will offer them what they want at an advantageous price.

Call them bargain-hunters if you will, but there is nothing wrong in waiting for a bargain, especially when the seller is anxious to sell at a reduced price.

One family wants a new carpet—the need is not urgent. Another family is looking forward to buying dining-room furniture—it may not be a twelve month.

One man is thinking of buying himself a watch. One woman a shopping bag; another an umbrella.

All can be made to buy earlier—by advertising.

A NOTE TO THE MERCHANTS

Stimulate business by the offer of some slow-moving lines at special prices, brighten up business by advertising some desirable goods at reduced prices. Make advertising banish dull business times. Often you can tempt the buyer who is biding his or her time, to buy from you—at a time of your naming.

THE BRITISH LABOR PARTY

The New Force in Old Country Politics

(From Rockstone Star)

If has been well said that every great movement has to pass through three stages of development: "push gush" stage, the "how now" stage, and the "tone best" stage. The Labor party in the United Kingdom is no exception to this rule. I can not say to which of these interests were opposed in the days when Keir Hardie in Scotland, Enoch Edwards and Burt in Northumberland and Thomas Burt in Durham and William Abraham in Wales, first began preaching the labor gospel and the right of the workmen to organize themselves for collective action for securing a fair share of the wealth they helped to produce, and get more "links" and less "pins" for their labor of love.

But I am old enough to remember the "how now" stage, when all the social, political, and legal resources of the governing interests were opposed with a view of resisting its early demise. The most famous example of this process in operation was the "Taff Vale decision" which held that the funds of trade unionists were liable to seizure to cover the cost of one of the Lancashire directors in parliament, and to compensate the mill in dispute and knowledge of payment-by-results. Rejected at the Labor election on the "Who won the Derby" cards, he found a political asylum in Wales as Keir Hardie did before Scotland turned him down. He is the debater and parliamentarian of the labor party. Next to Mr. Lloyd George I consider him to be the most powerful man in argument in the House of Commons. He is a master of the English language and has that quality of courage somewhat with Cromwell's, and Disraeli's splendid tenacity. He is the spokesman of the British debate in a marked degree.

In order of mind he is more constructive than destructive as evidenced by his contributions to the famous Lloyd George budget debate. Sarcasm Macdonald can always cheer the "better way." No "thump orator" he, but a man of rare skill, wide culture, deep sympathies, in business to make the world a better place to live in.

J. R. Clynes

The next in order of importance I consider to be J. R. Clynes. A Lancashire man and if my memory serves me right, a Methodist local preacher. Clynes is the organizer par excellence. He has proved his right to this title by his work as secretary of, at the greatest crisis that ever befell the country of his birth. When the late Lord Rhondda undertook the position of food controller during the latter years of the war, he stipulated that J. R. Clynes should be his colleague.

What a contrast between Clynes and Rhondda was an industrial magnate, a millionaire, sometimes subject to great emotions! Clynes was a labor man; passing rich on $5460 a year, a quiet and unobtrusive man, toiling while in London attending to the interests of the Lancashire weavers in parliament, in a comparatively small apartment house off Berkley square.

But Lord Rhondda knew his man, and together they saved the old land from starving. When Rhondda died, Clynes succeeded him, with James McPherson as his colleague, and they kept the country from famine's supply of food, Clynes and McPherson carrying on the great and good work, organized on Eccles's supply, which controlled the world's entire granary and rendered ineffective the depredations of the submarine. To look at Clynes casually one would hardly credit him with ability to run a village council, but history will have only one J. R. Clynes as it was only possible for a man of his unique constructive gift—essential to some in the house in this ex-Lancashire factory hand, and to the world at large as exercised by the hero of his soul.

Philip Snowden

The next leader in order of importance I consider to be Philip Snowden. Beginning life, like Ramsay Macdonald, as a teacher, he soon discovered politics to be his native element and sphere, especially international politics. In the event of his labor party coming into power Snowden will undoubtedly be the foreign minister and he will smash forever the east-iron theory that Ross and Mr. Harvey alone can form a suitable background for high and efficient diplomacy. Philip Snowden is the ghost of Lord Salisbury out of haired Saul and inherent secret diplomacy in to nine-tenths responsible for it. There will be no secret treaties under the Snowden regime, except at election-time. England will know its liability abroad as at home and need be in no fear of awakening one morning to find herself involved in a European war and death staring its young men for its ethereal existence by making it receive institution it now is.

A scholar of great culture, he is also the orator of the party, with a genius for the righteousness that embeth a nation.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY

Leader whose eminence' leader and expounder of the aspirations of the people of Great Britain. "Honest Bob" his colleagues call him and well does he deserve the name. His life has been a continuous devotion to the uplift of the miners in particular, and workers in general. When taunted by the Duke of Northumberland, he mentioned how he had turned down a minister's portfolio, offered him by the Lloyd George Cabinet, with £5000 a year emolument in order to continue serving his class. A great heart, he is also a great intellect in the rough and the world has too much need of the latter to be spoiled as to whether his head is brushed correctly or his boots polished properly. During the sittings of the Royal Commission appointed to examine the matter of miners' emolument, he showed himself to be so train natural in any respect to the great industrial problem—skill, reliance, deep sympathies, in business to make the world a better place to live in.

Mr. Quebec recently the Hon. Abraham Martin, the first settler in the Quebec Cabinet, effected at the unveiling of a monument erected by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company in memory of Abraham Martin, who was the first known Canadian of Scottish descent and the First King's pilot on the St. Lawrence River. The Plains of Abraham incurred their name from him, by receiving a grant of the land from Champlain in 1647. The unveiling of the monument, a handsome granite shaft some 50 feet high surmounted by a stone engraved by thistles, was an important event and was attended by a large number of prominent citizens and political representatives.

The sturdy pioneer is further acclaimed by Andrew Patterson, who says:—

Another leader of great power and an influence is Robert Smillie, the

Legal Status Given

The movement culminated in legal status being created by parliament to trade unions: the way other legislation was engendered and their being protected from private machination. In a word, "the right to strike" and that effectively, was for the first time in British history given legal sanction and status. The workers came into their "legal" own. Today the movement is in the "how now" stage. The "intimidated" party of yesterday's The "reasoned out" party of the day before is today the second biggest political organized power in British politics, an alternative in place of the historic liberal party, the official opposition to the tory party in office.

No Lesser Suppliants

The change is difficult to grasp in its full significance. Where men Gladstone, Harcourt, Asquith, Grey, Lloyd George, Bright and other great liberal leaders sat, now sit Ramsay Macdonald, Henderson, Roberts, Snellin, J. H. Thomas, J. R. Clynes and others by less than a decade ago were, some of them hitherto "suppliants," "humble families," "visionaries" and what not, and contemptuously rejected by the public at the polls.

The gain in status alone acquired by the party by this advance is enormous. Where once they were supplicants to leaders now are rulers. Where once they begged, they can now demand and obtain. And if the reason for this can be taken as a barometer of public opinion, in which these members of the present must were defeated and there is no reason why they should not be re-elected, it needs no gift of imagination to see the labor opposition becoming within a very short time, the labor government, with the control of the country in their hands.

This has been a sufficient ground for this opposition in the late labor government of Australia. The farther-labor coalition in Ontario and the Fascisti government in Italy. In such a development of the present political situation does not seem impossible. Thing that can happen to both the country and the labor party.

Bring Home Facts

It will serve to bring home to the inner consciousness of the labor party in a practical manner, the publicity and that governing a country with its multiplicity of interests, is not so easy a matter as it may appear to be from the outside, and also to remind the country at large, how incom on office tenabit and so often forgotten, that no political party has a monopoly of virtue and good will and that it is impossible to find in any single formula, even that of Karl Marx, a sovereign panacea for all the ills that afflict the body politic. Responsibility and practice is the finest corrective of extravagance either on promise or expectation that expenses has yet produced, especially within the domain of politics.

In the event of the labor party being called upon to assume the reins of government how would it acquit itself? To answer the query satisfactorily a knowledge of the calibre, both moral and intellectual of its leaders is essential.

A writer speaking of the Labor party in the Asquith period of office stated that one of the weaknesses in the home of commons were included in its ranks, that almost without exception its members were well versed in all problems of state, were skilful debaters and capable speakers, knew what they wanted and were always after it, and had in consequence the invaluable advantage of first class knowledge of industrial problems and ambition, while their trained ministers were in all cases above reproach and in many cases exemplary.

He did not exaggerate. A finer body of men than the leaders of the British labor party it is difficult to conceive of. Take them, in what perhaps can be regarded as the order of importance they now assume to the public eye.

Ramsay Macdonald

To begin with there is the leader, Ramsay Macdonald. Originally a teacher, in which he distinguished himself, he abandoned the teaching profession for law and literature, and that in the interests of the "human dog." For many years he supported himself by writing. There is a good story about Thomas Sandeling, a deputation from the Navvies' union waited on the late Lord Rosebery, then premier, to ask redress of a certain grievance. Addressing the prime minister and his colleagues as well, he put forth such a telling story about their hard conditions as sidewalk as living bears in the eyes of his auditors, provoking from Mr. Lloyd George the humorous interjection: "Come, come, Mr. Thomas. It can't be so bad as that. I am a Welshman like yourself, you know." Thomas was his point. That's the man's characteristic. He gets them. He knows men. And he is a man who "sees himself." Several times he saved England by his absolute sanity of mind in the chaos of a railway strike, and each time has got more for his class by negotiation than fight. He is a story that not so very long ago when conditions were bad in England Thomas and Bevilie had the unsinking of the old land in their hands. Labor was on they are; they are somethings more, infinitely more, they are England's or British family. To their lasting honor and credit, indeed to all leaders of British democracy let it be said that during the hard time of peace and difficulty experienced by the Old Land during the last dozen they have not failed when the crisis came to subordinate national to national interests. Shakespeare knew his countrymen when he put on the lips of one of them the words:

Come the four corners of the world in arms
And by sea,
Nought shall make us rue and we shall drink them
If England to herself do keep her true.

First Fortnightly Crop Report

(Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, May 28th)

Wheat seeding in the province is finished and in many sections the crop is up and looking healthy and vigorous. The total wheat acreage will be somewhat under that of last year, but on the whole it is considered that the seeding was done in better shape and on better prepared land. Oats, barley and fodder crop seeding is now progressing. In portions of central Alberta, where the early rainfall has been light some of the oat seeding was held back awaiting rain. The indications are that considerable oats and barley will be cut this year for fodder crop.

The moisture of the southern part of the province report good rainfall, and that the grain is coming along fine. In the Peace River district and in northern Alberta there have been good showers, while in other sections more rainfall is needed. On the 22nd, 23rd and 24th of May there was general rain throughout the province, which is considered sufficient to carry the crops through to the end of June. Last week frost was reported in some districts, but only in one or two spots was any damage to crops at all reported.

From nearly all parts of southern Alberta a large increase in the acreage under irrigation is reported. Considerable new Alberta acreage has been prepared for crops by the irrigation and settlement, indicating that farmers are generally preparing for larger crops and to destroying. Sweet clover witnessed well in Central Alberta. Fall rye is reported to be over a foot high. In places the fall rye shows a height of over 2 feet. The crop or wheat it was not covered by snow.

With anything like a normal supply of rainfall during the growing season, the crop prospects generally should appear to be very fair, the seeding having been done in good time, and the seeding period in most parts very favorable for doing good spring work.

Prospects for the content and southern parts of Alberta are reported to be materially improved by the rainfall. Last week's rainfall in these districts was pretty well extended.

Considerable seeding of other grain and rootcrops from the Edmonton district has not yet developed. The whole prospects for the province are fine, and the crop conditions generally good, and the work done is showing good progress. Reports from the Department of Agriculture field staff indicate that the farmers are well prepared to meet any trouble which may arise. So far the reports have not indicated any.

ADVANTAGES OF A GARDEN COMMUNITY

The first days of summer bring to the minds of many people plans for the improvement of the garden plot.

Stettler should be a town of gardens, a walk along the residential streets in season will convince the stranger that more than the average number of the citizens take pride in their garden plots.

What a difference in the appearance of the town streets would plots of multi-colored flowers and shrubs make. They personify some of the finest sentiments in life, and it requires only a little care and attention to bring about notable results.

The culture of flowers is good for the physical and mental well-being of the horticulturist. It gives pleasure to those who behold their cots and takes in the art, and it gives pleasure to the thousands who pass along the streets and admire.

It is not anything finer to be said of a town that, if it is a town of flowers? Each of flowers promotes an appreciation of better living conditions. Healthful individuals do not create slum districts, or breed evil and lawlessness.

There are many books dealing with the culture of flowers. The amateur who desires to excel in the art can obtain much education in the books from which he can learn written by those who have put on record the experience of years.

BE CAREFUL

Stettler has one of the busiest main streets of any town of its size in Alberta and only by extreme care on the part of motorists especially and drivers of other vehicles traffic, and the observance of the regulations by drivers and pedestrians alike, will accidents and serious fatalities be avoided. It is to be hoped that the police will work carefully to enforce all the traffic regulations and that no speeding will be shown in motor speed action. Reed articles, like fines, are best controlled if caught early.

No power on earth can keep a first class man down or a fourth class man up.

"Therefore, be it resolved that this Annual Director Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Methodist Church of Alberta, in Annual Council in the present legislature is very much dissatisfied with the operation of the Liquor Traffic and that all that is required is a continuation of the present policy of Government control by the Government. We believe that the enforcement of the law is increasingly effective, that the Government is desirous in its endeavor to give to the province control in this way, and further, that as a result of the closing of the Bars and the establishment of the Liquor Government Stores and the taking over of the dispensing of liquor by the Government, together with the recent re-organization of the Liquor Act, we are not in favor of the return of the Bars and the sending back to the old system of the Liquor Act, we are not in favor of the return of the Bars and the sending back to the old system of unrestricted sale, which Alberta had 6.66 per cent. The premises still owns a half section in the south of the same said, and under the agreement the Government retains one dwelling and two barns which will be moved to this part of the farm. You own a car. The most important thing for you to know about that car is—"what is my oil doing?" And if most car owners knew, they'd be amazed.

The safest thing for you to do is to fill your crank-case now with

SUNOCO
THE DISTILLED OIL

For the same reason that you use distilled water when you want pure water—you should use distilled oil.

Sunoco is the only oil which is made in six types—and all wholly distilled; it's pure. It gives more perfect lubrication. It prolongs the life of your motor. It gives greater power—because it makes an almost perfect piston ring seal.

Ask any Sunoco dealer for booklet, "What's Happening Inside Your Motor?"

MODIFICATION OF ANTI-LIQUOR LAW WOULD THWART WILL OF MAJORITY

It is deplorable that any organized effort should be made to change the prohibition laws so as to legalize the sale of beer and light wines. Prohibition has come to this country to stay. It is the will of an overwhelming majority of the electorate. To modify the anti-liquor law will not be tolerated, for this would thwart the will of men and women who have spoken once and for all on this subject. The sale of beer and light wines would inevitably lead to the restoration of the iniquitous saloon and would render prohibition enforcement nonexistent, futile and impracticable. There can be no compromise in this question.

COMMISSIONER VERY STRONG FOR CLAUSE A

Rev. E. S. Bishop Addressing Meetings in Stettler Part of Province and District Meeting in Stettler

Lethbridge, May 22nd.—Rev. E. Bishop, liquor act commissioner, has been addressing meetings in the south on the working of the Liquor Act and of the approaching plebiscite. At Cranson the meeting was unanimous for support at the polls of the existing legislation. Mr. Bishop submitted his measure not to be carried away with the oft-repeated assertion that Wales was more liquor consumed than in the old days, giving statistics that abundantly disproved such a theory while further showing that offences under the act were on the decrease. He said that this was not more beaming, but hard and fast facts produced from reliable sources and could be amply substantiated.

He stated that in 1921, there were 45,000 less prescriptions for liquor issued than in the previous year, which was a decrease of 300 daily.

In answering question D of the opening ballot, he said that while there in B.C., under government control, during the time the "wet" campaign was a misnomer as the acts of drunkenness, etc., were greater in consequence of that province and also giving figures to show that the supporters of the "wet" campaign in that province was a gigantic lose through the operation of the act. He referred to the federal government and to the vast revenue that would be diverted from local and legitimate channels, not to speak of the extra expenditure that would be necessary for the treating.

He urged that he appealed to all right loving citizens to stand behind the present legislation, which was the best the world and not and when the opportunity came to support it at the polls.

FOREST FIRE FIGHTING IN SWEDEN

In Sweden every man knows how dangerous forest fires can be to the country, and by reason of his great love for his native country it is not necessary to compel any man by law to fight a fire. Whenever there is a report of a fire forthwith every farmer in the neighborhood leaves his work and hastens to the fire to fight the flames, and if the local ranger finds that he is not able to put out the fire with the men at his disposal, he immediately sends a telegram to the Governor of the Province asking him to send additional help, and as soon as possible thereafter a regiment of soldiers, or more, is sent by special train to extinguish the fire. I am of the opinion that the reason why the Swedes are so successful in their way of fighting fires is that they have a veneration for the forest; they know that their forests are of supreme importance and that almost half their exports from Sweden consist of forest products.

G. C. PICHE,
Chief of the Quebec Forest Service.

THE MAN WHO PAYS HIS BILLS

By Edgar A. Guest

He keeps the wheels all turning,
The storekeeps' cashier chuckles,
He makes the grocer smile;
He keeps the men at labor,
He helps his friend and neighbor,
The man who pays his bills.

Men could not live without him,
All streams are swelled about him,
He's a prize to the ledger;
He keeps alive ambition,
Gives progress on its mission,
The man who pays his bills.

For him the fires are started,
For him the grain is carted,
He drives the neighbors' willys;
For him is all endeavor,
All clothes; deeds and clevers,
The man who pays his bills.

By faith in him men master
And triumph in disaster,
The blood of them he thrills;
No matter what his station,
He holds equal rank the nation,

JOTTINGS

"Let's all hope that heavy punishment will be the everything for the violators of the liquor laws. If this were the case there wouldn't be so much propaganda going the rounds as there is. The fines are small, and printed columns these days, trying to belittle the prohibition measure."

Bacon is a misnomer for every living hog. Bacon is the name in common use abide by the laws of the provinces. Let now who are running the moral floor of the country be more insistent for the prohibition law, because they think it will help them to restrict their profanity, remember that they set the example and breed contempt for law, which would ultimately destroy the country. The law for murder in this country is hanging, and if bootleggers are allowed commit murder we had to say why, in the former case, is the death penalty in a reversion to barbarism, so was considered in the case of Pirmolette, or not mentioned as such in the case of others, for instance, Coello.

"The only way to talk to a bootlegger is through a jail sentence."

Several men in Minneapolis, who were found guilty of conspiracy in charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws, were fined $5,000 each and given eighteen months in jail, as they would have time enough to reflect about the consequences violating the prohibition laws.

Come—"Day by day in every way you are getting drier and drier—but you're not getting wiser." Prohibition Commissioner Bay Haynes to Uncle Sam."

We were glad to learn that when Premier Greenfield, Provincial party, we suppose, because they have the moral backing of the province, ultimately failed to do their duty, even after the recent terrible tragedies. Premier Greenfield is a member of the Provincial Police, two of them, came on the scene on May 19th, found the place, collected $4,000 from the "good people", and were through before the police got there, and the "good people" were on their way home.

MY LEGACY

The little tree I planted out
And often mow upon
May be alive to cheer and thrive
And cast into the sunlight sleeve,
When I am dead and gone.

So it shall be my legacy
To nature in the can,
To roost its cheek, each man and maid
May be inspired to do the same
And plant another one.

—Bridgeton Wetherald

Times Are All Wrong in Holland

In January last the citizens of Welland voiced a daylight-saving-by-law vote by 1,200 majority. The government of the town, however, pledged themselves to advance their clocks, and the result hasn't been to the people in the same. The business of the town is therefore commencing at the light time, while the city clock sticks unchanged. The schools are on fast time; the Presbyterians and the Roman Catholic Churches are on daylight saving; while the Anglicans and the Methodists are slow. The citizens, therefore, are in a mix-up.

Can Have Only One Licensee

Only one surviving license may be issued to one person, according to word in the decision of the provincial magistrate general in the case of the young man and woman, the former a Canadian and the latter an Anglican, who wished to have the ceremony performed in each of their churches. The Toronto municipal marriages license issuer has been notified to this effect. The act contemplates but one ceremony. The license, when presented to the officiating clergyman, is retained and sent to the registrar-general when the entries on it have been made. The only point cleared up is that only one license can be issued. It is not yet decided whether or not the ceremony may be performed after the publication of the banns in one of the churches.

Earl of Mar Again Keeper of Stirling

After a lapse of more than two centuries the hereditary office of Keeper of Stirling Castle has been restored to the Earl of Mar and Kellie. Originally it was conferred on the present Earl's ancestor in 1370. In 1715 he espoused the Stuart cause and was defeated in the battle of Sheriffmuir, and in consequence lost his estates. Later they were restored to a younger brother, but the office of Keeper of Stirling Castle was bestowed by the Crown, in 1819, on the Earl of Mar and Kellie was proceeded with his Royal warrant to be the castle's military commander and he was handed the key of the castle as a symbol of his office. Earl of Mar, in expressing his gratitude, said he considered it more than an honor to his other dignities as a record of loyalty during unexampled vicissitudes in Scottish history.

Women Are Not Women in Parliament

An increase in the number of women in national parliaments was demanded by practically all the speakers at the Congress of the International Women's Suffrage Alliance in Rome. It was a sitting devoted to the consideration of the work of the Hague Alliance, which opened its session at Rome on May 10.

Attorney for Themselves

Premier Mussolini has promised that his Government will answer the request for a certain number of women, and this has met with the hesitation expressed from delegates to the Third Congress of the International of Women Suffragists, which opened its session at Rome on May 10.

Great Britain is prepared to confer independence upon Egypt on two conditions that the League of Nations give consent, Provided a committee of national forces of government is set up in Egypt, and Great Britain is given the territory east of the Suez Canal for the purpose of fulfilling her international obligations toward that country, the British Government is prepared to withdraw its military forces from Egypt, Premier Herbert Samuel's administration.

Have Troops in Europe than in 1919

Europe to-day is supporting more soldiers than in 1913. Germany, Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria possessed in 1913, standing armies of 894,193. To-day they have only 100,000. The rest of Europe, however, has increased in that time from 2,862,026 to 4,156,865. France has reduced her military strength, as has Italy, while last year Great Britain had only half as low her 1913 figures. The tremendous increase is found among the small nations of Europe.

Marketing Services in Alberta

(By Colin G. Groff, Publicity Commissioner)

The co-operative marketing services provided by the Alberta department of agriculture have played a very important part in the past few years, in establishing the dairy and poultry industries of farming on a firm foundation and permanent basis in the province.

The benefits of such services, provided during the years when agricultural conditions have been undergoing from the pioneer stages, are now in the process of being realized by the producers. In 1922, this business has increased to $20,000 per month.

It is obvious, therefore, that this branch of the dairy industry is not a very great extent, although it is difficult to estimate this from the statistics that are at hand. In all cases the producers have received the best market price possible, in many cases the return to them being more than the local market price for the grade of milk marketing channel.

The principle of cash marketing services is the improvement of grade and in the extension of markets for Alberta dairy products, and poultry. The quality of both dairy and poultry products in the province has improved during the past few years, and the extension of markets will follow as a matter of course. Alberta butter has already established itself in increasing quantities from year to year. Although the Alberta producer has not found their way to markets in the East and in Great Britain, the fact that a large proportion of the egg output held by the marketing service of the department is sent to way to markets of the Chambers of Commerce of the West, and other organizations. With an increase in the gold reserves of the country from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 since 1920, Mr. Hervey asserts that this accumulation might be used to produce an inflation of credit and currency which would mean the greatest era of speculation and inflation in the country's history. Such a result, he said, was expected by many European economists.

Boom Chapter Flood Wall Street

Wholesale fraud on a wide scale is now witnessed in the history of Wall Street was attempted on May 7, when the shares of the Aeronautical house in the financial district were literally flooded with sale and order, and hoops cheapens. The letters calling for the delivery of 1,000 shares of stock approximated 100 in number, and were mailed from various in Pennsylvania, New England States and up-State. They contained hoops closely resembling the genuine from $5,000 to $15,000, and it is estimated that approximately $7,500,000 worth of stock was thrown about in Wall Street.

Man Is His Own Grandson

A marriage where by the bridegroom became his own father took place recently at Horse Cave, Ky. This extraordinary marital mixup occurred when Leonard Wright, a 63-year-old farmer, married the niece of Mary Brown, his 14-year-old granddaughter. The ceremony was performed with the consent of the girl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Brown. Mrs. Brown is a daughter of Wright and through the marriage she became her father's mother-in-law. The two men are both sons-in-law and father-in-law to each other, while Wright becomes his own grandson through the marriage with his granddaughter.

A King's Iron Crown

Among the treasures of the King of Italy figures an historical relic of absorbing interest—the Iron Crown. This famous Iron Crown of Lombardy, one of the most precious heirlooms of the Italian House of Savoy. The crown is made partially of iron. Tradition declares that a nail from one of the nails used at the Crucifixion. This nail was beaten out into the iron, which was set in gold and adorned with jewels. The Emperor Charlemagne received it upon Queen Theodolinda, under whom the Lombards first came into their true faith for the Catholic. Charlemagne was crowned with it, and was King of Lombardy and succeeding Emperor. Napoleon I. was crowned with it on the occasion of Napoleon I. The Emperor of Austria restored it to the King of Italy in 1838.

Danger to U.S. in Huge Gold Reserves

The danger of the huge accumulation of gold reserves in the United States resulting from post-war trade balances, is the "unsettling effect" on strengthening a country's financial position, was pointed out by Secretary Hoover, when addressing a luncheon recently in a speech at the general session of the eleventh annual convention of the Chambers of Commerce of the United States, at Atlantic City.

With an increase in the gold reserves of the country from $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 since 1920, Mr. Hervey asserts that this accumulation might be used to produce an inflation of credit and currency which would mean the greatest era of speculation and inflation in the country's history. Such a result, he said, was expected by many European economists.

Germany's national industry is war, in the opinion of Premier Raymond Poincare. The head of the French Government, in a speech at the dedication services of a monument to Foch's son who was killed during the German people.

"We have known the German people for nineteen hundred years," he stated, "and they have not changed much on matter what you call them, Visigothic, Ostrogothic or Prussian."

Premier stated that the German people remember that peace is merely an interval between wars. Premier stated that the French would not evacuate the Ruhr until Germany paid for the damages she did during the war.

GADSBY NEWS

Good work was done last week in stump clearing up the town and if the adjunction—"The cleanest village in Alberta"—can not, perhaps, realized a wonderful difference was made. Who was the janitor in the Council who lined up the boys last Saturday to collect all the rake, etc., and put them in piles for the lumbermen to pick up? They did the work with great enthusiasm and undoubtedly earned their pay. If we could just follow this up with a "Paint-up Day" another big advance would be made towards the "Village Beautiful."

We unintentionally omitted last week the interesting item of news that Mr. Chester Bentley was married to a Miss Korby, in Calgary. I am informed the bride is an old Gadsby girl, but cannot recall the young lady. Chester has lost no time but he was always a swift worker. Our best wishes are theirs for future happiness.

Mrs. (Doctor) Sanderson has gone to Provost, where she lived before her marriage, to receive some gifts and attended for her by her many friends there, and grateful patients who received by her marvelous abilities.

An effort was made to insure a couple of ball games to come on Thursday and play off a double header. This was not finally possible but the famous "Hot Rooters" from the south country duly appeared and gave our local lads a tussle in the evening. It was a splendid game, nip and tuck all the way, and Gadsby were lucky to get their nose in front in the last half of the 9th to win by 10-9. The Rooters' are a good team and play at the game all the time and we shall be glad to have them back again next year—and often.

MARKETS

A CALENDAR OF CATTLE SHIPPING

(From Livestock Marketing News)

The following calendar shows the characteristic fluctuaon of cattle shipping in Western Canada from month to month throughout the year. As will be seen, we market too many unfinished cattle between June and December and too few finished cattle from January to June. The way to make more money than the average out of selling cattle, for those who can do it, is to reverse those conditions and sell more cattle from January to June and fewer cattle from June to December.

January—Shipments usually light with a tendency to mark better prices, especially after the holiday season is over. A good month in which to send well finished cattle to market. Many cattle which lose money for their owners by being sent to market in October or November, would make money if held over a short time and well finished for the January market.

February—Shipments of poorly finished cattle are usually heavy with a strong tendency to depress prices. Many cattle are sent to market by farmers whose feed has run short or by those who hoped to get rid of their well finished animals for cattle that are really but half fat. Shippers are often disappointed in their returns for February shipments when they really would have made money by holding back their cattle for another month or two to put on a good finish. The British demand for store cattle is reported to be good in February and farmers with this class of cattle should keep in touch with conditions.

March, April, May—These are the months of the spring market for grain fed cattle, and on account of the high quality of receipts prices are usually good with a tendency to rise until they reach the highest point late in May, when the very finest of our finished cattle are coming on the market. During June the consumption of meat is smaller, while it picks up again at and after Easter. Consequently, it is well to watch the date of Easter with a view to putting fat cattle on the market after that time.

Sometimes through scarcity of feed, owners ship cattle which they would otherwise have liked to hold. In such cases, it is better to send the best finished cattle to market and hold back as many of the others as possible until they can be properly finished. Winter fed cattle in good condition should be sent to market before June 10. To hold them longer means risking loss of the advantage of the spring market.

During March, April and the early part of May, a large number of our half fat cattle sell at short keep feeders. Ontario farmers for many years have found it profitable to buy these cattle in scotty days and market them in the fall as possible, in order to get ahead of the annual fall run of Western cattle.

June—A poor month in which to ship cattle, usually getting worse to-wards the end. Poor quality, like grass cattle commence to come on the market, heavy receipts, and the competition of these cattle should be avoided if possible. Many farmers after wintering cattle on meagre rations and turning them out to pasture at the earliest possible date in the spring, send them to market as soon as they commence to fill out on grass, at a time when the most disappointing cattle is marketed. They will not even hold the fill obtained on a few weeks of grass and when shipped to market work out and besides shrinking in weight—present a most unfavorable appearance when offered for sale. The British demand for store cattle falls off in June. June is usually an unsatisfactory month in which to sell stockers or feeders because very few farmers are in the market at that time of year. A few farmers find it profitable to buy light, thin stockers of good quality; in June, put them on pasture for the summer and bring them through as grass fed cattle in the following May.

On the other hand, the practice of buying feeders in this in May to run on pasture during the summer and re-market in the fall, is likely to be a losing game.

July—This is one of the most unsatisfactory months in the year in which to market cattle in Western Canada. The run is often heavy, as many cattle are sent to market to cause their owners need money or because pastures are drying up. The quality of these cattle is usually too poor to demand good prices and at the same time the demand for beef is at its lowest in mid-summer. Even in mid-summer, such cattle as are in prime condition usually bring a considerable premium over poorly finished cattle. Dry cows and heifers that have been well taken care of during the winter usually do well on summer pasture and are really the logical cattle with which to supply the market at this time.

August—A good month in which to market fat grass cattle, particularly from many short grass districts where the well cured grass at this season puts a much better finish on cattle than the soft grass of the early summer. In addition, owners of poor to light because so many farmers are too busy to send cattle to market. Towards the end of August cattle of export quality should be in demand for shipment to reach Great Britain by September when the fall demand for store cattle commences.

September—In previous years September has been less satisfactory than August in which to market cattle because the run begins to get heavier. In addition cattle that have been turned off pasture on to stubble often give disappointing results. The soft grass growth in the stubble softens cattle coming off well cured pasture and such cattle show very large shrinkage in shipment. The British demand for store cattle should increase in September, but it must always be remembered that only good quality cattle meet with the right price and suitable weight can be exported.

October and November—As soon as snow flies there is a great rush of cattle from the West to market. There are many cattle offered for sale that the market wants and the inevitable result is a tendency to low prices. We shall have this year some relief on account of the British trade in store cattle, which will create a demand for steers of suitable weight and quality up to and into November. There is also a demand from Western farmers for stockers and feeders, but farmers buying cattle to feed during the winter are very discriminating and want only cattle of good breeding. There are so many cattle of good

Mrs. Louise Stutes Money Failed to Buy Health, But Tanlac Restored It

"I bless the day I started on the Tanlac treatment, for it completely ended my troubles, which had kept me in misery ever since I came here from Scotland eleven years ago," is the grateful statement of Mrs. Emily Logue, 129 N. Park St., Hamilton, Ontario.

"At times indigestion, gas bloating and heart palpitation tortured me till I thought it would drive me frantic. My appetite was so poor I scarcely ate enough to keep going, and I grew so weak and worn out I had to let my housework go. My head ached till I thought it would split, I had fearful dizzy spells, and couldn't get a good night's sleep.

"I spent enough money on medicine to buy a home, but nothing helped me until I started on Tanlac. I now have a splendid appetite, my digestion is perfect, and I always feel strong and well, for Tanlac has built me up to robust health and I will always praise it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

The Court of Last Appeal

YOU are the judge and the jury. Your verdict is final. There can be no appeal—for this is the High Court of Public Opinion.

The wares of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

The merchant who advertises deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparison. He directs your attention to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

If he were not sure of his wares he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his business career. It would be business suicide.

You can depend on the man who advertises. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisements you find in this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

LAWNS

(Experimental Farms Note)

No grounds can be said to be complete without a lawn; and a lawn, to be attractive in the town proper, is enjoyed and regularly clipped. This requires labor and attention, and those conditions, in most cases, the limiting factor as to the size. A large expanse of lawn is beautiful, but is expensive to keep in condition.

The soil for the lawn requires to be mellow, rich and moist, and the best preparation for this is a coating of rotted manure ploughed under in autumn or spring and a crop of potatoes grown the following season. If it is broken from sod or old stubble land very little can be expected from the crop of potatoes in point of yield; but they will have the soil in ideal condition for a seed bed the following spring. When the potatoes are dug and the vines removed it is an easy matter to level the soil first with a harrow and then with a board or rake and hoe. This should be done in the fall so that the surface will have an opportunity to settle evenly during the winter and expose any unevenness that might be in the soil. To cover these slight depressions in the spring, rake the soil from the higher parts into the depressions and pack with a heavy wooden pounder in order to make sure there will be no more settling. Loosen the surface with a rake, and the seed bed is ready.

At the Experimental Station at Southern Alberta extensive and numerous lawns of Blue grass have been tried, but the greatest satisfaction has been derived from using pure Kentucky Blue grass seed and pure White Dutch clover. Eight pounds of Kentucky Blue grass seed mixed with one pound of White Dutch clover is sufficient to seed one-tenth acre or as near as 40 square or 44 ft. x 99 ft. The last mentioned is a very suggestive size on which to lay out a tennis court.

For sowing the seed choose a calm day, and spread the mixed seed as evenly as possible over the area. Rake so as not to heap the earth in front of the rake, but go over and over the ground with light strokes of the implement.

Watering has to be followed by a soaking rain one may feel assured of a good catch of grass.

Wm. A. Munro, Supt.,
Experimental Station,
Southern Alberta.

THE OTHER RUST OF WHEAT AND THE COMMON BARBERRY

(Experimental Farms Note)

Every year millions of bushels of wheat and other grains are destroyed by stem rust. This year loss, in Canada and the United States of the same grain, in the United States and Canada combined, hundreds of millions of bushels of grain are lost. The question, then, of what can be done to lessen or eliminate this tremendous annual loss becomes a vital one.

It has been found that rust usually appears in the wheat fields of Western Canada about the end of June. Where does this rust come from? How has it lived over the winter? Much study has been given to this problem, without it yet having been proved what is the chief source of this summer infection. It has been established, however, that one source of infection is the common barberry. The black spores (seeds) of this rust remain alive during the winter, and although they cannot attack wheat or other grains, they readily produce rust on the leaves and young twigs of the common barberries in the spring. The rust easily spreads from the barberries to grasses and wheat. This has been repeatedly proved, both in Canada and the United States as well as in other countries.

Realizing that the barberry is one source of the origin and spread of rust during the spring and summer, great efforts are being made in the chief grain growing areas of the United States to eradicate the barberry; millions have been destroyed, and it is hoped before long to completely eradicate them entirely in those affected areas. Denmark has destroyed the common barberry; and although the rust has not disappeared, epidemics of it no longer occur. England is also beginning to destroy the barberries. In Canada legislation by the Dominion Government forbids the growing of barberries in the prairie provinces or their importation into these provinces. Provincial legislation in Manitoba and Saskatchewan has placed the barberry on the list of noxious weeds to be destroyed by the weed inspectors. Most of the barberries have now been destroyed in the prairie provinces, and the eradication of all located will be completed this year.

Probably rust will not disappear even when all the barberries have been destroyed; but one thing is certain, viz., that there will be one less source of rust, and therefore less destruction of grain. It is probable that if all the barberries in the United States and Canada were destroyed, the ruinous outbreaks of rust which have occurred every few years would disappear.

The Japanese barberry, which does not rust, may be (very plausible) but every common barberry should be uprooted and destroyed.

SPLIT SPREADING BETWEEN PARTIES

U.F.O. and Liberals Drifting Wider Apart as Result of Verbal Blows

Toronto, May 22.—The line of cleavage between the United Farmers and Liberals in the province of Ontario has been drawn more definitely during the past few days as a result of the declaration made by Wellington Hay, Liberal leader. Early last week Mr. Hay emphasized that the Liberal forces would not countenance any form of fusion with the farmers, while at North Bay on Monday night the Liberal chieftain struck hard at Premier Drury, alleging that the premier was "under the thumb of an organizational group."

Premier Drury, speaking at Carleton Place tonight, did not deal with Wellington Hay's criticisms, but delivered a broadside at Hon. G. H. Ferguson, Conservative leader. He vigorously defended the government administration of the Ontario temperance act.

It is possible that Hon. T. W. McGarry, provincial treasurer in the Hearst government, may contest the Conservative nomination in Prescott-Russell Riding.

Candidates in the northern Ontario campaign, Wellington Hay spoke before eight of them.

Montreal Honors First Skipper in Port

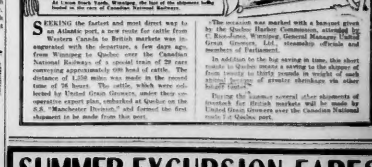
1. C.P.R.S. Montrose bringing first passengers to Montreal, 1859 Season. 2. Captain Edmund Allcock, Commander of the Montrose.

TWENTY years ago Montreal was but a "mere calling place for ships." It had practically no modern cargo handling devices or equipment, its wharf sheds were just wooden shacks which were actually taken down in the winter to prevent them being blown away, and much of the merchandise was piled in the open air at the mercy of the wind and weather. Now Montreal is the greatest port of Canada and U.K. steamships can go right to the Harbour Commissioners' dock and be stopped into the front rank of ocean ports, and has for a number of years been the recognized terminus of ships for the winter handling and storing of freight that are unloaded at the Canadian seaboard. Despite the fact that Canada has over 30,000 miles of railroads and that the United States has more than 250,000, the Montreal route handles a greater volume of traffic than any port on the American continent with the solitary exception of New York.

The principal reason for this remarkable supremacy are the facts that it is nearly one thousand miles nearer to Europe than any American port, and that it has direct access to the Atlantic, and that it is the only port in the world, except one days other, through route right up to the head of the Lakes at the Twin Cities, a thousand miles further inland. Were it not for this port, Montreal would not be the city it is at present, but for some months winter closes the ports of the St. Lawrence route, and the vessels have to seek other ports on the great river mouth until the ice goes out in the spring before they can make their way to Montreal.

Seeking the ideal of providing a tail ship for the captain of the first vessel to arrive in port in the spring with a consignment of freight, a competition was inaugurated for about thirty-six years ago, and the first ship to arrive in port with a cargo of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat was awarded a gold watch by the Montreal Board of Trade.

This year the race was renewed in Captain Edmund Allcock of the Canadian Pacific S.S. Bulkmaster who had just left London, England, on April 19th, and was the first to reach Montreal on April 29th, sailing at Antwerp en-route. The Bulkmaster is one of the Canadian Pacific fleet of "Beaver" boats which ply with direct ocean to the Atlantic, and though it is not the first vessel to arrive in port in 1923, arrived two days after.



At Lyons Dock Yards, Winnipeg, the last of the shipments badly loaded on the cars of Canadian National Railways.

SEEKING the fastest and most direct way to the Atlantic seaboard, a new route for cattle from Western Canada to British markets was inaugurated with the departure, a few days ago, from Winnipeg to Quebec over the Canadian National Railways of a special train of 20 cars conveying approximately 600 head of cattle. The distance of 1,256 miles was made in the record time of 36 hours. The cattle, which were collected by United Grain Growers, under their co-operative export plan, embarked at Quebec on the S.S. "Manchester Division," and formed the first shipment to be made from that port.

The occasion was marked with a banquet given by the Quebec Harbor Commission, attended by C. Rice-Jones, Winnipeg, General Manager United Grain Growers, Ltd., steamship officials and members of Parliament.

In addition to the big saving in time, this short route to Quebec means a saving to the shipper of from twenty to thirty pounds in weight of each animal, because of greater shrinkage via other routes.

During the instance several other shipments of livestock for British markets will be made by United Grain Growers over the Canadian National route to Quebec port.

THE PIONEERS

Mr. Ed. Bennett, acting as chairman at the Buffalo Lake celebration, gave some interesting reminiscences of early days in the community, and stated that the early settlers had passed through much harder times than had ever been experienced here since and that the present settlers did not know what hard times were. Pioneer life is always productive of a certain amount of hardship, but as a climate settles up, living conditions get better all the time. We imagine that Edmonton has reached just the trough of the wave and that things will get much better from now on, especially with favorable weather. The clothes-peg a dollar to the pioneers because they trained the trail for those who came after.

25 DUNCAN MARSHALL WOOTS MADE FOR YEAR!

We note in a news item in this issue that W. Irvine, K.C., of Calgary, moved in the House of Commons that Duncan Marshall's salary as agricultural commissioner in England be raised by $1,000.00, leaving $5.00 to send a cable to Mr. Marshall with the one word, "Dear."

Mr. Irvine himself is drawing a salary of $4,000.00 at Ottawa, and no impartial person would object to his assistant in forming an opinion as to which man has been most useful to Alberta or to Canada.

Mr. Marshall has done much for the agriculture in Alberta over a period of fifteen years and he did good work in connection with the British Empire Exhibition.

What Mr. Irvine has done for Calgary is none of our business at this end of the Calgary road. What he has done for Alberta is not obvious enough to be counted out.

EDUCATION AND SANITY

Our Guelph correspondent takes a thing this week at the "ungrimy schools and rotten schools" who have been advising farmers in regard to sanitation. We understand that some one in spitting bad made up their minds not to have a farmer until a good supply of bathrooms was available, and as the Guelph correspondent points out, the farmer has got to have a good supply of the latest sanitary fixtures before he can afford to spend the hard earned money. The Independent pointed out in the April 26th issue that a dry April had its advantages in farmer years meant the reverse of a dry season, and that waiting for rain was an unnecessary waste of time. We are glad that this view has been concurred in by our esteemed opponent, who is a practical farmer.

PROHIBITION A BUSINESS QUESTION

The wave that is passing over the country in regard to the liquor question is an encouraging sign and indicates that people in general are beginning to reflect, and are studying alternative methods of dealing with the problem.

The whole liquor question should be subjected to the most searching analysis. Hitherto it has been fought out largely on lines of personal prejudice. What we need to know now is whether it is a moral or economic issue, whether prohibition is, from the really selective standpoint, good or bad for a country, and to what it has given?

The sooner we get the real facts the sooner liquor legislation can be reconciled to business legislation and the sooner liquor will cease to be a disturbing factor in our national life.

AN EXAMPLE TO FOLLOW?

If the growing conception for all time and our own inability to support our governmental authority did not exist, it is safe to say that much of the prohibition talker would afford material for a screaming burlesque. We have prohibition everywhere and abstinence nowhere. Bootlegging and rum running are the recognized industries and standard vaudeville jokes. Up to a few months ago the government, after passing liquor on its own chips, was its own largest bootlegger and it took a Supreme Court letter from Borah, the lawyer, himself put out of business by prohibition legislation, to stop it. Now we find that the Flag can shelter and protect those who, if they were not to use the word, "liver," are at least in another other than an American and keep three miles away from the American boundaries.

And in politics, in social life, in the home and out, the alcoholic sends the liquor question issue as largely as it ever did.—Vancouver Telegram.

AUSTRALIA GETTING POPULATION

Australia's population increased by 108,000 last year. This is 34,000 greater than the average increase for the past ten years.

Immigration measures are responsible for it.

In 1913-14, Ireland 6,000 million away out in the ocean, can attract and hold her healthy white settlers, Canada, right on the line of the world's best trade route, should be able to do even better.

Population is the life blood of a country. Canada as without it.

The difference between Canada and Australia is that Australia has enough enterprise and ambition to get out and fight for population.

WESTERN TRANSPORTATION

That the Canadian west, despite the greatest grain crop in its history had to pay $10,000,000 less under Crow's Nest Pass rates than previously was a strong factor in the representations made by the provincial governments and the provision of elevator accommodation at Hudson Bay, Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

Nothing has been done to stripped rates, but instead for serious inland freight rates, both for distance and for capacity. The remedy advocated in connection with the Canadian Pacific Railway is the construction of a line of railway from Edmonton to Hudson Bay, a distance of about 500 miles. It will allow Canada to be rendered over a longer period as he is never known in the history of Vancouver and will permit a tropical flow to the world's markets from the very heart of the Canadian continent, congestion and dumping of grain from two to three months annually.

The tie up at the head of the Great Lakes is not the only result of the present inadequate rail routes. It tends to early competition in labor and transportation equipment, and generally ends in dumping. How dumping affects grain growers everywhere is plain. If any thought is given to the subject, Alberta should be directly interested owing to its developed Pacific coast grain route. The breaking point, the great divide of golden grain, at two, or about the centre of Saskatchewan, Over one hundred million bushels of it tend to be routed from Canada to Liverpool annually far more economically through the Pacific ports than the Atlantic. In the long run the Canadian Railways will benefit more by diversion from the northern section of the grain shipping problem.

The transportation need for Alberta and almost half of Saskatchewan is immediate and at present time the eastern route—and that despite discrimination in freight rates which penalizes the Vancouver route. The fact that well on towards 20,000,000 bushels of grain have actually been shipped through Vancouver this season is conclusive proof that this route is favored.

During the winter months it is cheaper to ship grain from so far north as Moose Jaw through Vancouver than via St. John, Moose Jaw is 654 miles east of Calgary.

There is a growing conviction that cheaper freight rates and grain shipping are adjusted so that the producer can make a reasonably comfortable living, it will be utterly impossible to settle the west as it should be settled.

CLEARING HEADLIGHTS

And what has become of the old fashioned car driver who used to dim his glaring headlights when passing another auto? Two or three years ago huge rows of country were spent in advertising the amount which were supposed to prevent glare. Every car had to be equipped with the new lenses, and it certainly seemed like a sensible idea. It worked satisfactorily to a degree, but the idea seems to have been lost sight of. Headlights are more glaring than ever, and the custom of dimming has become a lost art.

The way it is now, when two cars pass at night, there is a certain space during which the drivers can only hope that they are on the road, or that no obstacle is directly in front of them. It seems to the Independent that the here reasonable precaution should be strictly enforced. There seems to be no reason why the auto should not be equipped with lights which will not blind the driver of an approaching car. And the courtesy of dimming light might also be revived with no harm resulting.

KEEPING GREEN THE MEMORY OF OUR LOVED ONES

It seems that many of us have forgotten the fact that some of our loved ones and closest friends have gone to a land where they will be forgotten by the dead. Let us not be unmindful of the fact that it is our duty and privilege to keep clean, ope and open their graves and surroundings.

Many seem to think the Cemetery is only an empty place. Let's not look upon it in that light, but that it is a sacred spot. Let's keep green the memory of our departed friends, and clean and green their final resting spot. We honor ourselves when we respect their memory, and we cannot respect their memory in mind only. Let's show it in the Cemetery.

If each of us who have done come buried there would spend a little time and money and beautifying their graves, what a beautiful spot it would be.

KEEPING BUSINESS AT HOME

No town can be permanently prosperous in which the citizens are continually sending their money to other communities for goods which could be just as well purchased in their own town, but which, for some reason, they prefer to buy elsewhere. Sometimes the reason is a fancied one, sometimes it is a real one, but in either case it is a serious matter for the town.

Every dollar that is sent away for purchases that could be made at home is a dollar that is taken away from the town, and the standards of living of the community are lowered. Money is the life blood of a community, and when business men of any town get the habit of sending their money away for anything they can, they are helping to make it a rule not to send away for anything they can get at home. Then we will show you a town in which business men will be continually losing money, and trade is scattered from abroad. Prices are low in such a town because each one, hurting his neighbor, is forced to cut prices in order to get business. Such a town is a town in which the people

PRATTS BONE RUB BUNNIES

New York, May 19.—Investigation into the supposed making of the rum liquor, John Dwight Oliver, 'Wall Street Bison,' with a love of big game, died in Lyndonville, N.Y., early in April, his reported home. A Comrade of Lyndonville, N.J., one of the victims, had $100,000 in his possession when the ship sank, federal authorities said today. The federal men arrived when Coroner's attendant body was washed upon the beach.

The money, federal officials said, was carried by Cramer in a leather bag, which he was known to have had when he left Rio de Janeiro on the ill-fated ship after the John Dwight sailed from Newport the vessel was reported to have capsized, due to her heavy cargo, and the bodies of members of the crew were washed ashore on the Florida coast, to which the funeral was brought. Cramer was found on the beach near Cocoanut Grove, but was empty.

Captain Malcolm J. Carmichael of Jersey City, who commanded the barque, was reported to have had with him $50,000 in cash. Also, it was said, Cramer, Cohn, Jr., was after the ship sank, although at the time it was believed all hands had perished in the storm.

One or two others of the crew were reported to have been seen in Cuba.

Authorities expressed the belief that liquor poisons, leaving behind no trace, were responsible for the loss of the crew and scuttled the ship.

Report in Brief of Alberta Methodist W. M. S. Convention Held at Edmonton

The Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, Alberta Branch, held their convention from and including the 6 p.m., with President Mrs. A. M. Scott in the chair. The choir of the church rendered the most beautiful consecration entitled "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," which was greatly appreciated by all present. Mrs. Lavell, President of the Dominion W.M.S. of Kingston, Ont., then gave a very interesting address, in which she said in part: "Times have changed in the last 25 years; some problems have solved, we must have missions, which are the only hope of the nation. Christ's last command was—'Ye must be witnesses unto me unto the Canadian West and to the uttermost parts of the earth.'" As Mrs. Lavell was making a tour of the West, she spoke of the Orientals in B. C. She also visited the Indian homes in B. C. and Alberta, and said: "We must educate these people and especially in the way of Christ, and must not neglect our neighbors in other nations. We must educate these foreign women to become leaders among their sex and to be the mother tongue that can translate them."

Professor Ottewell, of the Department of Education of the Province of Alberta, next gave an address on immigration, in which he said: "In a short time it will be the duty of each of what will we do with the Orientals, and what will we do with the Negro? One-half of the population in B. C. is of the yellow race as to the Orientals. He thought the W.M.S. could do a great part by properly educating the immigrants and the Orientals.

TUESDAY—Morning Session

Tuesday morning's session of the W.M.S. of Alberta Conference was conducted by the President. The roll call showed that 10 of 11 district reports were received, and 72 delegates. Mrs. A. E. Hunter, Secretary of the Stettler District Auxiliary, extended a hearty welcome to the delegates. Mrs. C. E. Manning of Lethbridge replied.

A memorial to the late Rev. W. Hall Hazelwood was read by the Rev. W. Hall Hazelwood, Superintendent of the Methodist Church of Gross Church, and Rev. A. D. Miller of Alberta College South.

Devotional Service

The devotional services of the afternoon session were conducted by Mrs. Hunter of the Stettler District. The subject was "Consecration and Service." Miss H. E. Berry and Miss Allan of McDougall Orphanage were appointed to read the scripture lessons. Mrs. Hunter then called upon Mrs. Lavell, who made an interesting and instructive address on the duties of the women of the church.

Mrs. Lavell's address was followed by a solo by Mrs. Hunter, entitled "Stand Up for Jesus."

Reports of Auxiliaries

Mrs. McKee presented the banner to Mrs. Hansen of the Carbon Auxiliary for the largest percentage of increase in membership funds.

An address on the proposed co-operation was given by Miss Evelyn Story, Girls' Work Secretary for Alberta. The C.G.I.T. are training for womanhood, a companion to church and W.M.S. stand for. Mission study was perhaps not found in all branches and she urged its adoption.

Personal greetings were brought from delegates' societies by the district. Following these a reception was given in honor of Mrs. Lavell, Dominion President. The basement was beautifully decorated with spring blossoms and crowded with visitors. Tea was poured at a table artistically covered with a large bouquet of pink carnations.

Evening Session

Promptly at 8 o'clock the evening session was opened with an address for spiritual encouragement by Rev. W. Hollingsworth. Mrs. A. M. Scott, President, then took the chair and introduced as first speaker, Mrs. Lavell of Kingston.

Mrs. Lavell brought the greetings of the Dominion Executive and also of Mrs. Ross, Honorary President, "Home Board" was the subject of Mrs. Lavell's talk. Evening Session

Promptly at 8 o'clock the evening session was opened with an address for spiritual encouragement by Rev. W. Hollingsworth. Mrs. A. M. Scott, President, then took the chair and introduced as first speaker, Mrs. Lavell of Kingston.

Mrs. Lavell brought the greetings of the Dominion Executive and also of Mrs. Ross, Honorary President, "Home Base" was the subject of Mrs. Lavell's talk. A home base is the foundation of the great missionary work. At the great army in the field was kept supplied by the home at Judea and to the uttermost parts of the earth. As the work went on, the opening work and sacrifices of a great army of women, the missionaries in the field, depends for its existence on the continued support, interest and prayer of the W.M.S. Therefore every home base should be thoroughly equipped, and well informed and up to the times. There are many problems to contend with, but the solution to the least of which is but how to secure the interest of indifferent church members.

Mrs. Lavell gave several hints on how it is possible in a pleasant and interesting monthly way to arouse this interest, but she took the opportunity to say that the greatest and overcoming their boundaries, rules and regulations, and pray and work for Jesus. If not to actual conflict with other branches of the work in the interest to raise money is an easy way. She referred to the position of the women in the early life among the people from one, for which there is no parallel in the W.M.S. to-day. The work is primarily a society for work among women and children.

Dr. Tuttle Speaks

Dr. Tuttle brought greetings from the Alberta Branch of the Methodist Church and the thread of Mrs. Lavell's last thought, a plea for unity. He spoke of the fact that we are all working for the same cause, the same words. First of all our work, whether it be in the home, in the church, or in the work of the king and will help every other work in the world. Second, he was interested in men, having in his care in God; there is a certain work that only the men can do, and a sphere of value, which cannot be judged, for the influence of men in the home. Third, the religion of Jesus is the only force that will unify the world. The W.M.S. is the greatest organization in the world for this purpose.

Mrs. Hollie McClung was next presented to address the session of the W.M.S. Mrs. E. A. Stettler, in her report, mentioned the death of the president of Christian Stewardship, said that the vital importance of this subject is being more and more recognized in the work of missions. The following resolutions were passed to solve them.above. A recognition of this department should be made at each auxiliary meeting. Interesting personal testimonials followed Mrs. Hunter's report.

The reports of other departments were then given by the different Secretaries.

The President, Mrs. A. M. Scott, of Calgary, reviewed the story of the year, returns showing every branch of the work in a healthy, tithing and systematic giving, for candidates, and for the student, Junior, correspondence, and mont, prayer. The greatest triumph in the year's work of candidates for born again." Ten have offered themselves for service. Many things have been accomplished and offered by the Society for spiritual economy, and prayer. It is of vital importance that still greater prayer efforts for the vacancies in the mission field cannot be met, sign of health, and a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Scott for her inspiring address.

The last address of the morning session was on the subject of "Prayer," was given by Mrs. Griffith of Edmonton. "Prayer is the line of communication down which the energy of God is poured into our lives," said the speaker. "Behind you your prayers, and behind your prayers is God." Mrs. Griffith's earnest address was most impressive.

Afternoon Session

The devotional exercises of Wednesday afternoon's session were conducted by the Red Deer district. Mrs. Moore of Calgary, Associate Superintendent, reported for Calgary in the absence of Mrs. Ryhes, who was absent on new auxiliary work at Spring Bank. Mrs. J. Rollinshead of Carnation and Stettler reported six auxiliaries, three bands, and one circle, while $564.21 was contributed from 106 members.

Reports of other auxiliaries followed, all of which showed good progress being made.

Evening Session

The evening session was opened with hymns and prayer, Mrs. W. T. Gunn presiding. The first item was a duet of chorus singing by girls from the Methodist Church, which was received with appreciation. Mrs. Ann Hutchinson's account of the girls, leaving Toronto, Ont., for Edmonton, Miss Nancy Maxtone, the young Scotchman girl who was the first to arrive, stirred many hearts to the prayer meeting. Miss Maxtone's address at the recent festival of prayer in Toronto, when five girls in the home, on Mrs. Ash explained, and everyone is glad to welcome Miss Maxtone to the platform.

Speaking in songs and diction, some of the characters they had studied from the study book, the difficulties they had encountered, were told, with Gertrude Hodgson their leader, and Miss Nancy Maxtone, the young Scotchman girl who was the first to arrive, stirred many hearts to the prayer meeting. Miss Maxtone's address at the recent festival of prayer in Toronto, when five girls in the home, on Mrs. Ash explained, and everyone is glad to welcome Miss Maxtone to the platform.

The last, and to the large number of young people present, probably the most interesting event of the evening, was the lecture and lantern slides on Western China introduced by the Rev. F. C. Stephenson, Secretary of the B. F. C. Forward Movement. The pictures were beautifully colored and very life-like. They were taken by Mr. Stephenson himself.

THURSDAY—Morning Session

The morning session on Thursday opened with devotional exercises conducted by the Lacombe district. The reminder of the session was taken up by reports from the district Superintendents' reports, reports of Committees, election of Officers, and unfinished business.

A meeting of the Executive was held in afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

A full report of this convention will be given by the delegate, Mrs. M. E. North, at the next monthly meeting of the W.M.S. on June 11th.

Mrs. Phillips Says Murder Witness Is Culprit; Found as "Mrs. Carson"

New Orleans, La., May 31.—Lea Phillips, who escaped from jail in Los Angeles last December after her conviction for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, returned to this country today from Honduras in the custody of California officers; and is now resting in the Orleans parish home of detention preparatory to starting trial on the charge in the county.

The former Mrs. Texas, girl, who stepped from the liner Cristobal at the pier of the Clara Phillips that Orleanians had known as Mrs. Carson, was prepared for a welcome desperate over her temporary affair of the most sensational coverage ever achieved in this country. Instead, she seemed to be in transient spirits and laughed at the waiting newspapermen that she was returning home voluntarily to establish her innocence and that she was confident that she would be acquitted.

Peace for Newspapers

Mrs. Phillips, attired in a brown rages on three dress and accessories, was met on arrival by the Cosme crew into her pier, surrounded by her counsel, Mrs. Edna Mae Jackson, under Sheriff Eugene Stanton of Los Angeles, Mrs. Stanton and Detective Walter Hall.

She looked at the hundreds apparently with little interest and when newspapermen and photographers boarded the vessel with the customs officials she did not hesitate to pose for innumerable photographs. She was subjected immediately to a long siege of questioner but Stanton and Superintendent Maloney, of the Inland Immigration Service, refused to allow cooperation by announcing that she would be permitted to receive reporters at police headquarters. Mrs. Phillips did not make the journey from the pier to headquarters in a police patrol. Instead, Superintendent Maloney placed his personal car at the disposal of the California officer and his prisoner.

Blames Peggy Coffee

The prisoner talked freely with newspaperwriter but was careful not to say anything that might hamper her fight for freedom. At the time of her escape she was in jail pending the outcome of an appeal after she had received a sentence of ten years to life imprisonment. Mrs. Meadows was beaten to death with a hammer and Mrs. Phillips was convicted, largely on the evidence of Miss Peggy Coffee.

In stating that she was returning home voluntarily to fight for her name, honor and "freedom in the right way," Mrs. Phillips was emphatic in asserting her innocence and equally emphatic in her statement that Peggy Coffee was the slayer of Mrs. Meadows. She said that had she held all her story at her trial she would have been acquitted. Her explained silence on the tabloid of her attorney, however, she said, and as a result only one side, that of the prosecution, was told. She charged that her conviction was a "frame-up" and that she had obtained sufficient new evidence to prove it. Asked if men or men were implicated, she declined to answer.

Spectacles Only Disguise

The new evidence, she said, was obtained during the five months she remained in and about Los Angeles after her escape from prison. She donned a pair of shell-rimmed spectacles, she said, and went upon the streets on numerous occasions, while police were searching for her from Canada to Mexico. What she learned she refused to say, adding that she would avail a conference with her attorney in Los Angeles. Mrs. Phillips would say little concerning the details of her escape but in reply to a question as to whether she was in communication with her husband during the period of her freedom, said: "Not at all."

She went to St. Louis from Los Angeles, then came to New Orleans and remained here nine days before taking passage for Vera Cruz, Mexico. During her stay in New Orleans she occupied a furnished room in the Vieux Carre district and was frequently seen in the company of a man who was said to be a Mexican. Police learned that the man had purchased a ticket for Vera Cruz on the same boat on which Mrs. Phillips sailed.

Canadian Council of Agriculture Making No Plans for Wheat Marketing

Secretary of Council Denies Story That Council Is Making Arrangements for Gigantic Pool to Handle Crops of Three Prairie Provinces

Regina, Sask., May 31.—The Morning Leader prints the following from a staff correspondent:

The despatch from Regina printed in a Winnipeg morning paper Saturday, asserting that the Canadian Council of Agriculture is making preliminary arrangements for organization of a gigantic grain pool to handle the 1923 crop of the three Prairie Provinces on the assumption that there will be no wheat board this year, is untrue.

This denial was issued by J. W. Ward, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, who further has demonstrated that the statements made in the despatch did not emanate from any of the Winnipeg members of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, or that the report was based on any statement or opinion of the United Farmers of Manitoba or the government of Manitoba.

Mr. Ward added that any plans are the work of the Canadian Council of Agriculture for the formation of a pool to handle the 1923 crop are premature, as no one knows what the crop will be. He declared that no such steps were taken at the meeting of the sub-committee of the Winnipeg officials of the C.C.A. and that there was nothing in the resolutions to lead the Saskatchewan and Alberta delegates were present to believe, making cows such move.

The secretary of the C.C.A. gave out that a conference of western representatives will be held in Calgary on June 14th to consider "future grain marketing."

Mr. Ward declared that not only was there no assumption on the part of the United Farmers of Manitoba that there would be no wheat board in operation in 1923 but that the proposed conference of the western representatives, which will be held in Calgary on June 14th will not be held until a definite pronouncement as to the likelihood or otherwise of a 1923 board materializing, has received a reference of ten years to life imprisonment. Mrs. Meadows was beaten to death with a hammer and Mrs. Phillips was convicted, largely on the evidence of Miss Peggy Coffee.

In stating that she was returning home voluntarily to fight for her name, honor and "freedom in the right way," Mrs. Phillips was emphatic in asserting her innocence and equally emphatic in her statement that Peggy Coffee was the slayer of Mrs. Meadows. She said that had she held all her story at her trial she would have been acquitted. Mrs. Young Gains Thirty-Four Pounds

Saskatoon Teacher Restored Her When Stomach Trouble Had Almost Wrecked Health

"I weighed only a hundred and fourteen pounds, my face was pallid and sunken and I was thin as a rail. But since using Tanlac I have gained one hundred and forty-eight, have the cheeks of a rosy girl, and enjoy good health for the first time in seven years." This remarkable statement was recently made by Mrs. Belle Young, 96 Cathcart St., Hamilton, Ont.

"The last year of my sickness I was a nervous breakdown, and my appetite was so poor even the smell of food sometimes nauseated me. Sometimes pains in my stomach and back nearly set me wild and I would walk the floor by the hour. I got so weak I could hardly drag over to keep my chore, and my housework was a burden.

"The Tanlac treatment gave me a wonderful appetite, built me up till friends wondered at my great change, and I always feel strong and well. I will never cease to praise Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitutes. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills are Nature's own remedy for constipation. For sale everywhere.

GADSBY NEWS

At last we have had a good rain—and it came in time—not too late to go back to 1917 to have enough water lying around, and this we have today. It was a new experience for us to sit indoors all day and watch the rain slowly downpouring "during the thirsty land" as the old book has it. What a weight it has lifted off the minds of the farmers in this district, invisible as they may be on the heads of another crop failure. Damage had already been done that the summer rains could not possibly make. Very early rows wheat on summerfallow land in some places began to appear, and had died in its inception through lack of moisture. Those who realized so late as possible and kept getting hard ready have had their gaping mouths swallowed, double disc cultivator, drills and wire mulchers. They will in most cases reseed. Mr. Wheeler says he has seen as many crop failures from too early seeding as from any other cause. One can make hasts slowly.

Mr. Gilmer and friend, Mr. Dillon, has been highly honored by his friends in Stettler, on his departure to take up life in Penhold. Mr. Gilmer was presented with a purse and one of the address presented to him by Mayor Sharpe of Stettler.

We regret to hear that Mr. J. K. Anderson is not recoverable from his attack of flu as suddenly as his friends would wish. We hope to hear better tomorrow.

Great satisfaction is being expressed all through this district at learning that Rev. G. A. Steele, our friend and neighbor, will minister to us for at least one more year. It involves a good deal of self-sacrifice on Mr. Steele's part and it is up to the people in these their appreciation by rallying round him and taking a more than usual interest in church affairs. We must not forget Mrs. Steele, who is likable and popular in her own sphere as her husband.

J. F. Hamel has gone back to his old love—corn growing. He has a nice piece of land for which purpose he purchased a Lister and now he has returned a nice uniformable. Much interest is being taken in this and other cereal experiments in the locality and we wish them all every success.

Henry Wheeler has decided to clean up his land in Barr's homer, which leaves the field to Hennessey & Son. Henry has purchased some breaking cultivators for R. W. Harrison, and others, and with the advent of rain one sees it in the district a large amount of seed is sure to be turned over this year.

The Women's Institute had a most successful and interesting program at their meeting on Saturday. Mrs. R. W. Berry read a paper on the history of basketry, outlining the principal events in its life, which was much enjoyed by the members. Mrs. Gallop gave a fine recitation and there were other interesting items. Mrs. John Brady gave a report of the Institute Convention held at Edmonton, to which she was a delegate, and covered the various transactions very clearly.

The inspectors of Mr. and Mrs. Drake last Wednesday leaves no room for any misunderstanding. They were citizens of the highest type—an asset to any community. Mr. Drake's work as manager of the Farmers' Elevator has also highly merited and his place will be hard to fill. We feel sure earnest respect as public function will be held in their honor, which is just what one would expect from them in their quiet unobtrusive manner. They left by motor on an extended holiday by road, taking a camping outfit along and visiting it as roaming pursuits. Messrs. Mr. Drake has made an business with the Imperial Bank. Our best wishes out Hamis.

The meeting called under U.F.A. auspices to hear Mr. Larson, of Alix, Secretary of the Co-operative Elevators, had to be called off on account of the heavy rain storm on Friday. We trust Mr. Richards will not be discouraged but try at once early date to get Mr. Larson to speak to us on this interesting and valuable job.

Mr. J. J. Douglas, of Lacombe, is a Gadsby visitor for a day or two, looking over the fine farm interests of this town. He has been fortunate in his location, and in some ways this is the present one. Fred Anderson, who is recognized as one of our very best farmers.

Don't forget the Ladies' Aid Entertainment on Friday first in the Town Hall. With an excellent play, musical items, solos and choruses it will be the best the north you ever had in that line—with the added satisfaction that you are helping a very deserving cause.

We are sorry to hear of Mrs. Carl, Hitchner being on the sick list and trust she may soon be up and around again. She had to forego her trip to Edmonton as delegate to the Women's Institute Convention, the week in which she is very much interested.

Mr. Stowell's hydrometer, or rain recording machine—whatever its technical name is—unassingly is hanging a little out of plumb, but will be up with our deluge. At last some of our folks think it is running on its own.

DESPERADO WHO MURDERED TWO AT NORTH BAY MEETS HIS FATE

Constable Gilson, VanBlaricom, Whitehorn, Haner, Pickup and Ford present.

Leo Rogers, Escaped Bad Man, Tracked to Bush and Was Fatally Shot at By Everyone

KILLED BEYOND POLICE OFFICER IN MORNING

North Bay, May 31.—Leo Rogers, fugitive man killer, was shot and instantly killed by a posse last night, it was announced this morning. The announcement was made by Provincial Constable Gilson, who is in charge of the police activities in the district.

The killing of Rogers came as the climax to one of the most dramatic manhunts this territory has ever experienced.

Leo Rogers' brought down two of his rescuers and wounded another before he was himself was dropped by a bullet. He shot Detective Fred Lefebvre shortly after his sensational escape and yesterday sent a bullet through the heart of Sergeant John Urquhart, a member of the provincial police force.

Rogers' body was brought here last night and viewed by a party that carpeted the gun man in his father's home.

The Second Murder

North Bay, Ont., May 31.—Sergt. Urquhart, with Constables Crave, Simpson and Belaye, entered the Rogers house about 2 o'clock Wednesday morning. With Urquhart leading, they crept softly up the stairs. Just as the sergeant reached the top the figure of Leo Rogers loomed up on the landing in the light of the golden sunshine. At the same instant Rogers opened fire with a gun at the first shot Urquhart fell back dead, shot through the chest.

The other police were not by a rule Leo Rogers apparently firing from automatics in both hands. They scattered for better protection before he took cover. Reinforcements were secured and the house again surrounded.

Jumped from Window

Rogers escaped from the house by jumping out of the window. The police were stands at the east end of town, and two miles from where Constable Lefebvre and McGovern were shot by Rogers. It is a wooded and brick house with a garage attenates to the east.

Wounded Hands in Lake

Rogers was shot by inspector Storey as the desperado was washing his hands in the lake.

Rogers was seen roving down the lake in a small boat by Thomas Lee, a farmer, who called the constable. It was reported Rogers was trying to make an opportunity in another Inspector Storey's fire.

The fall to the ground of members of the inspector's party, which numbered eleven, were reported by Rogers' last bullet after bullet into the body of the man who had killed two of their number.

Rogers' body was brought here last night along with that of Sergeant Urquhart. The desperado's mother was reported not to be in a state of collapse after hearing of her son's death.

Hunted for Two Weeks

Rogers had been hunted for two weeks. He was first seen in North Bay here and flashed his paper pistol in court and made his getaway. He had not come back before he took another pistol that he was on the outskirts of a farm house. He then rushed to the spot, where the desperado opened fire on the constabulary

The Court of Last Appeal

Y OU are the judge and the jury. Your verdict is final. There can be no appeal—for this is the High Court of Public Opinion.

The wares of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

The merchant who advertises deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparison. He directs your attention to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

If he were not sure of his wares he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his business career. It would be business suicide.

You can depend on the man who advertises. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisements you find in this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

COMMERCIAL REVIEW

Thursday, June 14th, 1923

For changes of a radical nature appear in the current budget and which was adopted by the House of Commons on May 23rd. The notable features are the reduction in the British Preferential Tariff and in the duty on certain specific commodities, the lowering of the maximum rate of customs duty on cheaper, and the change in the operation of the Sales Tax.

The provision for an increase in preferential rates, however, is not to apply to goods admitted under the Canada-West Indies Trade Agreement of 1920.

The most notable tariff reductions are on sugar, automobiles and machinery. In the original statement of the budget it was proposed that the dumping duty on sugar should not apply when the consumption price of sugar at the port of importation in Canada was more than eight cents per pound. It was subsequently it was decided to make the dumping duty operative up to three cents per pound of a cent per pound. Tariff reductions, on the other hand, are provided for on such commodities as agricultural implements, fruits, vegetables, canned meats, fish, etc.

Probably the most important alteration in the customs tariff is shown in the lowering of the maximum rate of customs duty on cheaper automobiles of the delivery type, which this tax was loaded more by the ingenious community who charged this tax in addition to bulging burden, the tax diverted much business to the United States, chiefly in border cities.

The change in the operation of the Sales Tax is directed to making the tax more certain so that no man's goods can be confiscated. The tax is now to be collected at the source, from manufacturers and also on imports, all at 6 per cent. In addition, provision is made to prevent double taxation by the payment of taxes on materials used in the manufacturing process, only on the value of the finished product.

THE BUSINESS CYCLE (2)

As the nations progress economically, as the productive capacity of the rapid advance in industrial development, the periods of depression become ever more severe, it becomes ever more urgent that the cause should be found, if not to control, at least to mitigate the effects of the upward and downward swings of business which are ordinarily called business cycles. The human race has experienced many complicated processes, which, like the operation of "fresh-cuts," has, to a degree, at least, clipped from the control of the market and no periodically pass through a series of up and down movements which are attended by intense suffering, unemployment and loss. An international relations, which, like the trade cycle naturally increases wider in scope, and the violence which arise from a disturbance in one country are soon felt throughout the world. Not only is their influence felt by large manufacturing industries and financial corporations, but by business and professional men in all classes of society.

The most potent weapon in controlling the destructive effects of the cycle is an understanding of the factors which enter into the cause of these movements. A knowledge of the situation, made possible by the study of statistics, has given to a large number of the characteristics and beginning of a depression, and of the closing at least a century. Formerly, the causes of such movements were not well understood, and they were therefore subject to the physical forces such as the "sun spot" theory, but which recent years the business men have come to see the causal factors within the industrial and commercial systems themselves, rather than looking for external causes. It is our present purpose to set down the characteristics of the trade cycle, and in our next issue to outline the methods, so far known, of controlling the movements. Although the extent of the movements vary somewhat in different countries, as may be seen in evidence, for example, in Great Britain, Germany and the United States than in France, and Canada, the best evidence in Canada that it is more highly industrialized countries, the general movements are the same in character, therefore, we shall select our analysis at the point at which business seems to end one day with special reference to the United States and Canada.

The Period of Depression

One of the interesting features of the business cycle is that each phase contains within itself factors which automatically terminate that particular phase and bring on the succeeding one. In our last issue we pointed out that the present movement in the United States resulted naturally from the period of depression and liquidation which ended only a few months ago. The characteristics of this period are low prices, low profits, liberal bank reserves and a tendency in establishing new business enterprises. Such a situation naturally leads to a wavering down of the available surplus of goods, and in the lines in which a shortage first appears, prices actively start their index plates. Retailers begin to extend their borrowing demand for their goods. As a result they place their orders with the wholesalers who meet correspondingly increased orders from the manufacturers. All along the line of production, transportation and the purchasing power of the community is steadily increased. Employment materially improved before. A feeling of optimism displaces the pessimistic outlook of the previous months and, with this change, forces further increases, and the opportunity of making larger profits becomes greater. Employers are willing to pay higher prices for labor and materials rather than run the risk of being unable to fill their orders. Meanwhile the increased demand gives rise to higher prices. Wages, discount rates and speculative commodities rise during the movement, and also interest rates rather increases. Thus all along the line there is expansion, optimism increases, and prices rise at an accelerating rate.

The Critical Period of Business

Such a condition obviously cannot last indefinitely. Normally there must be a forces must adjustment between productive factors in business, such as capital, labor, land, transportation and materials. Such factors tend to distribution, the cost of production increases, as the period of expansion, but increase in demand for goods cannot continue indefinitely. Sooner or later, when a real adjustment takes place, there will only be enough room in the field of production for the old factors. Then begins the period of contraction, or depression.

The period of contraction, however, ends as naturally as it begins. Overbuilt units have considerable to reduction to suit cost of production, and the increase ceases to be. The efficiency of labor has become greater, the necessity of overtime work and unusually high wages has been done away with, investment also become used to fill the increased demand. Then again the supply of available funds for the purpose of mortgages, etc., is unable to keep pace with the demand. It is necessary to increase the rate of interest. The available loan fund of the banks is also limited. Money has been used lavishly and extravagantly, and loans have also suffered. It is at this point that the period of depression begins in the greatest degree of breaking. The failures of a large business concern or any similar cause will affect very easily induce a collapse. The failure of the Knox Co. in the United States, and Canada, and a very severe depression in the United States, such a panic is about to begin. As the property appreciates in cash, and the purchasing power of the community decreases more difficult. Depression gradually spreads throughout the entire field of business and industry, and this depression is caused by failures, since every reduction in employment means a decrease in consumption.

During this period prices continue to decline and forced sales increase. Wholesale prices usually decline more rapidly than retail, and prices of raw materials than those of manufactured goods. All these factors have tended to check enterprise and to increase pessimism. In duration, the period is variable, but it is the period of liquidation. The liquidation period, as the name implies, brings business to that point where costs and prices are in a balance. The problem of when this point will be reached is the most uncertain factor in the business cycle. It is during this period that it induces the reorganization of enterprises which have become insolvent, or which have been overcapitalized in the days of salary. Bad debts are written off and depreciation values written down. At the same time the valuable goods of goods and stocks becomes exhausted. All these factors have prepared the way, as we have shown, for the beginning of the upswing. They prepare the way for a new period of activity, confidence and slowly or suddenly the depression gives into business expansion, at which point we commenced our discussion of the cycle.

In attempting to review the factors which enter into the cause of the business cycle, we have already discussed purely physical phenomena such as crop failures, nor have referred to the banks part played by wars in these factor the thrift and extravagance of the spending and the saving.

and in whether or not this price is justified. The discussion has been principally by the action of the United States Government in making an injunction to close the Rente Exchange as an organization permitting operations which had the effect of a monopoly to the consumer in that country. This injunction was denied, but it is reported that the Government may appeal the case to the United States Supreme Court. In the meantime, several representatives of the Government have used very immoderate language in putting forward their views. Taking their cue from the Government's attitude, various women's organizations have advocated a boycott of sugar. These actions, while not affecting the price, have unquestionably resulted in a substantial demand and a very important decrease in the invisible supply. The action of the Government and statements credited to Government representatives have led to a letter of protest being sent to President Harding, signed by practically the...hole sugar trade of the United States, severely censuring the charges made. In Canada a committee of the House of Commons recently conducted an investigation into the price of sugar, and in the budget brought down on May 23rd, the general tariff on raw sugar was reduced from $1.681 to $1.247 per hundred pounds, and the British preferential tariff from .8571 cents to .46 cents per hundred pounds.

On the other hand, the Chancellor of the British Exchequer, in presenting the recent budget, declined to reduce the tariff on sugar, although he stated that Great Britain, giving as his reason, that, in his opinion, the statistical position was so strong that a reduction in the duties was likely to lead to a further increase in the world price of the raw product rather than to a reduction in the price of refined in Great Britain.

With so much attention being given to this product, it is timely to review the circumstances leading up to the present situation, and to forecast the probable statistical position. On February 19th, 1923, the United States Department of Commerce published a statement calling attention to a shortage in supplies to satisfy anticipated consumption. Their estimate of world consumption for the period was 20,000,000 tons and production was placed at 19,000,000 tons. The publication of this statement coincided with the opening of the sugar week in the C. & F. (New York) price of Cuban raw sugar from 3½ cents to 4¾ cents per pound. We believe this statement to have been an accurate estimate of the world's requirements for the year as far as it is judged on the data on which it was published. The estimate of production for the present year is estimated at May 20th at 18,375,000 tons. These figures include an estimate for Canada of 4,000,000 tons. The latter figure is too high, as we are assured that the actual production will be at least 500,000 tons less. According to the Government statement, the final world carryover at the end of last year was 1,200,000 tons—a reduction of 500,000 tons from the end of the previous year. It would appear that this year's production does not considerably exceed present estimates, consumption must be restricted, and, taking this into consideration, also the high purchasing power of the United States and Canada at the present time, it would appear that the present price is not excessive, and that it will be necessary to look beyond the statistical position to find the reason for this price.—Royal Bank.

SHIPPING BACON IN BALES

The difference between the manner in which Danes and Canadians ship bacon to the British market is that the Danes ship the cures in bales, whereas the usual Canadian custom is to pack in boxes. Some of the Canadian packing houses, however, have begun to bale their bacon and are finding it satisfactory. A bale contains two sides wrapped in cheesecloth and covered with jute sacking. The Canadian packing house has adopted this method of packing, placed twenty pieces of ten bacon in bales. Only such bales as will retain topmost Wiltshire, and are to remedy an possible identical with the Danish sides of the first quality. The percentage corresponds very closely with the percentage of "selects" that are taken by the Petersboro packing house, indicating that the select bacon bear no identified on foot, is the type that is actually turning out the higher priced product.

GROWING CORN AND SUNFLOWERS ON THE ILLUSTRATION STATIONS

(Experimental Farms Note)

When considered from the standpoints of relative productive cost and feeding value for the present year was undertaken to advantage over a much wider area than is the case at the present time. Such crops work in well, especially in systems of mixing where provision must be made for cleaning the land. In her opinion provision it has been found necessary to fit cultivators. This practice adds to the destruction of weeds and insect to encourage germination. As a suitable for part of the have fallen-land, experimental crops on these have distinct possibilities in many districts. Experiments show that wheat requires nearly twice twice as much as provides a pound of dry matter as corn; hence the value as a crop in districts of low rainfall as a substitute for summerfallow. Sunflowers are somewhat more heavily on soil more than does corn. Each of these crops possess characteristics which establish the preference for either in a district. It has been found that corn flowers will withstand more frost than corn; they may be planted earlier and harvested later, on the crop has not matured sufficiently to make a good quality of silage. Both crops have extensive root systems; they feed deeply and require a liberal supply of moisture to make maximum growth. Corn and sunflowers utilize moisture throughout the entire season; the former crop being able to withstand periods of considerable drought better than sunflowers. While the moisture supply is a contributing portant factor and contributes greatly to the satisfactory growth of these crops, the kinds of soil and conditions are not in proportion to the rainfall. It must, therefore, be borne in mind that climatic conditions and cultivation practices are a controlling influence on crop yields.

When growing corn and sunflowers on the Illustration Stations in Alberta and Saskatchewan, which for the most part are in the semi-arid part of the provinces, the land is fall-ploughed, or spring-ploughed and packed prior to planting. If corn is grown, it is necessary to apply it at the rate of ton tons per acre, in order to secure as much of the land as possible. As corn requires a rich soil and fairly warm, sunflowers can be planted earlier in the season, and rather so severely from slight frost. On the Stations the date of corn planting was general from May 20th to 24th. Sunflowers may be planted two weeks earlier. When planting, the land is well tilled, blockin; the necessary drills. A tender drill is used for the desired distance apart. While from 30 to 40 inches is considered to be a satisfactory distance between the rows, cultivation should be regulated somewhat by the cultivator to be used. By removing some of the shovels and by having the rows very adjusted properly it is often possible to do the work without additional outlay for machinery. The Experimental Stations at Lacombe and Scott, Western Dent corn are the varieties planted on the Stations. Difficulty in obtaining registration in keeping weeds out of the rows. If the land is harvested reservation with the drag harrows once before the crop comes up, and frequently afterwards, a great many weeds will be destroyed. This harrowing may be done until the crop is six inches high. After this it will be necessary to cultivate between the rows at each interval. as will keep down weed growth, if the weeds are allowed to grow the value of growing for each crops, as a substitute for summerfallow, will not be realized. As a rule corn makes a shallow, lateral root growth at first, and care must be taken not to cultivate too deeply close to the plants, or these feeders will be cut off and growth delayed. Corn should be put into the silo before the first frost and sunflowers when the seed are in the milk stage.

Results at the Illustration Stations operators filled trench silos this year but had considerable results from them. These silos measured 30 feet long by 8 feet wide and eight feet deep, ten and fourteen feet wide and twenty and thirty-six feet long. The length varied with the quantity of crops available for silage purposes. There were opened out with a team and scraper in a cost of from twenty-five to thirty-five dollars each, depending on the size. On fifteen Illustration Stations in Alberta and Saskatchewan corn was produced for an average of 14.62 per ton, and on nine stations sunflowers were grown for 14.82 per ton, average. Results from the Illustration Stations in Alberta show that the yields of ensiled on corn and sunflowers were practically identical, followed by an average of 8.56 bushels per acre for oat grain, 2 tons of cured hay, and 2 tons of pasture. Results from Saskatchewan Illustration Stations are not yet available.

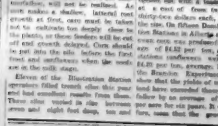
FARM NEWS

LESSONS FROM HOG GRADING

A few hours at the elbow of a hog grader at one of the abattoirs or check-yards in Canada would be time well spent. One may learn much about the factors from feeding and conformation, but the lesson is more impressive if one sees a shipment divided into carcasses according to grade, more especially if the shipment contains carcasses from one's own farm.

A grader has three principal points to bear in mind—weight, length and form. Many hogs of ideal weight are weighted to the lighter grades because they are too short for exports. Others may have the correct length and weight, but are so rough in shape or so fat that they cannot make the select grade. There is no doubt the justice of a grading report if he has never witnessed grading in progress, but he is unlikely to do so if he sees the work done by an official grader.

It is usually instructive to go through the package plant and to be shown collections of side marks from hogs of the different market grades. The Wiltshire side is of definite form, and of weights ranging between certain limits. The characteristics of the side that brings the highest price are well mentioned and the first grade of Wiltshire is obtainable only from a select bacon hog. Like No. 1 butcher's beef, the Wiltshire No. 1 prospect is fatter or fancy than the select bacon to reach the higher price. A bacon raiser will benefit greatly by visiting a stock-yard or an abattoir and seeing for himself the actual grading of a shipment of hogs.



TRAVELLING does not live or trouble this little fellow. Though he does not understand a word of English, he has already made the journey from Uscilug to Rawicz, in Poland, to Danzig, to Berlin, to Hamburg, to Liverpool, to Montreal, to Winnipeg, to Milwaukee, and he is only eleven years old. He is a Polish boy, and he has all the papers to prove it. Besides, he has the tickets and the money to pay for his railway journeys. The ship's officers and the immigration officials have also signed their names on the documents. Each lives in his name. Organized by his mother's death from cancer, and by his father in Milwaukee, who had made arrangements for the boy's journey.

When Heath arrived at Winnipeg he was conducted by an agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway to Antwerp. There he was given a ticket amount to keep on himself, and carry him through to his destination. Crossing to Montreal by the "Empress of Britain," he was handed over to the "conductress" in charge of a party of immigrants for the Canadian Pacific.

Arrived at Montreal, he was handed over to the next official in charge of his travels. The ship's officers had also signed their names on the documents. Each of these officials had an address to which he was to report on arrival at each port. Thus he was handed from one official to another, until he arrived at Milwaukee, where his uncle awaited him.

Strewing the Way With Flowers

General Offices and Building, Westbrook, N.S.

Flowers are amongst the assets of Mr. Cumming's estate at Westbrook. There are blooms in C.P.R. gardens at more than one hundred stations from the end of the country to the other. From the Royal Hotel at St. Andrews, on the Atlantic coast, and one of the most beautiful floral gardens in America known across the Dominion, to Victoria, on the Pacific.

In the end days most of the plants are grown in greenhouses, but sometimes eggs is give much extra, as in the case of the cultivation of flowers. Flower cultivation among the C.P.R. stations is the responsibility of the departmental property of the railway, and Mr. Cumming, who has charge of the work, shows one of the C.P.R. executive officers the distribution of flower seeds, bulbs, etc., and distributes them according to the requirements of the various districts, with the object of starting flower gardens among the C.P.R. stations, one conspicuously made, and now the C.P.R. has a floral department with headquarters at Windsor Street Station, Montreal, in charge of Mr. Cumming as horticulturist and forester.

The distribution of flower seeds, bulbs, shrubs, hedge plants, trees, etc., is done from the greenhouses at Westbrook, and the stock is grown on the company's farm at Angus, Montreal, and at the company's stock farm at Angus, Montreal, and at the company's stock farm at Angus, Montreal, and at the company's stock

THE LETHBRIDGE RAILWAY EXTENSION

As noted on first page of this issue, the Federal Government will build thirty miles of the Lovern-Big Valley road by 1929. This railway has been laid up at Lovern on the boundary line between Alberta and Saskatchewan for some time and when completed it will traverse such well known districts as Rosalia, Wimi, Gaetz Lake, Bodmay, Earlsburn and Gopher Heat.

The people living in the above districts have been waiting long for railway accommodation and while they will not obtain relief for some time yet, a definite progress as outlined by the Hon. Dr. Manning in the letter referred to, is much better than no progress at all, and will allow them to govern their farm operations accordingly.

It is unknown at present just what part of the fifty miles will be built by C.N.R., but it is fairly certain that by the end of 1929 the line will be completed. There will then remain the joining up of the Warden terminal with the Edmonton line and when this is also completed the settlers to the south-east will have direct railway connection for years to come.

SUGAR

The open with which grain comes along with favorable weather conditions is shown by a sample of wheat which was brought into the Edmonton board of trade from a farm west of the city last week. It was sown on April 23 and when pulled June 7 was seven inches high.—Edmonton Journal.

Mr. Gentle brought in some wheat from his farm north of town on June 2nd which measured twenty-two inches on an average, some of it going twenty-six inches. This proves how directly during the past two weeks since the heavy rains, that was sown on April 19th. On Mr. Hare's farm south of town a field of 960 acres of wheat has reached out so that there was only eight to ten stalks in each plant, and the wheat will be ripened about the middle of April.

SOURCES OF SUGAR

Contrary to what is perhaps the general belief of the public, the major portion of the sugar consumed in our country is not beet sugar. Some months ago it was stated that only about half of all the sugar consumed in the world, and in continental European countries sugar made from sugar beets is as much as about sugar in British Columbia. In fact, millions of Europeans hardly know that sugar can be manufactured from anything but beets. In Ontario there are at present three large beet sugar manufacturing plants; some twenty growers basis in a very profitable manner. In the United States it is estimated that fifteen per cent. of the sugar consumed there is produced from beets. This consumer south of the line pays more for sugar than we do, whether he is buying cane or beet sugar, owing to the protection which is afforded to the sugar beet industry in preference to cane sugar made from sugar cane. In the United States the average consumption of sugar per person is about 100 pounds per annum, some of it going directly during the past two weeks since the heavy rains, and was sown on April 19th. On Mr. Hare's farm south of town a field of 960 acres of wheat has reached out so that there was only eight to ten stalks in each plant, and the wheat will be ripened about the middle of April.

THE LETTER FROM OTTAWA

Ottawa, June 7.—Following the stirring incidents of the session on the Budget, there has been a reaction in Parliament. Routine work is dull—especially when such a technical subject as the Bankruptcy Act is under discussion. Occasionally during the week the House has been enlivened by a plain talk about Chairman Carvell, of the Railway Commission, and the questioning of Minister of Agriculture Motherwell as to what he had done to make good his promise to have Carvell fired. But the interest has not been sustained.

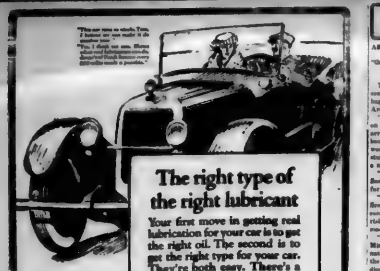
The truth is that Parliament is in the doldrums. The members of all three groups are dissatisfied with themselves, and openly admit it. To a considerable extent this is due to opinion outside of the House. Insofar as accurately reflecting that opinion is concerned, this is possibly the most unsatisfactory session in the history of the country. The Progressive members are personally are very responsive to what goes on at home, and their attitude affects the whole House. The Liberals are drooping their large outlines of the country are in the dumps, and this seriously affects the M.P's.

Aside from this, Liberals, Conservatives and Progressives are dissatisfied with themselves, for they are being subjected to much criticism by their own followers. There is no denying that many Liberal members feel keenly the charge that the party has not lived up to its pre-election promises. Western Liberals resent the manoeuvring this house vigorously with Meighen, the action of Hoffmeier and Sinclair, the former in quitting the party caucus, the latter in voting against it, over the Budget has also had a depressing influence.

One might think that this would put the Conservatives in high spirits, but such has not been the result. Meighen professes to see in the Budget a confirmation of his own opinion as the sheriff knows all the Conservatives generally are much depressed. They are losing hold of many of their old-time supporters outside the public-ity-seeking group that has come in full force; that the party is not being reorganized, and that the changes in the cabinet are the result of internecine within their own ranks make the situation dark. Some of them even the truth, have no use Mr. Meighen, for, they say, the best of Conservatives generally are much depressed. They are losing hold of many of their old-time supporters outside the public-ity-seeking group that has come in full force; that the party is not being reorganized, and that the changes in the cabinet are the result of internecine within their own ranks make the situation dark. Some of them even the truth, have no use Mr. Meighen, for, they say, the best of Conservatives generally are saying that their own supporters are saying that their opponents are saying a great deal more.

The Progressives are also despondent, for at least two reasons. They have not been running their way. They have secured practically no votes while until a few months ago the public criticism of the Bank Act has been without effect. Secondly, they will get from the Government a measure of farm credit legislation that remains to be seen. Last year they went home with a spicy basket. To-day they have only a few apples, and those which some have bashed, apparently has gone agin-nearing.

Like the members of the other two groups, the Progressives also feel depressed over what some of their leaders have said about them. Being new to politics, a number of them feel foolish when some one in print refers to them as "rube." After they have been in the House for a considerable session such criticism will have less terror. They will then realize that it is on a man's back. But just now it embarrasses. Meighen himself came in for a little lecture from Agnes Macphail the other day,



The right type of the right lubricant

Your first move in getting real lubrication for your car is to get the right oil. The second is to get the right type for your car. They're both easy. There's a type of that is right for your car. Get it; and your lubrication problem is settled. We made scientific tests to find the best possible lubricant. Sunoco proved first in them all. And there is a right type of Sunoco for each car.

SUNOCO

There are six types of Sunoco lubricants, all distilled. Every superiority is traced back by the distilling process. That's why Sunoco vanity lubricants and leaks or lubricating. It makes carbon and keeps it in longer life—and cut expenses.

ARRESTING THE WRONG PARTY

"He Arrested But a Portion of the Wrong Party"

The Young Sport seemed to the reminiscent company to be pursuing an unhappy over something and the Man Around Town asked him what it was.

"The Federal officers made a raid on Ole Bill's place last night and arrested him and confiscated a lot of booze. But not before I had got my weekly supply from him. Pretty good stuff, too. Any time you fellows want a nip come around, and I'll divvy."

"I don't mind if I do," said the Society Fellow. "What did he run you for it, if I may ask?"

"Oh, I don't mind telling. The fiendish court fine twelve dollars. It seems high but I am not taking any risks on this nonsense sublimate stuff made by amateurs."

"Do you mean to say," asked the Minister, "that you seek, under the immoral prohibitory law, encourage the business of breaking the law, and discredit the Eighteenth Amendment, when the President has set out an earnest appeal to all good citizens to uphold the Constitution?"

"He knew a gat in the way of my personal liberty," said the Young Sport, and the Man Around Town said the same thing so near to the same time that it sounded like one word.

"But the man who sold you the drinks was arrested," said the Professor of Jurisprudence.

"Of course he was. He is a criminal in the eyes of the law for breaking the law."

"It looks to me," said the Minister, "as if the wrong party was being arrested. The Young Sport is the victim that ought to be arrested for buying the liquor. For if no one bought it no one would try to sell."

"I call that a good one," said the Young Sport. "There has never been a law like that and never will be. Of course it's the man who makes and sells the stuff that is the criminal. He has used ocean and control of carriage a man who drinks."

"How about that?" said the Minister, turning to the Professor of Jurisprudence. "Isn't the Young Sport who purchases the stuff as much of a criminal as the seller? Does not the purchaser become just as guilty of breaking the prohibitory law as the man who makes or sells?"

"I will take your question under advisement," said the Professor cautiously.

"I do not have to wait for your opinion. I appeal to the unanimous consent of the company. Is it not right to say if the Young Sport and the Man Around Town are to be arrested so Ole Bill. They encourage him in his criminal business of making or selling. They are the real wrong doers. They continue in the business. I cannot see why the Federal authorities should arrest the seller and let the drinker go."

"It would fill up all the jails in the state if all the drinkers were arrested," said the Editor. "Why, the poorly sure some of these arrested fellows would be sentenced to life imprisonment. Interstate."

"Move we adjourn before we get to the arrest argument," said the Professor.

The motion carried with only one dissenting vote, that of the Editor. But as the company passed out he was heard to say to the Minister, at the same time I can not for the life of me understand why Ole Bill is any more of a traitor to the Constitution than the Young Sport or the Society Fellow. Can you?"

"No, I can't either," said the Editor. "But I am afraid if we begin to arrest the drinkers we would have to ask the legislature to build a million dollar addition to our county jail."

JOTTINGS

By Mrs. Gandin

Be the article "Evils of Prohibition" a crime of May 31st. We like it to be on a par with most "wet" articles, in that it will not bear close investigation, and has no background or foundation of truth. It is also self-contradictory—at times. But, I state "Prohibition is the greatest crime booster the country (U.S.) has ever seen," while Para. No. 2 says a booze-party jail, is prospect, will be filled with law violators, and many others are already filled—the grandest proof we need, or can possibly have, that the law is being firmly enforced and that Prohibition is prohibiting.

A few short-sighted creatures, (and not such a few either), seem to think that because the present law may crime that is committed is the result of said law, and that the crimes, criminals and victims are the result of Prohibition, no one should being was heard to say in the town, when the bootlegger, Trider, killed the highly respected Constable Parie—"There's Prohibition for you!" While in reality this law does not in the slightest degree promote crime, but it surely does suppose it, and corner it, and run-like the law-violators, when cornered, turn and show their teeth and fight, but their teeth and fight under cover of the dark and will not come out into the open unless forced to, and these dark-alley, after-dark, mask-actors are still further proof that Prohibition is prohibiting.

Men, or those who pass for men, dare not openly show their un-drunk those days, unless they are too far gone to know what they are doing, for they have too wholesome a respect, or fear for this self-same law, and anyone, no matter whether in high or low society, who stills himself or keeps a still is a traitor to his country, country, and openly or covertly encourages the violation of law or any other law, is a criminal, a traitor, and guilty of treason, and will find his or her place as a creature of the underworld.

Does this clever (?) article goe on to ask if a law that "increases the criminal population of a country may or is in the best interests of said country?" There, again, is a direct misstatement to put it mildly, for this law does not increase in any shape or form the criminal population, but the exposure and cause to and we're quite sure that if the truth is told, that while the offenders are caged, Prohibition is beautifully prohibiting and is also changing them a wholesome lesson they won't forget—especially the lesson for as Judge Pugsley of Minneapolis stated recently, "the only way to speak to a bootlegger is through a jail sentence," and out of 200 violators of the law he sentenced over 200 to jail, some with a goodly fine and eighteen months in which to reflect, and said he would continue to do so if he filled every jail that came under his jurisdiction and he had already filled 12.

A number of others who had recently served a term for the same cause were heard to say: "I'm done! I don't want a fine for I could not make that up, but this jail business and taking a before through life" Does the term jail-bird hasn't a savory odour.

Be the nopatial of Trider, we deem this a grave miscarriage of justice, as his own conscience convicted him and his own lips gave utterance to that effect immediately the night of the crime, but this sin will follow and confront him some other day of his life there will be the thought, "I murdered that man."

World's Richest Men

Only on one thing is there general agreement about Henry Ford, he is the richest man in the world. Perhaps there never was a man so rich as he with the exception of John D. Rockefeller, who has given away half a billion dollars and is supposed to have nearly as much left. Despite his gifts, which never before were equalled or approached by a philanthropist, John D. Rockefeller is reckoned the second richest man. A writer in the New York Times, after making enquiry among men likely to be well informed, compiles the list of the richest ten men, which places Ford first and Rockefeller second, and eight others as follows: The Duke of Westminster, £10,000,000 or $200,000,000; Sir Basil Zaharoff, $175,000,000 to $125,000,000; Hugo Stinnes, $160,000,000; Percy Rockefeller, $100,000,000; Baron E. Iwasaki, $100,000,000; J. R. Duke, $100,000,000; George F. Baker, $100,000,000; the Goelvaer of Russia, $125,000,000; T. B. Walker, perhaps less than $100,000,000; perhaps as high as $200,000,000.

HOUSE MAY SIT

TILL MIDSUMMER

Members Are Beginning of Getting Away for Several Weeks

Ottawa, May 31.—Today saw members beginning to despair of getting away from Ottawa before July. Prorogation was predicted for mid later than June 8, but hope has been abandoned on that score since learning that the bank act will not reach the Senate from special committee before the week of June 4.

There are 168 sections and each one capable of lengthy discussion. The Progressive filibuster, seeking to delay the passing of the revision of the bank act, is thought by many to be inspired with the idea of keeping the Ontario Liberal and Conservative members of parliament cornered until the provincial elections are over.

Only one of numerous special committees which have been sitting for almost three months have submitted findings de parliament so far. If action is to be taken on reports of committees, the date of prorogation may shift to midsummer.

GADSBY NEWS

Mr. G. Cavanagh, from Vancouver, has been looking up his property in this district, making his headquarters in Gadsby. Mr. Cavanagh was overseas during the War, having served in the Forestry Battalion. He is owner of the farm lately rented and worked by A. Grant, who is now located in Saskatchewan. Cap. Everitt has arranged to cancel-before the plane-S.W. 6-30-16.

We have two very estimable ladies in our community who are presently on the sick list and we trust both may soon be restored to health again. Mrs. Carl Bitchner has been very ill with Flu and developed pneumonia to boot. She suffered great pain for some days but latest reports are that she is somewhat easier. Mrs. H. A. Everitt had been feeling unwell for some time and last week took a trip to Stettler to visit Mrs. E. Smith. At her suggestion she saw Dr. Fowler who she diagnosed it as inflammation of the bladder and ordered her to stay in bed for a week or so. Mrs. Everitt is now located at Mrs. Smith's and may remain there the rest of this week and in view of the reported visit soon of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor of Portsmith, Minnesota, parents of Mrs. Everitt, this illness comes most inopportune but we trust may not be of long duration.

The mass meeting mentioned at the hotel U.F.A. meeting was the Pool, which has become such a popular "gathering" place. A call is held on the 8th of July on the wall known grounds on the old Coop farm. If Mr. of town. Keep the date in view and hall out for full details of the attraction to be. Let us meet south's picnic.

Ray [illegible] spent a few days last week in Edmonton, on his return trip to Innisfail, and in the pourings generally, looking for grass and pestilent he voter for Bunny Alberta at the next [illegible]. We have long held that opinion, but Alberta had become considerably behind and we were a little out of patience with her. All is now for better and [illegible].

Bill McTavish is [illegible] rented at Natural Historic. He had a [illegible] of a very successful season, as also an Satur ist a the local lumber yard. Were you one of the minority?, says?

We regret to hear of the trouble Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cavanagh are having with their little son, who has been quite a while in Rimes Hospital with an bone trouble. He has now been taken to Calgary and operated on there, having some small growth or bone removed. The doctors think he will now make a quick recovery. We sincerely hope so. We sincerely know so, as well as for that of his [illegible] parents.

Next Sunday, June 17th, is U.F.A. Sunday and the Gadsby Local have asked Mr. Steele to conduct an open [illegible] in the evening.

Mr. Cavanagh, from Vancouver, has been looking up his property in this district, making his headquarters in Gadsby. Mr. Cavanagh was overseas during the War, having served in the Forestry Battalion. He is owner of the farm lately rented and worked by A. Grant, who is now located in Saskatchewan. Cap. Everitt has arranged to cancel-before the plane-S.W. 6-30-16.

We have two very estimable ladies in our community who are presently on the sick list and we trust both may soon be restored to health again. Mrs. Carl Bitchner has been very ill with Flu and developed pneumonia to boot. She suffered great pain for some days but latest reports are that she is somewhat easier. Mrs. H. A. Everitt had been feeling unwell for some time and last week took a trip to Stettler to visit Mrs. E. Smith. At her suggestion she saw Dr. Fowler who she diagnosed it as inflammation of the bladder and ordered her to stay in bed for a week or so. Mrs. Everitt is now located at Mrs. Smith's and may remain there the rest of this week and in view of the reported visit soon of Mr. and Mrs. Taylor of Portsmith, Minnesota, parents of Mrs. Everitt, this illness comes most inopportune but we trust may not be of long duration.

The mass meeting mentioned at the hotel U.F.A. meeting was the Pool, which has become such a popular "gathering" place. A call is held on the 8th of July on the well known grounds on the old Coop farm. If Mr. of town. Keep the date in view and hall out for full details of the attraction to be. Let us meet south's picnic.

Ray [illegible] spent a few days last week in Edmonton, on his return trip to Innisfail, and in the pourings generally, looking for grass and pestilent he voter for Bunny Alberta at the next [illegible]. We have long held that opinion, but Alberta had become considerably behind and we were a little out of patience with her. All is now for better and [illegible].

Bill McTavish is [illegible] rented at Natural Historic. He had a [illegible] of a very successful season, as also an Satur ist a the local lumber yard. Were you one of the minority?, says?

We regret to hear of the trouble Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Cavanagh are having with their little son, who has been quite a while in Rimes Hospital with an bone trouble. He has now been taken to Calgary and operated on there, having some small growth or bone removed. The doctors think he will now make a quick recovery. We sincerely hope so. We sincerely know so, as well as for that of his [illegible] parents.

Next Sunday, June 17th, is U.F.A. Sunday and the Gadsby Local have asked Mr. Steele to conduct an open [illegible] in the evening.

Consent Former to Hang for Murder, Judge Says, Is Sentenced

Thomas the Governor-General commutes his sentence, Tom Coylin, a farmer, of Consent, will go to [illegible] for the rest of his life. Justice John Reedshaw, who was also a witness in the Consent case, to-day was tried before Mr. Justice Simmons and found guilty, and an appeal to the appellate court has been dismissed.

Coylin shot Reedshaw last winter, during the shot through the window. After a long chase he was captured by Inspector Fisher, of the A.P.P., on the boundary, where he was singing to a friend.

The evidence in the case was all most entirely circumstantial, no one having seen the murder committed, but the prisoner was seen riding in the direction of the murder scene, shortly before the murder, and it was proved there was hard feeling between the two men.

Third Semi-Monthly Crop Report

(Issued by Dept. of Agriculture, Edmonton, Alberta.)

Generally speaking, the crop situation in Alberta at present writing is encouraging. Rain in any zone since 1915. Practically without exception, all districts received rain during the falls within the past two weeks, and there has been a generous amount of moisture over the entire Province. Precipitation has ranged from one and a half to two inches in the Peace River district, and from a half to one inch in the southern districts, and has a very healthy appearance.

The heavy rains commenced in the town two and three weeks ago, first in the south-western district, and later in other sections of the province. Districts which a week ago had not been participated in the general precipitation, are now receiving good rains, and the grain growing vigorously.

As a direct result of the encouraging rains, larger areas have been sown to grain, and the acreage of crop in the province will now exceed that of last year by approximately ten per cent.

Summerfallowing is now in progress, although the area will not be increased by contract with brisen and will not exceed normal.

At dawn one of the members came upon her, seated asleep in a pasture. She had crawled through a barb-wire fence, sacrificing part of her clothing in the attempt, and these bits of cloth gave the clue to her whereabouts.

At her mother combed leaves, cobwebs and bits of twigs from the baby's hair, she asked her about her experiences. Her chief worry seemed to be the loss of a tiny purse with her name embroidered on it. Finally seeing a black bear, and pleased that some one missed her, and her arms and legs badly scratched through the barbed-wire fence, and had bathed a bush, they could not find her.

Gambling at Monte Carlo

Gambling receipts at the resort at Monte Carlo during the last season were 60,000,176 francs (approximately $4,200,000 at the present exchange rate). Profit for the season was 18,238,000 francs (about $1,280,000). The receipts were four million francs more than last year. The reason for high stakes is decreasing interest in the game, since millionaires of the "after-war boom" are

Forest Fires Mean Exodus Fur, Game, Birds and Moisture

The following is an Extract from an Article by Gene Stratton-Porter in McCall's Magazine for April, 1923

I have lived to see the sportsman's prime out-door Furniture made from walnut, ash, cherry, and bird's-eye maple. When writing this article, I rested of a thick walnut tree just sold on Indiana, Illinois and Ohio auction floors, four three-and dollars' worth of log, enough to make a bedroom suite, and the trunk were sold and proved to be so thinly hardened as was hoped, it would yield the value of considerable figures or less a tree.

Who can estimate the appalling waste in the burning of those beautiful commercial log heaps. I used to marvel at the prodigious waste surrounding it in mantle and burners of lavender, pink, blue, red, gray from those green logs.

I have not been accustomed to conserving myself over the oldest inhabitants, a fair degree of evidence that had reached Indiana when I was born, yet, in my childhood I was far redressed to Indiana at the door to wild turkey, wild cats and bear and deer in the woods and further than Michigan from my home. He was not a hunter, but enough to such one here as to break down the boundaries of the woods, caught the deer's antlers from whom they perished at night.

I was born in a period when, if need daily, huge wagons loaded down our road, empty of them. Every one was shedding a few ashes each and nothing was wasted. The ashes were used in soft soap. We used lye leaches for cough tonics and time and from lye to thirty-seven gallons of ashes to the new and considered. There was an abundance of game, a great deal of fish, and a wealth of wild flowers.

One of the contingent sights of my childhood was the unfolding stories in the spring. The annual ingress of unmolested up hours was the echo of it. Those up hours possessed of no home hunger for the moon when they stood and from them out of the way. Just every branch, and, every hollow tree the old was shorn, hole hung many of them for the use of future generations.

I have lived to see timber be-coming so scarce that it seems as if U. S. and cabinet are resorted to such methods necessarily to the cutting in many instances I have lived to see a greater part of our springs dried up, the little streams drained from the face of the earth, and many of the larger streams very low in summer, even, the lake levels lowered, the fish, game and fur-bearing animals practically exterminated.

The deer are fast leaving Missouri are practically gone from the state but I know of one county where they have a good number—Mary's. The Indians are nearly leaving through the scarcity of fish and game. The herds have been depleted in numbers until it is quite impossible to raise fruit of any kind without a continuous fight against slug and aphis, a war which the most sufficient numbers would cease for us.

With the cutting of our timber became a change in our climate, weather of drought in summer and destructive cyclone whirlwind a entire alternate one from a condition so open to Fresno prematurely lowed frost and spring, and winters so distinguishly cold that the fruit trees are killed and right.

The even temperature and the rain every three or four days which we knew as a characteristic change of the past Summer in the early months to several for years, at a recent visit was in-stated that and in the dam state in such I was born it has be-come necessary to the use of the east who water the wood and the [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] vegetables and [illegible] not an improvement.

A NEW PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY

The Independents gain in control with the opening of a new provincial highway from Edmonton to Calgary passing the government railway on account in the Canmore Canadian Northern.

The fact is that not much work would be required to make this road the equal of the old Calgary and Edmonton road along the C and E line. The section from Pincher Creek to Calgary was in better shape last year than the portion of the older road from Red Deer to Calgary, and stretches from Stettler south to Brandrether road.

What is required is a well marked highway from Edmonton, through Canmore, Stettler, and Drumheller connecting with the main international traffic at one point southward, which highway will be kept up by the provincial government to the same extent as the older highway along the Canadian Pacific railway.

The value of this new highway would not be confined to local travel, and to the Canmore miners and others it would be a convenience for week end and at the outlet points of Alberta, passing as it would through the lake country to the north and the Red Deer River country to the south.

The proposed highway itself runs through a country of thrifty farmers and villages and would also form a loop with the old road by going south through Canmore to Calgary and back to Edmonton from either place by good provincial highways. It would be able to tap the whole settled part of Central Alberta and pass by this route a most comprehensive view of what into the agriculturist and industrial possibilities of our favored province.

SECRETARY BEST ADMINISTERED IN HIST

The Governor of the state of New Jersey, Hon. George Silzer, was invited to address the State Federation of Women's Clubs at Lincoln City recently, the day after the ladies had passed a strong resolution which called a drastic enforcement of the Volstead Act. Towards the close of the address someone asked him what he had to speak on prohibition.

"It may be interesting," said the Governor, "to ask a question regarding prohibition, and that is why the Volstead laws are not obeyed as well as the Constitution, Bible and Golden Rule. Why is it that the people who are the most for or against prohibition are those who have had the least experience with it?

"For a generation, in the interest of the prohibitionists, one could have heard of the conditions in the state of Maine, among the audiences of 200, women began to rise until 60% were on their feet. Then the question was put to them as to their needs.

The position that the ladies of the State Federation of Women's Clubs found themselves in is not remarkable. Our world is to be confined to one section of the United States. Nor should the war be confined to the province of Alberta.

There is no opposition in Alberta which on the average could produce more than 60% of its membership able to answer a call for assistance in regard to the Alberta Lager Act in the affirmative. Even some of our most prominent prohibition lecturers could not answer the question satisfactorily in regard to their own households. Forty per cent of the men of the province is a conservative estimate of the number who have not violated some clause in the Lager Act since 1915 when it was placed on the statute books.

A correspondent in the Independent last week stated that "anyone, no matter what his high or low social rank, who calls himself or herself a citizen of the city and country and who openly or secretly violates the prohibition law or any other law, is a criminal, a menace to society of treason and will find his or her name as a creature of the underworld."

Although we consider the language rather strong, perhaps yet it must be admitted that anyone who violates the Alberta Lager Act is a law breaker. But, however undesirable he or she may be in other respects, we do not think that we ought for us to repeat the question we asked two years ago, "Is it not time that the Government of Alberta, in the interests of the common people of the province, should take steps to have the Lager Act repealed?"

It is difficult for us to understand the attitude of the leaders of the Methodist church with the exodus that they have had from their pews, that they can not see that the people of the rural districts ought to have the right to make their own decisions, and one representative of a church which has split on the question of temperance should not be taken seriously and especially so all the more when it is known that the same church has split on the question of war.

It is difficult for us to understand how the people of the rural districts can be restrained from the privilege of voting on the question that they are the most interested in, and that is the people of the rural districts. Why should the people of the cities and towns have the right to vote on the question of whether the people of the rural districts should have the right to vote on the question of whether the people of the rural districts should have the right to vote on the question of whether the people of the rural districts should

Western Swindlers Are Usually Bouncy

In the past few days two men in Medicine Hat have been indicted for fraud, both are salesmen, and both of points for substitution. Yet they showed unusual ability in framing upon hard-headed business men. The first caused a writer in the New York Times to point out that the exact period of human credulity have not varied in the many years. He might have remarked, then, that the period is probably the hardest hanking. All these swindlers were well dressed, pleasant persons, and it may be that the very absence of good looks had a favorable psychological effect upon their elderly and middle-aged victims, who especially would have been upon their guard against a smooth and oily type. Hans' Hambert was probably the victim of Shannon which she had advertised in Edmonton. He called on the criminal, but it seems that after a few years of nothing but country air, he will believe it was getting the self-same brand which enabled her to get her part perfectly in the critical day.

How Robert's father had failed for years—and how Sunoco made him probably to suppress the neighbors, but it was known that Robert's father became a chief early the wife wrote to a dye-works to get a train-and paying for it, though no husband was in sight. Later she had the dyeing to be sent across the title of the son of a former Member of Parliament, a person of little importance. Establishing themselves as Paris Mme Bunnelet let it be known that her husband's name was to be named Crawford in America, who had married into pure, but had forbidden her to open the correspondence of her dead daughter's husband, she displayed a note bearing such, omitted and promising all necessary attention and maintaining something of that nature. She brought in the papers for permission to open the box at once and secure the millions. She

"Any great like to buy a bottle of fine ice-cold tea?"

He sold every bottle, but concluded each sale with, "Better wait till the tea has had time to steep—then take a drink, you know, for I don't want any trouble."

The train pulled out, and the man was making off when an observant bystander asked him why he had requested the purchasers to wait until the train had started before taking a drink.

"Because," he said, with a sly wink, "then bottles all contained ice-cold tea."—Tit-Bits.

HAVE YOU CALCULATED POWER OF YOUR JAW?

Do you know the power of your jaw? The next time you sit down to a meal, the thought will either make your jaw ache with weariness or you will be absorbed in mathematical calculations of the power developed by the muscles of your jaws.

The president of the Chicago Dental University, Dr C. E. Black, has performed an interesting experiment, but with a sense that is somewhat appalling. He has developed a jaw—namely, the gnathodynamometer.

The jaws are built on the principle of a pair of tongs, and this instrument is placed between their strong points.

Dr. Black has performed gnathodynamometric tests on the jaws of a thousand people. The average power developed by the strongest every individual, but much less for the blowpipe and mouthpiece.

In addition to the gnathodynamometer, he has devised another instrument, the pleuydynamometer, with which he tests the resistance of various breathing.

Tongue is found to be the toughest of foods; the external pull offers only resistance varying from three to four pounds. Mutton chop requires twice that pull, and a tough beefsteak or beef from forty to fifty. Beef-steaks that are not tender and somewhat tough require a pressure of from sixty to eighty pounds. Meat that has been made tender by cooking reduces the-se figures by about one-third.

A butcher chop requires very much more from the neck of an ancient animal, and the amount of power required before the meat was crushed sometimes between seventy and 90 pounds.

CERTAINLY SO WONDER HE DIDN'T LINGER

When the train ran into the station at Bonnyville, Alta., a man got off the window, open to catch a breath of fresh air, an unusual thing for any person around the corner of the station, carrying a basket on his arm. Hurrying to the baggage, with a moving compartment, he exhibited a black pant knits which he had taken from

WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?

COCK FIGHTING was born in Asia Minor, and was introduced into Greece by the Persians, who brought it from Media, whence it was introduced into Rome. Both as a sport and a religious ceremony it was extensively practised in Britain, and was not finally suppressed until 1849.

But it is only 25 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock."

It was he who, after a long day's work, would feel unusually full of energy, and would exclaim "I feel like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way: A person half sick with bad stomach, feels tired, lacks energy, headaches, takes Beecham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the pills begin to harmonize the digestive and assimilative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and rises in the morning with clear brain, bright eyes, keen appetite, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 25 years since Beecham's Pills first began exercising disordered stomachs and starting sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity — and being "like a fighting cock" is associated with Beecham's Pills, as the pills are such good friends.

One Shortage Licence Suffered

According to a letter sent to Fred Williamson, issuer of marriage licenses at the City Hall, Toronto, by F. H. Johns of the Provincial Secretary's Department, the writer of the letter is of the opinion that two marriages licenses should not be issued to the wedding of one couple in different churches. The question is said to have arisen where a man and woman of different religious faiths were to be married and two ceremonies were required. Mr. Johns was asked if a second marriage license should be issued. He replied that, in his view, the one existing application, such is not permissible, and added "There is no provision in the Marriage Act specifically authorizing the issuance of more than one license for a marriage, and the phraseology of the entire act contemplates the issuance of but one license, the solemnization of but one marriage ceremony, and but one registration thereof in the Registrar-General's branch of the department."

Pursuing the Elan in New York

The Ku Klux Klan in New York State has defied the law requiring secret societies that are "unincorporated, with head or home office outside city exercising 50, to file their roster with the Secretary of State. Patrick H. O'Donnell, leader of the Invisible Empire, head of the American Unity League, charges it is really a bolster to Governor Smith at Albany. If Mr O'Donnell offered proof that the Governor was a member of the league, which was formed to oppose the Klan, obtain the New York Charter, September 13, 1927, and has provided the State would hear the expose.

Sheriff Sings, of Suffolk County, declared that he would enforce the law now requiring the Ku Klux Klan to file membership lists with the State to reveal their members' names, so strictly as the laws banning an member or prohibition.

GADSBY NEWS

At the meeting of Dublin Municipal Council last Monday a communication was read from the Cemetery Improvement Association asking for a donation towards the fund for work on the cemetery. The members were in unanimous in approving of the objects of the Association and agreed to donate $50. There are many residents, also ex-residents, of the district who would wish to have a share in this good work, and Mrs. H. Gandolfo will be glad to receive, and acknowledge, all donations.

Mr. R. A. Everitt was sufficiently recovered from her illness last Thursday to journey from Stettler with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Fairmont, Minnesota, who passed through that day en route for Gassby. We realize Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, who are old south regular visitors there on account of their son-in-law, will appreciate the welcome they will be as pleased to see them, and that they will be no less happy to depart.

Mr. H. A. Purdue, our station agent, has gone on an extended vacation and will be gone for six or eight weeks. Thos.—I mention Mr. P. and family—will visit relatives in Ontario, and no doubt make a trip through the old country. We wish them a pleasant trip and return to find they have had good time anticipated. Meantime, in his duties we will be served by our old friend "Bill" Tidy, who needs no introduction to the people in this district, and will be on the job till friend Purdue returns.

Fred Tarleton had a great wash in a slippery at the Community Convention and Rally. It was a great gathering of the leading lights in the district and an enthusiast like Fred it was a great treat. He will give his report and impressions at the first meeting of the local league, and we can state it will be most humorous.

Gadsby took a vacationist jaunt to Castor last Tuesday night and papered a 6-footer game which resulted in a 7 shut-out for our boys—the score being 6-0. The fielders had an off-night and it was in this department of the game that Gadsby fell down badly. The ball team journeyed south on Friday night to play Medd S.D. team and I arrived there about—hanged—at almost said, a.m. It took an if one boy were pass themselves, and it hardly fair to treat—and treat we did—full strength—and needless to say we had to play the game. We were not at our best—not the Medd team's fault—and were defeated 7-3 in a game with his pride on Saturday. I, at least, was not disappointed in the ball bunch, who have a Medd aggregation of ball players to be proud of. Their combination play is a treat—which reminds me that I have not seen a baseball game since I was—when Gadsby began in that strenuous game—some 20 years ago. Gadsby has a ball team that is a credit to the town, and I hope they will be given the support they deserve. A proper support will be given in person to present its various games, and the ball team will be given the support of all citizens—not a few—in the form of financial support. Let's all get behind the ball and when the ball team comes to town—as it will do two or three times a month—let's all turn out and make them feel welcome. Let's be happy—not long life and much prosperity to Gadsby.

We trust every family in the district was represented at the U.F.A. Picnic on the Court House Square, Edmonton, and if not, they missed a treat on the 4th of July. A big programme, numbering four evening performances, was given during the day by the young folks—the Ed. and took out for bella.

Rev. C. A. Steele conducted special U.F.A. service on Sunday night, by request. While there was a very fair congregation present, we expected there to be more farmers present. The address was good and appropriate, and the hymns well chosen. A

THE SPEAK-UPS

Have we enrolled ourselves in this world-wound organization in our community? Have we done our part and thrust Prudence to the front?

When so many glib statements, religious prohibitions, are uttered by the unthinking, are we a W.C.T.U. member ready and willing to do our share in corrective and speak up in defense of our cause?

Are we a member?

The Mothers' Congress and Parent Teacher Association in the United States has sponsored a real moonshine campaign. Why have they not been practically supported by the press? Prudishness and Intemperance, I mean, I admit could find utterance in their convictions. Prudishness and Intemperance have a great stand-by—they have to be handled differently. But if they are handled properly alibis at least can be made into the very finest quality of gin and sweet cheer into what at least reasonably edible and palatable.

The Mothers' Congress stand is the prevention of the vapor drying of the grapes. The moonshine that does the polled before the green fodder begins to ripen is by much to the good. Anyone see the menace of pumping this out of the stem. So long as the leaves are green they are evaporating moisture, but when they dry up they are a menace to the moonshiner because of the juice in the stems remains.

Now these are the most valuable part of those plants for that purpose. They are richer in fuel elements and more available than the wood. Also they become so brittle as to break off, which they usually do, the loss of fuel value is serious.

The way, therefore, to handle those crops is to let them go ripe, and not spread out. They should be raked up and carried before the dew falls and brought hot weather they should be put through and roiled the same day as cut. In cloudy weather the heat can be applied right. Hand-made coils are, of course, best, but machine-made coils under conditions hardly practicable if any considerable area is grown. Machine made by the horse rake are not as good as hand made, but are much better than nothing at all. Small coils are best where one has only a few acres to handle, but where one has a large area instead of carrying the hay into pole-stacks it should be left in the coil for several days depending on the weather, and then put into stacks. Alfalfa hay for storage the moisture in the stems should be judged rather than that of the leaf. It should not be possible to twist juice out of the stems when they are dry enough to stack, the coils should be spent and the stacks opened after a few hours to allow heating so that the moisture may be dried out of the lower layers. In order to make the hay as it will exert closer for hay, it may be grown in swaths. Grown in swaths the moisture is much easier to make into hay than when it is cut broadcast. But it is necessary to cut alfalfa with a mower to make the finest kind of hay. If it is cut with a binder the leaves are apt to be lost to rob with it.

THE NEED FOR GREEN FEED

(Experimental Farms Note)

Green feed in some form constitutes a necessary part of the ration of poultry at all seasons of the year. Whether for young chicks or for laying hens, the succulent nature of green feed for growing stock, the value of the protein contained in sprouted grain or mangels, and the necessity for keeping the digestive organs in a healthy condition, all combine to make green feed indispensable, and especially the Mammoth Long Red or Giant Prize varieties are preferable. The latter contain a higher percentage of dry matter. Mangels should not be fed immediately after being harvested, as when frosted they might cause bowel troubles.

The Jerusalem Artichoke, and especially the Mammoth French Yellow, deserves more attention from poultry-men. Extremely hardy and prolific, it can be grown almost anywhere and will yield enormous crops. The tubers form abundant shade and succulent feed for growing stock, the tops cut sounds, while the tubers keep well, and generally crop well. The Mammoth Long Red or Giant Prize varieties are preferable. The latter contain a higher percentage of dry matter. Mangels should not be fed immediately after being harvested, as when frosted they might cause bowel troubles.

FENN NEWS

Quite a number of Big Valley folk were out to Penn on Sunday visiting the plants of our obstetric enthusiasts, Messrs. Stevens, Oliver, Hall, and Mrs. Vogel and Doctor Smythe and his family were all interested visitors at the farms of Mr. Strange and Mr. Lee Long.

Mr. R. W. Shaw, Dominion Record of Performance Poultry Inspector, was in the district last week and visited the farms of Mr. Lapp and Mr. Strange. Some of our fanciers have been successful in having their record the 100 mark and we can expect quite a few to carry off certificates this year.

The U.F.W.A. meeting, which was held at Mrs. Charlie Hamm's, was well attended, despite the unsuitable weather. Prayer were read by Mrs. Ben Walters and Mrs. Harry Strange on the subject of Birth Control. Discussion followed on the reading of the papers occupied the entire afternoon. After disposing of some necessary business a delicious lunch was served by Mrs. Hamm. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lapp on Wednesday, July 11th.

The Lakeview Church is holding a Basket Social Picnic on Friday, the 22nd, which will probably be taking place by the time these lines are in print. Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Edwards are taking charge of the refreshment booth and a good supper will be served at about 6 o'clock for the crowd. The afternoon will be mainly devoted to the children—sports and games being the order of the day. We hope that this year the weather will be more favorable than in previous years and that we shall see a good gathering in order that the children may have a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lapp left on Monday for Saskatoon to attend the Grand Grand Lodge of Alberta.

Crops are looking splendid in this district. Grain is coming on evenly and much whiskey as they care to have. They and their friends can take it out, a quart at a time, hand it into cabin, until the cars are full. It is just like a bucket brigade."

MAKING HAY OF CHEESE CLOTH IN ALFALFA

(Experimental Farms Note)

One of the difficulties in the way of the adoption of cover shower and silage is that in a more general way throughout the West is the fact that they are difficult to handle in curing for hay than the grasses. They are much harder to dry out and more subject to damage. While it is hardly necessary to entertain the two crops in the same way, there is no strength in the argument that the same treatment may be given for both. The difference is one of degree rather than kind. Sweet clover presents the same kind of difficulties as alfalfa but to a much greater degree.

These difficulties are due to a very heavy juicy stem which is slow to dry out and to the weeds which dry very quickly and when dry become brittle. The weeds break off—the stems of the sweet clover being much larger and juicier than those of the alfalfa and the leaves have the difficulty is greatly increased with that crop.

New these difficulties are by no means insurmountable They have been prevented mainly on that new growers do not realize that they have to be handled differently. But if they are handled properly alfalfa at least can be made into the very finest quality of hay and sweet clover into what at least reasonably edible and palatable.

The principle involved in curing is the prevention of too rapid drying of the leaves. The moisture that must be pulled before the green fodder begins to ripen is by much to the good. So long as the leaves are the means of pumping this out of the stem. So long as the leaves are green they are evaporating moisture, but when they dry up they are a menace to the moonshiner because of the juice in the stems remains.

Now these are the most valuable part of those plants for that purpose. They are richer in fuel elements and more available than the wood. Also they become so brittle as to break off, which they usually do, the loss of fuel value is serious.

Whether for young chicks or for laying hens, the succulent nature of green feed for growing stock, the value of the protein contained in sprouted grain or mangels, and the necessity for keeping the digestive organs in a healthy condition, all combine to make green feed indispensable, and especially during the winter months when the hens are confined in comparatively small quarters.

Green feed is valuable, not only for its succulence, which makes it palatable, but also for its nutritive properties. Grain is rich in protein, but only when sprouted does it contain the vitamines or growth promoting elements, which are necessary for the production of eggs. Sprouted grain contains also mineral matter, including sulphur, which is necessary for the production of feathers

YOU are the judge and the jury. Your verdict is final. There can be no appeal—for this is the High Court of Public Opinion.

The wares of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

The merchant who advertises deliberately places his merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparison. He directs your attention to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

If he were not sure of his wares he would not dare to advertise. For advertising would put him to a test he could not meet, and thus hasten the end of his business career. It would be business suicide.

You can depend on the man who advertises. He knows his product is good.

That's one reason why it pays to read the advertisements you find in this paper. It is through advertising that you are able to keep in touch with the good things that progressive business men are spending their money to introduce and to keep before you.

PROTECTION OF HOME FOLIAGE FROM INSECTS AND DISEASE

(Experimental Farms Note)

Many persons do not grow more because they think more are difficult than they really are. Also, while these persons realize more care than others, of the necessary work to ensure success is done at the proper time the latter is fairly light. One of the greatest factors in ensuring the all-important care of the trees is found in the fact that the majority of French Canadian homes are situated in districts of all segregated vice districts and leather there are no homes for street cleaning. The society will soon send a committee to the United States to study the work of police-women, with the view of applying similar methods in Paris, the present so-called "Police des Moeurs," which is supposed to keep an eye on the dance halls and Paris society, being considered too feminine to be efficient.

FARM NEWS

BIG PASTURE

(Experimental Farms Note)

Hog pasture are valuable in pasturing, both for the young, growing pig, and for the brood sow and her litter.

Sows that have the run of a good pasture, particularly if the ground has been kept free from vermin, are less likely to cause digestive troubles in the young pigs, through the milk than are those confined in pens or closely followed the run of a dry lot. The small pigs have a chance to exercise themselves and develop a good appetite, and this in return to cause normal bones, so that young pigs, while growing fast in meat, are possessed of strength to carry this meat on sound, well-shaped frames.

It is particularly important to have this fresh, lush pasture available as early as possible in the spring, so that the sows and their litters may be turned out for exercise and feed as soon as the young pigs are old enough. Fall rye is the first pasture available, and has a distinct advantage for early spring use over all other pastures on this account.

Alfalfa provides the most desirable permanent pasture, and also produces good succulent growth for a longer time than perhaps any other crop. In the annual pastures there is much feed to be had from, but none of them have the lasting qualities of alfalfa, and have to be resown frequently. Rape is also a fine pasture, having the habit of standing up well after it has been pastured for a time, but it is not as desirable as alfalfa. Rape is also liable to become tainted with urine and thus to produce a bad flavor in the meat. Rape is also a splendid pasture for sheep, and is particularly valuable for fattening purposes.

Rape is ready for pasturing in about six weeks from the time it is sown, and will produce a large amount of feed per acre. It is a good plan to sow a few acres every two weeks during the season, so that a succession of pasture may be had. Rape should be sown in rows about 24 inches apart, and cultivated during the season. Sowing at the rate of 5 pounds per acre is about right.

Rape is also a splendid crop to precede fall wheat, as it puts the land in fine condition for the wheat. Rape should be sown in July, so that it will be ready to plow under in September or October. Rape is a gross feeder, and the soil should be well supplied with manure and fertilizer. Rape is also a splendid crop to precede fall wheat, as it puts the land in fine condition for the wheat. Home Again—After being the people of the Standard of Canada, Limited, for forty years, W. Gordon Mackay, the company's engineer, of the city, returned to Regina on June 1st. Mr. Mackay joined the Home Bank of Canada in 1882 and was with that institution for 18 years, when he became Assistant Manager of the Bank of Montreal, and thereby hangs a tale. In the year 1904 the Canadian Pacific Railway decided to build a line from Regina to Prince Albert, and the Bank of Montreal decided to open a branch at Duck Lake, the first station on the new line. Mr. Mackay was placed on the "hop-head" train and was the first passenger to arrive at Duck Lake. Fortunately this landed a passenger train from Regina to North Portal.

Mr. Pearce was one of the first to be interested in the Manor Jew discovery, and after leaving his home in North Dorchester, Ont., he returned to the end of the year, then at Winnipeg, and considered it wise to be the district by means of an exact. The Manor Jew discovery was made in the fall of 1921, and a syndicate was immediately formed to take advantage of the discovery. Mr. Pearce was appointed manager and has charge of the operations.

Big Bill was said to have been the finest specimen of buffalo in all the Government Zoos of North and Western Saskatchewan.

THIS year the citizens of Victoria B. . . . . celebrated the eighteenth birthday of their garden city and for three days beginning with the twenty-fourth of May the people of Victoria and province were joyful. TOO MUCH JAZZ

The Commercial-Prohibitionists have had a hard week on the return from Montreal. Every time we turn in the storage and the returns from Ontario put them up to the heights that the changes of the Canadian Indian by August and our votes are not good for the opinion.

SELF DETERMINATION

Rev. Ernest Thomas, of Toronto is the latest travelling reformer to tell us what a bad interview Britain is in. Apparently the only people who are satisfied with British methods are the B.C. politicians themselves.

MINUTE MISTAKE

Premier Bracy went down to Montreal on Monday morning through the clouds with 117 copies and one of a former group of 60. The delegate was not to be seen at his own election.

Mr. Bracy is an honest man, trying in free up to his principles as he sees them and it is regrettable that he turned back on the "broadening of the party's range of works before the election. The change might not have made any difference at the result but further for him to go down to defeat for a principle he believed in than to quit on a group policy which he believed wrong.

Democracy in the long run takes on the complexion of those, and only those, party based on sheer support in the opinions of things he personnel. Mr. Bracy's mistake was to allow himself to be pushed into the 25 line.

AND SO THEY PASS ON

And, sometime these few in the Province who can still get serving of the possible 70 or 80 who signed up 12 or 13 years ago in the present group, will be a little astonished to find that there was to be had out of the public till.

BUYING SHALE BEFORE OIL

Several British visitors to Calgary and New York heather the week with the usual supply of humor as ship's money, but the best was the banker who said that he would not trust the high school education. Later in the week the governor-general made were set off the storm by Premier Bracy against the public's common sense, efficiency, and friendly British ships were treating us in the best possible way as an enemy ship is dealt with in war time.

In regard to the matter, the Saturday Sun, one of the high class American dailies has the following to say:—"Buy Canadian securities; ought to know that American's money is the only source of supply in sight. The safer regulations are much like the extensive ones which have been in force regarding the sale of Mexican bonds in this country. They keep you dry only in theory. By the time investors are well on their way they have already got wet. The effect of the present is either to prevent investment or to get rid of regulations which, in the long run, will work to the boy or girl. He wants the money and he will get it."

Meanwhile American government shares are ploughing the high seas carrying the usual supply of liquor.

AARON SAPIRO ON CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

One of the most moving stories ever told in real fact is being now the speech of Aaron Sapiro before the Board of Trade recently re published by the U.F.A. magazine last week. No one who has the interests of the rural part of the country at heart can read this plain recital of the growth of co-operative marketing in the Western States without being greatly moved. We consider that it is the most important speech since it was delivered in Canada. What we have ever seen in print. We don't see how anybody who has any interest in agriculture can read it without getting up and doing something. We have not the slightest objection to anyone opposing the principle of co-operative marketing, but we do object to anyone who is not familiar with the facts and the principles involved to express an opinion on the matter.

The often the parent is either indifferent or wants to get rid of responsibility as to how a boy or girl is to be trained, and the result is that the partially educated boy or girl is a menace to society and to himself.

Once in a long while a case comes before a court where a child is sent to Amish. This left most not will bear for behavior.

TO BETTER LAND DEBTORS

A Chicago judge gave four years to a man who had stolen a horse. Another judge gave a man who had stolen a horse a year. The first man was a farmer who had stolen a horse to get out of debt. The second man was a horse thief.

NOT A SIDE ISSUE

A Canadian Press despatch from Montreal says that the question of the tariff will not be a side issue in the coming election campaign. Apparently the only people who are satisfied with British methods are the B.C. politicians themselves.

How you can get the best oil

All motor oils look alike; but they're not. And poor oils cause most of your motor troubles. Poor oils don't lubricate as well; and usually cause hard carbon deposits.

SUNOCO

is pure pare lubricant. It contains no "cylinder stock." Because it's pure it reduces carbon troubles, and after hundreds of miles it retains its lubricating qualities. If you think test Sunoco! That's been used 800 miles, comparing it with ordinary oil used for the same distance, you'd see that difference. Many mechanics can feel the difference.

We made careful tests to find the best oil for your car—and other cars. We found it—Sunoco.

There are six types of Sunoco—all classified. One of them is best for your car. Ask any Sunoco dealer for a booklet, "What's Happening Inside Your Motor?" It will tell you a number of facts you ought to know.

WARNING FROM MANITOBA

The women of Manitoba will without doubt have some effect upon the referendum in Alberta, but it will mean no great stampede in favor of government control of liquor.

The people of Alberta are not the stampeding kind. They have counted their cost and will vote themselves "clear sighted" as what has happened in Manitoba.

The situation in Manitoba is an indication rather than a contributing factor. It will encourage the bootlegging associations and possibly increase the campaign fund. But it will serve also as a warning to prohibitionists that they must redouble their efforts if they are to hold the province for prohibition.

SMALL YOUNG LIFE OF CANADA BE UNDER DEAD HAND CONTROL

Dr. Thomas Lyon Gives Startling Figures Concerning Prohibition and Government Control

"The chief cause of the growing nervousness in whether the young life of Canada shall be dominated by the hand of a dead past and a diversified system of whether it shall be set free to work out its own true life. Shall young Canada stand with the United States in its efforts to rid the world of a curse and with old England be left to waste efforts to rid herself of the same all fatal domination."

So said Dr. Ernest Thomas of the Methodist Board of Evangelism and Social Service at Emmet Methodist Church, Calgary, recently when preaching on the Christian ideals for the approaching referendum.

Our present social condition is not inherited from the past, demanded by unrestricted liquor trade in liquor and commercialized drinking usages. Shall we hand this heritage to our children or is it time to work out their own problems of social construction?

Treasury Chinese Imprisoned

The speaker exhibited in vivid graphic form the facts for all Canada to see. Quoting from the Minister in command with forcing for obtaining liquor and his connection with every religious plant in the way. Canada imprisoned from 70 to 100 Chinese drunkenness out of every 1000 of population to 27 under our laws re-strictive of liquor traffic. Drunkenness in Canada has increased 400 per cent when Province were thrown into control. Crime has fallen in the world point in the last years. Alberta had fallen from 128 for 10,000 in 1914 to 18 in 1917. This was too equal to be permanent and vacation of Prohibition. Dr. Thomas showed how the first enforced the Act, then in 1919 and 1920 the Legislature never was license 32 State then it has fallen to 18 per 10,000 and has risen under the enforcement the vendors have found the trade fell off by 40 percent.

Even during this present year the Government has been on at every session. Bootlegging got their supplies under the Act. Vendors were and are the people. He grovelled and cheated then by their departure. That night, when more than a week ago, he left in the schooner's only small boat. The Chinese, after cooperation, was driven in here by hunger. The mystery of the seven morning was not fully explained. The Chinese spokesman, replying to questions, pointed over the sea. He wouldn't say if they jumped, fell, or were thrown.

CANNED FRUITS AND VEGETABLES ARE NOW STANDARDIZED

Housekeepers can preliminarily no risk of getting a poor quality of canned fruit or vegetables that will be marketed in order by quality grade All canned goods put up in the larger factories must conform to legal standards and these are determined by head of the can. The system of standardizing canned fruits and vegetables is explained in the May issue of Canada of the Agricultural Gazette by C. S. McCrimmon, Chief Canning Expert in charge of the Division of Horticulture at Ottawa.

The four legal standards of quality are "Fancy," "Choice," "Standard Quality," and "Second Quality."

In addition to several standards for vegetables, specific grades have been established for canned fruits. These are as follows: Size No. 1, Size No. 2, Size No. 2½, and Size No. 10. Size is determined by the canning in the number of cans that a case from your will pass.

Canned Fruits are graded for quality, the terms "Fancy Syrup," "Light Syrup," and "Without Sugar" are employed. If the packer so desires, he may substitute the words "Packed in Syrup" "Sugar," (stating the percentage of sugar in the syrup)

The terms "Fancy" and "Choice" as grade most appear upon the main portion of the label in plain type if it can not less than ⅛ of an inch in height. Thus, in the case of peas, the label must indicate the quality and size of the peas contained in the can, as "Fancy Quality—Size No. 2." In the case of fruit, it must indicate the quality of the fruits as well as the consistency of the syrup as far as same content is concerned. Thus—"Fancy Quality—Heavy Syrup."

The declaration of net weight on certain sizes of containers is required, so these sizes have been standardized. These sizes are known as Size 1's, 1½'s, 2's, 2½'s, 3's and 10's. The minimum net weight of both liquid and solid must be defined for each of these sizes. Sizes not mentioned may import down on the label the net weight and the drained weight.

The Ladies' Aid of what is practically our Union Church held a meeting last week to re-organize the Society, and plan a campaign for the coming fall and winter. The sheet we mean that the "Aid" have been hibernating for from 6—or they have been in action practically all the time. In 1921 they set about plans for an electric system and renovating the church building—they scheme as long for the completion of that! The ladies have applied themselves to pay $200 of that for first year, and $200 in the second. Last week the last instalment of $75 was paid on the total $200 they engaged themselves to raise—and with the time set They have also paid over $40 for other new—ary purposes during that period, and have already a small interest charge of $30 against them at the bank, which they hope to pay off with a Sale of Work and Ice Cream on Saturday, 14th of July. This is a splendid achievement, and we congratulate them very heartily on their untiring efforts to make the church comfortable and attractive. Bouquets as well as not. And now they have decided to have another go at the Manse—it still a mortgage indebtedness on the church of $600; and the Ladies' Aid are going to work to clean that up in the next 2 years, or sooner if possible. It would be a great thing to have the debt cleared off, it has been like a millstone round the necks of our people for many years, and if the cycle of boom years has passed, as we hope and believe they have, there is no doubt but that burden will be removed. While giving our Ladies' Aid all praise for their splendid work, we must not forget that much credit is due to the people of the community, and the district in general, who contributed their money during a time of great difficulty and stress. Mr. Darling, who spent a few days in Gadsby last week, is an old "towner" of Charles' and we think we did some reminiscing together over the old times. Mr. Darling pokes up a method of good humour, and he has also expert advice of his friend Charles, who is a master of the art.

By a busy time since the cropper boys landed a handful and whatever the past has been one may look to the future with every hope and confidence that prosperity is surely coming

The recent convention rains and the warm sun-shiny days have made everything leap in growth—especially quack, the beautiful green fields and fallows are showing their splendid and glory to everyone, and if there is a body who has an eye for good taste in green dresses is in opportunity to try to compare colors. Now the stark are doing fine in the pasture and grass everywhere. They do not have to pick a blade here and there as in Summers, but have plenty of food to go at to satisfy their ever-strong appetites and when filled they lay themselves down in the shade, contented and happy, to chew their cud. And this is not all—A steam shower is following up which will cause the hedges—which are also abundant—to feel a full fodder, or the whole flock will become discontented and unprofitable boarders.

The promises of the soils may be splendid—perfect by all appearances—of the rosets and next hence. The practice of running one's head against a stone wall in the hope of a gap is advisable, as many parasites will subsist on the succulent fruit and foliage.

Immediate extermination is vital, and steps should be taken at once to stir the hoeing of all material that will harbor and protect the pest. Fittings should be removed, dirt and rubbish burned out with a stiff broom, and the inside of the building and furniture should be painted with a good disinfectant mixed with a percentage of coal oil to a spray pump or brush.

Some of the real big pre-eminent weed as sprays vary in efficiency from week to week—sometimes—sometimes; but where the coles are present in small numbers the following preventatives may be applied with a brush in their full contaminating strength.

A fine or ten per cent solution of coal oil in water is recommended, but without danger as a spray. It can, however, be recommended if proper precautions are taken.

The most economical and effective preparation is one, five to ten per cent solution of coal oil and soap cake, which should be applied in two weeks at intervals of two or three days between applications.

MAKING THE MOST OF EXPIRE. MENTAL FARM BEEF

(Experimental Farms Note)

Many farmers this spring will have an opportunity of buying a number of calves from either the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, or from one of the Branch Farms or Agricultural Colleges throughout Canada. From the latter institutions calves are available for distribution to farmers who have applied for same. In the case of most of the other institutions mentioned, applications also were supplied. These samples if carefully handled, by sheep and lambs, may form the basis of a supply of superior seed for the following year's crop in each neighborhood. A word regarding the handling of the thoroughbred calves may not be out of place.

First of all the grower should aim to secure animals that are so far advanced therefrom the greatest quantity of high class seed for sale. Taking this consideration therefore should be the end and aim of the breeder. Secondly, the animal should be well developed and strong. While it is now too late to consider these matters this year, provision for them may be of value later.

The seed bed should be well prepared, deep and not in a high state of fertility to obtain maximum results. This is a good plan to regard the fumulation plot as a garden which usually receives a fair amount of manure. As to the method of seeding, it is found that by sowing the seed broadcast, more vigorous and healthy plants are obtained than by sowing in rows. Where the latter method is practised, a difference of from 1000 to 1500 pounds per acre in favor of broadcasting has been noted. It

SIXTY-SEVEN YEARS have passed since The Bank of Toronto opened for business on the 8th July, 1858. During this period the City of Toronto has grown from a population of 40,000 to nearly 600,000, and has become a city of great industries and fine homes.

The Bank of Toronto in its development has far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the scarling men of those earlier days who founded it. Like the great City whose name it bears, its growth, though not in any way spectacular, has been steady and substantial, and is to-day one of the recognized financial institutions in Canada.

As we pass another milestone in our history, we remember with appreciation the many favours we have received from the citizens of Toronto, the Province of Ontario, and all parts of Canada where we have been able to render service in the commercial development of our great country.

Aaron Sapiro on the Growth of Co-operative Marketing

Aaron Sapiro Describes the History and Achievements of a Pioneering Co-operative Which United the Hundreds of Living of Tobacco Growers in Four States—Extracts from Address Before the Chamber of Commerce of Minneapolis.

It is rather evident that all through the Meridian is a condition of unrest and co-operation among your farmers. They do not know what has been happening to them, and they cannot quite determine why they get what they think is a price for their products, and they have been in that state for quite a few years. The world movement in the United States, as far as farming problems is concerned is at present in my territory, not only the leader in the world in this line, but a desperation that has taken the form of attempting all kinds of (irrational) remedies for the troubles that confront your farmers.

Enlightenment from Business Leaders

Those men have awakened real leadership. They have suggested this and they have suggested that, but pretty nearly everything that has been suggested by them, as by those natural leaders, has been met with a real frost, if not worse, in your real estate. Your farmers in their territory have been blindly staggering around in try to understand their own situation, but the real problem of the farmer? The problem of individual production and the problem of individual production has been lost in a system of group finance and group production. The farmer can do it when he sells his own product, but when he gets to the point as to how he changes to the market, how he finances and communicates, take them to the first man who will buy them.

He is pushed by his debts, he is pushed by his production; he does not know how to calculate. He has his own ideas of what his cost is; he knows it is harvested once a year, he is on call all through the twelve months. He is under the highest pressure of all conditions on it and he blindly throws his product on the open door against the other man, and he breaks down the price by dumping. Dumping is the characteristic of individual selling by the farmer, and the individual farmer must destroy the power the farmer can ever solve the group problem of marketing.

Now, what have you done to try to bridge that over, to try to show the farmer the line of least difficulty to take his individual products and to translate them into a volume of commodity? Nay, you must have not even started that long way out. You have made it a perfectly easy thing for every speculative politician to go to the farmer and promise him anything. You have he had no analysis of his own situation on that he could tell the crop from the false. Why, if you had taken that trouble to explain to the farmer exactly what their problem was they would gradually have sought a solution without failing for such overzealous things as price stabilization and by now pretend parties and all kinds of government action. They would have found an economic problem, not an economics problem, just as the farmer has found them in California and other sections of the world where co-operative marketing has been tried and not found wanting.

If there is a way out for the farmer the way is not politics, and the way is not vociferous and the way is not molasses, and the way is not getting on your knees and asking for something. The way is not getting on your knees and asking for something. The way is not getting on your knees and asking for something. The

AIR-CYCLING CRAZE IN LONDON

London, June 25.—George Sorbie's command of the Highland Light Infantry has fired everyone's imagination and there is a fair prospect that "aerial motor-cycling" will be the craze of the summer. It is cheap. It is speedy. From 60 to 100 miles can be covered at the cost of 10 cents, the price of a gallon of petrol.

Pioneer machines are already being built to conform to the Air Ministry Switzerland's motor-glider competition in September. They will be tried in the air within the next two months.

"Gliding will outrival motoring as a week-end pastime," said a technical expert. "The cost of a machine—motor-glider of the three-seater type—will be a quart of 60 miles an hour, and seating two persons, will vary between £600 and £800. Improvements are made and they will become cheaper."

FINISHING LAMBS FOR MARKET

(Report essential Farms Note)

The method of handling the fleet and the size of it will determine in a large degree the means to be adopted for putting lambs on the market in the best possible shape. The method of the small farm flock and of the large range flock should be undertaken from an entirely different standpoint.

The particularly noticeable fact about our lamb market is that prices are seriously cut in the fall when the rush comes on, lambs matured at that time do not fetch nearly such good prices as those which finished early in the fall or those held over and not marketed until the winter or the early spring.

The average farm flock can be handled so as to market the lambs before the rush commences. On the Experimental Farm at Indian Head the lambs for the export trade are fattened on a mixture of oats and barley, the latter bringing the date of lambing in there some up to May 15th. The ewes receive moderately good fresh throughout the winter before lambing they were fed jan and oat straw with a little alfalfa hay, and about a week before lambing they were given half a pound of mixed bran and oats daily. When the lambs were about a week old the ewes were given a moderate feed of oats silage to replace the straw previously fed. They were also fed a little bran the milk flow and to bring the lambs on very rapidly. At weaning time the lambs had access to troughs in which a little bran and ground oats were provided. Water, however, but the ewes were kept out by means of a fence.

This method of feeding was continued until the end of the month of May, when grass was available and the entire flock was turned out to pasture during the daytime. At first it was housed again at night and a little feed of grain given, but this changed up rapidly. This, however, the shepherd was careful to see that the ewes itself was sufficiently good to provide the lambs with all the food they needed. The ewes at this time were also drafted into pasture in which there was a plentiful supply of intestinal parasite infestation.

The lambs were allowed to make decided gains, and between June 20th and August 15th (according as they were intended for the export or local trade) they were marketed locally, finishing 110 to 120 pounds in weight. Those dropped to 90-95. the early April lambs were fed until the 1st of August and the May lambs were not ready to market until the first or middle of October, by which time the pens had dropped to 75 or a pound. At the Experimental Farm, Indian Head, it was the same, viz.: the early lambs were marketed locally at a good profit, hardly, while the late ones had to be shipped away because the local market was glutted at the time they were ready.

At the time were unsuitable handled according to methods herein outlined, with success. The range of the average farmer living conditions he obstacles that Charles Wallace at Saskatchewan Experimental Farm, Indian Head.

Heat of all Fly Killers 10c per Packet at all Druggists, Grocers and General Shops

...years under consideration a great deal of coverage of lambs were raised, which is true also of the present year. As high a percentage of the others were raised as of the later ones.

For the farmer who has a large flock, or for the rancher, such methods as the above are not practicable, and a different system must therefore be followed. Lambs must necessarily be dropped during the winter, it being impossible to house all the ewes and lambs during the spring months, then if they are all put on the fall market together a drug in the prices will ensue. The alternative method of avoiding this is to hold some over. The experiment of a number of ranchers and farmers during the past two years, who have followed this method, has proved that their lambs and fattened them for marketing during the winter months, bringing the date of lambing in there some up to May 15th. The ewes were in moderately good flesh throughout the winter before lambing they were fed jan and oat straw with a little alfalfa hay, and about a week before lambing they were given half a pound of mixed bran and oats daily. When the lambs were about a week old the ewes were given a moderate feed of oats silage to replace the straw previously fed. They were also fed a little bran the milk flow and to bring the lambs on very rapidly. At weaning time the lambs had access to troughs in which a little bran and ground oats were provided. Water, however, but the ewes were kept out by means of a fence.

SPARK PLUGS NEED REPAIRAL

A rash rule for the amateur to follow when difficulties occur in the operation of a car, is to look for the simplest trouble first.

One of the most frequent causes of an engine failing to run smoothly is a weak firing spark plug. Exhaustive tests that have been made both in the laboratory and on the road have very definitely proved that it is real economy to replace spark plugs after they have been in use a year. This is true of the high and cheap type spark plugs as well as those requiring attention and that are subject to fouling and oil pumping.

There is a rather widespread misunderstanding that a spark plug should have a porcelain nose to give it maximum engine operation. They are commonly believed to be "explosive engines." This is not literally true. The mixture in a cylinder does not really explode, but it does burn with great rapidity; the expansion resulting becoming the power stroke and high temperature developing the pistons the downward stroke.

If a proper mixture could be made every bit of the gaseous mixture would be consumed. But this is not practicable, and there is always a little unburned gas left. This remains in the cylinder as a residue of the burnt gases and through the exhaust valve. The greater the intensity between the electrodes of the spark plug the more complete the combustion and the better the motor operates. But the intensity of the spark is lessened by continued use. All spark plugs deteriorate in service, some much more than others. They will continue to fire but the intensity is not as it formerly is fouling. The flame does not spread from around the spark gap fast enough to burn all of the mixture. More unburned gas is left. This results in carbon forming, the mileage can may eventually lead to serious engine trouble and costly repairs.

But all these troubles are avoided if new spark plugs are installed every year. Besides bettering the engine performance, the lessening of oil and gasoline consumption will be enough to cover the cost of the plugs, to say nothing of inserting the engine against excessive wear.

At Quebec recently the Hon Athanase David, Provincial Secretary in the Quebec Legislature, unveiled the unveiling of a monument erected by the Canadian Pacific Railway company in memory of Abraham Martin, after whom the Plains of Abraham at Quebec derived their name. The monument is the first Man's plot on the St Lawrence River. The battle of Abraham was received their name from him, he residing a grant of the land from Champlain in 1617. The unveiling of the monument is under-stood that no short seven feet high surmounted by a globe supported by thistles, was of copper and was attended by a large number of prominent citizens and political representatives.

The stately pageant is further described by Andrew Patterson, who says:—

PEARLS FOUND IN A MUSICAL FISH

Cape May, June 25.—While fishing in the Delaware bay at Dinns Creek a channel bass was caught that contained a string of pearls. It is supposed the pearls were dropped by pioneers or an outbound steamship. Them who have lived off in the bay say that the drumming of the channel bass can be heard for miles. Jobs are the only fish that have any musical instruments inside of them that are known to these waters.

Aaron Sapiro on the Growth of Co-operative Marketing

Sometime from mid March to the end of June, the farmers of Alberta will be asked to sign a contract with their co-operative association. This contract will be for a period of five years, and will bind the signer to deliver all of his grain for that period to the association. THE POWER PLANT

The power plant seems to be in a bad state at present and power users are having much difficulty in getting the use of power when required. The lights were almost down on Monday but that was only one occasion for light users, while in regard to power users, the Independent, for example, has been held up for the last four Thursdays, and this week from Tuesday noon until Wednesday night. Other power users have undergone a month or more inconvenience by the shutting down of power for repairs.

Engineer Ashby, who came up from Calgary on Wednesday to get the matter in shape again, states that while the Gadsby Unit is not worth repairing, and it is extremely up to the town officials to place the power plant on an efficient basis as soon as possible by the promotion of a new Unit.

This will require an expenditure, no doubt, of around ten or twelve thousand dollars, but there seems to be no alternative and the first step in this manner the purchaser is made the better. By the time the electric company's power is in the full the electric power plant will, we are afraid, be unable to function at all.

We answer the consequence of the town put down to fault in regard to the power plant the better, and there fore testimony that the Golden Unit power has been and never will be an efficient piece of machinery for the purpose in view. It has cost a great deal to repair up to the present and there repairs will go on indefinitely without any appreciable result in furnishing power under normal conditions. The town might as well write off the purchase of the Gadsby Unit to profit and loss and have done with it for a New Unit.

REPOPULATING THE EMPIRE

Lately there visited Canada two sensible Australian premiers who were interesting home from London flushed with success after securing favorable arrangements for the transferring of British money and British immigrants to Australia. Their program made Canadians wonder what is the essential difference between us and those who are doing much for their country in the way of population and are even investing money while we are doing nothing.

It is not necessarily a difference in the way of immigrants being to simply a matter of asking for them.

There is no outward urge of population to Britain that asks to be relieved. While Canada has 3.5 people to the square mile, the British Isles have 370 to the square mile, and England herself has 701.

Nor has population reached its peak in England, for between 1911 and 1921, in spite of the war, England's population increased more than 1,500,000.

These figures indicate a necessity for a redistribution of population within the Empire. Three Australian premiers are helping along that process.

It is an obvious pressure but an undesirable one. For there is more credit in doing the obvious thing well than in doing the unusual thing shiftlessly.

Our trouble in Canada is that we want to make the immigration problem a compulsory, while in reality it is very simple. All we need to do is to open the door to the whole Dominion of Europe and make a broad announcement to that effect.

Queensland has had the ministries in on it, Canada, as yet, has not.

SHOOTING THE FLAGS

Everywhere post-office notices have been put up by the Dempsey-Gibbons fiasco. People are asking why Tommy Gibbons, under prevailing conditions, managed to be good enough sport to carry along Jack Dempsey and not get a dollar for it.

They are also asking how long the sporting world, the colored crowd will be permitted to pollute and spoil good, wholesome sport by holding up their opponents to such one-sided contests.

The answer to the last question is, "Not long. You can't fool all the people all the time, and the culture of the city will be the virus cup of tomorrow."

"POOR ADVERTISING"

"Poor advertising," Canadians," says one despatch, "are worried over the prosperous boom in United States." Canadians apply to slacker of friends and foes in Canada.

They are worried about it that they have written many letters to Canadian newspapers protesting. They say there is poor advertising for Canada and hurts our chances of getting big immigration.

The worst advertising this country is getting at present is the knowledge abroad that the Canadian government has elected to act both as the promoter of immigration and hasn't ambition and initiative enough to take it off.

With the right kind of an immigration policy, with wide-open door to the right kind of settlers, with free land, northern and southern, and fertile, we couldn't keep settlers away.

BLACKSMITH WILL FIRM OUT

Statement of C.P.R. officials that the introduction of the road Diesel oil locomotive may be undertaken next year, is good news for the west.

The age of steam is over. The age of Electricity-propelled railway engines and cars, more economical, more powerful and more efficient than steam engines. One electric engine can push two steam engines, exerting all their strength, out of the way as easily as you push your little baby tottle car off the path.

On one American railway, 12 electric cars on the work formerly done by 112 steam engines. And they do it better, quicker and better.

Because electrification will cut down operating costs on Canadian railways, those railways will have more money to spend on extension and they will be able to carry goods more cheaply.

An electric engine will be able to carry a train of wheat through the mountains more easily and cheaply than a steam engine can pull the same train through the flat prairies.

The same advertisement is started for the better for the country and the railroads.

WHERE IT COUNTS

A local business man yesterday discussed the unreasonable obsession in Stettler in the course of the conversation he state that it seemed him to the "pulling" power of advertisements placed in the Independent. Quite apparently, and without any desire to throw bouquets he believed that in all his merchandising experience he had never a time and a more profitable response to his advertising than from the Stettler, even although money is scarce.

That is where the home town spirit is evident. Local merchant get the response to their advertising in this newspaper because people living here are for the town, first and always.

They believe that the merchants are for the town, too, and guarantee their accountability.

The Independent is in a position to appreciate that the merchants here are truly public spirited. Their response to the demands of local boosting and "drives" is genuine and sincere. They work out their membership plans so much for the uplift of local standards as to profits.

It work both ways—this matter of local enterprise.

The new people of it all is that everybody gains.

SWAT THE FLY

Here is the time to swat the fly. However, there is more than one way to do it. The use of the poisoned fly swat paper is excellent and fly traps still another. But the best way to swat the fly is to eliminate the manure of the troubles to get rid of the breeding place of the fly.

To kill the fly with the swatter is well well done; but to stop the breeding of millions early in the game is a service to the community.

One fly under a swatter now equals a whole regiment in enforcement. But if Mrs. Fly can't find her favorite open garbage pail in which to hatch her eggs, her posterity is doomed.

Swat the fly, but much is a few flies now is a poor excuse for failure to swat a dozen of them. Swat them, remove a crew in time saves not millions but millions.

Prospective Sahara

About three-fourths of a newspaper man's mail has grown to be propaganda of some sorts. The Independent this morning received enough propaganda to fill a waste basket to entirely fill the paper, without the use of any telegraph, correspondence or editorial matter. It would be a soft snap for the Independent if all editorial matter to utilize this free material, and a subscription paper could be published—but one that would hardly meet the wants or appeal of any of the subscribers to the Independent.

PENN NEWS

The community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Mr. A. Lundgreen on Friday last. Through this column we desire to express our sympathy and sorrow with Mrs. Lundgreen and her family in this their bereavement. Mr. Lundgreen had been a respected member of this community for many years. His health, however, had been failing for some time past. The deceased leaves a widow and five children.

The Labrador Penn daily took place and the sale for cash held off until after the occasion was over. Quite a good crowd gathered and took part in sports and ball games and a very enjoyable supper was served by the ladies.

The next U.F.W.A. meeting will be held on Wednesday, July 18th, instead of July 11th, on account of the Eerily Picnic occurring on the 12th. The meeting will take place at Mrs. Bird's.

CROPS and CAUTION

THE modern farmer, confronted by favorable conditions on one side and adverse conditions on the other, is forced to act with caution if he is to come through the ordeal successfully.

No one knows better than the farmer the necessity for conservation—the economical handling of time, material and money.

And no bank knows better than the Bank of Montreal how to co-operate with farmers to the end that their financial affairs and home and business should be placed on a sound basis.

Aim of Moderation League of Alberta

The Moderation League of Alberta in the campaign now opened with the co-operation of all citizens of Alberta who believe that good government comes more by gaining the support of the people, than by their hearty support in the enforcement of law.

In the seven years of the operation of the present Liquor Act it has been demonstrated beyond question that at least four-fifths of the people of Alberta are using liquor according to law and this practice is on the increase, the government and executive boot-legger have accumulated millions which should have gone into the hard-pressed treasuries of Alberta.

The Moderation League of Alberta seek to be of service to the people of Alberta in getting to place the government of Alberta in control of the sale of liquor and revenue from the business.

I have so well as you that there is a difference between the Chicago December option and the May option. I have so well as you that there are any number of speculators who are supposed to make the world prices of wheat. I have so well as you that you can get false news from the Argentine Board of Trade of Canada, so that the Board of Trade itself had to prohibit—how than two years ago, had to prohibit Argentine news from coming on their own market, because it was disturbing influence on operation. I have so well as you how the news on wheat is gathered all over the earth, only I am differently. I do not use wheat as a basis of future sales on the Chicago Board of Trade. I use wheat absolutely with wheat five million growers around the world wondering what they are going to get for their living wage out of that wheat.

What Can Be Organized

And I see the wheat as a thing which can be organized, slowly and carefully, but definitely, can be organized in the same way by the farmers that it is said can be by the bankers. GADSBY NEWS

Dr. Conrad U.F.A. Picnic was held on the old Conge farm on July 6th. Another very favourable weather condition. One shower fell just at supper-time while the Boys were enjoying their al fresco lunch. Probably that has been the rain might and they do not have some. The crowd was not quite as large as usual; the uncertain weather may have been responsible. Many farmers had been overwhelmed to postponement, etc., that a few of any ads previously must have been disappointed. In every way it was very successful, and most of the folks present appeared themselves as having had a splendid time. The committee were fortunate in securing Mr. Mc-Cartney, with his fine radio equipment, and the people were loud in their praise of the best and most complete support of the big fight at Shelby, between our own countryman on the gathering of the fight fans, the results at the games, etc., etc., and giving it and blow by blow and round by round. To, everybody's hearing it. Mr. McCartney acted as announcer and supported everything as it was happening around. All interests were centered in this part of the field except that of the young people. They held their races and contests on another part of the field, and were more interested in them than in the doings of the grown-up and his opponent, Mr. Gibbons. It was only after the last scheduled of the fight came in that the band were allowed to perform and their music a very fine showing. Both should be proud of this band of theirs for they are certainly good. They have made wonderful progress. I haven't been back to hear a band, now, but the radio and chords and tones. The standard of music they play is wonderfully high for such a young organization and Mr. Fidevich must be some teacher.

A dance was held in the Town Hall on night, music being provided by the Smith Band, and Mr. Dave gave a Radio Concert for an hour and a half. Everybody seemed interested in what was going on, and Mr. Dave's concert was the finer accompany.

Mr. Wm. Dotman and family left town on Tuesday, en route for Bellevue, Alta., where they will be in charge of the Pioneer elevator at that point.

We are glad to hear that Harold Long, who was injured in the Stock-ton accident, is making good progress to recovery and is now at his home. He has an idea how what it means when Mr. Dempsey says one severe.

The correspondent was button-holed by a wild-eyed poetry man in Gadsby on Saturday afternoon and asked to insert an Ad. in the "Independent" this week, to the effect that "no my wife, Mrs. Wm-the-pea-think, having left my bed and board to go on holiday and not having written for a whole week, I, Bendedon, will not be responsible for her debts—or rates." In the role of peacemaker I tried to point out that a week's silence, though a serious matter, was not quite sufficient grounds for such drastic action. He reluctantly decided to wait another week, but said he positively will not answer for refusing the Ad. any longer than next issue.

Mr. Harry Hennessy left on Saturday morning for Calgary to visit his parents and take in the Fair.

The Women's Institute had their usual monthly meeting in the Rest Room on Saturday. In the absence of the President, Mrs. R. W. Harrison occupied the chair very capably. A special report of the Edmonton Convention was given by the delegate, Mrs. J. Bennett, who seemed to have kept a very close tab on all the proceedings. Mrs. Thomas, Provincial District Director, was present and gave the members several helpful suggestions on programs, and other useful matters, and she complimented Mrs. Brady on her fine report. Mrs. Whitaker gave a musical recitation, accompanied by Mrs. Brady on the piano. Mrs. Bass, who made a welcome appearance, her first since her illness, moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. R. W. Berry, assisted by Mrs. Hitchens, served a light lunch that was most appreciated.

Mr. J. A. Anderson had a visit to Stettler last week and returned some one week Here than ever one is at least sure of it E., that he look no more than his jobs.

The annual meeting of the Gadsby Farmers' Elevator Company was held on Saturday afternoon in the Town Hall, Pres. A. E. Powell in the chair. Considering the times, a fairly satisfactory report was read but by direction would be paid this year. Messrs. Everitt, James and Chesterman resigned from the directorate and after a close vote Messrs. Wm. Dean, Albert Scott and Fred Rosser were elected in their place. The meeting was smaller than it should have been, and there was very apathetic in looking after their interests in this way. Mr. Hay B. Drake, local engineer for pool elevator manager, the directors advertising for a man to fill the vacancy. There were a large number of applications and I understand the choice of the directors fell on Mr. Todd, late of the Pioneer Elevator, Gadsby, and a long way experience in the grain business.

WAVERLY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

On Thursday evening, June 29th, a surprise party was given Mrs. Jas. E. Ware at her home, when about ten gathered with a vanity purse by the members. Mrs. F. Cooper made the presentation and thanked our secretary for her faithful work in the Institute. Mrs. Ware replied with a neat little speech. About eighty guests partook of the delicious meal at noon, after which the afternoon was then otherwise playing ball and gossiping while the women had their business meeting. The meeting was conducted in the usual manner and after the business was over a picnic on Wednesday, July 12th, at the Bull Pasture, where a basket picnic supper will be played. The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Ed. Thompson when we will celebrate the anniversary of the Cradle Roll Department which every member is asked to answer roll call with a verse by rhyme. It was also decided to have a programme for the benefit of the Institute.

STERLING PENALTY FOR KISSING GOOD

The stone in Baldock of the young man and girl who were locked up overnight for the grievous offence of kissing in the street stands on Hinxton heating light on the law's unreasonable attitude towards such things.

The prime man at present has just prisoner marriage to the girl and been accepted. Now, according to the best letter of stage and screen a man must court a girl in normally acceptance by an ardent kiss. True the simple happiness to be walking in the street at the time but at such moments love seems to be surround her.

But a modest policeman, eyeing them, marched them off to the police-station, where they spent the night and were subsequently solemnly told by the magistrate that they should be ashamed of themselves.

The ex-management of old Puritan days—at Amerton, where, in one re-mained on-statute of 1654, a man suspected Kentish, of Bourton, was the whole sphere, for two hours at the marks for his "love and affection" to his wife by kissing his wife publicly upon the Sabbath day under the doorstep of his house."

A jury let off with the light sentence of two hours in the stocks in consideration of the fact that he had just returned from a three years' voyage.

Even to this day kissing is forbidden in New York in certain places. The New York (Centra) Railroad prohibits kissing on station platforms, but has reversed at every station at which educated platforms called a "kissing gallery," where passengers may kiss their friends good-bye.

The Bavarian state railways also forbid kissing employees on their premises.

Kissing was once forbidden in Hungary, but the order fell into disuse. It was in 1400, when a plague that was raging in Europe had invaded England. A bill was rushed through both Houses forbidding any of his Majesty's subjects to kiss.

The warns of the world must appear before you—the product of every factory—the merchandise of every store. Those things that fail to measure up to your requirements are quickly condemned to oblivion.

The merchant who advertises deliberately places h's merchandise on trial. He openly courts your critical inspection. He invites comparison. He directs your attention to his goods and then forces those goods to stand on their own merits.

THE PASSING OF A TREE

(By Edgar A. Guest)

A fine old tree, now in the way,
I heard Miss Jones to-day
A gang of men attack to cut
Down from the trees south the road,
And these great proudly arms which

The woodshipper who came to seat,
Now fall and lie beside the road
To make a sweet (workman's load

For years that friendly tree has stood
The glory of the neighborhood,
And it has heard the traffic's roar
For years grow nearer than before,
And seen its brother trees go down
Before the hatchets of the town.
Surely that tree old axe has known
It must make room for steel and

And now the axe is at its trunk,
Its body soon in sawdust sunk,
Its roots, which long have bound the earth,

Are hewed by grim destruction's own girth.

The hollow sigh. Nearby is seen
A greedy, pitiless machine,
Ready to show great babe where down

A friendly tree, so brave, so good.

I know not what these men shall build,
What room with joy and laughter filled,
What towers of beauty shall arise
Beneath the spans of sunny skies;
Perhaps a temple there shall be
Where God is loved and God is feared,
But nothing man can build shall be
So lovely as this fine old tree

SPRAYING POTATOES FOR LATE BLIGHT

(Experimental Farms Note)

Late blight and rot in the most destructive disease of potatoes and in some years causes tremendous losses. The potato leaves are the factories in which the starch is manufactured, later to be stored in the tubers preserved underground. Should these factories be impaired in any way the yield must necessarily be reduced. In the case of late blight, how much both from the blighting of the leaves and the subsequent failure of the tubers to attain their normal size, but by testing of the tubers which follows an attack of the disease. These losses can be greatly reduced, if not entirely prevented, by careful and thorough spraying with Bordeaux mixture. Appearance of this spray should be given whether the crop is being grown for "seed" or for table stock.

Careful experiments conducted over many years have demonstrated that the best spraying solution to use is bordeaux mixture made of the 4-4-40 strength. The most convenient method of making this mixture is by the use of concentrated stock solutions of copper sulphate (bluestone) and lime, dusting these two together. These solutions are prepared as follows:

(2) Lime stock solution. Make 50 pounds of fresh quick lime to 50 gallons of water, slowly adding water like that the lime will not burn. The solution is then ready for use.

In order to keep out dirt and prevent evaporation, the barrels containing the stock solutions should be kept covered. To make up a tank of spray ready for use together four gallons of the above solutions into into the spray tank and add 92 gallons of water To the dilute solution add 4 pounds of fine lime, such as common This should be poured through a fine meshed strainer to remove all coarse particles, otherwise clogging of the nozzles will result. The solution in the tank should be kept thoroughly agitated while the latter is being sprayed on the vines.

The above directions are carefully followed the resulting solution will be nearly certain the proper proportions of bluestone and lime, but since the proportions of these active varies it is preferable to test the solution in order that the foliage may not be injured by too much copper. Abundant foliage may be prepared by dissolving two half ounce of potassium ferrocyanide in one-half pint of water and adding about a pint. Sprinkle a few drops of this reagent on the surface of the spray mixture, and, if on stirring the surface of the solution, a distinct brown color results, more lime should be added to each 50 gallons of solution for the control of potato blight.

Commence spraying about the middle of July and repeat every ten days while throughout the season. When the plants are small 40 gallons per acre will be sufficient. The amount should be increased as the plants grow larger. The sprayer should be equipped with three nozzles to each row—two nozzles pointing slightly upward and one pointing downward so that both upper and lower surfaces of the leaves will be thoroughly protected. The spray should be applied under a pressure of 125 to 200 pounds. At least four applications are necessary during the season, but five or even six will usually be found profitable Particular attention should be given to the later applications. If these are neglected or are carelessly applied a late attack of late blight may cause more damage than if no spraying had been done. In the latter respect the proportion of copper sulphate should be increased during the formula 6-4-40. Thus in, add 6 gallons of the stock solution of bluestone and lime and 30 gallons of water instead of 92.

Persistent manure will also control early blight, and may be used alone as a repellent for the potato flea beetle.

FARM NEWS

FEEDING EXPERIMENTS WITH ALFALFA

According to the annual report of the Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lacombe, Alberta, a number of experiments have been carried out with the feeding of irrigated alfalfa on the latter farm. The results are of considerable interest as it is deemed of the profitable crop to some other mean than by direct sale.

In the test that stretched [illegible] 14, 1921, and ended April 30, 1922, thirty nine steers—divided into three groups of thirteen each—were employed. Each group throughout the test received the same quantity of grain, made up of a mixture of equal parts of ground oats and barley but the roughage supplied varied as follows: Group 1, alfalfa hay and silage; Group 2, alfalfa hay and roots; Group 3, alfalfa hay and silage. The grain fed to each group was [illegible] lbs. per head per day. The test was extended over a period of 168 days. The experiment early opinion for the cattle in Group 1 made an average gain of 1.75 lbs. per steer per day; Group 2, 1.66 lbs.; Group 3, 1.75 lbs. The cattle in Group 1 consumed 7.28 lbs. of grain per steer per day; Group 2, 7.28 lbs.; Group 3, 7.28 lbs. The cattle were started on 5 lbs. a day which was increased to 7 lbs. the maximum amount reached, when the steers were on full feed, was 7.28 lbs. of grain per head per day. The test was extended over a year and will likely be continued until final conclusions are considered to have been reached. Figures will be given later showing the benefit per acre of corn over that of oats when used as a silage crop.

A similar test with 156 pungs heifers was given any further points than summerfallow ploughed about 4 inches deep On heavier soils different results might be secured Neither of the cultivation nor the [illegible] the test extended over [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible] 1922 [illegible] were divided into [illegible] lots of 13 each. One group was summerfallowed and the other two were [illegible] with other experimental work at Lacombe. Each year the summerfallow was ploughed late in the fall. The increased yield was over twice as much as the [illegible] [illegible] summerfallowed land. Deep ploughed summerfallow has not given any better yields

"The second vote in Manitoba showed he was more resistant to the prohibition ide of Alberta. The vote was de cidedly against one essential part of Clause D. Clause D provides for the sale of liquor lower by government number by permit and at certain hours. ple all lower in licensed places Manitoba instituted the first principle but rejected the second principle It is doubtful what would have happened in Manitoba had the Clause D been submitted to them as a whole instead of piecemeal.

As far as influence and prestige go, the second vote is a certain victory throughout the first one.

Prohibition—or rum we prohibition if they work right. The opponents are not united and are severed by all manner of fortuitous element. The prohibitionists have everything in common."

The point of the above editorial which is taken from the "Calgary Albertan" is that the author of that journal was responsible, as one of the committee, for the wording of Clause D. The editorial should run something like this—"An editor of the Albertan I am justly responsible for the wording of Clause D. Clause D contains two limitations or conditions one of which Manitoba voted for and the other against. As far as influence and prestige go the second vote is a certain victory throughout the first one. Therefore the second vote neutralizes the first one. Therefore the amount of the contradiction the prohibitionists can see if they work right, because the understanding will split on Clause D. The prohibitionists have everything in common," etc.

We had hoped the liquor question could be settled one way or another without the element of a doubt and without lameness but the contradiction not expert everywhere.

THE HIGH PRICE LAW-MAKING

Good moral people in Edmonton, Toronto, have made rules for holding automobiles to be worn on their heads. Both men and women must wear them. Ladies must wear them when in an automobile. Gentlemen must wear them when in their own car or when driving their own car. Both must wear them when in a car owned by another. Both must wear them when in a car owned by another who chauffeurs for hire. The penalty for failure to wear them is a fine of $10 and costs.

Edmonton finds, for instance, we have its legally appointed leaders in this town. We are just asked to be decent. And, parenthetically, all sentence ARE decent.

The more detailed laws you make, the more people want to break them.

While there have been a few final riots in various German cities and while times are generally bad throughout the "Fatherland," the real loser through the depression of money are the nations who got advantage from trading with Germany by the drop in Germany's purchasing power. ABOUT ADVERTISING

There's just one kind of a man or institution that cannot afford to advertise—the one that has nothing to sell. Advertising and "the goods" go together Neither is of value without the other Without advertising the best goods would go, as a rule, unsold the public. And without honest goods, advertising will bring no permanent success. Neither will any other combination But together they make an unbeatable team.

If you want to sell to you must benefit, but it is a good plan to keep all the benefits to yourself.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING

Until the Western farmer practices Canada cannot prosper. The only protection Canada can offer to the 5% is calculably valuable farming industry is co-operative marketing. It is the first duty of government to see that every Western farmer produces his goods co-operatively as quickly and as possible and is then enabled to sell them in the same way. It is the duty of every Western Canada should have the benefit of the best legislation that can be provide to wrest out a workable co-operative marketing plan for Western farmers.

Angus Sutherland Sharp, Secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, Toronto was published last week, in the Canadian Forum, a plan for co-operative marketing on this continent. He has formed commissioner groups in California and Ontario that growers in other provinces were only receiving 7 cents per pound for tomatoes that sold for 40 cents at retail. By introducing co-operative methods of marketing he reduced the standard of living to which the producer was entitled and increased the profits of the middleman. He could do the same for Western Canada and he is invited to do it.

It is nothing relief the West has on account for the economics of politicians never has helped to use. It is time the west practiced the economics it preaches.

Harvest Labor for Alberta

Serious attention is now being given by Hon. Alex. Ross and Walter Smitten, Labor Commissioner, to the question of harvest help. Reports from the province of Vermont show the harvesting operations this fall.

Arrangements have already been made by the three prairie provinces for the special rate of 1 cent a mile on the railways to the West, and a conference is to be held in Winnipeg to discuss means of securing labor. It is estimated that Alberta will require from 8,000 to 10,000 men. The railway companies and the dominion government are now considering ways to move advertising campaigns in the East and the matter of transportation of labor. Every means of securing sufficient help will be being canvassed by Hon. Mr. Ross and the labor department.

New Mineral Tax

Owners of mineral lands of any kind, and those who own mineral rights, are reminded by the fact that on August 1st, the Provincial Secretary will commence the collection of the mineral lands tax, which was enacted to bring into the provincial coffers at least $200,000, and which will reap a considerable harvest from some of the large corporations affected by the provision

The tax which was provided for in legislation passed at the recent session of the legislature, imposes a tax of three cents an acre on all lands held under mineral leases and on lands held under mineral title. The methods leases on natural gas and petroleum rights.

Prior to the year 1907, patents issued by the Dominion of Canada did not reserve the mineral rights to the Crown and large areas of such lands came under the category. The legislature may be made that there is no proof that ownership exist on such land. The owner in this case has the right to elect whether he will pay the tax or not. Should he decide not to pay the tax he must relinquish his rights to the minerals which have become vested in the province

Exemption from the tax are provided for mineral bone-workers as it is conceded that early pioneers deserve some special consideration.

Failure to pay the tax will entail forfeiture of the mineral rights to the province, or liability to action for recovery of the tax.

After September 1st, a penalty of 10 per cent. will be added to the tax.

Less Drunkenness in Canada

A very marked decrease in criminal offences in 1922 as compared with the previous year is disclosed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. A gratifying decrease in drunkenness is also shown, most notably in British Columbia. Convictions for drunkenness in Britain Columbia numbered 1,279 in 1922, as against 2,279 in 1,221, or 54.5 per cent. Nova Scotia decreased 28.5 per cent. From 1,199 to 1,202. Ontario, 29.6 per cent from 14,408 to 10,201. Quebec 29.4 per cent from 9,844 to 7,105 New Brunswick, increased 14.3 per cent and Alberta 12.5 per cent. The Province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Prince Edward Island and the Yukon show increases. The decrease for all Canada in 1922 per cent, from 51,- 2,282 convictions in 1921 to 39 Feb in 1922. Offences against the Liquor Act of Canada decreased by 47 per cent. Under the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act of Dominion convictions were also down, most of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Edward Island and the Yukon, where there were no convictions. Ontario led with 1,000 convictions, a decrease of more than per cent.

'ODD MONEY IN GOOD FARMING

"Let's Get to Work and Pay Off the Mortgage"

NINE years ago Canada's national debt was approximately two billion. It is more than two and one-third billions today.

Our debts have greatly increased—our revenues must also go up. The former has to bear his share of the increased burden. That means he must increase his revenue.

Complaint has been heard that farmers under present conditions do not receive a remunerative pay. And yet many thousands of Canadian farmers do receive it.

How Is It Done?

Scientific and industrious "carry on" in spite of the fact that everything seems to conspire to make farming industry a constant struggle. Constant persistence is the penalty thought out methods.

Farmers today raise more and more pigs, sheep, as well as "pigs along" lines, and by doing so find them, if they wish to succeed.

Co-ordination of head and hand will mean real success. Farming in Canada has had and pays just as many farms. It can be made to pay on almost every farm. Canadian agriculture has passed through the period when nothing was commonly to the poor and can do so again.

Crop Returns Should be Increased

On the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa every crop grown and tested in 1922 as contrasted with all-Ontario averages over a period of years. The figures are for the Ontario figures are as follows:

	Five per cent. Farm	Prods per acre Ontario
Hay	$21.11 (1,411 lbs.)	($9.50)
Corn for Forage	$47.50 ($33.71)	$10.36 ($2.93)
Roots	$36.67 ($19.62)	$ 7.21 ($3.93)

Experimental Farm crops are sometimes claimed to be produced at less cost than those of ordinary farmers, however, show that the average farmer can, if he applies the same principles, always increase crops to the Experimental Farm level or even to the average.

We shall have something more to say later. Meantime write the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, about your problems.

With the increased cost of production, the higher income necessary before new prevailing cannot be maintained for long. Every department, "business" millers, merchants, bankers, is affected by any unprofitable basis.

That even under present conditions profits may be made is manifest by many skilled, industrious and non-plunging farmers who believe more in the policy of "live here and pay as you go" rather than "live here and borrow" and by their saving and the other consequent manner.

The results on our experimental Farms also bear testimony to the value of thorough, skilful work.

Try Hard Manufacture

But crops alone are not enough. The farm which keeps from 10 to 20 cows less bulky and more highly profitable products—milk, pork, beef, poultry, eggs, etc.

Ontario is among many fairring shows good profits in Canada. The year 1922 was a "disappointing" yield 25%, in the last ten years. But on the steadily go up another 25% and more, and there's no reason why it should not. Improved methods of selection and better breeding will add greatly to the wool, bread.

To do better feeding means better marketing of home grown supplies of palatable roughage, finely concentrated grains and home canning crops (corn, cauliflower, peas and the like) will provide food in abundance for both summer and winter. The farmer will profit by investigations which the Dominion Live Stock Branch of Agriculture has carried out more than farming scientifically and by co-operative undertakings as well pay handsomely. The records and particulars of such work is every province are available to the Canadian farmer.

Any one interested in any subject connected with agriculture is invited to write to the Publicity Department, Ottawa, Ontario, and ask for information. We have much of this literature and will be glad to send it.

We have published and have for free distribution a booklet entitled "Canada's Agricultural Possibilities" which we will be glad to send to any one interested in the subject.

We shall have something more to say later. Meantime write the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, about your problems.

Issued for publication by the Honourable Department of Agriculture.
H. S. ARKELL, Deputy Minister.

In the seven years of the operation of the present Liquor Act it has been demonstrated beyond question that there is not every increasing use of liquor in the province of Alberta, but a steady decrease in the per capita consumption and everyone knows that the bootlegger will have accumulated millions which should have gone into the hands of legitimate business men.

SABBATH OBSERVANCE

Paper Read at Last W.C.T.U. Meeting by Mrs. McCrie

The Sabbath as the oldest institution in existence today. In Gen. 2:1 Moses tells us, "Thus the heaven and earth were finished, and all the host of them." And on the seventh day God finished His work which He had made; and He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had made. And God blessed the seventh day, and sanctified it: because that in it He had rested from all His work which God created and made." Christ in Mark 2:27 tells why God instituted the Sabbath—"The Sabbath was made for man."

Men who have studied physiology claim that the human body needs every seventh day, to fully recuperate from the strain of one days' work. Nights not being wholly sufficient.

No doubt on that score when our players of labor, in keen competition, are running their business on the ultimate capacity and the pace work system, whereby men strive to add another day to the week's list of working overtime, this is certainly true. But did God set apart His seventh day for this purpose? Does not reverence to one Sabbath as the right to spend all of the Lord's Day in simply our own personal needs? Here often has not the Sabbath been the change of work is as good as a rest." But to change from the profound attention of its every duration, to one day of spiritual entertainment, in honor to God, for all His benefits, we will not only find rest for our bodies, but for our souls as well.

God knew that worldliness would take such a hold on the human race that they would forget Him, so He set apart one day, as a memorial to His creative powers.

Then, in giving the law to the Israelites, through the hand of Moses, He made it very clear, how they should observe this day. "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work but the seventh is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God. In it thou shalt not do any work, thou, nor thy son, nor thy daughter, nor thy man-servant, nor thy maid-servant, nor thy cattle, nor the stranger that is within thy gates. For in six days the Lord made Heaven and earth, the sea, and how they in them, wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath Day and made it holy."

Then we have the great proof of God's earnestness in regard to the keeping of the Sabbath-Ex. 16:4; "Then said the Lord unto Moses, Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather a certain rate every day, that I may prove them, whether they will keep my laws, or no.

"And on the sixth day a double portion fell and the people were supposed to gather enough for their needs on the Sabbath. But we read, some of the people went out on the seventh day to gather and found none. For this act God was grieved and said, "How long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws?"

We could not have a better illustration, how we should prepare on Saturday so far as possible for our Sabbath of Sunday.

God, speaking through the prophet Isaiah 58 13-14 says: "If you turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing thy pleasure on my Holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, the Holy of the Lord, Honorable; and shalt honor Him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words; then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord, and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob thy father; for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it."

Whether the Sabbath becomes a burden or a delight, depends upon the attitude with which we enter upon it. Some cultivate the higher instinct, until we have spiritual things, they are like the blind man trying to understand why his neighbor prefers the pitch, or the soft green, to the shrill of a religious service.

In Leviticus 19:3, we are told that the seventh day is the Sabbath of rest, a holy convocation, and the Sabbath of the Lord in all your dwellings. Deut. 16: 26-28 read: "Let no one honor another's property, but unto love and to good works. In forsaking the assembling of ourselves together as the manner of some."

Christ set an example for us in His Word and deeds on the Sabbath. Luke 4:16 "And as was His custom He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day and stood up for to read."

Dr. Talmage once said—"Well, I do not go to church for I think I can be just as good at home." We are not apart one day from another, because if Christ had been not to meet with the people for worship, He would not have done so.

Christ taught that deeds of mercy performed on the Sabbath were according to the will of God and seven of the miracles recorded by Him were performed on the Sabbath, and every one disputed. Then will cry to Him Sabbath with loving ministries to others, carrying comfort and cheer to the sick and the forlorn if we may come one unto a father light at the Gospel.

Christ also taught the disciples to gather in corn and eat it, but what would He say to the many Sabbath breaking diners who make Sunday the hardest day in the week, and keep so many hours employed, that they will cry to Him Sabbath!

We had a quiet walk through the fields on the Sabbath; but what would He say to the many who cling to an automobile, or a Sunday excursion on a crowded steamer with the loud gong sounding.

What would He say to a Saturday afternoon dance, or a late card party night spent in the theatre, and in consequence a lot of little old jobs left over for Sunday.

Some think of the Sabbath as a comfortable day to sleep in after one week's preparation. Some find it a very convenient day to catch up on one week's accounts, and others use it in a time for recreation. Some of these may be unintentionally at fault, and have not caught the vision of Christ, according to our Heavenly Father's warned to obey His commands.

The right or wrong use of the Sabbath has a decided influence on the success or failure. One seventh of our time or less our bodily strength, our mental energy, our morbid prosperity, our character and our eternal life.

It take a child from twenty-one to twenty five years to progress for forty grams' worth in the Sunday School. Surely to furnish our education for all eternity. To take a child to the University and the Bible is the Text Book; and to neglect that height of folly to love the schooling.

Our country to-day is losing her most prolific power in the Sabbath Morning or perhaps I should say Sabbath evening. While we remember we are not a nation where they use Sunday as a day of sport, football, baseball, Sunday theatre, Sunday shows, and Sunday golf, but the question is still: Are we in danger of with the commandment to keep the Sabbath day holy?

We cannot foster a love for Bible Sabbath, but we can foster a love for Bible Sabbath through the teach ing of our Sunday School. Holy Day Sunday is taught not only to observe the Sabbath, but to preserve the spirit of kind and reverence for Holy Day.

A Sabbath well spent
Brings a week of content
And strength for the task of to-morrow.
But a Sabbath profaned,
Whatever be gained,
I s a certain forerunner of sorrow.

We shall not properly observe this day, unless we fully recognize, and appreciate its sacred character as one of our Saviour's choicest gifts. Much help is to be found in quoting it by its sacred name, the Lord's Day, and to realize it to be His, we shall prize it for His sake, and shall observe it in His name.

Poultry Report Shows Reporting of Low Production Next Winter

CARE NEEDED NOW

"The delayed spring this year was responsible for many poor hatches and a large percentage of weak baby Chicks; this will mean for fewer pullets than usual" says Mr. Lyle Gilbert of the Poultry Division of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. "The situation has thus developed, according to Canada's chief poultry authority, that present flocks are not nearly so eggy in cold storage. Usually eggs are coming forward in large shipments at this season and the storage house manager is now trying to run models, or a flooding excursion on a crowded steamer with the loud gong sounding.

Resume of Events and Legislative Enactments by Recent Parliament During the Past Year, as They Affect Agriculture

Ottawa, Thursday, July 3rd, 1930.

Parliament has been in session for a prospective bi-centennial parties, to fulfill the duties imposed by the terms of Parliament.

Speaking more particularly with respect to agriculture, I may say that the Government has done a number of most important legislation on behalf of the farmers of Canada, which will have a most beneficial influence on behalf of agriculture throughout the whole Dominion. True, from so much was a long time to spend a go-morning the session, but some of the issues we have had to deal with are of such importance that it was necessary to give all of them careful consideration.

A number of Acts have been put on the Statute Books, which will materially assist the Canadian farmer in the marketing of his products. Among these may be made an Act in connection of Fruit and Fruit Products Act, which sets out clearly the purposes of establishing a board in charge of Western Canada—a permanent well worthy of a moment's consideration.

Canada last year became famous by having arrived at the stage of being the greatest producer of wheat in the world. In the face of this it does seem a mistake to longer continue to expend upon foreign countries for the bulk of the funds in the mint-cattle of this crop. Hence an amendment has to be grown successfully, almost immediately, in many parts of the West and East, with or without irrigation. It seems to me to be a most important and valuable amendment.

There is not a livestock man in Canada who is not interested deeply in the tremendous devastation it wreaks have been in the past few years, and what a calamity it would have been were it not available this year.

Mention must also be made of the granting of a certain bounty on twine and sweep made from hemp, for the purpose of establishing a hemp industry in Western Canada—a most worth well worthy of a moment's consideration

GADSBY NEWS

Last Monday afternoon we were visited all a heavy rain storm accompanied by severe hail, though the damage done by the latter was confined to a very small area. This downpour was entirely confined to south west of town and immediately above the different work Cam Erskine. Will Erskine, Frank Berry, Harry Bissell, Jim Hornsby and S. E. Penn. The storm was estimated from 1½ to 2½ inch of them were insured and in this connection the Municipal Hail Insurance Board made something of a record. Reports were sent in from places in Calgary on Monday afternoon; on Tuesday afternoon the adjusters were here and a satisfactory settlement made and cheques received for payment on Wednesday night. That is pretty smart work. Up till today the adjuster for the Lion companies had not put arrived. Hurrah!

In the reports of the great Calgary Exhibition from day to day the name of Casey Patterson, our local horse doctor, has repeatedly figured in the prize list. He won firsts for horseback riding, stone riding, etc., and report have quite a string of prizes for the entire Stampede. Considering the strong class of men he was meeting this is very creditable work for our Bronco buster hereabouts. He kept Gadsby well to the front.

Fifth Semi-Monthly Crop Report

Issued by Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, Alberta

Most grain crop conditions prevail throughout the province, and the grain crops are showing very rapid development. Approximately 80 per cent of all seed is in the ground, and appears to be developing very satisfactorily. Oats and barley are also making excellent progress.

The weather during the past two weeks has been moderately warm, with frequent showers and in some localities heavy downpours. Moisture conditions generally could scarcely be better.

Rain has come over the province at its light, tinting of the first Alberta crop in the south is promising. Rye will be somewhat light, this crop having been cut too far down in order to head. A considerable area has been plantlets in oats for grassland, and there are a large area in fall. Our crops than for several years.

Livestock over the entire province is in splendid condition. Pasture is plentiful and fresh water is giving but satisfactory returns.

Conditions for breaking have been ideal and as a result there will be much new land in crop next year. There is also considerable summerfallow following crop.

Bird.—With the exception of one severe storm in southern Alberta on July 2, there has been little damage from this cause throughout the province. In a few localities suffering from storms in very limited area. The storm of July 2 covered an area approximately 15 miles in depth under-wide, from Okotoks in the north to New Dayton on the south, being especially severe between Claresholm and Nanton, and covering in its path the districts of Aldersyde, Lake Midnapore, Stavely, Maleford, Coalhurst, Lethbridge, Milo, Barons and Raymond. While the damage from this storm will be heavy, there will be a considerable increase in the acreage in the later sown grain, which had not attained a sufficient height to suffer greatly from the hail. In the earlier sown fields, hail will be from 50 to 90 per cent.

Grasshoppers.—Over the province generally the hot, dry weather weather is expected to be comparatively light. In some localities in the south-western and south-eastern districts of the province, however, there are some badly infested areas, and the appearance of poison bait scattered these areas have been very heavy. Due to the rapid growth of vegetation, farmers in some of these areas were unable to get poisoning done at early date, consequently, added a robust energy the hoppers have developed.

The organization in these districts is working strenuously, however, and from reports received, the work will not be great. Grasshoppers have been very destructive in the State of Montana, across the Alberta border, and this appears to be the best method to combat the pest. With the fear that this will result in a large re-infestation of Alberta areas, representatives have been entered into between the Alberta Department of agriculture, the dominion government administration at Lethbridge, and state authorities of Montana, with a view to securing co-operation between farmers on both sides of the line in-ward clearing up the territory along the boundary. Through the Milk River Prairie districts, where there has been considerable hail damage, this clean-up work has been done, and it is believed the loss there will be very slight.

Farm Labor.—The demand for farm labor in the province is not keen at present, indications are a great rumour of men will be required in the fall. Last year there was a minimum of labor being between 3000 and 3500. Special conferences are being held between representatives of the three western provinces with a view to making arrangements to meet this demand.

GRADING AND MARKING OF EGGS

The "Regulations Respecting the Grading and Marking of Eggs" effective July 1st, 1923, are designed to put the unique position Canada has taken in the production of eggs on a permanent and satisfactory system. Whether country has as yet attempted to take such a step.

The object of the regulations is to control export, import and inter-provincial movement of eggs, so that no eggs other than those marked as specified shall be exported or delivered either on consignment or bought for re-sale, have to be marked on both ends with the name and the class of egg contained therein. Provision is made that any producer or other person desiring to pack his own eggs delegate his right to candle and grade in the first wholesale warehouse to which he may have eggs shipped or delivered. In which case name or containers must be marked with the word "Unmarked Eggs for Shipment Only." This regulation will not apply to shipments of eggs from producers to consumer. An allowance is made of an and one-half (1½) per cent in case of grade stated apart from breakage. In the event of any complaint as to grade this must be made to the vendor within twenty-four hours of the receipt of the eggs. Provision is made for the inability to the eggs being below grade will not upon the person on whom the eggs are found.

Co-owners will be particularly interested in the regulations which read as follows: "Every case or container of eggs which is packed, prepared or offered for sale by any person selling or delivering or shipping to consumers in a public place or manner shall be marked, labelled, tagged or encompassed in consequence between with the name of the class and grade of eggs contained therein." All eggs on shall ship eggs or cause eggs to be shipped or delivered or displayed for sale in cases or containers which are marked or labelled or tagged with the name of any class of eggs specified in these regulations unless the quality of every egg in such case or container is equal to or better than the quality specified for such class. No person shall buy for sale or re-sale or expose, offer for sale, or sell eggs which are marked or labelled with any other words eggs must be candled and graded after having been offered for Standards before being offered for sale.

A regulation which is of special import to producers is that which provides that those receiving eggs on consignment or buying eggs for re-sale making returns based on the candling basis of the Canadian Standard grades. This particular regulation does not apply where producers themselves their eggs in less than fifteen dozen lots to one buyer.

The egg regulations which are made under the provisions of the Canada Fruit and Vegetable Products Act stem from what is perhaps the most complete and comprehensive legislation covering egg production ever produced. Eggs marring for export, in inter-provincial shipment, imports, new eggs for domestic consumption. The standards for eggs upon which all this work is based cover both the weight of the egg and the interior quality. The application of these standards to export shipments has given Canadian eggs an enviable reputation on the British Market and the extension of the regulations to eggs moving into domestic consumption in Canada will be welcomed by all handlers of eggs from producer to consumer.

Hundun One Out of Every Twenty

The shiny blonde has become a matter for scientific speculation. Included in the annual report of the Smithsonian Institution, of Washington, D.C., is a serious scientific paper by Dr. Ales Hrdlicka, head of the United States National Museum, dealing with the origin of the epic hair and skin of 2,000 men and women members of old American families. The real blonde, Dr. Hrdlicka finds, it is rare object, but far rarer still are the true red heads, only one of all in the absolute brunette. Among men and women he found little difference in the frequency of blonde and brunettes. But there are five red-headed women to two red-headed men. Three out of every hundred men have red hair One out of every sixteen men has real blonde hair; one out of every one hundred has hair that is truly black. But one out of every twenty has blonde hair; one of every twenty women has it. Only one out of one hundred has solid black hair. These in between are the "dirty blonde" whose hair is neither the dish-water grays, and those with no hair at all. One in every two hundred men is bald, and one in every six as one in fifty women are. Such are distinctions. The report does not deal solely with such subjects. The speed of the flight of the Waverley Royalist of the world all receive attention, as well as many other matters of similar interest. The ages of all members of the Waverley Royalist family are given, with a speed of 55 miles an hour.

Washington Fast Threatened

The threatened impairment of friendly relations between Great Britain and France is likely to crush the naval armament limitation agreement. France is the only one of the five naval powers which has failed to ratify the Washington treaties, and it is doubtful whether she will do so. Japan, however, has proposed that the United States, Great Britain and Japan observe the armament limitations that Great France fail to ratify.

Stettler Player Wins Championship Trophy at Castor Golf Tournament

All Stettler Competitors Were in First Flight

Jerry Anstenaugh, the well known bar, Mortimer, Convention, Mc-Stettler golfer, was successful in carrying off the premier honors at the Castor Golf Tournament on Saturday and Tuesday of the week, when he won the Silver Trophy in a field of 16 Individual Cup donated by F. A. Barrett of Castor for the best golfer on the tournament. He did the ... a gruelling contest, extending over the two days and played most of the way together, before reaching the finals. About fifty players were listed to take part in the tournament, unfortunately ... from Drumheller ... from Red Deer, two from Veteran, six of eight from Coronation and three from Stettler. Before the ... of the first players were arranged into three flights of eight players each for the preliminary ... were made on Monday morning, and ... Monday afternoon and Tuesday. The first flight consisted of 16 players; the second 16 and the third the balance of the competitors. All three Stettler players were entered in the first flight and the competition was keen.

First Flight

The first eight players of the first flight were separated into the championship flight to play off for the ... bole. These included: Abercrough, Stettler; Short, Coronation; Gilbert, Red Deer; Gillett, Committee; Cochran, Coronation; Brennan, Drumheller; Anstenaugh, Stettler, and Rogers, Castor. The preliminary scores in got into this class were quite low, ranging from 86 for 18 holes for Abercrough, Stettler, to 100 for Cochran, Coronation. In the second nine Gibson won the 9th and 15th, and Anstenaugh the 10th, 14th and 18th, the balance being halved. Coming to the 18th, Gibson had to win two holes to tie, but Abercrough's drive landed him in the bush in Gibson's, was short, making it impossible for Gibson to tie. Regina, July 19.—Immediate steps towards the formation of a provincial wheat pool in time for the crop this year will be taken by members of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association following discussion here on Tuesday and Wednesday. It is understood here that there is no connection at present between the efforts of the Grain Growers and those of the newer organization, the Canadian Council of the Canadian Final Board; Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of the C.R.R.; D. C. Coleman, Western Vice-president of the C.P.R.; Premier Greenfield, E. Bruckbaner and A. Chard of the Provincial Government, and a number of others.

The object of the meeting was to form a rate to Ontario market time would be given to the Alberta crop. It was decided that the Canadian Council should confer with the American product was demanded. An agreement was reached by the following officials to give a special rate on a certain limited number of carloads of Alberta potatoes. An announcement will be made shortly in this connection by Premier Greenfield.

H. W. WOOD STILL HEADS POOL, THIS YEAR, UNANIMOUS

Action of Executive Committee in Appointing Chairman of Provincial Body Ratified by Delegates at Convention

HAS NOT COMMENCED LOCAL WHEAT POOLS

Premier of Province Denies Any Intention of Doing So

Action of farmers of Southern Alberta in announcing that they will go ahead to form a wheat pool for the handling of their grain crop in that district, is positively entering H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, little concern. Speaking to The Herald this morning regarding the action of the U.F.A. local said that he would see no reason for the central organization of the Alberta farmers making any move in that connection.

In answer to questions, he explained that the wheat pool committee of the U.F.A. had decided to form a wheat pool just as soon as it is possible. The committee had investigated the situation fully and had found that it was not possible to effect the organization of such a pool in time to handle this year's crop.

"We would be ... of the farmers in the south have any effort on that decision?" he was asked.

Would Be Damaged Most

"I can see no reason why it should," he replied. "The farmers would only damage themselves by doing so. Wood was asked. "Do you think it is wise?"

"That's a matter I haven't considered," he replied. "I wouldn't care to express an opinion on it."

Faced with almost certainty of low prices for wheat this fall, farmers of this province are becoming almost desperate and are evidently willing to adopt any kind of a co-operative scheme to more effectively market their crops.

Premier Brought to Bear

The Alberta Co-operative Conference was held in Calgary some weeks ago. The Herald learned from an authoritative source that the farmers' organizations and almost demanding that the Premier of Alberta call a conference of all the central organizations that they take some action to organize a wheat pool, in view of the fact that negotiations for the forming of a wheat board for Western Canada had fallen through. At this conference members of the U.F.A. wheat pool committee and members of the Alberta government co-operative committee met and the decision arrived at that it was wise to form a pool for this year, but that steps would be taken to organize a provincial institution at the earliest possible moment, and in time to handle the 1924 crop.

Decided at Meeting

Mr. Wood produced ignorance of the action taken by the farmers of the south, at a meeting held at Medicine Hat. He had received no information regarding it, he said this morning, according to report. Clark, Chancellor, Little Bow and Taber constituencies were represented at the meeting, according to report. The following resolution was passed: "That we recommend to the action taken to inquire into the feasibility of joining up with the Alberta Co-operative Association for the marketing all farm products and especially to the practicability of handling the wheat until such time as the provincial co-operative pool shall be in operation."

Not a Breach

O. L. McPherson, speaker of the Alberta legislature, who was chairman of the meeting held at Cereal, is quoted as saying that the action of the Southern Alberta farmers does in no way constitute a breach against the United Farmers of Alberta. The farmers were quite aware, and are determined to get some kind of a co-operative scheme for this year's crop. "We ... want to make on the announcement ... that the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association would ... Manitoba steps to form a voluntary wheat pool in time for this year's crop. He intimated that this would be handled by the decision of the U.F.A. in Alberta.

Also Poor "Yankee"

The person who threw the bomb left into the eaves of "Leeton," domestic hippopotamus at the Zoo, in Cincinnati, Ohio, caused the death of that animal, famous as the largest hippopotamus ever in captivity in America. The fact was revealed at an autopsy conducted by Assistant Manager Bal Stephen of the Zoo and Dr. Stephen Stephen. The bomb, which ball was found wedged in the hippopotamus's stomach, where, unable to pass through the narrow opening, it formed a fatal obstruction, which caused the death of "Leeton's" mate, after two days of suffering. The animal, which weighed about two tons and a half, was valued at $15,000, but was considered as being worth many times this sum as an attraction at the Zoo. "Leeton's" life was imposed on a person unknown by some mischievous visitor possessing him to vandalize a monument's mouth.

Renounced Queenly Throne — Adopted the Role of a Man

Remarkable Career of Queen Christina of Sweden—Of a Restless, Unquiet Nature, She Moved From Place to Place, Always Questioning, Never Answered. But Always in Debt—A Veritable Stormy Petrel.

One of the most remarkable women of history was Queen Christina of Sweden, daughter of the famous King Gustavus Adolphus—a queen who renounced her throne and adopted the role of a man.

In her early days she is described as a queer, boyish-looking child, tomboyish, ungraceful in almost every respect, but she constantly strives for power herself to be the one which her keen possessed to her father by the astrologers.

Her mother, Maria Eleonora, a gentle, unselfish creature, showed no dislike or indifference towards the child from the first day of her birth on a cold, bleak December day of the year 1626.

Her father, the hard-fisted soldier-King, tried to console himself for her gentleness of character, her extreme timidity as a boy, and accustomed by male tutors and attendant. But the plain of Gustavus Adolphus never interrupted by doubt at the early age of thirty-eight, when little Christina was still only six years old.

This was the first great tragedy of the girl's life. Child as she was, there had been sympathy and understanding between her and her father. This can be seen in the quaint letters which she wrote to him in the midst of his campaigns in the East, the little creature of six solemnly informing the King (in stencil-hand) that she was "striving to learn to pray well."

She was left alone in the midst of her mother's gay, frivolous court—an alien. Small, slightly round-shouldered, lacking women, courtiers, and all the cross of beauty and posture which, as her own girlish "Memoirs" say, "attracted the Queen's person."

Christina was strangely out of place at Court. She took no pains to please her mother, and was not only reprimanded, but, interrupted by dumb show

Are we in earnest in our resolution to make the town and district bigger and better?

Results in some enterprises are generally proportionate to the encouragement shown by those who have other notion

We seem to be pretty well honest as to our faith in the town, but are we manifesting the enthusiasm we should to get the interests to shoulder a fixed?

Faith and enthusiasm, directed by intelligence and good judgment, accomplishes wonders when a community unites.

Here is the idea for town and country to concentrate and co-operate. Our citizens and civic organizations seem to be in accord as never before along lines of co-operation with the main commodities in town—the farmers' product.

It is not possible for any community to reach 100 per cent. in co-operation, but the nearer we can come to it the better it will be for the future prosperity of all concerned. Calm and conservative consideration of what we were right now Depression and reflection ought to make speedy and family with the spirit of give and take it seem to get together on plans to make Stettler bigger and better To do the we must learn to have faith and confidence, one with another, in all community affairs Help hold up the hand of those who are trying to do things worth while.

PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION

President Roosting of the U.S.A. calls attention to the part played in the high cost of living by the expense of distribution. This is a feature of our modern merchandising to which the citizens of the people has been undoubtedly. It is generally recognized that it costs too much to get what is produced into the hands of the consumer. Just now to remedy this situation is the problem that would confront the American people. The present does not think the difficulty unsurmountable. He has an idea that something can be done for the solution by co-operative agencies through the assistance of the state and territory governments. He says: "We have 22% of the world's wealth and plan, but he has no plan for economizing on the basis of the savings banks and building and loan associations and for the state to give aid to co-operative efforts on the part of the people who produce and distribute the vast varieties of trade.

PERMANENT BOARDS

It is difficult to conceive a legislative argument against the passage of the American contention that the geographical main market highways, beneath with permanent "hard" surface, such as the McMurray Trail Route. The plan speaks for itself. It may be permissible under present circumstances to construct less expensive roads in less travelled territory, but for the chief arteries of travel, permanence ought to be a fundamental consideration.

We are in the midst, or perhaps on the down, of a motor age. Hardly an everywhere have become motor travelconscious, and the number of vehicles rapidly increases. Building permissible highways is a short-sighted one. It would be to every business without exception to appreciate that no rain will fail. Highways must be built not only to fit the difference between American and Canadian systems of justice. Canadian justice doesn't put so much emphasis on the evidence of the accused. Canadian juries don't pay so much attention to technicalities. Canadian judges don't sum up to juries with the same regard for the rights of the accused that is customary in the United States. Canadian juries are not required to be unanimous in order to convict. Canadian courts are not cluttered up with appeals. Canadian criminals are not given the benefit of every doubt. Canadian criminals are not given the benefit of every doubt. Canadian criminals are not given the benefit of every doubt

PROMINENT CATHOLIC LAYMAN APPEALS FOR PROHIBITION

(From The American Issue)

In a mass meeting held at St. Mary's Hall, Bayonne, N.J., on October 2, Thomas C. Sheehan, one of the most prominent business men of Bayonne City and a leading Catholic layman, electrified his audience by an impassioned appeal for prohibition.

While priests in the gallery hastily improvised Mr. Sheehan's remarks into the personal liberty babble with the following apt illustration:

"Oh, I know the old talk of personal liberty and all the rest of it. I used to be a believer in personal liberty myself. I got at my home on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday the pet hogs we have and eggs for breakfast. On Friday the milk and cream began. Who is interfering with my personal liberty? I do not make a butter about it. It is a right, and I insist on it when I say That is all there is to it. I do not have to interfere with my neighbor's personal liberty, or care who there I can get all the bacon I want on Friday morning, but that has to do with the country."

Referring to the attacks made by Edward and Silver on the Eighteenth Amendment, Mr. Sheehan said:

"I am for the Eighteenth Amendment first, last and all time. All of my life I have prayed for it and hoped for it and when it passed the last of the states the solemn dose of Amen that all the power of hell and heaven could never part it out, I said 'Amen.' And I am against any man, or party or paper or anybody who attempts to pull it out.

"I know all of the conversation and all of the arguments, pro and con, on this question. Teddy Roosevelt is the only Democratic candidate for Governor of the State of New Jersey that ever had the courage to say that the Teddy Roosevelt drink because he was thirsty. Well, I drink because I like it, and what are you going to say of a man who, believing that the Eighteenth Amendment is a thing that the weaker members of society should be protected by the strong, would vote to repeal the amendment and the tendency to wipe out crime and the consequent reduction of the taxes of the American citizen. I will have none of that sentiment. I will have none of it.

"I am a candidate. When I finish a campaign I am interested in the amount of votes I get. When the people elect me I want to deliver at all times a 100 per cent. product. The Constitution of the United States is the piece of machinery that is handed to my public servants and we do not abort them to my mind. We employ them as our servants to see that they throw the machine in there. It is the duty of the people's business and the public servant when duty it is to obtain for the people a product front that is as good as possible, the best that can be made under any circumstances, irrespective of whose it is, or who is a partisan in support it.

"There are two men standing in front of the American saloon door. One says he will open it, the other says he will not. I am interested in the man who says he will not. I say to the man who says he will open it, I am going to do it and I am going to do everything in my power to see that he is aborted. I am not going to do it as a Democrat. I am not going to do it as a Republican. I am not going to do it as a Socialist. I am going to do it as an American. I am not a business man who feeds and who clothes and who looked soon to the development of his boy.

"I have three boys who were probably born with all the weaknesses and temptations of the race, and I would be a coward if I had any temptations that may give them the opportunity to do anything wrong. I will not subject them to those pathways for ever What is good for my boy is good for your boy. The man or woman who doesn't feel that way doesn't feel at all. I am going to vote with the understanding that the saloon door may or may not be opened, but the pathway, by committing a crime against the boys of Europe has got to be closed, however extenuating, will be overcome them for

"The Eighteenth Amendment is a part of its Constitution. I belong and I am going to stay there as a loyal boy and I do not want to obey there as a fraternity pool hall boy, and I am going to stay on the work and it is having for a country where boys can be born, and take it and get all of the boons I want.

"Home is plain, fellers, guns for all times, and if you have a thirst that needs you need get it, there are no laws to prevent you from satisfying it. Become a partner of the bootlegger. Become a partner of the violator of the Constitution of your country, or else limit your drinking. Bring Home Your Barber and go where they will let you have it."

The course at Olds this year included the school fair centers of Olds and Gleichen and the winners in the school fair districts attached to these centers participated in the course. At Claresholm the winners in 21 school fair districts participated. At Olds there were 105 students and at Claresholm 82 students. The boys and girls enjoyed the course exceedingly. Another course will be held during the week of July 23rd

Tar Sands for Pavements

Great interest has attached to the experiments being carried on during the past week at the Exhibition grounds, in relation to establish the feasibility of the tar sands from McMurray for road making purposes. At the exhibition grounds a strip of pavement was laid, the tar sands being used for the purpose just as they were taken from the ground. A coarse gravel base was laid, and on top of this a mixture of from 75 to 80 per cent. tar-sand gravel, with the heated tar sands was rolled on. In a few minutes the pavement was ready for standing traffic, and appeared to make a very satisfactory job.

Another set of experiments is being carried on at the exhibition grounds. These experiments are to be being extracted from the tar sands, and their manufacture into different forms of road material. The object of this is to establish the best process for extracting and treating the tar from the sands, which would eliminate the necessity of hauling freight on the sand from McMurray. Both experiments appear to be successful. Further experiments will be required to establish their permanent value.

If the experiments prove that the tar sands can be used successfully for road making, the cost of road pavement in the province will be greatly reduced. The officials of the Provincial Government, as well as of the cities of Edmonton and Calgary, are watching the results with considerable interest, as it concerns the development of one of Alberta's best resources.

HARMATTING RANGE BEEF CATTLE

Market Control Through Quality—Short Elimination of Bad Supply —Use of Cattle on Hand Basis

By Tim. McLennan, Commissioner of Grazing, Victoria, B.C.)

The average price paid for range beef on the hoof and its increase is a large item throughout the range country at this time

The sudden drop from the war time averages to that of the last twelve months has had a most depressing effect on the industry and the consensus of opinion among the stockmen is that there must be a change for the better or the range cattle business must fail.

Various remedies have been suggested, the principal of which appears to be:—Regulations of the middleman's operations; establishment of a maximum price; selling agencies to reach the consumer more directly, one form of which is the co-operative principle; better supervision of herds on the open range.

I think everyone realizes that the more planting of the beef on the home market to suit the only thing to be considered in this big question. The production of cattle for beef is unlimited and its exception here before the natural is a big demand for it, and no barring a overpaying is for its reception by the public until it has reached the limit. The present high or indifferent matters of the market is merely the public's expression in dollars and cents of its appreciation of the package offered here attention-ought, therefore, to be given to breeding, to quality and to feeding in order that a fat cattle may be developed and prepared for market And just as important is the question of a good and central sale agency which will produce and save for a big annual crop of cattle ready for future beef For in this quality only crop lies the profits.

Whatever a market is controlled by one buyer, or two or more buyers working together, it is not at all unlikely that the cattleman may find himself in a disadvantageous position, in the marketing of his beef unless the buyer is interested in his dealings with the purchaser by the fact that his beef is of known quality and is in demand.

Market control by the middleman generally has a tendency to establish prices at figures which do not provide for a great deal more revenue than the cost which might reasonably be expected to cover operating costs and, perhaps, a little more. I say "cost reasonably be expected" for I am thinking of the cost of feeding and conserving to get the largest possible crop of quality cattle, raise them to the home and place them on the market in good condition Otherwise, the middleman could not be held responsible for any loss due to carelessness or lack of knowledge on the part of the range producer. The price received from him does not cover this loss.

I know from long experience that inattention to the cattle while on the range, due to the condition of the range itself are big factors in influencing the returns to the grower.

Close observers will agree with me that the greater number of cattle which are marketed annually in very unacceptable condition and that quality and uniformity are lacking. The animal is not stand out as to quality and uniformity. Where there is any improvement it is left with either middleman or consumer. If beef of good or even great quality is produced it will arise for it and the middleman will be quick to see that demand for it will, perhaps, not be ever-keen to let the benefit of the good beef know of

The Consumers' Demands

Another factor which influences between his prce to the grower and his price to the consumer, after paying the charges, is that, with a higher price being paid the grower than he is now receiving, there will be a tendency that the middleman will greatly increase his gross margin, and will do so by close co-operation among the growers instead by a knowledge of the consumers' demands and the cost of production. The definite demand will not arise of itself. It requires

The farmer and the banker

THOUSANDS of farmers throughout Canada have proved for themselves the value of a connection with The Bank of Toronto.

The opening of a small deposit account has, in hundreds of cases, been the means of establishing a friendship and confidence, and the human element from the Bank from time to time for farm operations have born of great assistance in helping many FORMER TOWNIES to success.

Farmers' business is important to The Bank of Toronto as any other business. We welcome the Farmer at any of our branches.

Round the Country

THE WESTERN SOUTH
Yields the Case of Gimlet—
100,000,000 bushels of western grain was lost year hauled from Port Wi liam by American boats to American ports, this over American railroads to American Atlantic ports, and from there to world markets.

Even at present discriminating freight rates, this 100,000,000 bushels could have been handled via Van couver and a saving effected in favor of central ports per bushel. Equalized freight rates would mean a saving that would increase that saving to an amount sufficient to build railways about prosperity to western Canada.

And is there any reason why these freight rates westward should not be equalized? Is there any justification for rates that charge 15 cents per bushel for hauling grain from Calgary or Edmonton to Vancouver, as compared with a rate of 16½ cents per bushel from Calgary or Edmonton to Port William, a haul double the distance? The grades from Edmonton to Vancouver are certainly no higher, and not less than the grades from Edmonton to Fort William. In the interests of Canada to force western farmers to ship their grain to any American and intermediate consumption instead of saving that money to keep Canadians employed.

Take the Case of Hardwickshire—

If it is good business for Canada to help western farmers save money on shipping the crop they sell, it ought to be equally good business to help those farmers save money on shipping the things they buy. It costs $7.00 to ship a piano from New York to Seattle via Panama. It costs $80.00 to ship the same piano, all rail, from Boston to Canada to Vancouver. It costs to ship an ordinary bath tub, all rail, from Montreal to Vancouver, $9.00—more than 5 cents to ship the same bath tub from Pennsylvania to Seattle. Mr. J. H. Ashdown, Winnipeg, is going to demonstrate!

We bring our goods in by way of Montreal and have to pay the freight; it makes the charges so much that I must double what they would be if the Panama Province were, what—a boiling basin in the Yukon—we could ship in.

Is it possible for prairie farmers to prosperous under such conditions? Is it possible for the prairie provinces to escape the maelstrom of commercial bankruptcy under such conditions? The issue is not a local or sectional one; it concerns the development and wealth of an Empire of which the whole Dominion has the greatest possible interest.

The Security Is—

Full and unrestricted use of the Panama Canal, and an equalization of the present discriminating freight rates in the West. And the money must be applied at the earliest possible moment, because only at peril to national prosperity can present conditions be continued.

PALLACY OF BUYING BY MAIL.

How would you like to journey to the nearest city for a pound of sugar, or a yard of muslin, or a spool of thread, or a needle? And how would you like to make the trip when you need a power-station filled on a Sunday with death running on a rate?

You would make some money—if found to such an extremity—and then more mines.

You would say—and justly so—that a town in which you cannot buy a pound of sugar, or a yard of muslin, or a spool of thread, or a needle or even get a prescription filled, is a place not worth living in.

Yet our merchants can only afford to carry a limited number of lines of merchandise as long as you buy other commodities elsewhere.

It is not doing this town any good to have the critic shopping here and then chase off to send a set of wash to a Saskatoon house when you want something which the merchant here has a chance to make a dollar

Mail order is a thing we condemn. It is destroying our business. When you want a horse shoe you don't take him to a plumber you take him to a blacksmith. Why? Because the man there is at the top here in that line. He can get your repair from centre and in the shortest time. So when you want anything in the line we carry in stock, remember, therefore, we have time to see how they like it, we can don't we have time and help taking it as well as in Alberta.

Yours,

G. C. Bentley.

U.F.O. HEALDES ALL NOT RIGHT WITHIN RANKS

Issue Statement Dealing With Reply for Refusal of the Drury Government

Toronto, July 28.—That the United Farmers of Ontario will attack the present session of the provincial legislature and a number of the U.F.O. members will support the government in voting against the party's policy is declared in a statement issued by the U.F.O. executive tonight.

Further in writing out the policy of their movement regarding political action was the announcement made by the U.F.O executive here tonight following a meeting held to consider the questions answers out of the joint report of the two Toronto.

The Statement

The U.F.O. executive handed out the following statement:

"There have been controversial matters under discussion affecting some of our organization. This is particularly true in connection with the Canadian Labor Party.

"Considerable misunderstanding has been created in two men. Our membership then became confused.

"Broadening out has been another matter that has caused considerable discussion during the past three years. So far no any thing in connection with the subject has been set out there has been nothing well defined other than the resolution passed at the annual convention in December, 1927, to the effect that the U.F.O. organization should not be transformed into a new political party.

"Until this matter is re-opened and a more comprehensive declaration in regard to the term "broadening out" is passed at a similar convention, your executive has no authority whatever in setting out the policy of our movement organization, financial or otherwise, or to act in accordance with a resolution passed at the conference of similar men, defeated candidates and the U.F.O. executive, which authorizes the appointment of a committee to consider calling a convention."

The said naturally follows, the U.F.O. executive declared, "that the report of such joint committee not be acted upon unless it has the most profound effect on the U.F.O. annual convention. In the event of the annual convention refusing the same, such a plan of organization for political purposes will become the definite course of the movement. Then the matter of future policy and platform passes into the hands of the electors who are called together."

British Request for Prompt Answer to Note Worries Poincare

BELGIANS SWINGING TO BRITISH OPINION

(By John Roche)

London.—The resolve of the state of the European drama has shifted to Paris, where Poincare is expected on a week or ten days. London and Berlin not expect that France will hamper the supply, and Paris is reported optimistic about the nature of the Belgian reply to the British note, in spite of reflection to the contrary.

It is understood here that the French government is anxiously awaited over the Belgian reply, and that the population of the town is with England and Belgium. Belgium is reported to be highly nervous and Hague is there. Belgium is a country which has been a relative tranquility for a month and the Belgians are hoping more than ever that the Belgian reply will be satisfactory to the Belgian people.

RUSSIAN WHEAT COMES Back

(Edmonton Bulletin)

Russia is said to have a crop so prosperous which will allow it to export some wheat this year, for the first time since the war ended. The prospect is one which will please a large number of people in Canada, for the Russian farmers are going to be a very serious factor in the wheat markets of the world for many years to come. Russia is the only country which can supply wheat in large quantities, therefore, we have time to see how they like it, we don't we have time and help taking it as well as in Alberta.

COUNSELLOR CLARK GIVES JUDGE EMMETT NEW ROLE

If Mr. Bush's Sympathy Got That Big Smear Clarke-ed It Did

Judge Morson, of the division court of Gatineau, was recently visited with a curious person, for which he had no explanation of leaving qualified, and which, in his capacity of administering justice, he could not in all conscience appropriate into himself. He was sitting in his accustomed judicial manner, discussing justice, when a stranger of cast for a disputed indebtedness came up before him.

In the midst of a clash between the opposing counsels, the judge broke in: "Did the defendant ever submit the complaint?" questioned Judge Morson.

"Yes, your Honor, he did, until I threatened him with suit," said the plaintiff.

"What did he say then?" pressed the Judge.

"He told me to go to the devil!" solemnly spoke the plaintiff.

"And when did you do then?" inquired the judge, with interest.

"I came straight to you," was the reply.

It is six o'clock in the morning at No. 10 Downing Street, where the Premier lies sleeping. Suddenly there is a loud knocking at the door. Mr. Stanley Baldwin, still senile. The night porter in his little room downstairs wakes with a start. Then he remembers it is a starry ring in the servants' bell. Mr. Baldwin has locked himself into the day-porter corner on the previous afternoon and gone to bed, and the household quietly gets astir.

In a little while the valet appears on the door and delivers three sacks of mail matter, that are taken at once to the sitting-room, where four regular but postal sorters begin the work of sorting the letters for the Premier's mail.

The work proceeds swiftly. The letters are sorted into wire baskets labelled "Home," "Foreign," "Personal," and the baskets are then taken to the different secretarial departments.

The Prime Minister's personal correspondence is attended to in the first instance by his private secretary, who sends it on to the Prime Minister.

Mr. Baldwin's work is full of correspondence, and consequently he has to work hard. He is a very early riser, and by 8 o'clock he is at his desk in the Prime Minister's room, where he works steadily until breakfast time.

Then he takes a short walk in the garden, and returns to his room to work until lunch time.

Lunch is a very simple meal, and after it the Premier usually takes a short rest. He is a keen golfer, and he plays a round or two every week-end.

Then he returns to his room to work until dinner time, when he goes to bed, and the household quietly gets astir.

A meeting to discuss formation of a Co-operative Live-stock Shipping Association will be held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, August 2nd, at 8 p.m. It is expected that representatives from a wide area will come to consider this important question. L. H. Gieck, Red Deer representative of the U.G.G., will be present and address the meeting. S. G. Garrison will preside.

Mrs. Frank Colpo was suddenly attacked by appendicitis on last Saturday and late in the evening was removed to Chater Hospital where she was successfully operated on. We are glad to know she is making good progress towards recovery.

The Lott Boosts are certainly a live body and their sale of ice cream last Saturday was a great success. They have organized a "Last Week but Big" Sale Labs and go up there on Tuesday, August 7th. Mrs. Harry Hunsley will be camp commandant and chaperone for the party, she is well known to the girls and her presence assures that they will have a very jolly holiday.

Mr George Davies and Miss Marjorie Lobsen of Redkurk were married at Chester on the 28th inst. The young people will settle in Gadsby and we give them a cordial welcome and best wishes for their future happiness and welfare.

Mr. A. L. Bender, our local M.P.P. will address a meeting of the electors of this district on Thursday evening, August 9th, at the Gadsby Town Hall, to which everybody is invited—ladies especially so. The meeting has some interesting facts to put before his constituents and it is hoped the Hall will be filled to capacity that night. There will be a few musical selections, and one or two short addresses, besides the address by Mr Sander.

Last, a prospective doctor, who left town just a few weeks ago to arrange for bringing in his goods and chattels and his bride, has been heard from since:

One local ball zone had a visit by Watrous' all-star, up for last Wednesday night but the unexpected arrival of two local re-porters on the afternoon train put the kibosh on the aggregation. Three of the team are members of rounds have an honorary visit to the game was called off.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs Wm. Dunn is not at present about her friends—sick and there is a possibility that she may again have to go to the Coast before she seems to be more able. Meantime she is expecting a visit from her father, who has not seen a member of friends here on his former visits.

FATTENING LAMBS

(Experimental Farms Note)

The majority of western lambs are sent to the market by the owners as feeder animals—rather than as fat lambs. There they accept the main profit of the lamb crop—but the experience of a number of feeders and farmers, more especially during the last two years—in finishing their own lambs has shown that profits are to be made from this branch of farm operations. While the past two years may have given a wider margin than is usual between the prices of feeder and fat lambs, yet ordinarily, in normal years a small, sufficient margin will be obtained to make the operation profitable.

The first requisite in the successful fattening of lambs for market purposes is early hatching. A good type of animal, and early hatching must be had, or profits are lessened. Another matter of the greatest importance is the feeding of the proper rations. While the best results have been obtained from a combination of grain and roughage, yet the roughage may be omitted from the ration for a short period of time, especially during the finishing period. Lambs will do well on grain alone for a short time, but should not be confined to this ration for any length of time. Lambs will do well on roughage alone, but they are not profitable. These feeds, grain and roughage, should form a portion of one or other, in two or more, but preferably both. Experiments have shown that the addition of a small amount of oil cake, to two or three pounds of grain per head per day, has proved satisfactory results. It is claimed that the oil cake tends to make the animal more digestible, and thus get more out of the feed. Roots are also given freely for fattening lambs; their feeding will prove most satisfactory results but should be used only when their price is sufficiently low to make it conceivable to them rather than the oats and barley.

The length of time that will elapse between putting the lambs on feed and the marketing of same will depend on the weight of the lambs at purchase (lambs of from one quarter of a pound to one half pound daily per head) and all that are likely to be obtained and, as the most desirable weight for marketing when finished is between eighty and ninety pounds, a sixty five pound lamb might be purchased in early October and finished in good condition for the Christmas market and heavier lambs carried over for marketing during the months of January, February and March.

The roughage part of the ration that is the fairly constant in quantity and quality during the fattening period, and the grain part that will vary considerably during the time. Should the lambs not be doing well on the grain ration, change the grain of from one quarter of a pound to one half pound daily per head. Should this not be satisfactory, change again, and so on, gradually increasing until the lambs are doing well and are making satisfactory gains. Lambs should be marketed until the lambs are marketed.

Alberta Wheat Pool to Be Operating Within 30 Days if Hall of Province's Farmers Sign Contracts, Says Sapiro

More Than 2000 Persons at Victoria Pavilion Hear Co-operative Marketing Expert Declare Pool Can and Will Be Formed Immediately

Portentous of a co-operative voluntary wheat pool to function effectively for the 1923 crop in Alberta can be accomplished in 30 days.

Definite, decisive, concrete steps to this end have already been taken.

Canada is the key to the solution of the marketing problem in the world to-day.

If organization along the right lines is effected it will mean the dawn of prosperity and happiness for every rural rural dweller within the confines of the length and breadth of the Dominion.

Alberta by its action will have started a movement which will mean the establishment of the pool in other provinces.

If Canadian banks are led ready to [illegible] movement, United States capital to the extent of two to three hundred million dollars is available. Wheat is the best collateral in the world.

Half of the farmers in Alberta must join the movement.

The contracts will be ready in five days.

It can be done! It will be done!

This, in brief, was the message of Aaron Sapiro, co-operative marketing expert, to more than 2,000 persons when he spoke in Victoria pavilion last night to a gathering representative of all ranks of life. Men in business, in the professions, in the great trade, farmers, merchants, lawyers, all listened while the man from prosperous California brilliantly, clearly and emphatically delivered his message. And they listened with rapt attention, although at several points in his address those after whom should be the home, and he sat down amidst a spontaneous burst of applause, the greatest with which his subject has been given in this city.

Introduced by Hoper

Sapiro was introduced by Hoper George H. Webster as the highest living authority on the question of organization, co-operative orderly marketing of farm products. On the platform also were Premier Herbert Greenfield of Alberta; D. G. Buxwell, K.C., M.P., Victoria; H. E. [illegible], M.P., and other prominent citizens.

Sapiro, in the course of his address, outlined the Californian pool plan, explaining how it was properly organized and how it never had failed. He told how when pool organized there will be absolutely no need.

"The world price of wheat is determined at Liverpool. There men there week both sides of the game, and they certainly are some shrewd men. You are being swindled by a comparison with all wheat producing countries of the world, by countries where labor is cheap, and there is much cheaper proportion. Then you have bonus to dump wheat and get paid, not on the Canadian basis, but on the basis of the value of India or Russia. You raise one-eighth of the world's wheat and you export one-third of the world's supply. Canada is the key to the solution of the world wheat problem. Canada can control the export organized along the right lines. Canada can be the stabilizer of the world price of wheat. If you do not organize along the right lines, it will be impossible for you to receive a decent reward for your labors and it will be impossible to stabilize the world price and greater prosperity.

Pool Has Been Tried

"Pools have been a pool in Alberta. It will be a non-profit, absolutely co-operative association. There is nothing in it but what is the best interests of the farmer. It will be organized on democratic lines of one man, one vote. We will ask the growers to deliver their wheat to the association and again a free or no cost contract. If farmers have lire on their grain, we will not be collectors for the bank, agreement not to pay the producer until the loan is paid, so that the farmer cannot lose mortgages into his crop, or the like. WHEAT POOL MEETING

The meeting to be held in the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon, August 15th, at 3 p.m., is one of the most important, if not the most important, that has been held in town since wheat growing has become a staple industry in Alberta. The next thirty years may make history for the province in more ways than one. There will be the usual rush to get the wheat in, the old crop out before the coming of frost, and there will be a race to get the wheat marketed re-supervisedly in an orderly and stabilized manner The foremost thought centred in the wheat, we say, is, in combination with other divisions in the province, control the marketing of wheat.

Some one may say that wheat board cannot be organized in thirty days, and the wish is father of the thought. There is only one man, however, in the province who cannot organize a wheat board in that length of time, and that man is not Mr. Bulyea, or Mr. West, or Premier Greenfield. It is Mr. Stettler. If the various public bodies are united with the farmers to form a wheat board the wheat board will come.

For this reason the meeting on Wednesday next should show a truly co-operative spirit and a united effort should be made to push the wheat board to the front with a record number of farmers becoming members of the pool.

THE FARMER AND INDUSTRIAL MARKETING

Serious charges have been brought against elevator co-operation by farmer representatives since the Royal Grain Commission has been sitting at Moose Jaw and other Saskatchewan points. Evidence has been adduced to show that shortages have been made, export irregularities, and a favored attorney of co-ordinators is charged in with the purpose of "doing stuff" the farmer out of his just rate.

If these charges are true the case then is serious. But even if the stockholders were ten times greater than charged. It would not have been so serious to the farmer's interest as the entire system of grain marketing which has established a set of petty official middlemen who prey on the farmer's earnings.

The system has been controlled by neither the farmer nor the public, one diminished his profits one thousandfold as well as the system that has been controlled against his loyalty, and under the sanction of the existing marketing system.

And, sincerely, the farmer will serve his interest best by not trying to up the weakness of the system, but by the pressure of public opinion and legislation and putting a new one in its place.

The principle of co-operative marketing is good. Co-operation is no good to do wonders—starting at point of production, has to meet the standard of living in hundred of American communities. It has, in California alone, increased the farmer's share of the consumer's dollar from 7 cents to 31 cents.

That same system applied to Western Canada would wipe out all the parasitical strata to which the West says farmer is exposed.

Aaron Sapiro, famous co-operative marketing expert, has been discussing this question with Alberta farmers. A reporter on Page 1 His visit should benefit the end of the negotiations.

to get enough country elevators. I suppose there are nine big companies you are going to sign to them, we have got to get them with "You will say, "We are a co-operative association and we have got a contract to be supported of five years, that is lots of time," and we would like to buy your elevators and agree to pay for them over a period of five years." Some of them will say, "Nothing doing" I do not want to sell my elevators for confiscatory money " "All right, if you are not going to sell on that price we will have to study out a way to get a country elevator right next to yours, we have got over half the board signed up and there are going to be no men who will lose money if we give them a cross guarantee that that wheat will go behind and promise to pay."

Will Sell Elsewhere

You will find those men will sell out to the United States. There is a plan we have worked out for tobacco and cotton and wheat, and we do not we guarantee the farmer over a term of five years. To do any harm by going through elsewhere space now I believe is that that is no answer for that reason. But you have got some elsewhere space, as little as it is. Use that elsewhere space for whatever it is worth and cover the difficulty by trying to lower or lay all the other elevators down by your hands as and if you can, and then you will have a definite proposition on the strength of your five years term contract.

Money Can Be Secured

If you cannot get money in Canada to help you build elevators, on the strength of the guarantee of the American Cotton Co-operative Association you can get some over in the United States to advance you money without any interest, if you care to help you build elevators on that security. Japan Export Co. just sent us to the Potato Growers' Association and only had to guarantee one dollar to buy them could little potato warehouses on that basis. He is interested in helping the farmers get on to stand on their own feet; it is not a commercial deal. He will get some money even for Canada if you have confidence in your own people to do not trust them better elsewhere than in the United States. Canada will have to respond to the plans of the farmers or else they will go over the line.

Have Paid for Elevators

You will find past elevators we can send them and you will pay for them out of the first two or three years crop of the wheat Here is one thing that I want to warn you about. They have already bought and paid for every elevator in Alberta two or three times over. Every one of them has been paid for and if they are the owners men they will say they will give you the chance to buy them and pay for them out of the crop and try them at the end of this particular payment of the Wall, there is the whole story about the belongs

THE PRAIRIE FRUIT GARDEN

(Experimental Farms Note)

Strawberries, raspberries, black currants and white currants all succeed remarkably well on the prairies. Yields per acre are usually almost every year in Southern Saskatchewan or Ontario. Generally a visit in late May or early June may injure the blossoms or a hailstorm in July or August may destroy the fruit, or a heat wave may kill the crop of plums or raspberry canes, but these disasters occurred only once in our fourteen years work at the Experimental Station at Southern.

Twenty rows of strawberries fifty feet long and three feet apart are sufficient to supply a family of six with all the fresh strawberries they can use, and a short twine the row will furnish in addition all the canned strawberries the housewife cares to put up. Forty-eight plants of raspberries and half as many each of red, white and black currants plants set four feet between plants and six feet between rows will furnish all of these fruits required by the average family.

Now is the time to begin preparations for the spring. Apply manure to the ground, plough deeply and work it well for the remainder of this month. No commercial fertilizer is will then be in immediate condition to start spring for planting.

For varieties choose Sunbeam Dunlop or Dakota strawberry, Herbert raspberry, Clinton black currant, Long Bunch Holland red currant and Fay's Cherry white currant. These may be had from a reliable nurseryman in the Canadian West.

Do not expect any fruit the same year as planting. If blossoms appear pinch them off and the plants will be much stronger for future production.

A year from the time of planting transplant runners to a new bed and so have a new strawberry patch every year.

After the raspberries have fruited cut out all the old canes and burn them.

Keep the currants pruned back every year.

After the second year plantation has been planted for six years plant a new one and plough the old one up.

Prune trees every more slowly forming young wood from the nurseries and plant them in a row 8 feet apart until the tree begins to bear.

FORD PRECEDENT TO COMPTER O. STATED IN ITS LIQUOR DECISION

New Orders Must Not Conflict with Long Established Usage

London, Aug. 2.—Great Britain can discovered what to said to be a precedent established by the United States herself, which, it is claimed, bans, opposed the extension of British ships should be permitted to enter United States ports with liquor under seal.

This cropped up in the House of Commons yesterday. Sir William Davison asked Donald McNeil, under secretary for foreign affairs, whether in connection with the Royal Charter granted to the Hudson Bay Company, the Government would not agree to the Canadian government's request that the government's order in council of 1921 which forbids vessels to be entered in their ports, had it down that those conditions must not conflict with such treaties and long established usage regulating commercial intercourse among civilized nations, which no one would be violated without giving due notice of complaint to nations whose interests would be affected by their violation."

Sir William said the dispatch in question in international law and the precedent established by the United States government by the order in council.

Mr. Macdonald said the dispatch which might follow nothing that the Government could say affecting the question of the United States government by the order in council.

DON'T ADD TO OLD OIL; CHANGE IT INSTEAD

F. W. Beatty
Hardisty Alta. Phone 17
"When your old pressure-spoilt motor conditions of the parts, don't think you can really help it by adding a quart or two of fresh oil — caution the lubricating aspect.

If you were trying to wash your hands and you found the basin half full of water, you wouldn't expect a clean job just because you had poured in a couple of tumblers full of clean water.

It's the same with your motor. If it's in good shape it should get fresh oil every six hundred miles or thereabouts; but if ought to get no additional supply between.

One of the principal functions of a good oil is to stay whole; not to break down, and thereby lose the tremendous advantage of a straight-run, body oil. Either of our "Imperial" Motor oils stock" Cylinder stock is good for certain uses; it is a very poor lubricant for a modern engine. Under the high temperatures found in a running motor, any oil contaminated with "cylinder stock" is pretty sure to suffer. The best light oil in such a compound burns off, leaving only the sticky, gummy cylinder stock. It is the gummy residue which coats your cylinder walls, reduces the power and carbon and bake into the hard flinty mass which we call carbon deposit. What has to be stopped or burned off, an expensive process.

You are going to burn some oil no matter what the grade you use. It is impossible for your oil to have a high quality, clean burning, to leave a minimum residue able to resist decomposition under the extreme heat of combustion. That can best be had in a body of refined oil, free from too large a gum, such as Sunoco Motor Oil.

With a good oil of that sort, you will be sure of a minimum deterioration at all times, and a reasonable length of time between drainings. Your motor will keep clean, and your car will run with less trouble.

SASKATCHEWAN TO PAY ALL PRICE AMOUNT ACCORDING TO GRADE, GRAIN GROWERS PRESS SAY.

Broad Outlines of Wheat Pool Include Plan to Have Farmers Be Well Pay Farmer a Proportion of Grain Value on Delivery

Regina, Aug. 8.—Complete arrangements in detail for the operation of the wheat pool in Saskatchewan have been made by the provincial executive of the United Farmers of Alberta, according to the Grain Growers' Guide, official organ of the U.F.A. movement. The plan of operation is almost identical with that of the Alberta pool, and it is expected that the pool will be in operation in Saskatchewan by the middle of August.

The Saskatchewan executive met at Regina on July 31 and 1 for the purpose of completing the wheat pool plan. It was thought by the executive that the pool could be put into operation in Saskatchewan by the middle of August, but late for the province to proceed with safety the operation of a pool for the harvest of 1923.

Some of the members of the U.F.A. executive were in favor of starting the pool with the present crop, but the majority decided that it would be better to wait until next year. All arrangements have been completed for the

The meeting called for Thursday night to discuss the formation of a Co-operative Livestock Shipping Association was fairly well attended. L. H. Gaetz, of Red Deer, a prominent official of the U.G.G. was present and explained the good system that has been so successfully operated by his company for some time. After the notes many questions were asked and Mr. Gaetz gave full and satisfactory replies to all. A vote was taken as to whether an association for this district should be formed and 34—not unanimous. The various U.F.A. locals in the district will be asked to send delegates to attend a meeting on 16th of August when the association will be properly constituted and officers appointed. Mr. Gaetz was handled by Mr. Kinnaird.

Mr. Kirshner, Rep't of the U.F.A. local, has just informed me that the meeting of the Livestock Association on the 16th will be held in connection with a meeting to organize the district for the Wheat Pool. It is expected that some of the speakers appointed to work out the details of the Pool will be there to address that meeting. Contracts for the Pool are now out, and having signed up in large numbers; copies will be on hand at the meeting and it is hoped that a big crowd of farmers will be present and sign up. CANADA GETS EVEN!

The product on the side of the line against the Canadian exchange on the part of Canadian pulp would be a very serious matter, and the remedy suggested in the newspaper report of the interview referred to at Ottawa is one that would probably be very effective. But there is another remedy which would be more effective still, and which Canada has only to apply to bring the United States to its knees in a very few months. That remedy is the withholding of Canadian wheat from the United States market. Canada produces enough wheat not only to feed herself, but to export a large surplus, and when the whole or part of her market, is taken advantage of by a monopoly of the wheat growing country, the thing to prevent an increase of from going it then we can't understand.

There should be no trade barriers between the United States and Canada any more than between Iowa and Montana. The one argument for trade barriers, national self-sufficiency at most of war, is not a valid argument between the United States and Canada because an underlying necessity of 1,000 miles minimum is to the unending point. To have trade barriers between the United States and Canada is to irritate on both sides of the line, and to hark growth on both sides of the line. One company or two—how another, until we shall all be overwhelmed by the reveal of unalloyed trade folly.

WARREN G. HARDING

America is in mourning for her president. The sincere and unexpected passing of Warren G. Harding which shocked the country at the very time when the people felt secure in the assurance that he had passed the crisis of his late illness brings about a national upheaval such as any nation must know when it is suddenly deprived of a chief executive and leader. The congress of the United States Government in each state will join with the country a break deep in the solidarity visited by the grandest of men. President Coolidge already has taken the oath of office and assumed the presidency. He already has announced that it will be his policy to carry out the program of his predecessor. There will be little or no change or deviation in the administration of public affairs. But in the passing of President Harding is undoubtedly felt the fact that the people of the United States overwork their presidents. That is because the enormous responsibilities and the fearful strain that is constant examine on creating a nine day of state. They power that even encourage work leads to President Harding set before himself when he departed on his trip to Alaska. His report, if they do not demand, that he subject himself to the strenuous necessity of public life. It is officially reported that the president died of a cerebral apoplexy—something supposed to be brain—as the consumer way of expressing it. But by many of those who knew him intimately he death will always be attributed to one to overwork at a period in life when most men in business begin to slacken the pace—the same exercise which every his immediate predecessor in the White House to retirement, death. Harding must, however, succeed to a life of responsibilities. From the great war the Harding's administration inherited the most explosive and perplexing problems in the history of the country. America had negotiated the League of Nations, yet Europe and even minor opponents of the League in the United States were trying in this country to play a leading part in world representation. National morale in this country in 1920 was in its low water mark. Industry was paralyzed, money was unobtainable and the brink of war loomed overfast Russians was bad, labor troubles menaced many standards had broken down under the fiery stimulus of wartime thrills. Mr Hard ing, summoned by the voice of the people, himself and his administration to "the restoration of normalcy" in social and natural relations; the return to better understanding between individuals; the substitution of tranquility for discontent; healing rather than nursing wounds; the cessation of internal politics; the realization that the first need is to get back to work." Here was the man, and all he wrote in the history of government to save a country in peace and prosperity. Business, with its banks, confidence of their property rights, had been bolstered from bankruptcy. Boredom as to what constitutes the necessities of life illegitimate expenditure is to be placed in the hands of the people themselves.

Of course, our laws are much more humane and liberal than those of the old days. Our codes are much more subtle and split legal hairs with a bewildering nicety.

But the primitive Bulgar seems to have retained much good sense and much efficiency as we do.

And his direct methods will have a particular appeal to those unfortunate individuals who have at some time or another fallen under the blandishments of a get-rich-quick artist.

SPEAKING OF BANANAS

Changes fruit dealers say that the sugar-shortage means, "Can We Have Bananas," long-attenuated the summer sale of that luscious fruit to an unprecedented degree.

Those of us who have committed many a mouth and mayhem, metaphorically or actually, because of the favorite fruit's absence, will be glad to hear that it has been of some use in the world.

And the report of the Chicago fruit dealers may provide a useful hint to Secretary McCubbin and other devotees

THE RUSH FOR MONEY

Frank H. Wentworth, the secretary of the National Fire Prevention Association, told Vancouver Rotarians recently that Canadians are the most careless people in the world in regard to fire, and their fire losses cost them more per capita than the fire losses of any other nation.

Total fire loss in North America last year was $500,000,000 or about $5 a head. This did not include forest fires.

The Canadian fire loss has reached a rate of $30 a head and was never so high in the seven European countries in one year averaged between 17 and 18 cents per capita in fire loss.

Fire insurance protects individuals, but it does not the nation. He said we have heavily property is insured, the loss to the people is not lightened, because insurance the losses the greater the premiums. Fire insurance companies are not the losers among the whole population on that the increased necessary of public show it is officially reported that the president died of a cerebral apoplexy—something supposed to be brain—as the consumer way of expressing it. But by many of those who knew him intimately he death will always be attributed to one to overwork at a period in life when most men in business begin to slacken the pace—the same exercise which every his immediate predecessor in the White House to retirement, death. Harding must, however, succeed to a life of responsibilities. From the great war the Harding's administration inherited the most explosive and perplexing problems in the history of the country. America had negotiated the League of Nations, yet Europe and even minor opponents of the League in the United States were trying in this country to play a leading part in world representation. National morale in this country in 1920 was in its low water mark. Industry was paralyzed, money was unobtainable and the brink of war loomed overfast Russians was bad, labor troubles menaced many standards had broken down under the fiery stimulus of wartime thrills. Mr Hard ing, summoned by the voice of the people, himself and his administration to "the restoration of normalcy" in social and natural relations; the return to better understanding between individuals; the substitution of tranquility for discontent; healing rather than nursing wounds; the cessation of internal politics; the realization that the first need is to get back to work." Here was the man, and all he wrote in the history of government to save a country in peace and prosperity. Business, with its banks, confidence of their property rights, had been bolstered from bankruptcy. Boredom as to what constitutes the necessities of life illegitimate expenditure is to be placed in the hands of the people themselves.

Of course, our laws are much more humane and liberal than those of the old days. Our codes are much more subtle and split legal hairs with a bewildering nicety.

But the primitive Bulgar seems to have retained much good sense and much efficiency as we do.

And his direct methods will have a particular appeal to those unfortunate individuals who have at some time or another fallen under the blandishments of a get-rich-quick artist.

SPEAKING OF BANANAS

Changes fruit dealers say that the sugar-shortage means, "Can We Have Bananas," long-attenuated the summer sale of that luscious fruit to an unprecedented degree.

Those of us who have committed many a mouth and mayhem, metaphorically or actually, because of the favorite fruit's absence, will be glad to hear that it has been of some use in the world.

And the report of the Chicago fruit dealers may provide a useful hint to Secretary McCubbin and other devotees

SHEEP CROP

If this partying dappered will impel people to eat bananas, what great work could R. McFadden not accomplish by setting to make Hendersonian sheep some distinct interest about being entirely sold out of whole wheat bread or bran?

GO FISHING!!

The people that had sorry for themselves because they cannot see their way clear to take "prolonged vacation," will find a bet letter if they will let the hays down long enough now and then to go a while fresh air. There is something radically wrong about a person that does not allow the boss to go fishing for a day or so if he wants to do so. He may not earn a little bit about the fish but the matter of getting them is no accident. A planned one day a week "with the rod" would become a normal real period in both. Granted the necessity, matter the contemplation of which would be in itself meditated. Suppose you try it and then recommend the habit.

LIGHTS ON VEHICLES

Every few weeks you read a newspaper account of a man, woman, lady or party in a buggy being struck by an auto and killed. The buggy has no lights and the driver of the machine who killed them could not see the buggy until it was too late. Suppose driving any kind of a vehicle after dark without a light—a lamp in his hand. Although there is no law compelling lights on vehicles, it is the part of the prudent the how and carry a light.

THE FUTURE

The present condition of the farmer is not all that could be desired, but the reports of surveys made by the province of Alberta will go to show that it is far better than it was two years ago.

A. SPEARMAN, M.P., ADDRESSES FARMERS' ASSOCIATION
RED DEER

Mr. Speakman, the Federal member for this riding, was met with much interest in the U.F.O.F. Hall on Saturday afternoon, and gave a very clear and concise review of the work done during last session, showing what he counted the most important features of it and the part taken by the Progressives, the Conservatives, the Bonjer Debate, he singled out from the many subjects discussed the Canadian merchant marine, those dealing with Freight Rates, Tractor Combines and Farmers' Bulletins. In connection with the latter he said that the Government had issued to each member to enable him to supply his constituents with a publication dealing with any subject they desired. Mr. Speakman's address was followed by a short question period.

MACKENZIE JUSTICE

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police —erstwhile the Royal Northwest Mounted Police—has a right to be supremely jealous of its acquired prestige. Its very name is a terror to evildoers. Its members are the last men you set on the long, long trail in search of malefactors. Whether the case in question be a murder, a theft, a swindle, a bootlegging conspiracy, or a mere case of cattle-rustling, the Mounted Police always get their man. The company, but a reputation for relentless pursuit that gets the man it is after, though it has to go to the other most parts of the earth for him.

A dramatic case in point is that of the capture of two Eskimo murderers by Inspector Fitzgerald and Sergeant Doak in 1916. The facts were set down by the inspector in an article in the Journal of the Royal Anthropological Society (May, 1918), an article in which there is not a word to say about self-praise. The temperance and modesty of the narrative would have impressed with the tradition of the force. At first, the official reports of those who have undertaken distant and difficult duty in its name are disappointing to their laconic restraint to those who are looking for something like the high light and the exceptional events—not to say the downright preversion—of certain narratives of tales of the frozen north, and sensation-loving stage-carpenters, in consequence, for the "business" to make the requisite, dolorously "stiff" and unconvincing. Not so the Mounted Police officers. Their reports read and to use what is done with the matter-of-factness of a man who is merely recording the number of cattle he has branded.

The murderers of the priests were at last in custody.

At last, in an Eskimo encampment on the north shore of Victoria Island, Ikoomaak—who was the chief culprit—was taken on May 13; and on May 27 on an island at the mouth of the Coppermine his accomplice Ulukmah was arrested.

Both Ikoomaak and Ulukmah were Albert Arctic expeditions, but came from Mer—but Island, very active west of the mouth of the Mackenzie and Corporal Dunn had made the journey to meet the patrol. On July 18 the party—Dunn and Doak aboard the Police Boat Baychy and Ikoomaak and Ulukmah in their kayaks—arrived at the Coppermine. Here they found the Eskimos in a state of terror. Two days before, Ikoomaak had treacherously murdered Father Rouvière, and Father Rouvière, and then also the Father Lebon and the mounted police, who took action as soon as the word from Fort Smith reached Herschel Island, Inuvik and communities were sent out by Commissioner Cory. They were sent by the Fisher and the Rivers streets, and down the Peel River to the Arctic Bay. Sergeant Pedneau, he singled out from the many subjects discussed the Canadian merchant marine, those dealing with Freight Rates, Tractor Combines and Farmers' Bulletins. In connection with the latter he said that the Government had issued to each member to enable him to supply his constituents with a publication dealing with any subject they desired. FLY PADS

There is only one way to kill all the Flies

Take to it—Darken the room as much as possible, close the windows, except one of the leeward ones. Put on the lights in the room you are in. Place a Fly Pad on a plate and put it on the window ledge where the light is strong, leave the room and close the door. Flies will come out of the rest of darkness until no flies remain indoors.

Buy the plates separately—one Fly Pad to a plate—and keep out of the reach of children until required.

Curse of Russian Jewels Follows Princess Xenia

"Pearls are for tears," say the ancient legend.

And Russian princesses have often been among those tearful maids.

So the Grand Duchess Xenia Alexandrovna of Russia, sister of the late czar and niece of Queen Alexandra of England, who recently went to court to recover $250,000 in pearls for a consignment to defraud her of her coveted pearls, is only following established precedent.

The grand duchess, after the tragic death of her husband, Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovich, at Khaterinburg, escaped to England, carrying with her much of her jewels as she could gather up in the stress of the moment, and among them was a pearl necklace and two separate strands of these fated pearls.

She attached to herself a pearly-eyed-to-waiting, Prince Dolgorukl, whose baptismal name was not the greatest station in all matters concerning society.

It was through Prince Dolgorukl that the Royal Russian refugee met certain Paris, who, with colossal assurance of operators puts to be made through investment of her fake pearls stocks, persuaded the grand duchess to part with the pearls.

"I firmly believe before your God no more that on or before to-day there will be found in the world two of the exquisite pearls to see," wrote one of the letters, dated after the last of many of lustrous shining pearls passed into his eager hands. "The first deposit will be $50,000. The balance I will pay soon when you are a little better, because even a princess of Russia cannot be enriched, if she is not well, if I maintain the sum of $5,000,000 of royalty money, and $5 per cent. interest in all my time."

But in spite of all this extravagant language, the profits from the venture failed to materialize, some pearls vanished, and the value of the rest of all the Romanoffs was left to mourn their loss.

Assuredly, "pearls are for tears"—and there are those in the Russian royal family who have found that "pearls are for blood" as well.

Not the least of 250 marvelously matched pearls, once belonging to Catherine the Great, and worn by Mrs. J. E. Cromwell, daughter of the late Thomas E. Dodge, of Detroit—a necklace which, at this one part of the last from the czar's family, and which, therefore, should have passed to the Dowager Empress Marie Feodorovna of Russia, the present plaintiff.

There was a time when pearls were long upon a golden pillar in the throne-room of the Great Mogul at Delhi. Sometimes the Mogul sent a call for the pearls and hung them about the neck of his favorite wife favorite, and she would dance before him.

The curse was on the necklace even as Mrs. Cromwell's pearls. A year or so after the Mogul had given it to his wife announced that she had given to the royal jeweller a necklace of imitation pearls, among which this necklace was presented, to be broken up and sold. The wife protested in vain. But her riches in the matter were never restored to her, and shortly after recovering the pearls, was assassinated and the necklace once again passed among the crown's jewels.

The czar's winter palace was sacked in 1917. What dire calamities befell the history of the stones in the next three years is a matter of conjecture alone.

At the end of that time Horace E. Dodge, of Detroit, bought a string of pearls as a present to his wife. She liked it and her pearls and they seemed to have the finest case on this market. He paid more than three-quarters of a million dollars for them and stepped the jeweled talismans of Russian royalty into the vaults of Dodge's Strand, with a glare of public publicity.

Not so long after the first Americ'an owner of the royal pearls received the gift, she died, and the string is hanged at an automobile show here in New York. There was one pearl left behind. Mr. his brother, John F. Dodge of Detroit, and after a long illness Mrs. R. Dodge followed her husband.

His widow, who had worn the pearls nearly constantly on state occasions, could not personally bear to wear them, so she bequeathed them on to her daughter, Delphine, who recently became Mrs. Cromwell.

Will the curse follow the new owner of the emperors' pearls? Or will the Grand Duchess Xenia Alexandrovna, who has just recovered ten thousand pounds from swindlers, who brought the pearls to her "pearl shows," find courageous to proceed further and try to win back the sandy necklace as the rightful heir of the murdered czar?

forced his way into the throne room, strengthened the Mogul and the ladies of his harem who had been thus used and rode off with the jewels which shed her tears.

The pleas of them attracted the attendants of a Frenchman, a soldier of fortune, who had met in his lot for this moment with the Persian army. When the chieftain slept in his tent they slight the Frenchman stole the jewels in the dark, slipped under camp, ere even in the gloom the chieftain's guards could detect the folds of the tartare, and threw a dagger through the heart of the sleeping man.

With the jewels hidden under his clothes the soldier made his escape into Italy, after many perilous adventures, and sold the stolen necklace to a Jew of Genoa, who made a cameo engraved beauty, and greater wealth, and a fortune of the Rothschilds of Vienna, to whom he brought the jewels again, unscathed and unmarred.

But the Frenchman had no time to enjoy the money paid him for the pearls. He was killed in a duel before the news and engraved him on a beauty of the chiefly slave of a month—say only a few days older than the one on which he had received the gold from the handsome French Rothschild agent.

Another victim of the lure of the necklace was the pitiful Princess Elizabeth of Bavaria, who married Alexander of Serbia, and was the favorite of the Empress Elizabeth and Grand Duchess Olga of Peter the Great, and so the proper inheritor of the Russian throne.

At the empress' direction, Orloff followed her and found her in Pisa—Pisa, the royal burial ground of the romantic race, and his acquaintance, love-making finally made an impression on the terrified bride. Together they fled to Vienna, and Orloff left Russia forever. Elizabeth died in Rome in 1850. She even believed that the curse of the pearls followed her, and in her will she directed that she be planted to give Terrahlmoff the ever-fateful five-stranded necklace be buried with her body. So Orloff carried out.

The subdued princess married the Count Hohenthal and lived in the capital with him on a morning.

No sooner had she set foot on the capital than the curse of the pearls of Catherine overtook her servant, and she was found dead in her bed.

Assassin, "pearls are for tears"—and there are those in the Russian royal family who have found that "pearls are for blood" as well.

Not the least of 250 marvelously matched pearls, once belonging to Catherine the Great, and worn by Mrs. J. E. Cromwell, daughter of the late Thomas E. Enduring Values

THE trade-in price of a 1921 Ford is equal to the trade-in price of other 1921 cars which cost 30 to 50% more than the Ford when new.

This is proof of the Ford quality and the guarantee that the purchase of a Ford is an investment from an expenditure.

SIGN THE CONTRACT

The wheat pool contract should be signed by 75% of the farmers in Stettler district. A demonstration of that kind, showing the utmost enthusiasm of the farmers, will go a long way in solving the problems connected with the pool. There are difficulties ahead of the big scheme some of them inherent in the proposition itself and some poured there by prejudiced and active opponents. Perhaps the pool should have been launched earlier or perhaps it should have been started next year, perhaps the farmers should own elevators or perhaps they should have them, perhaps the pool will not stabilize prices for wheat for some time. There are a thousand "perhaps" that could be enumerated, all depending on one's theory or bias; that might have been different.

But the only certainty that can be depended upon is that all difficulties will be experienced and all disasters to be solved will meet—any like storm as experienced by the farmers themselves in their signatures that they want the pool and nothing but the pool.

Without a wheat pool things will be as they have been. With a pool they cannot be worse and there is a strong probability that conditions will start on a long era of improvement and that the prosperity that Mr. Bayne promised will come to pass as it has come to pass in other co-operative movements.

Sign the contract and get your neighbor to do likewise.

THE HOLLOW HOLIDAY

Over the week-end just past American tourist spent more than one million dollars at Deauville, France.

Deauville is a dirty little place that has been made fashionable by press publicity. Great salesmen have been found much wits and their clowns have fully out of its casino and the forty club and fully recorded in all continental papers.

Some everybody wants to go the place where millionaires have been thrown out of where French actresses have bathed in sheer lace costumes and where the king of Spain has flirted. Therefore there is a big business and a big crowd.

In all shows the power of advertising.

But the tourists acted in disappointed if not the center of the fashionable spot made for very disappointed.

If dirty, disreputable, indecent Deauville can take in a million dollars in two days just because it has been strongly advertised, how much could Stettler take in with the same amount of advertising based not on vended but on facts?

We have not begun to estimate the much value of our natural attractions.

"A DANIEL COME TO JUDGMENT"

Chief Justice Lomiaer of Quebec told the jury in the Osborne case that everyone, even priests and kings, is equal before the law. He said:

"My friend, before the law, every one is equal.

"Every one is equal, the King himself finishes before the law. It would be a travesty of justice if, on account of a priestly character, an accused

The instructions of Mr. Justice Lamieux will make local history in Canada. They will go down as one of the most fearless charges to the jury ever delivered in this country.

The charge is something we have never had but something that will be eagerly and loudly embodied. I am a Catholic and Canadian public places every consideration of superstition, but that no prejudice in the Dominion can stop the common sense of justice is a conception which we cherish if it has ground to have undefiled.

A BUSINESS REPORT ON REPARATIONS

Numerous Societies of Economists, whose reports largely by Carnegie money, make the unbiased report that Germany having already paid $5,000,000,000 can pay no more and that the French occupation of the Ruhr is based on the same intelligent notion as to agitate the operation of typing to blow one's head off of a shotgun.

The Institute's report is impressive because it is based solely on economic laws and business conditions and not on political bias or national theories for vengeance.

It is apparent that the reparations problem is in a very hands and that unless it is taken out of those hands the whole world will come to grief over it.

The Institute's report is correct—and there is no reason why it should NOT be correct—the European situation is even more critical than we have believed and only the interference of Britain and the United States, the world's business nations, and save the situation and ominously prevent the rise of Bolshevism of Germany.

CREDIT TO SENATOR

Too often do we neglect to give credit and encouragement to the faithful ministers of our community. We seem to think they are entitled to their reward and many times do we allow them to go through life with very few words of praise and appreciation for the splendid work they have done. The preaching from the pulpit is not the only work the ministers are doing. They go about their pastoral work in a quiet manner visiting the sick, burying the dead and giving words of encouragement and consolation to the broken hearted.

They lead and to the "down and out" who have ceased the struggle of the battle. They are human just like anyone else. Give them a word of appreciation now and not what effect it will have on them. Anyone who observes the splendid co-operation and unselfishness of our preachers cannot help but have a higher regard and appreciation for them.

ARE WE TRUE TO OUR HOME BIRTH?

If our merchants and their subscribers were not a mighty prosperous band of folks, whose rough edges have been worn down by many contact with human nature, they would have reason to get quite cranky at times. There are some people who will go, or send, to mail or telephone distant cities and make important purchases of hardware, furniture, etc. Then, when they want some little article in a hurry, and must have it for some pressing need they rush to the home store and demand that it must be supplied to them right away and sometimes not that it be charged. They expect their home men to keep on hand a rich variance of goods, yet fail to supply their share of the business which would warrant their keeping such a stock. A group of enterprising citizens big up town with a wonderful system for distributing modern products for home consumption. Your home merchant brings to your door the comforts of advanced civilization, where you can examine and see what you want. Are you doing what you should to encourage them? The men who own and conduct the stores of your town are usually a loyal crew working to build up the community, helping by paying taxes and providing needful facilities to improve it, every advantages and promote its prosperity. When you deal with them you rank up and help them to making Stettler a larger and better town. Think of these things, the next time you take your pen in hand to sign a cheque or P. O. money order to order goods from some place that has no interest in your town, less than they do in Asia, Europe or Africa.

DON'T ROCK THE BOAT

Some automobile travel to one of the most popular and important divisions of a great majority of people at the time of the year, we find that we are more concerned about the lack of safety for users of the road will not be some. We refer to the indifference or actual stopping along the road side of cars with punctured tires or in need of an accident, or some other such reason.

When on the road is extra wide. It is not so important a matter where the passing are—long out on our general highways, it takes care to pass one car when it is parked on the shoulder, let alone when two are parked almost abreast of each other.

Motorists should bear in mind that although they may want to stop and visit, or park there, or what not, others may want to use the highway for transportation purposes, and they should be taken not to block the road. When a motorist wants to stop and visit with friends, he should drive on the highway in the same vicinity, he should drive ahead a reasonable distance so that he will not block the road to general traffic. It is the little thought about the rights of others on the highway, and it is believed that a campaign is sufficient to remedy the evil.

LOOK OUT FOR THE SNAKES!

The newspapers recently carried a pathetic story of a man who was arrested and lost $25,000 in worthless stocks. He was a stranger in the city of the world and all of their lifetime savings. They were lured away from them by the glittering promises of an unscrupulous broker who the promised to double their money in a few months. The man is seventy years old and blind, and he has lost his life savings, his position, and worst it not for charity, they would starve.

It is because the world is full of charity, sentimentality, and credulity, full of people who believe that they can get something for nothing that the confidence game flourishes. HOLLYWOOD TO WED BY THE SCREEN-STRUCK

"Heiress of the Movies," although delightful fiction, presented appearances a comparatively person of the youth who aimed to become a film-star unaided. That is indicated by the fact that the Brazin Club of Hollywood, under the direction of the National Association of the Y. W. C. A., plans to build a new house to house girls who are stranded in Hollywood because they have failed to get into the picture lots. Girls pour in, though not to the extent that the young men do. Each of them believes that she may become a star actress, whereas the vast majority have no talent and not the slightest danger of making a living by the pictures, much less becoming rich and famous through the medium. They constitute a problem that the immigrants. No general warning is sufficient to discourage them. A few months' time in Hollywood generally serves the better chance you have of being chosen. A large and diversified number of the Hollywood Extra Girls players are required to furnish their own clothes, and the average girl's wardrobe frequently presents a tabloid picture of what she has and what she might need—much toward advancement. Yet the girls will arrive at Hollywood and will be unable to find employment for days, and sometimes weeks, before they can be taken care of for the time being.

Within three years are the gum bet-ter boys and girls who were to be sent wandering around Hollywood looking employment was reckoned by the dozen. Now it is numbered by the hundred. One outmoster says that seventy-five arrive each day. A cast that thing is that practically all of them have in mind various screen stars whom they believe they resemble and whom they mean to equal. Consistently few have any idea of branching out originally. They think they can do like Charlie Chaplin or Harold Lloyd or Tom Mix does, or that they were just cut out for parts—as are the Pickford plays. This fact in itself is sufficient to bound them as predestined failures because people do not become illustrious by undertaking a developing talent, but by actually doing one happen to possess. There are perhaps a dozen girls in the entire population in the United States who are convinced that their own ears are more charming than Jackie Coogan and who deem Mrs. Coogan the luckiest woman in the world. That's Jackie in Hollywood—a nit there off-crop, and while they do not appear to be the principals of the place they contribute to the hopelessness that must eventually be the problem of the relief authorities.

Miss Hall is now financial secretary to the Hollywood Studio Club, says that girls without dramatic ability are flocking to Hollywood, and Mary Pickford addicts—

"The young women who come to very different from the days when most of the persons now starting were playing extra part. Therefore, to say that big stars—say were once extra girls is to do a grave injustice to the truth. Besides, the chances of girls starting at the studios with an idea of becoming stars are by no means as great as they were. Pickford did herself and her company a favor when she refused to be starred. She cannot be gauged by set rules or bound by conventions. She is a law unto herself, unfortunately to achieve it, it is in no sense a commendation. Miss Pickford says that before going to Hollywood every girl should have a thousand dollars saved up in a year. She should also make sure that she had dramatic ability, and the best way to find out about that is to make experiments in a stock company in a small town. Then if she has talent

Distribution of Grain Cars Important to Every Shipper—Problems of Moving Huge Grain Crop to Seaboard

II

Winnipeg—The handling and distribution of grain cars plays an important part in the movement of our crops. Many complaints are made by shippers that they cannot get cars when they want them, and that the cars they get are not always the best for the purpose. Many complaints are made by the railway companies that the cars they supply are not loaded to their full capacity, and that the loading is not done in the most economical manner. Both these complaints are justified, and the railway companies are doing their best to remedy the matter. The railway companies are spending millions of dollars annually in the purchase of new cars, and in the maintenance of the old ones, and the officials of the railway companies, and the officials of the Board of Railway Commissioners, are constantly endeavoring to devise means whereby the cars will be more economically handled.

The handling and distribution of grain cars is a matter which requires the most careful attention

PAYING AS THEY GO

An indication of the inherent soundness of the rural part of our population during hard times is shown by the fact that the 5 independent rural municipalities during September and December 1929 and January 1930 that in any other three consecutive months since the plan started in 1926, also that its subscription receipts for the first seven months of 1930 have been greater than for the same period of 1929 although the district has been shorter during the remainder of a year crop by 1930. These facts show that the farmers are not overlooking their debts while they can be paid.

FRONTISTOPIA—FREEDOM AND OUT

By Roy A. Haynes, United States Prohibition Commissioner

The first official bomb story of prohibition enforcement comes from Alabama: A union-wide plague of attempted bribery and corruption of honest enforcement officers has begun in high and low places; ramifications of crimes, bribes and bombings; international complications, plots, hatred and murders.

The above is the Bombing and Subsidizing of a series of articles published in the Calgary Albertan. The Outland would indicate that prohibition is better outside than in.

UP TO THE TOWN

A town is what its people make it. With every natural advantage a town will not grow unless its people have faith in it, boost it, seek to improve it and consistently work to make it a bigger and better town. Stettler people are doing these things in a splendid way and results are already shown. But there always is danger that we may become satisfied with what has been done and will not make the effort to do what is left undone. Let's work on. There can be no let-up in town planning if work has been accomplished, there is more remaining undone. What has been done will help in the effort to make the showing better, and the improvement thing to keep the effort up.

A SQUARE DEAL

How would you like a deal of some sort with the firm or the individual that gives you consideration, calls you down when you were hooked any longer and that you were treated with courtesy and respect at all times, consistently kept on good terms with you, persistently kept on good terms with you, persistently kept on good terms with you, pers

Fairy Story Fortune for Two Ottawa Lovers

The modern arrival of a fortune is no fairy tale. George Wilson, of Ottawa, from a penniless lad to be the sole heir of Mrs. Hosea Hook—one and Mr. Reuben Lambert—one of the wealthiest residents of Canada's capital for many decades.

Miss Robertson, who was 25 years of age to November 1st, was left by Mr. J. S. Brown's crop story for the last 100 years. Mr. Gallivet, who is 26 years old, is a fully qualified pharmacist, and has been employed in the drug store of Mr. H. Harrison, which he is only a few blocks away from the store where Mr. Lambert was employed.

The couple met one day recently in the fare paper. They intended to be married. They decided to wait until Mr. Gallivet qualified at the Ontario College of Pharmacy, Toronto. The present was passed his examination and kept house in fact.

Like all love affairs things did not go smoothly with them. On the night that Mr. Gallivet would be free from duty he considered would have to work, which resulted in both of them seeing shows other very seldom. This, however, like the old saying, "All's well that ends," and the couple proved to be of value, with the consequence that Miss Robertson had either bought her dress for the day she was married.

During the court-shop, a startling event occurred. By a stroke of fortune such as only comes to few individuals in the world accept the people in fiction, Miss Robertson became sole heiress.

Two strangers appeared in Brown's drug store one cold day last December.

It was the esteem for robin, and Mrs. Hamilton, who was on duty, hurried out to attend to them. However, they did not ask for the usual medicinal pills, liniment, or soothing powders. They asked for Miss Robertson. After asking her several questions, the interest to which she answered them, they told the beautiful young drug clerk that she, along with her three brothers and sister, had become the heirs and heiresses of an estate worth approximately $1,500,000 Needless to say Miss Robertson was dazed. She could scarcely believe it.

But it was true!

The wonderful incident evolves a few weeks ago when the first instalment of the money arrived.

It was for $60,000.

The inheritance came about thus: Miss Robertson's grandmother was Mrs. Irene Katherine Wilson, at one time lived in Arnprior. She left the town many years ago, and went to live in Ottawa. Mrs. Wilson had a sister, Mrs. Hook, who was childless, was getting old. She wanted to write to her family, but did not know whether they were living or dead. She was always very fond of one niece. The family old woman often recalled to the days of her girlhood in Arnprior. She died lonely. Her will left everything to that favourite niece, the late Mrs. F. R. Hammond, who was always kind and good to her.

Also! The niece had died! The lawyers, for Mrs. Wilson had instructions to see that the children of the niece got the estate if their mother had predeceased her aunt. With this end in view they came to Ottawa, and, after several weeks of searching, finally located the right heirs and heiresses.

The welcome news was brought to Miss Robertson on Friday, November 30th, 1922, by the solicitors for the Wilson estate, Messrs. Hill and Hunt, of Ashdale, Toronto.

Has Miss Hammond changed?

Not at all. Even up to two nights before her marriage, she could be seen every day faithfully at work at the drug store, and even after her marriage she wanted to be on her. They persuaded her to look at their new home, but soon on the spot. She is likewise, she looked hale, a cosy, comfortable home, and very pretty. Her three brothers, Mr. Hammond will go her assistant in the estate with her, were more excited than she was. One of the boys was married recently. The other two are too young to get married. The three girls are all under 17 years and attend the Gloucester Street Convent, Ottawa. Their father is a well-to-do contractor.

Miss Robin Hammond or rather Mrs. Gallivet will try her examination shortly for the Phm. B. degree. She hopes to be a real help-mate to her husband, who seems to purchase a drug store in Pond City and to locate in that town.

Horse Loses Canine Into Tub

The pen-ultimate in whipping back from the bowels of the earth, according to reports made to delegates attending the 59th annual convention of Chemists of the International Union of Journeymen Horseshoers. It seems that a horse, which was being shod in a blacksmith shop, objected to having the hot shoe applied to its hoof, and, in the resulting mix-up, kicked the blacksmith's dog into the tub of water used for cooling the shoe. The dog turned blue as the result of surgery, instead of silver gray, as it was before the operation.

Although 60 years ago Wallace worked as an American sales. Dr Spurgeon Dickinson he then studied medicine. He considers the cure one of the most remarkable on record.

Wallace has always attributed his blue color to the opening of a boat's valve, which permitted gas and the pure blood to mingle. Years ago he was a member of the 13th Regiment, British army. Duke of Cambridge's Own Lancers. Four months after he had a severe fall from his horse, his chest began to turn blue, he said, and soon the color spread to his face.

After a thorough examination Professor Virchow, in Berlin, said the cause of the accident opened the formation of a small heart valve, preventing the veins and arterial blood to mix. Wallace came to the United States in 1894 and, after many persuasions, consented to be subjected to the "Blue Man."

Until 14 days before his death Wallace was on exhibition in the Dreamland circus sideshow at Coney Island. He was established in consumer and onlookers for years and to many concerts. Until his recent heart attack he enjoyed fair health, although the injured heart valve caused him considerable trouble. Two daughters by his fourth Mrs. widow, 23 years his junior, said tonight when Wallace was feeling ill he also showed much deference to him, and when he felt his best it was much lighter. He leaves also a son, Frank, 13.

To Drown Her Cat

"To your neighbor come to protection from this effervescent?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, can you please loan me your dog to drown this cat I have to do the long same thing anyway."

Children Source of Many Accidents

In pointing out that approximately 25 per cent. of all persons killed by automobiles are children under 15 years of age, the National Safety Council emphasizes that motorists must drive slowly under the following conditions:

"Not only when children are playing on the streets, but when they are playing near the curb, or at the curb.

"When passing schools or playgrounds.

"When approaching persons on bicycles, tricycles, roller skates, kiddie autos.

"When approaching passengers who are boarding or alighting from automobiles.

"When signaling for wagons and street sprinkler."

Many drivers are careful on congested thoroughfares and streets, but carefree in residential and other districts, where children are numerous.

In spite of the danger, many children make use of the street playground, or in chasing each other or a ball they may suddenly dash into the street, right in front of a moving vehicle.

Drivers should assume that every child on or near the street is going to do the unexpected, and be prepared for it.

Drivers should remember the following:

(a) Caution your own and other people's children about the dangers of the streets.

(b) Do not allow anyone to ride on the running board, rear tire, or bumper of your car.

(c) Persons on bicycles, or roller skates, or in push carts should be prohibited to hitch to your car.

Gadsby Local of the U.F.A. had a special meeting on Thursday evening last to discuss the settlement for the Wheat Pool. There were about 40 farmers present with a good representation of the ladies. Just before the meeting was ready to start. Taking the central stores by storm all the leading points were discussed and the general feeling of the meeting at the close was that the settlement should be better. The view of the majority was that the basis of the present pool is not a true one, as the growers have not had the chance to make use of the extreme fine weather which was experienced during the harvesting of the crop. Some of the members would be no use for settlement at present. Just a matter of sign or not sign. The district as a whole will probably go 10 per cent in favor of the Pool.

The severe storm of hail and rain that swept the district on Thursday afternoon did very considerable damage, especially in the west of town. It seemed to have spent most of its force when it reached that point and only flattened out the grain, the oats suffering especially in this way. Much sympathy goes out to our neighbors who have been so hard hit, at this late day, when a good crop seemed assured; their disappointment being the greater for the fact that it is now some years since they have harvested a good crop.

Mr. John Opatz has secured a lease of the Oxford Hotel & dancing and is busy renovating and cleaning the entire place before opening up for business. We are sure Mr. Opatz will make a good hotel-man and the comfort of the travelling public and those who have to dine out will be well catered to.

Mr. Chester Anderson has returned from his rodeing at Vanscoy where he put in a very creditable show. Chester has been to a big threshing run.

Mr and Mrs. Harry Hennessy spent a few days last week at Kerrisdale, visiting relatives there and at Hatfield.

Mr. George Davis has, I understand, bought the livery barn and sale-stables from Mr Tom Nowak which he has been renting for some time, and will now be able to put into effect some ideas for improvements which he has long contemplated this fall. Ad-Auto Livery is one of them and should prove a popular convenience for the travelling man.

The Women's Institute have an interesting meeting arranged for Saturday next at 3 p.m. in the Town Hall. Mr P. H. Tebbenham will be present and give an address and there promises to be some good results with him. Everybody is made welcome by the ladies.

Mr. Fred Anderson, who usually is one of the interesting visitors, started cutting wheat on Saturday, probably having to fight the frost. It looks like being a heavy crop too.

Mr. and Mrs. Sorrell, and Mr. Bert Sorrell, motored a week-end at Battle Lake as guests of Mr and Mrs. W. J. Goldsmith.

Mr and Mrs. Wm. Harrison are enjoying a visit from their two daughters, Mrs. Fred Hamilton and Mrs. Harry Hall, Mrs. Hamilton has just returned from a trip to Seattle where she visited with with her brother Ralph, who is now in residence there. Both ladies were looking remarkably well, and enjoyed meeting many old friends while in town on Saturday afternoon.

George Davis, Jr., has rented Billy Drennan's house in town and will move in right away.

Mr and Mrs Bladon visited with Mr. and Mrs. Rushton on Sunday, motoring up from Innisfail.

Mrs. J. Jenson left for a visit to Edmonton on Saturday, accompanied by her brother who had been visiting with them on the farm.

Mr. Cave Gooding, from Medicine Hat, who has been visiting his folks in the south country, left for the East on Saturday's train.

I was agreeably surprised to run across Jimmy Longmuir on Monday morning where he was casting his good body away in the train for a vacation. Jimmy was our first banker and a very worthy one. THE NATION MOURNS
THE PASSING OF A GREAT LEADER

The nation bows in grief over the passing of Warren G. Harding, the President of the United States, a man who by his sincerity of purpose and outspoken championship of the right won honours and loved by the people of his country. Our hearts go out in profound and tender sympathy to the stricken widow who has been for four years for the observance of the Eighteenth Amendment. One of the striking paragraphs in that address was his appeal to the people to put down lawlessness and see to the enforcement of the law. "Whatever satisfaction there may be in enlisting in party and personal liberty, sentiments when the supremacy of law and the stability of our institutions are involved."

The knowledge that President Harding had definitely committed himself against alcoholism and had told friends who suffered from the effects of liquor that if they were in public life he would be a traitor to the spirit of the law, and believed in total abstinence was a great comfort to many. Even in those days when he was struggling with difficult task and the acrimonious he was receiving at all times of Mrs. Harding's kind and support in putting over the enforcement program.

One of the strongest speeches of the President on his recent western tour, which was interrupted by his illness and untimely death, was that delivered at Denver, in which he dealt with the question of prohibition and law enforcement and pleaded with the citizens of the United States to stand four square

FARMER'S ACCOUNT BOOK

(Experimental Farms Note)

Any merchant handling several different lines of goods would regret to be without a book to keep a complete set of book enabling him to tell how he is getting on. Why should not farmers keep a set of books on the various enterprises on the farm so as to be able to tell at the end of the year which lines are profitable and which are not? A manufacturer who decided to go out of business would be laughed at if he attempted to assess the value of his stock on hand without taking stock and making out a balance sheet. Many farmers have no idea whether their business is a success or a failure. They work hard and long and get a living, but they do not know whether they are making any profit on the year's operations. Many of these men would be surprised if they were to take stock and find that they had actually made a profit on the year's work. Others would be surprised to find that they had made a loss. Many farmers have a vague idea that they are making a profit, but they have no way of proving it. Others are sure that they are losing money, but they have no way of proving it. Many farmers have a vague idea that they are making a profit, but they have no way of proving it. Others are sure that they are losing money, but they have no way of proving it.

Experimental Farms system has issued a very complete set of books for farmers' use, and any farmer can obtain a copy by writing to the Experimental Farms system at Ottawa. These books are very complete and contain all the necessary forms for keeping a complete record of the year's business. Any farmer who has ever attempted to keep a set of books will find that they are very simple to keep. The first thing to do is to take stock of all the stock on hand at the end of the year. Then, at the end of the year, take stock again. The difference between the two stock-takings will show the profit or loss for the year. Then, at the end of the year, take stock again. As will be seen, the reduction in the acreage of North America from the war-peak has been only 6 per cent. A considerably smaller reduction than might have been expected under the circumstances. In fact, Canada has increased her acreage since 1910 by 6.2 per cent. Meanwhile, the abnormal demand for wheat during the war conditions has passed, and European agriculture has more or less regained normal agricultural efficiency, being less efficient in certain principal and respectful countries than other lines of country. Present prospects indicate an increase in the European production of Russia, as compared with last year's yield, of slightly over six hundred million bushels. Against this increase in supplies there is considered to be a decrease in consumption in Europe, it is now estimated that production in the United States will show a decrease of about seventy five million bushels as compared with that of the previous year. Outside of the United States and Canada, the important wheat-shipping countries are the Argentine and Australia. The total exportable surplus of these and other countries in the southern hemisphere, harvested early this year, amounts to one hundred million bushels at the end of July 1st of this year. Compared with the previous year, there an increase of fifteen million bushels. This assurance, available supplies would appear to indicate an increase as compared with last year's requirements of fifty million bushels. It is, however, reasonable to assume that demand from Europe [illegible] will be somewhat greater than last year. Russia is not expected to [illegible] to the same extent as during the [illegible] years, and it is perhaps a fair inference that the requirements of the European countries in the larger part of Europe will be fairly [illegible] to those of last year. Botha News

The H A Barthey home in the south-eastern district was the scene of a very happy event on Friday, September 9th, when Mr and Mrs. Hartley celebrated their Golden Wedding. They were married fifty years ago. A bountiful wedding dinner was served at noon, after a short ceremony of welcome and friends had been received. There were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Phipps of Brantford, Ont., and Carleton, and wife and little daughter of Spokane, Wash.; brother of Mrs Hartley, Mr. A. H. Vandhuke and daughter, Miss Hazel, of Winona, Minn.; a daughter, Mrs. Grace Graham, of Edmonton, and Mr. C. B. Hughes of Stettler. Local friends invited in were Mr and Mrs. Wintott, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sweetz, of Bastedt, and Rev. and Mrs. Bracey of Stettler. Other members of the family who were unable to be present were: Mrs. Bacon, a daughter, of Chesterfield, Ont.; Mrs. Pray, a daughter, of port Dover, Ont.; Mrs. Louis Hawkins, a daughter, of Hagar, and Frank a married son, of Oakland, California.

After dinner Mr. Hobbs proposed the health of Mr. and Mrs. Hartley. The toast was put into effect but April, and in a way of there were no sons or daughters present, but the host was equal to the occasion, and in a few well chosen words he complimented the couple on their success in life, and the esteem of the hosts, and wound up by assuring them of the love and best wishes of the friends who had come to celebrate with them. The host is now entering upon the next stage of his journey, and may many more years of happy married life be his.

Alberta Coal in Great Demand

Even a casual look at official government statistics would put Alberta coal in a commanding position in the country's coal trade. Almost all coal for all lines of railroad from the eastern provinces to the northern, who receive their supply from Alberta mines. Mr Hamilton was appointed by the Government of the province of Alberta coal sent each on the year—187 tons by the Canadian Northern. He visited many points in Ontario, accompanied by officials of the C.N.R., and all of these points were anxious to get Alberta coal, as evident a thought was was given that could make it possible. The Ontario Government, the C.N.R., the timber controls of the cities, the C.P.R., and other organizations have taken up the campaign, and are bringing pressure to bear upon the Dominion Government to bring about some solution of the problem of transportation of the coal. A great deal of publicity required by the publicity branch of the Alberta Government is now out in the east, and Mr. Hamilton says meetings were given without any trouble by better exhibit from this province.

Volunteer for Harvest Help

Nearly 150 men students from the two normal schools in Calgary have volunteered for work in the harvest fields of the province, and have been granted leave for a month from their studies for that purpose.

Mineral Test

Payments of the provincial mineral test are coming in slowly to the department of Municipal Affairs. This test was put into effect last April, and is a test of the ores on some mineral lands, including all lands, by the C.P.R., which have been withdrawn from sale. The fee is opposed to the Federal Government to discourage the legislation, and to help the Government obtain steps to combat this appeal.

BRINGING BACK THE BAR (?)

In last week's issue the Independent made the following comment on Canada's return to the bar:

"Those who are proclaiming on platforms or papers or in print that Canada is the coming reformation country for open bar are using as much the sense that they remember, because the other name is no people have living. Because when Canada is passed, as it many will be, the name Canada will last named last city that the bar during the closed months is the open bar. She just bar means the sale of liquors by our hoteliers over a bar (Canada's provision for the sale of all liquors by or through government vendors. If Chaser D means the open bar, then we have the open bar already through government vendors at Calgary and Edmonton."

At the prohibition meeting held here last Thursday evening, Mr. Hall, secretary of the Social Service Council, made the following curious comment on the above editorial as reported in the Albertan:

"The impression given to the people of Stettler by their local paper that the government would open a place in town where beer which was purchased from the government vendor could be consumed was utterly mistaken."

There is no danger of the people of Stettler gaining this impression from the above editorial because it needs a vivid imagination, which Mr Hall obviously possesses, to draw the conclusion.

When we state in that Chaser D, which provides for the sale of all liquors by or through government vendors cannot possibly under government control and regulations mean the return of the old-time bar or saloon. Prohibition speakers who are trying to persuade the public to the contrary are not dealing honestly with the people. Chaser D, or with the public and legislators, or with themselves.

Mr. Hall asked the audience not to be misled by what some person says the chaser means; read it for yourself. If in doubt the chaser says, he requests, not what the anti-prohibitionists read into it.

Chaser D reads—

"Upon the Government Sale at Retail of Liquor by or through Government Vendors liquor is to all commercial and incorporated companies or to private residences. But liquor may further be purchased in licensed committee rooms or premises licensed by the Government Controlling Board or Boards or Authority."

There is not a word in this clause which means that liquor is sold or served by or through government vendors.

If the system of sale of liquor by or through government vendors means "a return to the bar system of the old days" or Mr Hall states, then we have the bar system already under the present prohibition act or any government vendor stores now in existence in Calgary and Edmonton.

Chaser D is an extension to the smaller towns of the government vendor system already in existence at the cities, and the liquor commissioner states that these vendor stores have opened in our two largest cities no consumption of liquor has been much decreased.

Chaser D carries, that the government will have to close the vendor stores through lack of trade.

But the sections of the Liquor Question will come only through Government Control and Education, not through the enforcement and development of a system which depends for its existence on private citizens becoming informers.

The following comment upon the prospects of Canadian agriculture, which appeared in a recent issue of The Grain Growers' Guide, the official organ of the Farmers' in the Province of Saskatchewan, is deserving of special notice:

"We firmly believe," says the journal, "that there is no country under the sun today where agriculture generally is in any better condition than it is here, and that this country will return in a period of agricultural prosperity as rapidly, and probably more rapidly than any other country. We are suffering from artificial economic handicaps which is the lot of farmers in every land, yet has been the natural advantages which we enjoy in this favored country will be more and objectors will be rightfully due to be an advantage derived from permanent population."

We have there a considerable amount of truth needed to our powers, needs, financial, manufacturing and transportation institutions, but it is a great mistake for the people of any country to have too much upon government and politicians. The country will not vote into its own through what government will do. Governments and parliaments can help, but the great effort must be made by the people themselves and through self-help and co-operation. It is the people who believe in the country and its people, who have confidence in the ability of the people to carry on and make this country what it was intended to be, and who can discern the silver lining in times of depression.

Provincial Government Sale at Auction of Liquor—Shortly thereafter the sale of Liquor by or through Government Vendors liquor is to all commercial and incorporated companies or to private residences. Second Annual Erskine School Fair
Exhibits Elected Previous Year—Judges Have Difficult Task Holding Awards

(Erskine Times)

Farewell weather conditions that every just right for the occasion the Erskine School Fair held at the Erskine Grounds, Sept. 13th, was a great success in every way. The attendance was the largest in the history of the school taking part was by the large number of entries and the splendid quality of the show was of the keenest, requiring careful deliberation on the part of the judges in awarding the prizes.

There was a good attendance, most of the Erskine people were present and also could be spared from the harvest fields were there. It takes an exhibition of this kind to show the possibilities of the district and one day more of the exhibits in the various halls and rest rooms would be rewarded to the delighted districts, while the people of this district they were very fine samples. Not very many years ago it was thought an impossibility to produce potatoes in this country, but the school fair has been the means of broadening and a little care and attention will do.

The flower exhibits were good, the display of flowers from each district attested to the pupils in the spring horticultural fair.

The grains showed careful selection and good cultivation and the winning grain was of good color, and quality. Grade Union Hall cleanest up on the sweepstakes, the height of some stalks being several inches feet.

The entries of household accessories and arts did not have to compete with those in the vegetable class. The cooking was up to the usual standard of these entries, and some good samples were shown. The fancy work and needle prizes were awarded to Isabella Barker for brown and to Harold Brockhart for buttercream. These were awarded because the exhibits were of such a high standard as there were no classes for them at the exhibitors' ages.

In the art the primary grades did well, and that drawing, painting and needle work were receiving more attention than in former years is evidenced by the large number of entries and the designs that were entered. The more advanced pupils also demonstrated the high school, especially in penmanship, drawing and manners training.

The school fair held at Erskine last year is entirely satisfactory by the one of the year, both in regard to the number of exhibits, the exhibits in their respective schools and classes, and the interest it (Clark, Bayley, Miss V. Orr, Nelson, Jeff and Mrs. Bowden, Walsh, Erskine; and Messrs. Bowden and Mayes, Stettler). Mrs. Hall, Mr. Hall, Mr. Clark and two assistants, from the School of Agriculture at Olds acted as judges in the garden products, grains and honey, while Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Bayley, Mrs. Orr, Mrs. Bowden, John of the sorts, a cutter by Mrs. Gus. Bayley and Mrs. Adolph Roberts. The judges came to Erskine from Stettler and went from here to Stettler to do the judging at the school fair there, and as 18 fairs are being held in these districts they are carrying in some busy times.

The grand score was off in the following rating as compiled and tabulated by Secretary-Treasurer Mr. Hemphrey of Bentrose: A. B. Neill, J. J. Fix and Mr. [illegible] of Bentrose; Mr. Mutchmor of Brazeau; Mr. Doherty, of Union Hall; C. Anderson, L. A. Bishop and F. I. Clark, of Erskine. All the prizes were judged immediately after the events took place, so that there could be no guess work, favoritism or mistakes. The judges were very much pleased with the showing made at the school fair and the splendid interest displayed by the pupils and parents.

Great credit is due R. J. Beach chairman of the Erskine School Board, and to O. Hoe-fall, secretary of the school board, and also of the entire day to the interests of the fair and did everything in their power to make it a success.

A complete list of the prize winners will appear in next week's issue.

RETURN OF BAR INSIGNIA PROHIBITION ORGANIZERS
If It Does Not Mean That, Then What Does It Mean?

Stettler Sept 19—A powerful constitutionary conference of the prohibitionists from Stettler was held Thursday evening and Friday morning in the Methodist church here H. Hall, general organizers was present from Edmonton and took charge of the meeting.

At the evening session the church was crowded to the doors, especially the supporters in the auditorium given by the four-fold ballot. The Federation League is responsible for the speakers for prohibition of trying to find out the meaning of the statement that "Chaser D will mean a return to the bar system as of the old days" "does it does not mean this, what does it mean," asked Mr. Hall.

He quoted Frank Oliver as stating that "Chaser D did mean a return to the bar, and he agreed with it does not mean what the moderationists claim it does not mean, but means what the chaser says. He quoted Dr. Geoghegan of Lethbridge as saying that the moderationists were wanting the right to sell beer and to drink it on the premises and gave the liquor ordinance interpretation of a "bar" The impression given to the people of Stettler by their local paper that the government would open a place in town where beer which was purchased from a government vendor could be consumed was utterly mistaken.

Mr. Hall asked the audience not to be misled by what some person says the chaser means; read it for yourself, said Mr. Hall.

Enforcing the Law

The Alberta Liquor Act which the moderationists are now attacking as being unable to enforce, was being better enforced today than before the ordinance was in 1913 and 1914. In the lack of law enforcement at such as above that led to the coming of prohibition. Under the present system under the old license system to stop the bootlegging traffic from getting liquor; even moderationists do not accomplish the maximum result. The government vendor agency maintained itself in every way to make the license system a success. They shortened the hours of sale, they decreased the number of licenses, they increased the penalties for infractions of the law, they increased the license fee, but all to no avail and as a result of the continued infractions the people voted the whole system away. Now they are going out from the moderationists you have not been given any suggestion to change it. He thought the people could judge if they altered their minds to go to the old days which system brought the best results. Remember, said Mr. Hall, that the vendor control does not appear to be failed, only after the words are said.

At the morning session a license agreement committee was appointed with J. Victory Hervey as president.

THE RESULTS OF PROHIBITION
The attempt to enforce prohibition in the Province of Alberta has created conditions that enable the bootlegger, all over the country every city, town, and hamlet. No place is safe from the evil. The best-lagging fraternity finds their activities profitable. Bootlegging has become a highly specialized in evading every obstacle placed in its way. Responsibility of the enforcement of the law is divided. Illicit distillers are being efficiently expert in their calling. Every kind of bootlegger to handle their product. Those conditions are known of all men in this Province and locate it impossible to all good citizens. There is just one remedy; take away from the customers by voting "D", government control

By W. S. Annandeon

The second row in the prize of agriculture commercially speaking is the poultry business. It was something early in the season I intended to write on, since ordinarily the poultry adventure only a few months of not at all in August. In most years it is also a busy time in September. The attractive decrease in fine prices and further help matters and benefit the egg producer.

The somewhat unusual situation of the egg market should discourage those who are thinking of throwing their hats into a small with the exception of Ontario, which will begin. This is not a very pleasant one to those who have that poultry is a small or fancy game and who are looking for October eggs likely to result from the late chicks, but those who start to laugh a September are likely to get a good return in October or November. At any rate such hens generally do not start to moult in October, which simply means that they take a longer rest than do late hatchers. Because of these considerations and the tendency for the prices of eggs to rise early in the winter it would seem best to keep the hens going until October, if possible.

Keeping Production Up to 10%.

Ordinarily it is possible to keep egg production at 30 per cent or better up to the end of August. If lights are not used production is likely to drop to 20 per cent in September and to 10 or 20 per cent in October. These figures apply to unrelated flocks of hens. Flocks of these proportions frequently although almost the same percentage can be secured from hens finishing their second laying year. By using lights it may be possible to have the hens laying better than 60 per cent during both September and October but it does not seem wise to use lights at this time of year as birds that are to be used as breeders do not.

In order to keep the hens laying much consumption must be kept up. The morning grain ration should consist of only one pound per 100 hens and the noon ration of about seven pounds per 100 hens. These amounts apply where cracked corn and wheat oats are used in the scratch mixture and with a mash composed of 25 per cent by weight of bran 20 per cent shorts (or preferably white middlings) 20 per cent cornmeal, 20 per cent gluten meal and 5% per cent alfalfa meal. Skim milk or buttermilk should be fairly well if left with the laying mash, since they require a similar ration.

Loose Feed

Plenty of green feed such a kale chopped up and fed daily will be necessary to keep up egg production and insure a full moult. The mash hopper must be overhauled and the dirt and cobwebs cleaned out. A little moist mash particularly at noon is also desirable.

Keeping the houses cool and comfortable is proper ventilation will be available, a great deal depends on the comfort of the hens. They should be provided with conditions as near to perfection as they are not likely to be found in any other place. Any one of these conditions will affect the egg yield. Lice and mites should be looked for and killed if found. Dampness should be avoided as far as possible. Dirt should be kept out of the pens. The roosts should be low and broad. Plenty of room should be provided. If the hens are not overcrowded and the other conditions are right, they will take care of themselves in much the same manner as they would if running at large.

Pullets, Early and Late

The early hatched pullets are already laying and more are starting all the time. Every one should be taken from these pullets they should be kept in their present quarters for a week or two before they start to lay. They should not be fed any more than they will clean up in a few minutes. Overfeeding at this time may cause indigestion. Overfeeding will not only cause the pullets to start to lay too soon but will also cause them to put on too much fat. Fattening may not be necessary with those that are done in the early part of the season, since they usually come on good condition. Any pullets which seem unusually thin should be culled at once.

The fattening can be done by increasing the amount of the mash or by feeding a moist mash. The moist mash should consist of 25 per cent of the dry mash and 75 per cent of cornmeal. Some add to the moist mash enough milk to bind the mixture together.

Pullets which are not laying by the end of October are likely to moult late in the season and will not start to lay before the middle of November. As they are kept they will continue to grow and develop and will be ready to moult. Such a bird should be examined to determine how long it has to lay. This can be done by noting the pigmentation of the beak, if of a yellow color the bird is a layer, and the more yellow the more vigorous she is. If the beak is white she is not laying and will not moult before November. Another way to tell is by the pelvic bones. If these are close together and the pelvis is narrow the bird is not laying. If the bones are wide apart and the pelvis is wide enough to admit the end of the finger she is laying. Such a bird should be kept as long as possible.

Culling or Selecting Breeders

Some culling will be done in the early spring. Before the hens are put in the breeding pens they should be examined to determine whether they are laying or not. This can be done by noting the pigmentation of the beak, if of a yellow color the bird is a layer, and the more yellow the more vigorous she is. If the beak is white she is not laying and will not moult before November. Another way to tell is by the pelvic bones. If these are close together and the pelvis is narrow the bird is not laying. If the bones are wide apart and the pelvis is wide enough to admit the end of the finger she is laying. Such a bird should be kept as long as possible.

Pullets which moult early should be rejected in the fine of pullets that are not of considerable size. It is rarely that Leghorn pullets get into the breeding pens in the spring should be fed on the ordinary rations. Pullets of the American breeds, such as Wyandottes, Rocks, etc., if matured per lot, should be fed with the result that some develop early enough to be profitable for laying. It is only in bad seasons when pullets are kept in unfavorable surroundment that pullets of the American breeds need special conditioning.

It is important to get the pullets into the laying houses before they have had if possible. Having them after they have started to lay is liable to check production and throw some of the pullets into a moult. Moving them in a week or two before they are due to lay will not check production and will tend to keep them from moulting. The change from one house to another will usually be made in the evening when the hens are on the roosts. Moving will also check or decrease production. No rational changes should be made if they come in short supply soon, since in that case the eggs would be worth little.

Cleaning the Houses

The poultry houses should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before the last time to do it is normally in the spring. Whitewashing should be done at least once a year. Two days will allow enough time for the whitewash to dry before the birds are moved. Whitewash is made by slaking one pound of lime in 2 gallons of hot water. Then add one pound of common salt and one pound of zinc sulphate in two gallons of hot water. Put this mixture and about 3 gallons of skim milk. A light-colored whitewash may be made by using 5 pounds of lime, 1 pound of zinc sulphate and enough skim milk to make a thin whitewash. Whitewash may be applied to the walls and ceiling with a spray pump. Be sure that the roosts should be painted with creosote and then thoroughly dried before the pullets are moved into the house. Creosote will kill off any mites. All these will prevent but if not dry will stick to the feathers, making the pullets look dirty for the rest of the year.

The pullets and old hens may well be treated for lice and worms when moved. Dusting with sodium fluoride will kill the lice. With extra lice may save rebuilding the birds for this purpose and can be sent free results.

Cockerels and Breeding

Any cockerels that are now on hand should receive good care. The cockerels should be separated from the pullets and must be sentenced since there may be always some that are infertile. It is true that are only fit for broilers, although they may look promising earlier in the season.

The present is also the best time to get rid of the poor breeders. Any birds not even for the year after all birds should be from inspected flocks that will materially lessen the chance of getting poor breeders. The aim should be to hatch these cockerels may be secured can be selected now or in the early spring. The rest marketed at once.

THE PLEDGE

Those who are supporting Clause A in the coming referendum where, only for "A continuance and development of the present liquor legislation" should be a thing to sign the following pledge:

I believe in total abstinence from intoxicating beverages.

I believe in it so much that I desire it made compulsory by law I believe that conspirators of whatsoever the parties may be, those who do not obey a law making total abstinence compulsory should be punished by heavy fines or sent to jail as criminals or criminals.

I swear that should the Prohibition law be enacted I will immediately notify the police of any infringement of the law which may come under my notice, without regard to who the offending party is. To do anything else would be to fail in my duty as a law-respecting citizen, and make me the law's accomplice.

I swear whether the Prohibition law is enacted or not, that I will never in the future consume or handle intoxicating beverages in any shape or form.

I pray that should I depart in any degree from the above oath which I now take that the penalties which I have voted to be inflicted on others who disobey the Prohibition law be inflicted on me to their fullest extent.

A BOOTLEGGERLESS CITY

For three days, now, New York has been without daily newspapers. For three days 8,000,000 people have been without beverages of world events, and local happenings. For three days they have known neither of other amusement shows have to offer or local news stores and pictures are appearing in town.

And here is the result:

Drowning accidents 10 per cent the first day, 30 per c nt. the second day and thereafter 50 per cent. Each day there day will show a decrease of more than 50 per cent.

Therefore here lead a failing off in attendance of practically 50 per cent.

Salesmen and salesgirls who work in department stores on commission are also suffering a loss in wages, which is considerable.

A newspaper city means vast business and personal losses. A newspaperless world would be unthinkable.

CORRESPONDENCE

Stettler Independent.

Dear Sir:

As I feel that the coming referendum is the most important question before us today, it ought to be met widely and fully discussed. I have observed that on former occasions Stettler constituency has given a substantial majority in favor of Prohibition and when we are invited through the columns of your paper to vote out the present system and substitute the system of Government Sale, we must have some convincing evidence that we shall escape the present evils and not bring upon ourselves still greater ones. We have today the system of Government Sale in two provinces, British Columbia and Quebec, and I challenge the Prohibitionists to produce any reliable evidence to show that conditions are in any respect better than in Alberta. As the Sugar statement, in Alberta, have been the great offenders against the law, we are they today in the vast province. The export statistics of Canada show that Alberta with a great part of their stock. They have been kept out of business in Alberta, they still operate and operate illegally in B.C. Every brewery in Alberta has two convictions registered against it. Another offence would mean that the offender would lose his right to operate. Attorney-General Maclean has declared that the law crime still existed against the law. It was the lack of support for law and decency, on the part of the organized liquor traffic. That led every province at the Dominion, but one, to vote out the liquor traffic of liquor for beverage purposes. There has been no evidence, whatever of any change of attitude on the part of the liquor interests. The institution has been so disorganized that it does not fight today, in the open, under its own name but under the name of the Moderation League, of which it is the controlling part.

The issue today is not how best to handle liquor for beverage purposes to the consuming public. It is the elimination of the Prohibitionists that the whole traffic in intoxicating drink be abolished. The purpose of the Moderation League is to restore the open bar, to restore liquor traffic and gain it Government endorsation. There can be no Government control without a large and increasing consumption of the whole liquor business. That is impossible. Government control can only become a sort of bait for the liquor interests to lure the people to vote for Government Sale, there is plenty evidence that other governments have not managed its gullering efforts; the Government of Alberta has no desire to handle it. The bootlegging profits are not reflected to the Government coffers under Government Sale. The liquor interests do not increase taxation, but it is so much easier to get away with it. The Vancouver World refers to British Columbia as the "province of bootleggers." Quebec pays a similar reputation. No individual can stand himself rich, neither can a province.

We have recently had the sorry spectacle of a Canadian senator and a University professor boasting, on the public platform, that they were violators of the law. What example have we that such men would respect the law, if it did not suit their own convenience?

The question is asked, "Why should the non-drinker seek to interfere with another's right to drink?" Just as we are members of a society and the innocent and weak are the greatest sufferers. The liquor interests utterly ignore the human wreckage which they create. Prohibition has brought gladness to too many homes to be lightly thrown aside. The greater provinces we make for the

THE W. C. T. U. COLUMN

DOES CLAUSE "D" MEAN A BAR?

Hon. Frank Oliver, Editor and Proprietor of the Edmonton Bulletin, is answering a public meeting in Edmonton as reported in the "Daily Journal" as follows:

"The evidence of the moderates as to the nature of the clause and that of everybody's business. It is the duty of everybody to support legislation that will promote the welfare of the state and the individual, and since it is to the interest of what is known to be an evil we are endangering the proper exercise of citizenship.

"What is here of any kind except a declaration of individual liberty of conduct or qualified as unconscious with the rights and interests of the community as large. Every law is necessarily a restriction on the liberty of someone, and it is a fundamental principle that no one has the right to do as he pleases when he does so to interfere with the welfare of others.

"Edmonton has beneficiaries incomparably by the extent to which the prohibitionists now has been given effect. The assistance we have seen in 1923 were infinitely worse than they are now. The bars then were kept open largely by the working men and their closing has been of immense benefit to them and their families. It may be true that the 'must not' are breaking the law and thinking it clever to do so, but they are nothing of majority has an important part of the population.

"Make no mistake about it, the object of the liquor campaign, and the result if Clause D carries, is the re-establishment of the bar. If we believe that we have achieved something by the prohibition law, it is for us to give our vote on November 5 for its continuance."

THE MEANING OF CLAUSE "D" IN THE REFERENDUM BALLOT

The clauses of Clause D are generally considered over the clause in the prohibitionists that if this clause carried on November 5th it would mean a return to the bar-room. What the statement was first made they jumped to the defence of their pet theories with wonderful vigor, but as the days go by and they begin to see the clause for themselves the number of defenders dwindle.

In Clause D the bar or saloon is included along with government sale of liquor, and cannot be reopened by the electors in their vote.

The moderationists need not take the word of the prohibitionists they have the statement of the president of the Alberta Moderation League. The Camptonian, of Lethbridge, published at length in the Lethbridge "Daily Herald" of June 30th last:

In that statement Dr. Campbell said that Clause D of the referendum ballot was the proposal of the Alberta Moderation League and that if the majority of the electors voted for the adoption of the ballot by the Committee of the Legislature, the Moderation Executive planned to have before that committee as a rule

Among the articles statements made in full we find:

"Provision to be made for the sale of beer up to a strength of 4% alcohol by weight. TO BE CARRIED HOME FOR THE PREMISES. Permits for selling beer to be granted hotels and restaurants of approved premises, bar, coffee, soft drinks, and light lunches must be made also be served; such premises to be conducted strictly under government regulation."

The clause in the referendum ballot, hereon D, which says: "Shall the sale of beer be authorized?" is to be interpreted in the light of this definite statement of the government of the Alberta Moderation League. Does not that anticipate the establishment of a system of bars or saloons in Alberta? It is well known that the president of the Moderation League is a prominent member of the Liberal party and has stated repeatedly that they do not want any "return of the old bars." Accepting the statement that it does not mean the "return of the old bars" does it not mean a system of bars then?

But also can it be interpreted? The old bar was a stand-up-to-bar. Here, it is proposed to have a different shape of furniture, certainly peculiarly the sit-down-to bars. The essential element of the bar-room is the fuzzing for the "beer to be consumed on premises purchased" where it is sold.

This means the re-establishment of the treating system in our provinces. It is a form, but a much more dangerous than the "old bar." Our hotels, licensed to sell beer up to a strength of 4% alcohol by weight (approximately 5.12 per cent) are required to be connected as the premises, and restaurants with meal-for privileges. Could anything more nearly resemble the old bar-room? Is it consistent to the welfare of our citizens.

The electors of Alberta are beginning to realize that the "D" proposal is not an innocent as it appeared to be at first.

Alberta will hesitate, and wisely so, before it approves the proposal that the electorate will be asked to vote on. The

GADSBY NEWS

Mr. Paul Farnalo, the energetic owner of the Dublin Waterpail Bucket, finds time on a busy life for the cultivation of fruit and flowers, and at present has a good garden. He has had much success with the smaller fruits and is now trying his hand with apples. I had the pleasure of sampling a sample of crab apples grown by him this year and I have never seen bigger or better colored fruit of that kind. The tree is just coming into bearing and is reported about a peck per year. His cows shows it can do fruit and by example should be more widely followed.

Mr. B. E. Abbott left last Tuesday for Wetaskiwin where he visits Mrs. Hoyt and Mrs. Abbott who have been visiting for a few days. Among the guests were the Gadsby residents like Mr. W. B. Ford of Los Angeles, and Mr. A. F. Wilson of Edmonton, who were unable to be visitors. It was a very pleasant little party.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Taylor is finding much improved these days and is recovering nicely from his accident. He will probably be visiting for a few weeks longer.

We were interested to note our friend Stanley Chase figuring among the prize winners at the Stettler Horticultural Society's Competition last week. He is a very enthusiastic gardener.

Mr. Wm. Harrison Jr., who has been up in the Penn River country for a couple of years, and more recently in Cutter district, is back to his old stamping grounds again in this district.

Mrs. J. C. Coutanse has returned from a visit of two weeks' duration in Calgary, being the guest of Mrs. Art. H. Kelly during her stay. In her absence the "Duke" substitutes, by having a bunch of teeth out; we all have our favorite dentists.

Mr Bill Taggart has got his new threshing outfit on hand and will be threshing as soon as the grain is fit.

Distinguished Visitors in Town Wednesday, Sept. 26

The Hon. Mr. Meighen and famous Lieutenant who arrived in town by the C.N.R. on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 26th, to hold a meeting in the evening, came almost in secret.

Mr. Meighen, in particular, is remarkable, and that to private conversation. He is the best part of his visit to Stettler, and remember that he had no intention of adopting the role of politician on his visit to the young folk's ground.

But he had a real message for the young people which, if given serious heed, will help them over many somewhat difficult years of life. Mr. Meighen said that appreciation to any kind of sport, whether it be football or lawn tennis, is necessary. Mr. Meighen said that these games are not the attainment every Canadian. Mr. Meighen said that these games are not the attainment every Canadian. Mr. Meighen said that these games are not the attainment every Canadian. Mr. Meighen said that these games are not the attainment every Canadian.

Mr. Meighen appealed to the young people present to keep the ideals of their country always before them, and to not be led into thinking other countries were better. He thought anyone with energy and ambition could succeed fully as well as in any other land. He also urged them to never forget that Canada is part of the British Empire and the flag its greatest symbol. He paid Britain the tribute of being the greatest sleeping force in a world of nations that are ready to go to sleep at any moment. He hoped British Imperialism and pure British sentiment would be their skill and determination in wartime of peace. He said that he had been punished by his members every day when he reserved it but not quite as often as he deserved and he told the pupils that it would be good for them once in awhile, provided it was rare, they needed it.

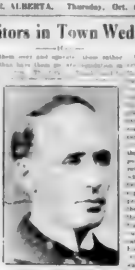
Both speakers were introduced by Principal Tasker, and after the speeches the meeting closed with "O Canada."

At 8.00 p.m. the Hon. Mr. Meighen addressed the citizens in the Opera House. Notwithstanding the time of the meeting, with threshing in full swing, the hall was crowded, many being present from outside points.

Mr. H. H. Manes acted as chairman and called on Mr. Meighen at once.

Mr. Meighen, in opening, said that he regretted that the shortness of the time prevented him from giving an extended address, as he had to leave soon for Red Deer. He would, however, speak briefly on the subjects of the Canadian Railways, the Wheat Pool and the Tariff.

The Premier at Quebec had taken credit to himself for the improved showing of the National Railways, but has blamed part of the public debt on the late Government's railway and canal policy. The speaker discussed that the Liberal-Conservative Government of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern Railways, and I several candidates in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces at the last election had pictured themselves to get rid of the railways by private operators. Mr. Lemieux had been in favor of selling out to the Canadian Pacific. He had had his full share of abuse for the Canadian National Railways by the late Government, but each one was absolutely necessary to prevent Canada coming into the grip of a huge private railway monopoly, which was unthinkable. The National Railways were not improving as fast as they could have done under Mr. Mackenzie, who had the full confidence of the staff and of the Government, and who had grown up with the road; there was bound to be improvement with the unification and consolidation which was being achieved, if they had necessary and concessions at the top, and with politics kept out. Mr. Meighen emphatically reviewed the circumstances under which the Government of Canada was compelled to hang those two railway-controlled roads together, first, by loans, and finally to take over and operate those railways. Mr. Meighen said that he thought the Liberal record in connection with the railways was not a very good one. He said that the Liberal Government had been responsible for the construction of the Transcontinental railways, which were not a success. He said that the Liberal Government had been responsible for the construction of the Transcontinental railways, which were not a success.



Mr. Hon. A. K. Meighen

Coming to the tariff, Mr. Meighen said that the Liberal record in connection with the tariff was not a very good one. He said that the Liberal Government had been responsible for the construction of the Transcontinental railways, which were not a success. He said that the Liberal Government had been responsible for the construction of the Transcontinental railways, which were not a success.

Mr. Meighen developed a side argument in claiming that even though agricultural implement duties had been reduced and the Canadian manufacturer hurt, his hard, hustling population being reduced by 5,000, and the Canadian Pacific Railway, Hudson's Bay, British Pacific, yet it had resulted in no reduction in the farmers' cost of living to the manufacturing and business interests. He said that the increased cost of production owing to the tariff was not the only factor in connection with the increased cost of implements of 30 per cent., a reduction in Canadian output of 30 1-2 per cent., contracts instead of an expansion, the loss of workmen to the United States.

The farmers of the West might as well make up their minds that they would never get a Government in Canada which would dare to reduce duties on agricultural implements in the form of 1918. If the results would not be so tragic, he would like to see it tried out for a time, because the Conservatives would do more to teach them the facts than 10 years of speechmaking Mr. Meighen made a powerful appeal as to Canada's manufacturing position with a high and steady U.S. tariff and its resources and [illegible] industries. He said that the tariff in free, particularly when [illegible] Canadian manufacturer had been [illegible] the Canadian manufacturer had been [illegible] the Canadian manufacturer had been [illegible] the

THROW RUST ON OATS AND THE FARMER IS DISASTROUS

(Experimental Farms Note)

The chief agent of cereals, which causes losses running in many years, is rust. The crown rust of oats is at no small losses, nor do the losses caused by it attract attention as they are not usually so severe as in the case of the stem rust. Crown rust is, however, common, and it seems to be gaining ground in many districts in western Canada. It attacks the leaves of oats, rather than the stem, and causes the rust of the plants on which they grow. The rust appears in small orange colored masses on the leaves of oats. As the summer progresses the black stage appears on the leaves and gets them a dark or black appearance.

Just as the stem rust of wheat may live on the barberry, so the crown rust of oats shelters the summer buckthorn in the spring, and produces yellowish masses of spores (conidia) that blow about and carry the rust to oats. Last year in Western Canada, owing to favorable conditions, the spring spore stage of the crown rust was very abundant on the buckthorn in some districts so abundant that they appeared yellow even at some distances. A very heavy attack of crown rust on oats followed, killing practically all the leaves of the oats much before ripening. In consequence the yield must have been much less than if no rust were present. Many experiments in the greenhouse have shown conclusively that the rust on the common buckthorn readily infects oats. In these experiments various leaves of the buckthorn were placed above oats growing in pots, so that the rust on the buckthorn leaves fell naturally on the green of the oats. The oats were then sprayed with water and placed in very moist air in a room where oats bunting were started with the crown rust.

The common buckthorn is a shrub frequently used for hedges and for ornamental purposes. It is valuable for these purposes, but there are many other shrubs that can be used which do not spread rust. The buckthorn is hardy and can readily become established. Where it is necessary to get rid of it, on grass land, it could cause very serious injury to the oat crop. The other buckthorn in Canada is not attacked by a rust, but the grey shrubby is strong grasses, and does not attack oats.

There is no doubt in the minds of many of the farmers in certain country of the said crop, killing the leaves and reducing the yield. There can also no doubt that the common buckthorn helps in the overwintering and spread of the rust. The common buckthorn, therefore, should not be planted or be allowed to grow in countries where oats is valuable crop. The common barberry and the common buckthorn should be destroyed in grain growing districts.

CULTIVATION OF BREAKING

(Experimental Farms Note)

In districts where it is necessary to break early, largely sod back in the same season, it is said to set up several advantages to the subsequent crops in order that the first crop may receive a start while the moisture is better conserved through a mat of seedings near and the farrow is worked into a mat not too close. After this process has commenced, the time of the strips of sod to be ploughed under depends upon the amount of growth required. The first during is usually done in the spring, and produces yellowish masses of spores (conidia) that blow about and carry the rust to oats. Last year in Western Canada, owing to favorable conditions, the spring spore stage of the crown rust was very abundant on the buckthorn in some districts so abundant that they appeared yellow even at some distances. In the vicinity where this w written the most charge for threshing oats is five cents a bushel. Extra help, comfortable and board of cows and horses during the sunshine two days called a bushel. The grain then sells for oneyes and perhaps chopping, while if the straw has to be moved it is bundled bushels less conveniently than if moved. If not shifted, it probably leaves a weed-breeding stack bottom for a longer to the field. And it is probable that after all this expense has been incurred the threshed grain and straw are no more valuable for cattle feeding than the unthreshed bundle would have been. Why pay out hard cash in order to increase the cost of feed twenty or twenty-five per cent.?

It is not argued by any means that no oats should go through the separator, but it is suggested that in many cases a silo of the threshing bill might be saved by reserving more oats and frosted wheat for feeding out of the shock to well-selected livestock. For this purpose a clean crop should usually be chosen unless the resultant manure can be well rotted or applied where the weed seeds will do no harm. Otherwise dirty grain should be threshed, fanned and probably ground, the screenings being burned.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL IS BESTOW THE WORD

Opinion Given by the President of the British Columbia Power Commission to the Independent

The Independent, in following the plan of getting information on the question of Control system from province where it is in vogue, wrote recently to Mr. L. J. Bell, manager of the Vernon Hydro, asking his opinion of the system there. Mr. Bell is a old-timer in Vernon, and has served the Vernon Hydro, the oldest of the municipal ownership of the province, for 20 years. He is also President of the British Columbia Power Association, and is particularly qualified to give an honest opinion of comparative merits of the B.C. method of dealing with the power question. His reply is given below:

Vernon, B.C.

C. L. Willis, Esq.,
"Independent"
Stettler, Alberta.

Dear Sir:

I received your letter of recent date re Government control in British Columbia, on which subject you wish me to express an opinion.

Speaking personally, it does not make much difference to me whether there is Prohibition or not, for I do not drink now, nor did I do so before the general sale was prohibited and also restricted.

Leaving all the matter in a general way, however, I feel that the free sale, so at one time was the case, will never again be tolerated, and I would express it very way its introduction. The law and saloons must be forever banned. Total Prohibition could do no harm to anyone if it could be enforced. Liquor is not necessary to anyone, and no one would suffer if the saloons and bars were discontinued entirely But it can never be enforced. Certain people will have liquor, now a days, be it obtained, be it got by bootlegging and earth is not sacred "cow" with a "hide" in it.

In the old days, when liquor was freely dispensed, hotelmen with a "license" to sell, were practically the only people who made money. They did not have to advertise, their bars were the rendezvous for all, and instead of considering the bar an adjunct, really considered the bar the principal thing, and the hotel an attachment to enable them to have a bar In Brief—I think the other the Government operated the distributing centre, there is a certain restriction in the sale It calls for permits, such permits are limited, both as to number and to how much per annum The amount of liquor, while in any mind rather liberal, is nevertheless limited as to what amount may be purchased within a certain period, so that as far as possible it is supposed to prevent "moderation" from any one. Now there is really food they must have it, are able to buy it, and get the real thing, in sealed containers. Besides this, whatever profit can made in the sale of liquor per gallon is controlled by a limited number of them in the province, but every cent to the people' latest Friendly Citizens' local channels. It goes to the support of hospitals, for homes for inebriates, schools, etc. so that all citizens profit to this extent whether they drink or liquor While it may be said that these institutions should not profit by sources of this nature, yet when people insist on having the stuff, and are willing to pay for it, surely it will be submitted that the distribution of coal profits among the people as a whole, instead of part of the provincial revenue, is better than have a condition of a few beholders.

As a matter-of-fact someone I feel that it works unsatisfactorily The trouble with which people have to go to get the power, the fact that a meeter is kept on the premises by the hydro, which obliges that the amount they may have is limited; the fact that increases are only to those who come within the provisions of the Act—all these things tend to limit the amount bought and consumed, and I feel sure it is a step in undoubtedly among the most economic for the control of the sale of liquor which could be devised and which can be carried out.

As I stated before, prohibition of liquor, except, and also entirely would be ideal, and would be desirable, if it could be carried out. But as long as human nature is constituted as it is, and as long as people are human, it is necessary to try to deal sanely with matters of the kind, and have a practical procedure rather than try to accomplish too much at one time By experience I have found that the best way by administering it from one or two centres. Moreover, by having our boys grow up without the constant temptation before them, by making it a little inconvenient to get it at all; in fact, by treating people away from the liquor habit, I feel that eventually strictly necessary, will eventually improve matters with the help of using the stuff at all except as medicine, and I would not be surprised to see the time when people home, when the Governments will find it necessary, by lack of patronage, to start closing up some of the warehouses.

I believe the British Columbia system is the best yet devised to accomplish the results desired, and to deal with the whole question at the present time.

Yours very truly,
L. J. Bell.

The above letter was written by private hotelkeeper but in reply to our letter asking that he allow it to be published, Mr. Bell supplies his information of the control system by stating that he does not agree with "hotels" to clubs for it seems to him that the latter is but a form of clubs He concludes as follows—"By the way would be to discourage the idea of 'club licenses' but might suggest a law or order with regard to hotels Hotel liquor should be restricted to Government dispensaries and should be made fairly expensive so as to discourage as far as possible the general user."

THE THEY HEAD ADVERTISING

In a recent report published in Editor and Publisher, and from the conference planned by the Dun Motion Advertising Club, it is shown that nearly four per cent. of newspaper readers read advertisements and eighty-eight per cent. have faith in their truthfulness These reasons were resulted on a questionnaire prepared by 600 shoppers at Dun Motion.

Eighty-six per cent. of those who replied thought newspaper advertising the most effective. Truthfulness and accuracy were the most appealing elements in an advertisement, attractiveness was the most appealing for saving money third, was shown by the replies to answers. The department of a newspaper, in the order of their interest to the reader, were foreign news, local news, national news, editorials, advertisements, personal or society news, comics and sport pages. Women represented two-thirds of those who filled out the questionnaire.

THRIFT IN OUR SCHOOLS

Our schools re-opened a few weeks ago, and it is appropriate that we give thought at this time to the important problem of thrift instruction to the young. In a recent statement, Secretary Hughes of the U.S. Government said: "The primary basis for the system of democracy is self-control, and this is achieved only through self-discipline. As I look back upon my own life I find the best lessons were the hardest."

It is important that our boys and girls be given thrift instruction, because of the things briefly referred to in this quotation from the U.S. Secretary of State Youth develops self-reliance and self-discipline when he is allowed to use his own resources, when he learns that he must pay for what he gets, when he learns the value of money. Thrift is not merely a matter of saving money, it is a matter of using money wisely.

Thrift is being taken up in our schools as educational movement of great importance. Every community should establish a school savings bank. Such a movement is under way in Edmonton, and it will be interesting to watch the progress of the movement. Thrift habits formed in childhood will be of great value in after years. Such habits will prove of immeasurable benefit to our country and to the individual.

ANTI-TOXIN FOR DOGS

City Health Officer of Portland, Oregon, announces that crops of rabbits have been noted at the scampering has been killed by a "wave" disease.

It is quite reasonable to suppose that an anti-toxin will be discovered but the toxins which are present in the rabbit's body are which is the absence of the necessary to produce immunity to mental and physical weakness.

If that is the case, the cure should be "cured" no longer. It should be applied to the human race in the form of the globe.

For unless some scientific cure is found soon, invasion crop calamities will be the biggest problem the next generation will have to face. At present our control seems to only scratching at the disease.

HOMESTEADS AND HOMES DEVELOPMENT

Land Settlement Board gives a very cleverly and eloquently developed forecast of the future development of the next hundred years. He here sees the possibility that the centre of Empire might shift to the south-west. What Lord Birkenhead terms, continuity he has spent, a possibility, is by reality a probability, which most of the ex-chancellor's control and political colleagues have right with.

Great Britain is at present in Europe both and of Europe. Prohibition Meeting

Rev Hugh Dobson, of Regina, gave an address on Prohibition at the Opera House on Tuesday evening. On account of the short notice given, the attendance was not large, those being present were mostly members of the party. Mr Clarke A The chair was taken at 8:15 by Mr. C V Bennett, who introduced the speaker.

Mr. Dobson referred to the world-wide evil against liquor and how fervent was now, which had its origin from three common First, scientific research, showing the deadly effects of moderate drinking of beverage liquor; second, economic waste, due to huge expenditure on a non-productive article; third, the ever increasing influence of the liquor trade on politics.

The British Government Commission under Lord D'Abernon was asked by the House of Commons to inquire. Owing of even few persons' hours was if the question, affecting the progress of drinkers and a greater measure to humanity than economic drinking with all its drawbacks. The members of the British Education Board in their reports pointed out that the very harmful effects of moderate drinking on the nervous system and the re-crudescion of the control of cause necessary to run steadily and to the best advantage. This latter phase before a person is drunken is the time to prevent the impending public reference engineers must exhibit. Super power Transmission plants, under penalty of dismissal. It is just as essential with the engineer of a locomotive. Moderate drinking affects automobile should be prevented. Prohibition has prevented forward crushing, drinking, motor-cars and aeroplanes. Statistics were quoted to show that moderate drinking increased longevity as was shown by the returns of ten temperate insurance six million pounds.

Prohibition has reduced the mortality from alcoholism, as clearly shown in the Health Department returns. In the report of Dr. Amoldi Geddes, British ambassador, in a report to the British Government showed that deaths from alcoholism, which previous to Prohibition had been the highest year under Prohibition, had been but 1,000 in 1921, while the worst year under Prohibition, 1921, he showed that per capita of population, convictions were decreased as follows in Alberta drunkenness, 70%; assaults, 75%; assaults, 75%; breach of peace, 84%; insane asylum admissions, 50%; and the number of frequenting places of vice, 98%; in Saskatchewan, drunkenness 40 per cent.; assaults, 71%; assaulting police and obscene language treaty; in Manitoba latter of the average decrease of these death crimes being 80% The speaker showed that Prohibition was not the only one-third of what it was before the war, and that the revenue from the sale of liquor before the courts only 33% of what they were before the war. Further, the speaker showed that the record.

Government Saint system limit prevent a great failure, he claimed, for they involve the Government in the task of facilitating the destruction of human by supplying them with millions of dollars of revenue from it. The executive to increase this was found means to enforce the law, and the re-partnership with the brewers, every one of whom, in their private business, is pledged to do whatever he have the courts. Saskatchewan had voted on this question by a majority of votes. The cities and towns voted seven to one against Government Liquor Stores after a trial of them.

In B.C on August 20th the Municipal Elections were held, and resulted in a resolution stating that conditions were worse than before the war by far days. Retail grocers had passed a resolution that they would not handle the competition with the millions of dollars sent through Government liquor stores. Even the Premier of New Westminster himself the last month had unanimously passed a resolution stating that beer-topping was much worse than ever before. The general condition of blind-pigs, immorality, gambling, boot-legging and illicit distillation was deplorable. Before the clubs, the speaker asserted, had been opposed during the last month in Vancouver Mr Dobson told the specific evidence of this in Court and official record on the table. Illicit were increased instead of diminished because the laborer knows can taken out of the province was three times as much as the profits of the Government and municipalities put together. Quebec crime in 1921 was higher than in any well recognized as regular drinking 1913, while in Alberta it was greatly centres though illicit, are not published. Boot-legging was the chief sin against the law to be drunken in these beer clubs nor in private homes. Further, the speaker said, the situation is very different now from the pull. Ten days it was two or three dollars and costs for drunk and disorderly Now it is $50.00 or a month in jail for three of intoxication in Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo, Prince Rupert, Kamloops and Fernie. The people who control pay the $50.00 are the City Council and the Police Court to pay from $50.00 to $100.00 for the keep of a man for a month. The result is a most scandalous condition existed in the courts, in the forfeiture of bails and withdrawal of charges.

The speaker said the Dominion Government was the only one which owns them the old bar, because they are in the hands of the people, men and women on a wide-spread scale and would introduce many profits in alcohol addiction. Citizens should vote "I" opposite Clause A.

Mr. T. F. Collins, of Rock Basin Lake, is visiting his neighborhood to-day after his property N.E. of the town. The Mr. Collins' contract will be up here in a few days and it has given him an opportunity of seeing the country at its best. Indeed this year it might not last so long, as there is no doubt a number of new settlers will be on the district and there are little to attract the city man the owner of chamber on the old Homer post office premises. "The district looks fine" says Mr. Collins, "and I believe that the harvest will be a good one." Mr. Collins will take back to town a great tale of what he has seen and a great deal of what he has not seen, in the matter of fruit, for he motored all the way here from Winnipeg through Minnedosa, Saskatchewan and Alberta. It should be a big boost for the country.

With the R.O.S. being sent out for help in the thrashing of our big crop, most are remembering the death and the fees for the latter being paid around, sometimes with results forth—and jabbing merrily the long fork of F. Our "Jumbo" threshing outfit made a picture as it passed through the streets of town, on Thursday afternoon, with a couple of teams and a stiff look matters fairly easy by the end of the week they were hustling and rolling out the grain in good shape. The wheat at Watson's made 34 to the acre after being dockaged some 10 bush. This would think had been more as a sort of guess work this year.

Jacky Tarleton attained his 8th birthday on Saturday and celebrated the event in conventional a manner. Many happy returns.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, of Fairmont, Wisconsin, and their daughter Mrs. Jake came left for home on Saturday, after a very busy week all carrying their daughters. Mrs. R. (Everett) Harry Lambert. They are people of Alberta and very much with us. Mr. Taylor has put in almost all night since opening the home of the shipping evening. The records provide for the name of the shipper and those who have power to report any shipment or quantity of grain is uncertain whether it consists to be returned to the shipper. The Ontario government has taken over the Hydro-Electric Railway of Ontario, consisting of 180 miles of steel from Alberta to Port Arthur. The price was $7 an share. These shares, nevertheless, originally issued at $100 each, are now worth only $10 each. The deal was made with a view to the development of power in Northern Ontario, which will be put into the hands of the people, as they are themselves or Ontario to the full extent. The line will then be operated by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, which is to own and operate the Toronto Electric Commissioners' system. It is expected that more than 10,000 hrs. granted the special rate by the C.N.R.

HEAVY AND LIGHT HARNESS REPAIRED

Member of "Bottom" Says Layburn Is Best Bird for Stettler "Key Plate" But Believes "Bowron" Are Best for Small Flocks on 200 Birds.

(By L. Chaplin)

The word "heavy" is to my mind a misnomer when applied to Layburns, absolutely to all breeds of fowls, other than the Mediterranean. In comparison of Rocks, Reds, Orpingtons, Wyandottes, the name "General Purpose" is the more appropriate.

The average poultry keeper either does not know the merits of commercial breeds, or presents only those types of general purpose birds, but I prefer my self-opinion, and I am supported by every humble opinion we are suffering from the present craze for "fancy" birds, one goes there are always a few "breaks" who can see only one variety of bird and that the one they have chosen to be running themselves at the time. In this district we are faced with the general purpose breeds and encourage to put their eggs on a fairly as soon, without a-being to detract from the many good qualities possessed by the light breeds.

For the "Key Plate"

To begin with we may say that for the straight commercial egg plant there is, in my opinion, no better bird than the Leghorn. They require less accommodation and, given open range, or at any rate large runs, need less attention than the heavier birds.

To take my own breed, B.P.R.'s, as an example of a general purpose bird, they require more room and attention, and being not so enterprise as the Leghorn, need to be kept on the move by various contrivances, some of which I may deal with at a later date. They are also a little more subject to vermin and therefore require to be kept more scrupulously clean on that account.

Their tendency to broodiness again means more attention, and their general property they are easily broken, but it all comes to the same. These principal reasons which tell against keeping them in sufficiently large numbers for commercial profit, and which may rule with labor and building materials so high as they are.

So much for the "Cons."

Now for the "Pros." I have absolutely no hesitation whatever in claiming that for the farm flock, the B.P.R. is the best for any one breeding anywhere from 6 to 250 birds, the general purpose bird has no equal. The following are some of the principal reasons I offer to support this claim:

1. In spite of claims made to the contrary they can lay just as many eggs as the L.W.

2. The cockerels are not an encumbrance, but can be raised to yield profit in early summer as broilers and later as roasters.

3. Surplus cockerels are not required, as several chick can be raised with one hen, and one hen will brood a chick up to 200 or 300.

4. With a little extra feed from a grain bin, they will gather sufficient food from the yard to keep themselves in condition, and often many fetch home an extra meal.

5. They are hardy, and by no means the least of my arguments, in this! They do not require to be housed in a warm house, but can be comfortably housed in a cheap shed, with a straw loft overhead, and other equally profitable reasons, to discuss, but which I will leave for the L.W. owner is lucky indeed if he can get like clear per—whereas the B.P.R. owner realizes more than once a dollar a head and more often more than that.

There are many more arguments which I could bring forward, should show the fact that the general purpose breeds are better winter layers, but the above should suffice to show that they have strong claims for consideration for those who "run a small flock of chicken in connection with other branches of farming.

FARM NEWS

GATHERING AND CURING VEGETABLE SEED

Experimental Farms Note:

It is a well known fact that there is a great demand for vegetable seeds that can be grown in this country, and that some kinds command a high price. Many people have a few vegetables in their gardens, and would like to save their own seed, but do not know how to do it. The following notes are intended to help such people to obtain seed of good quality.

Vegetables may be roughly divided into two classes, namely, those which are grown for their roots, tubers, or leaves, and those which are grown for their seeds. The former class includes such vegetables as carrots, beets, parsnips, turnips, onions, celery, potatoes, rutabagas, peppers and corn.

The first requisite that must be allowed to mature fully on the plant before harvesting. With peas and beans, the pods should be dry and brittle. Sweet corn is very tender until ripened, and should not be harvested as long as the milk remains sweet. Tomatoes should be allowed to become dead ripe before picking. Cucumbers, squash and melons should be left on the vines until the fruit is fully ripe. Onions, beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips, cabbages, celery, potatoes, rutabagas and peppers should be left in the ground until after the first severe frost. Before digging, it is well to remove the tops by cutting off with a sharp knife. Dig carefully, so as not to injure the roots, and store in a cool, dry, frost-proof cellar. Potatoes should be left in the ground until the vines are dead. Corn should be left standing in the field until the husks are dry and the kernels hard. Then it should be husked and stored in a dry, well-ventilated place.

Seeds of the following vegetables may be saved with little trouble: Peas, beans, tomatoes, cucumbers, squash, melons, peppers, corn, onions, lettuce, endive, salsify, and parsley. Seeds of the following vegetables require more care in saving: Beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips, cabbages, celery, potatoes, rutabagas, and cauliflower.

Peas and beans should be allowed to remain on the vines until the pods are dry and brittle. Then they should be picked, shelled, and stored in a dry, cool place. Tomatoes should be picked when dead ripe, and the seeds washed out of the pulp. Cucumbers should be allowed to remain on the vines until the fruit is dead ripe. Then they should be cut open, the seeds washed out of the pulp, and dried. Squash and melons should be left on the vines until the fruit is dead ripe. Then they should be cut open, the seeds washed out of the pulp, and dried. Peppers should be left on the plants until the fruit is dead ripe. Then they should be picked, the seeds washed out of the pulp, and dried. Corn should be left standing in the field until the husks are dry and the kernels hard. Then it should be husked and stored in a dry, well-ventilated place. Onions should be left in the ground until after the first severe frost. Before digging, it is well to remove the tops by cutting off with a sharp knife. Dig carefully, so as not to injure the roots, and store in a cool, dry, frost-proof cellar. Lettuce should be left in the ground until the heads are dry and the kernels hard. Then it should be picked, the seeds washed out of the pulp, and dried. Endive should be left in the ground until the heads are dry and the kernels hard. Then it should be picked, the seeds washed out of the pulp, and dried. Salsify should be left in the ground until the heads are dry and the kernels hard. Then it should be picked, the seeds washed out of the pulp, and dried. Parsley should be left in the ground until the heads are dry and the kernels hard. Then it should be picked, the seeds washed out of the pulp, and dried.

DONALDA

Rev. H. D. Marr, B.A., secretary for the Canadian Branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society, of Calgary, will preach at Red Willow, in connection with Donalda on Sunday, October 16th, at the regular hours of service. The pastor, Rev. I. M. Hamilton, will preach at Donalda in the morning and Join Rev. Mr. Marr at the other services.

Threshing operations have commenced and much old is given to the crop by the hopeless and generally fine state of town.

The annual Baby Day services held at Beaver Vista, Science Mound and Donalda were all an inspiration to the splendid audiences that attended the morning, afternoon and evening services. The programs arranged by each local Sunday School Committee were splendidly and impressively rendered by the children. A special feature that received much appreciation was the collection of three numbers who rendered very appropriate music.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Donalda, with the assistance of the entire community are planning on a big Harvest and Thanksgiving Festival in connection with the Union church. A varied program is to follow the church Watch for further particulars. Date to be announced later.

Thrift

does not mean parsimony and doing without the pleasures of life in its true sense, thrift is simply common sense applied to spending.

How much of your money have you spent during the past year on things that added little or nothing to your comfort or pleasure?

Don't make the same mistakes in the future. Just put a little more by in a Bank of Toronto Savings Account for the rainy day.

Mahomet could have sold your merchandise

You know the old story of Mahomet and the Mountain—when the mountain wouldn't come to him he, like a sensible man, grabbed his Panama off the hall rack and went to the mountain—he wanted it badly enough to go after it.

IF IT'S PRINTING WE CAN DO IT.

That is precisely the situation today—the mountain—BUSINESS—will not come to you—you will have to go after it and go after it hard. YOU have one great advantage over the prophet—he had to take the going as he found it—you can pave the way with advertising.

FARM NEWS

BEWARE OF WORMS

(Experimental Farms Note)

Intestinal parasitism of foals is brought to attention at this season of the year because the most striking phase of the disease is often seen at this time.

The disease is rarely more prevalent than tuberculosis, with which in its chronic form it may be confused commonly, also from an economic standpoint it probably ranks second only to mange.

In order properly to understand the cause of the foal, a brief description of the chronic form is given since it may precede or follow the acute form.

The sick animals become thin, although the appetite is not especially disturbed. At times the appetite is even increased and is accompanied by an intense thirst for cold water. The droppings are thin, contain considerable yellow slime, and are passed in small quantities, but at short intervals. After a time other symptoms develop. The sick animals become dull and listless, remain apart from the herd of the flock—the feathers are ruffled and the wing droop, the appetite is lost and the birds allow themselves to be easily caught. Impaired organic functions tend to extreme emaciation and a fatal termination usually follows, when the subject is but a mere shadow of its former self. It is not the chronic form, however, that we are primarily interested in at the moment, but with a form or series of forms which are frequently overlooked or even given prevention quality of short and great prostration usually fatal to the assumption that the birds have contracted poisonous materials from heifer. In further forming, in many instances, by the fact that no previous indication of disease has existed.

In so far as we have able to learn, these attacks are always associated with sudden changes in weather conditions. The usual history is to the effect that birds are found in a prostrated condition, moth and nattier silently recede dark in color, following soon by death in ten to three days, after the escape just after a sudden drop in temperature usually preceded by rain.

By the weather is that the birds are able to hold their own against rather more favorable conditions, but are unable successfully to carry on the fight when reduced by adverse influences.

The merchants of Stettler are en-deavoring to make it well worth your while to purchase locally, and special inducements have been offered in the various stores, many of which adver-tise in the columns of the Independent.

There is no longer to be found the man who does not believe in [illegible] taxes. Many of the merchants hesi-tate to do so, fearing the attempt out-lay involving the all-important fact, that advertising is the life of trade.

JOTTINGS

The Provincial W.C.T.U. is a strong constitution passed at Red Deer Convention, with a dominion of Free Press, Edmonton, Alberta, University, who knows violation of the law, and proposes to continue to do it. If a foreigner in this country was to other such statements he would, we think, be behind the bars, and we would be a citizen of the U.S. if he made them about the law enforcers, and in responsible official care. Any man holding such opinions should not be in a position where he can influence the thought of the country, as his attitude is an encouragement to good citizenship, but tends to develop a spirit of disregard for the law. Such talk as his is mischievous and insanely, and protests are necessary lest such utterances in order that their children may be educated into anarchists.

One speaker at the Convention said he had been a missionary in B.C. amongst orange for several years. One day he had 27 visitors with their packing done behind, and he related that at all his makers there he never saw anything so tough and vile and was determined to send absolutely and positively no bath here and he moved to a Vancouver Club last winter, where he counted 136 men hastily rising napkins to the laugh-room to see this rare specimen.

The farmer and the banker

THOUSANDS of farmers throughout Canada have proved for themselves the value of a connection with The Bank of Toronto.

The opening of a small deposit account has, in hundreds of cases, been the means of establishing friendship and confidence, and the loans obtained from the Bank from time to time for farm operations have been of great assistance in helping many a farmer towards success.

Financial business is as important to The Bank of Toronto as any other business. We welcome the Farmer at any of our Branches.

Mahomet could have sold your merchandise

You know the old story of Mahomet and the Mountain—when the mountain wouldn't come to him he, like a sensible man, grabbed his Pilgrim Staff and went to the mountain—he wanted it badly enough to go after it.

IF IT'S PRINTING WE CAN DO IT.

That is precisely the situation today—the mountain—BUSINESS—will not come to you—you will have to go after it and go after it hard. YOU have one great advantage over the prophet—he had to take the going as he found it—you can pave the way with advertising.

FARM NEWS

WHEN THE CATTLE FAIR.

(Experimental Farms Note)

When the succulent summer vegetation becomes scarce by cold nights and ripening winds they lose a measure of the quality possessed earlier in the season. At least this is the case in the vegetation in the "long grass" region of the West. At the same time the late harvest crops afford a better substitute for growth. The complement stookers (stooper and outside hands) there is still plenty of feed on the ground but if the stock are to be a finished ere he will probably find that the best species of herbage have been cropped close, while the long growth remaining is either of an inferior material quality or is matured with brash or perhaps fringed droppings which taint its flavor, rendering the crop unsafe to yield ground by hogging.

If at this time when feed is falling from cold nights, cold winds and chilling storms make additional drafts on body fuel, the effect will be shown in arrested rate of gains or perhaps in actual shrinkage of the body weight. The effort is diagnosed at first by long coats of standing hair so that the natural advantages of the body weight generally when in point of fact they are actually losing ground. This is particularly true at first of the milking cows which are reflected later in the condition of nursing calves. Stock intended for fattening may often lose instead of thrive on a month's feeding — they will take put on. Many a young steer has been handicapped before he enters the feed lot.

If every one knows could have the opportunity of weighing his animals daily he would become more alert to these facts. The destroyer has a way of making himself known in other body ways than by the small sampling of the scales. Sometimes a close observer will detect the first appearance of the trouble in the coat of the animal.

There are those who find that the most important time to supply extra feed is at the setting in of winter, when, as every one knows, at this stage is even more important than in the spring. The writer is not yet prepared to be quite that far but is convinced that adequate provisions for supplemental feeding from now on in the month of October, if spared to some economy in roughage, it is well that the feed be somewhat liberal. Now, when way rather while the same time distributing their droppings over the land. Winter rye is excellent, remaining green until winter. Late-sown oats are useful in special cases and are frosted sooner than the rye. Rape is a splendid supplementary feed although one must be very careful about pasturing ruminants on it in damp or frosty weather. A stubble field where winter rye has been sown, drilled on the spring grain makes a fine pasturage for autumn feeding. Rolled sunflowers, fed in moderate quantities to dairy cows, increase the flow. Those who remember the season of the top layer Don't let the cattle fall in the fall.

FALL TREATMENT OF NEW SEEDINGS OF GRASSES AND CLOVERS

(Experimental Farm Note)

Mr. ... writing ... grasses and clovers in the fall of the present year is probably one of the greatest reasons why many promising stands prove a disappointment the following season. We are trying to do more the same year as new must be done carefully and early so that sufficient growth may be secured to protect the stand by the winter. Late, close pasturing or pasturing when the ground is wet should never be practiced either with an old or a new seeding if maximum results are to be obtained the following year. Late, close pasturing, particularly when the ground is wet, reduces the vitality of the plants by removing the protection which full growth furnishes and so exposes the plants to many winter killing dangers. It would be time if some growth were left. Fall growth also holds the snow which is itself a valuable protection from extremely low temperatures or sudden temperature changes. Not only will late, close pasturing encourage the winter killing through low vitality, but even though the plants come through the winter without killing they will not start as early nor make as vigorous a growth as where late growth has been left as a protective covering. Where some growth is left the privilege of harvest a crop as a catch crop for the production of which the new stand can make an early and a vigorous spring growth.

Grasses and clovers, particularly the latter are injured to a great extent by heaving in the spring. This is caused by alternate cold weather and thaws and heads of a previous season's growth tends to loosen this line by penetrating the plants and rapid temperature changes in the early spring.

If best results are to be obtained from green and clover, cowhage, pasturing must not be practiced. Sufficient growth must be allowed when the land is wet. Certainly what pasturage can be available during the poor years will not pay for the loss of land. Clubbing and cultivation of the seeding has been mentioned into the previous fall.

R. I. Hamilton,
Assistant Agrostologist.

Seven U.S. Destroyers on Reefs

Seven United States destroyers went aground on September 8th at Point Loma, near San Diego, Cal., in a fog. The destroyers were travelling at 20 knots and in formation when the leading ship crashed and the others piled on the heels of the rescue. The cause of the disaster has not been solved. Conjectures are that there had been an undetected current movement which affected the compasses, or else a blind navy, a plane of the Japanese squadron since all seven destroyers were piled high on the rocks. Many lives and apparently $5,000,000 were lost as a result of the catastrophe.

Japan's Earthquake Losses

The final official statement of the loss of life in the Japan earthquake is given. There were 651,000 houses destroyed or burned.

HOW WILL CLAUSE A BE ENFORCED?

That is the gist of the question—the enforcement of Clause A, and it is something the politicians opposed to do but must speak upon. Advocates of the enforcement of prohibition as we now know it has broken down favor Clause A, which is more drastic prohibition, but many favor modification.

Those are only two methods handling financial matters and enforcement of the Liquor Act—(1) Getting the people an opportunity to help enforce the Act, and (2) barricading the police force.

Neither method is practicable and both are doomed to failure. The people generally won't help enforce the law, and many of them break it. Secondly by education we can get them to eat every week beer, so that the numbers stores would close for lack of business, is not that a steady gain in temperance and sobriety?

We have not the slightest objection to Clause A if someone would show us how it can be enforced.

There are bootleggers because our Government and people are in fact under any restrictive system, but the difference is that the people under a control system can help exist only by supplying a good liquor and the Government, but the bootlegger that does create prohibition can trade in the devil's own commodities, sold at the highest possible prices.

Government Elevator at Edmonton

Preparations are now being made to commence construction of the 2½ million dollar Government storage elevator which is to be erected at Edmonton, on the National Railway line.

Some Good Corn Yields

Alberta is responsible for some good yields of corn this season. G. G. Scott, a farmer of Willett, near Bassano, reports that he seeded four acres with Red Dent and Golden Glow varieties, some of silage to the acre, and expects a yield of 60 bushels to the acre from the corn. In the Taber district, an irrigated lands, a number of farmers have grown corn with much success this year, it is reported.

Crop Pays for Farm

With low-priced farm lands and heavy yields of grain in Alberta this year, some farmers have been able to accumulate wonders in the way of financing their farms. Witness Bros. of Cam-rose purchased their farm in fall of 1931, which they prepared for crop last year and seeded to wheat this year. They report take the crop they have taken off this full has paid the expenses and the purchase price of the land in addition.

KARL VON MUELLER, THE GERMAN COMMANDER WHO PLAYED THE GAME

One of the few Germans who fought courageously in the war and were admitted by their foes to be brave and sportsmanlike fighters was Captain Karl Von Mueller, who died in Germany a short time ago. He was the commander of the Emden, and the Illinois probably was more useful to the German people than all the rest of the immense navy put together, with the exception of the U boats. In their short and eventful career of fourteen weeks she destroyed 15,000 tons of British and allied shipping, and practically twenty-two ships, with a total tonnage of 129,000 tons. Her maximum rate—not even 30 per cent. of her full speed—was when she had been sent like into the dust of her foe to make a clearance to go to work at once. On September 1st, 1914, the Emden, with the Austrian cruiser Sydney, which was also in the Pacific Ocean, she was not responsible for the loss of the Sydney, those were killed and Pillaue were wounded on the latter, while the Emden had not a single casualty.

Karl Von Mueller was one of the most popular officers in the German navy, a thorough sailor, and popular both in his profession and socially he was one of the few officers who prevented the German Emperor at the meetings of King Edward VII and the leader of the Emden, a small cruiser of 3,600 tons and 4,500 horse power in the Yellow Sea. Two days after the declaration she was reported off the Island of Penang, and soon came the news that on the previous day she had sunk a British ship in the Bay of Bengal. In the next weeks there was silence, at the end of which the Admiralty announced that she had entered the Bay of Bengal and captured and sunk a Russian ship. Next came news to Colombo with the captured crew. Von Mueller was now in the vicinity of which he had determined to operate, and some part of the Admiralty announced that the fact that at that time there was little or no British shipping in Colombo. The Emden was equipped, however, and no doubt was able to get many ships in the Bay of Bengal.

The next few weeks were thrilling ones. The Emden raised through the Indian Ocean like a terror in a rat-infested barn, harrying commerce, sinking ships, capturing others, and causing consternation in every port. Every steamer at times sank its destroyer, and the Emden was the most hunted. By the time the alarm had been given she had vanished completely, to turn up again where least expected and pounce on another merchantman. The Admiralty supplied every ship that left port with a description of the Emden, and the Emden was equipped, however, and no doubt was able to get many ships in the Bay of Bengal.

The Emden was pretty and needed overhauling. Finally it became imperative that her bottom should be scraped if possible. Where to get over the problem, but Captain Von Mueller finally contrived to take a chance on the little island of Diego Garcia, a coaling station which the British government was not likely to be one of the haunts of the British navy. To this the German Fast Sailing Ship, he steamed into the harbor. On shore all was peace and quiet. There was not a warship in sight, and the population of the island was almost entirely composed of the coaling station. The commander was still more amazed when he saw a look at the ship hoisting the flag of the man who was obviously the Governor of the island, and whose fate was therefore in his hands. When he got on board he was most hearty in his welcome. He told that a German ship had not entered the island with a visit since 1914, and that he was glad to see that must be night of service. Five Germans, though dumbfounded, treated him with equal cordiality, and in a short time Von Mueller had received all the information he required. The Emden was granted the

A larger number of events had been arranged, but time did not permit of their being run off.

The Ladies' Aid had a very successful afternoon on Friday under the Town Hall auspices. The attendance was good and everybody got a most hale, hearty time—for the money would hardly have been forthcoming and the ladies were quite satisfied with the pleasure they received. After the supper everybody repaired to the church where a very fine program was given. Rev. Ward, who threw parents on board, the events was not entirely perfected. Rev. Mr. Hess got off a few remarks, visitor here are quite fine, it our server, but Mr. Ward's pleasing manner made his first appearance here Mr. Hess's remarks to the program was a reading from "Oliver Twist," the narrative of an instrumental troubles of our old friend Bumble Mrs. Pardoe got Mr. Hudlow down on some of the mysteries of the province of dents, and Mr. Hallam was very good in his "Scotch song". The church is from real life, among the new-boys by Jack Tar's—and Charles Rich was very brief but very good. Mr. Shaw made his debut in concert work in the field and was encored, after having a fine country tenor voice and showed that he is a "find" for the choir when with which it is said will depend in choir when with which it is said will depend in great measure on the success of the women's vote.

There'll Be Millions of Worthless Kidneys in This Country in Five Years Caused by Poisonous Bootleg Liquor

By Palmer Canfield, Federal Prohibition Director New York State, as Physical Culture

Have you a weak kidney? Is constipation making you miserable? Have you some kidney properly to blame for keeping you down? Have you a kidney that's starved without proper food and nourishment?

Have you an inherited liver that's attacked by some one of a dozen different diseases?

If you have any of these symptoms you are probably using some quack remedy that makes you a supper-annuating patent medicine manufacturer. Some of these concentrated liquors that are being bottled and retailed with only a minimum of fuss. To others and for others there is only one rule to follow.

"Don't Drink."

If you drink enough of the vile and poisonous stuff that is sold for and as whisky, there will be many days of drunk and much as prohibition is with you, but make up your mind that in the few years or less that your nose will sorely blister, your [illegible] have become the biggest problem in your life. Before the enactment of the National Prohibition Act, the chances of having your liquor are ninety-nine to one against you.

That is [illegible]

Out of every one hundred bottles of liquor sold as real whisky or gin, only one has any legitimate relationship to real liquor. The other ninety-nine are imitation, near-imitation, semi-poisonous synthetic whisky or gin.

Then the one per cent—the one chance you have out of a hundred—is not a pure article, but a large part of the one per cent of so-called real liquor is diluted with [illegible] of low-quality. The seals against the purchaser of whisky or gin are simply the means to pass bad stuff to one that it is bad pass stuff.

These figures are not fantastic or guess-work. They are based upon the chemical analysis of thousands of samples taken from seized liquors that were being sold illegally in New York City the next day since [illegible] Prohibition law went into effect in New York City the next day. Since that time about 200 [illegible] of seized liquors have been analyzed.

During the first year of prohibition about sixty per cent of distilled spirits sold was straight whisky.

During the second year the proportion of straight whisky had decreased to about twenty-five per cent.

At the present time, as Chemist J. M. Quillen reports, only one per cent of distilled spirits is straight whisky.

What is this ninety-nine per cent that is being drunk? It is redistilled denatured alcohol colored with creosote and flavored with synthetic esters and fusel oil and soap bark added to give it a head. The present so-called rye whisky is made from redistilled denatured alcohol colored with creosote and flavored with a synthetic ester to give it the [illegible] flavor. Nearly all of the so-called Scotch whisky supposed to be smuggled either from Canada or from rum-running boats is also alcohol, artificially colored and flavored with a synthetic Scotch ester.

Naturally the farmer's market in New York City, Net New York City's consumption of the nation's [illegible] is [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

FORMALLY OPEN NEW CHURCH AT BIG VALLEY SUNDAY, OCTOBER 14th

Several Neighboring Ministers Join in Service of Prosbyterians

Big Valley, Oct. 18.—The congregation of the Presbyterian Church at Big Valley of which Rev J. C. Herbison is minister will formally open on October 14th, for that is the date on which their beautiful new church will be dedicated and formally opened by Rev Principal Miller of Robertson College, Edmonton.

The new church which cost about $20 was filled to overflowing both morning and evening, and those present heard two splendid and inspiring sermons by Principal Miller.

The occasion marks another stage in the progress of the work started about ten years ago by D. Kennedy and other pioneer missionaries.

The new church has been furnished complete with pews and furnaces donated by the Ladies' Aid and made by the local contractors, Messrs Hill and Hinds.

On Monday evening, October 15th, a chicken supper was served by the Ladies' Aid and was enjoyed by a good crowd. The supper was followed by a concert in the church during which Revs. C. E. A. Pocock of Stettler, D. Maconnell of Bowden, and H. Barrat of Rowley, W. K. Thompson of Drumheller, and Rev. Mr Berbrick, Baptist minister of Stettler, spoke of the work, design, and harmony of the building, and urged the people to go on in greater strength. Work has already begun to remodel the old church into a manse adjoining the church. This will be completed in about six weeks, and these two buildings will be a credit to the town of Big Valley. The erection of these buildings was made possible by a large and generous grant from the church and manse board.

THE LIQUOR PLEBISCITE

The coming liquor plebiscite story has not offered the editorial writers much scope. The opinions for one symbol the various questions submitted are being thumbed out on alternately by correspondent. But there is nothing much left for this editorin to say that hasn't everything possible has been said about having local option and about the Liquor Act.

Naturally, much time and the manipulation of the ballots, but the outcome is not now in doubt. The majority will be small, but the majority will be decisive.

It is not our business to battle for the cause of temperance one way or the other. Temperance comes from personal conviction and self-control in the matter of liquor. We are opposed to the Liquor Act as it is now administered, but we are also opposed to the Liquor Act open saloons and a tribune to entertain always in order, even if that shouldn't be misunderstood.

Now, the debate apparently proceeds along the line that the Liquor Act is "Prohibition."

The fact is that in no district of the continent can the Liquor Act be construed to have prohibition. If prohibition means anything at all, it means the unfettered total abstinence of the entire population; a fond object, though, as anodyne thing, a most noble thing, if it can be brought about.

In the Liquor Act bringing such total abstinence into being?

Emphatically not. We have had the Liquor Act in force for seven years; have tolerated it up wherever and whenever possible to the extent that, on paper, we should have to the term prohibition absolute as complete.

But what we have at the end of the seven years' experiment is a sort of partial prohibition.

This partial prohibition is neither the result of the scarcity of money nor the lush price of liquor than the application of the Liquor Act.

It is no secret at all that liquor—practically every kind saw obtainable in Alberta for beverage purposes—governing one has the permit.

The Observer doubts very much if prohibition can ever be made effective. The basic objection to prohibition is found here; it seeks to extend the rule of a certain class of citizens, whether in the majority or not, over the private life and habits of all citizens in matters which do not reflect directly concern even the majority; it substitutes for self-control, self-reliance, character training by the individual in his home and private life, ensured by the prohibition enforcement mania. It carries Government into a realm of life and activity where no Government can rightfully go, even with practical success.

The Observer is not going to rush in the defense of Clause D in the ballot. That Clause has its weaknesses which we have pointed out before this. Nevertheless, such as it is, Clause D points the way to effective Government Control and should it pass it will be the duty of the provincial government to establish Government Control.

We do not put much faith in statistics of any kind for any side speaker can marry statistics to suit his case. But on a par point attention to the results of Government Control in Britain would be interesting. Here is a wealth of statistics about this.

One thing is sure; that in spite of $2 the volume of entertainment remains as much now as before the Government assumed control of the liquor traffic.

By the way, when in parts of Alberta the Liquor Act is not very effective there.

The appointment of Mr. Justice Lyman Duff to the Supreme Court of Canada, at a salary of $20,000 per annum, is a well deserved appointment of the highest order.

A statement of sale from Ottawa, consisting of ten carloads, valued at $30 million dollars, went forward from Vancouver to New York under special guard over the Canadian Pacific one recently.

The city of Lethbridge is to have a Canadian National station. Work has not been ordered. The grade is being put in and a temporary station will be erected.

Following the disastrous early frosts in the Peace River district, large areas of barley are reported as Pacific Record. The Government has large quantities of barley in store and will supply seed to those in need assisting materially.

The rapid increase in the export lumber business of British Columbia in the past year or two, has been the subject of much comment by the Canadian theory industry. Recently the Pacific Record reported that the Japanese trade a shipment of 75,000 lbs. of lumber to China.

For almost two decades the making of Alberta's wheat crop has been derived from the cultivation of the prairie sections of the province. According to figures compiled by the Department of Agriculture, Edmonton. The result production of Alberta in 1923 was 1,000,000 bushels, which is 40 per cent. of the total production of the province.

The Canadian Pacific Railway will contribute $25,000 for the relief of the settlers in Lapp and vicinity. We are being favored with some very enticing weather in our midst these days besides our usual full crop of hunting parties. We could do with a few more of them in the south country where ducks are in huge numbers, and much damage to crops is reported, while fields in some cases have been coated up. Mr. E. He is very well pleased with results both in game and in a long term of years he only had two poor crops. Mr. J. D. FOOD CONSERVES LUMBER SUPPLY

Following of approximately 10,000, and of lumber amounting to 10,000 feet per week is the Highland Park plant is the Town Director Company's assistance in national lumber conservation.

Aside from the wood used in manufacturing operations, the company is responsible for packing and shipping rye into enormous figures and to provide a market for the product every scrap is utilized through the sawdust department, even to the smallest possible pieces.

The department, formed by experts on issues of machinery waste, is constantly pouring on a conservation scheme for the benefit of the company and the country at large, and to make it profitable.

Two departments may be used to illustrate the great duty performed by the company in this respect. The refined assembly department utilized twenty-five pieces of wood, the finished crate and an average of 1,250 of these crates are made each day.

In the refined shipment of 160 men, 775 feet of lumber, valued at over 50,000 feet of lumber is required every day for the shipment of modern chairs.

Lumber conservation as practised by the Ford Motor Company has proved a practical business investment, and the part of greater significance is the saving in forestry it makes possible, and the value it is to the nation and public enterprise throughout the country.

The farmer and the banker

THOUSANDS of farmers throughout Canada have proved for themselves the value of a connection with The Bank of Toronto.

The opening of a small deposit account has, in hundreds of cases, been the means of establishing friendship and confidence, and the issues stemming from the Bank from time to time for farm operations have been of great assistance in helping many a farmer towards success.

Farmers business is important to the Bank of Toronto as any other business. We welcome the Farmer as one of our Branches.

WINTER FEEDING OF LAMBS

(Experimental Farms Note)

A study of the lamb market for the past few years indicates that it would pay to market lambs either during the early summer or in winter after the market have recovered from the fall slump. If lambs are conservatively for lambing in check in February or March, it will probably pay to turn the lambs off during the summer months, but if the lambs are dropped as late as April and May and pasture are none too good, it is better to carry the lambs over until the late fall or winter months. The lambs may then be run on pasture until after frosts and go into lot in November and December on cut stubble. Winter feeding of lambs gives an excellent opportunity for disposing of home grown roughages, which can be marketed only through livestock, and also for supplying grains at better prices than through the elevators.

For winter feeding of lambs it is advisable to provide a shelter for sleeping in and for protection from storms. The shelter should be free from draughts and cool enough to prevent sweating as lambs will not do well when warm or warmish that they must. A protected, roomy yard should be provided as lambs do much better when they can have plenty of exercise in the open. Salt and water are necessary. A water tank with a heater offers a very satisfactory method for watering. The water should have the chill taken off it, but should never be warmed. Lambs on warm water cannot converting it lambs are drinking well it is one of the best indications that they are following. Proper racks for roughage and troughs for grain help to prevent waste and keep the feed fresh and sweet. Feed racks with perpendicular bars prevent dirt and chaff from falling on the lambs and backs of the lambs which causes discomfort and makes the fleece unsalesable. Wooden troughs 6 inches wide and 4 inches deep are suitable for feeding grain. These can be turned over after the grain is eaten. Mixed hay, bright clean and cannery Lambs respond to Prepared feeding and, if handled, these lambs daily should be the minimum. Roughages, such as hay, silage, or grassfeed, may be fed scattered on the ground, in which case it is better to shut the lambs in until the feed is clean up.

Home grown feeds are cheapest. In a recent feeding experiment at the Dominion Experimental Station, Lacombe, three western yearlings were tried out, the home grown feeds made the largest profits. Yardage fed on hay made a daily gain of .34 lb. each and those fed oat and grassfeed .35 lb. each. Those fed wheat and grassfeed gained .36 lb. and the oilcake fed group gained .51 lb. each. The group fed oat grassfeed made a profit of $18.47 as compared with $16.39 when fed on wheat hay. If oats were grassfeed, and a hay of $4.42 for the oilcake fed group. The best on this latter group was largely because oilcake was bought at $52.66 per ton, and when fed on the ground there was more waste with it. Oat grassfeed was given on the market a value of $23.00 per ton and upland hay $18.25 per ton.

There is no single grain better than whole oats. Last winter ten groups of lambs were fed, comparing whole oats, barley, wheat and a whole ear-head elevator screenings. The group fed wheat only gained .32 lb. each daily and made a profit of $11.11 each as compared with a gain of .39 lb. each and a profit of $1.30 for the barley fed group. Of two groups fed screenings the latter group gained .36 lb. each daily and made a profit of $9.04. Oilcake was not relished at first and had to be mixed with some other coarse feed before they took to it. For lambs the crushed cake is much preferred, a feeding screenings screenings from a mill worker is necessary to mix with some ground feed such as bran or oat-chop. If this is not done the lambs will pick out the whole wheat and eat too much. Whole wheat swells and is very costly if too much is eaten. The bran or chop prevents them from picking out the wheat.

At the present time there is a keen demand for lambs weighing from 90 to 100 lbs. Lambs always command a good price, and there is money in carefully and feeding or selling up to the full limit. Properly fed they are good lambs and can be kept right. Home grown roughages and grain over the best and most economical feeds. Good hay, shelter, protection from storms, clean water and salt are necessary.

NEW LAMB RUNS 94% AIR

Boon Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an exceedingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and 55 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise, no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe and 94% air. It burns 10 hours on one quart of oil.

The inventor, J. C. Johnson, 579 McDonald Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him the day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $300 to $800 per month. 9-27-10t.

REDUCED TAXATION

A Vote for Government Control means:

General Prosperity and Stability—Balancing the Provincial Budget—Reduced Taxation and Increased Provincial Grants—Provincial-Wide Good Roads—Tourists—Revival of Agricultural Exhibitions—Steadily increasing Land Values—More Land Seekers with Capital—Increased Mixed Farming (the farm housewife's private budget)—More Public Works and Drainage—The Banishment of the Bootlegger—A Bigger, Better and Happier Alberta.

A FEW FACTS

Last year the Premier of Alberta said the Provincial deficit would be $272,000; at the end of the year it was actually over $1,000,000.

This year he claimed the deficit would be $1,016,000. Preliminary figures show this estimated deficit already exceeded.

Increased taxes have been placed on insurance companies, slot machines and oil leases. What next? The farmer knows now just what the supplementary revenue tax means.

Do the public want more taxes, or do they want the Government to get the millions now going to bootleggers?

Quebec with decreased drunkenness benefited to the extent of $4,000,000. With a general tourist revenue of $100,000,000.

B.C. with less drunkenness benefited over $2,500,000 and an increase of $25,000,000 revenue from tourists.

The answer and cure remain with you.

FARMING, CORRECTIVES TO SEEDING STOCK

(Experimental Farms Note)

The best winters on the prairies are periods during which breeding stock are kept under artificial conditions. The animals take much less exercise than during the summer months and their rations no matter how they are balanced, are usually lacking in some of the elements necessary to maintain a healthy condition.

The use of proteinous laxative as a corrective for breeding troubles has been adopted by quite a number of feeders. During the past two years the bulletin has been used on the Experimental Farms at Brandon and Lacombe and has been found to breed true, and to be a very satisfactory corrective for breeding troubles. The results have been very satisfactory. HAS PROHIBITION IN ALBERTA FAILED?

Why do the opponents of Prohibition so rapidly avoid statistics? Mr. Ian Tudor, candidate for Edmonton East, in 1918 the passing of the Liquor Act wiped out a total of 704 licenses, including hotels, barbershops, clubs, etc. Almost of the spirit of this law crept in (not predicted, we believe, by prohibitionists), immediately. Hotels came rapidly

Up to the present time 1928 the total was $14,000,000. In 1920 Hon. J. S. Doyle's estimate, reducing over dozen schedules and businesses to one, $6,000,000, a decrease of 64% in British Columbia under Government Control, comparing the last six months under Prohibition with the six months ending March 31st, 1925, there was an increase of 1,200% in beer sales.

In Alberta doctors' prescriptions increased 65,000 from 1921 to 1922 and in the city of Calgary the cost of liquor prescriptions increased from $1,000 to $10,000.

In 1914 there were 751 convictions; in 1924 there were 1,000.

In 1914 there were 630 committals. This is an increase to-day of 1,000.

In 1914 there were 6 penal institutions and a prison farm for females. To-day we have 2 jails and no prison farm. B.C. has increased the cost of jails 60% and its administration 100 per cent.

From 1915-16 to 1920-21, convictions for crime have increased 287%, for drunkenness 76%, and other crimes in similar ratio, although the population increased in population only 30% in 1921.

Barring the Calgary exhibition and stampede this year only one arrest was reported at the grounds and those on the streets, and that for the entire exhibition not a single arrest was made in the Edmonton police camp in October last. Recently night there was positively no disorder in the town. Compare such a meeting in pre-prohibition days.

Prohibition has had and I repeat its acceptance in Alberta to try to compare a fact that has been responsible for 6,000 years.

What? Do you want your boy to come to you 10 or 15 years hence and tell you that you made it easy for him to get liquor?

Vote "I" after "A".

Mrs. Fee.

Richmond, California,
Route 1, Box 314,
Oct. 30th, 1928.

I have been asked to answer a recent article which appeared in your paper on the constitutes in the United States since the 18th Amendment went into effect. In order to be perfectly fair, the other side of the case should also be presented.

The working people were never so prosperous and independent. There is plenty of work for all who desire to work. Wages are good and skilled craftsmen are in demand.

The business man is calling for orders at a fair price. People are buying more because there seems to be plenty of money in circulation.

Saloon buildings are rented and in many cases are better rents, and income do women and decent mankind more favors to pass these buildings.

legislative enactment that has not obtained the entire support of at least a majority of the people to a bad law, and it is proper to repeal any and all such laws. Whenever there is prohibition there are always supporters as well as those in active opposition. Because these things are a great many persons who have not the moral courage to stand with opposition. These ignorance supporters, who have made no study of conditions, and who, as a rule, are now too cowardly to give the law active support. This is the class that are frequently instrumentals of the law in error.

Yours truly,
E. B. Wright,
Red Willow.

PROHIBITION NO MORE?

On the 5th of November the electors of this province will have the privilege of expressing their opinion as to whether Alberta will remain dry or wet.

The result of this election is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest, and no matter which way it goes it will have a big effect on the future welfare of the province for many years.

Money is being spent freely, and one wonders what is the object of all this. If it is to have an effect on the people it will vote for a return of the old liquor days with its evil results.

What one talks about talking away one's property for the sake of a privilege to see a young man or women being dragged to ruin through drink, or whose wife or boy is a prisoner slave then he who is heaped by the curses of others.

Every dollar that is spent in liquor is robbing the children of a part of their rights, is depriving them of something that they should have in life, and is placing the pockets of landlords and brewers who wax fat and prosper on the misfortune of the poor men who cannot resist the temptation. Every dollar spent is the accompaniment of what those men should; what do we see here in Stettler, we have been wrecked by their base proclivities. Profit is the object, irrespective of the means that follow. Alberta has been no worse for Prohibition, and the people of this city also has been better for it.

There is only one way to vote and that is against booze. The test we do not want; it can do no good, but it will do an end of harm. Alberta for the past few years has proved her merits in growth, and in the great majority of the staff they are made of by photographs sold for Cheese A.

H. Lambert.

Dear Mr. Editor:

Upon permitting, will you kindly publish in this week's issue of your paper a few facts and figures with regard to the higher drinking cause of the United States, both in the U.S.A. and elsewhere.

Yours, &c.,
Mrs. E. B. Wilson.

THE CALIFORNIA LIBERTY STATE:

The beneficial effects of prohibition in New York City have been striking in the reduction of the police force of that department. Its virtuously hostile and corrupt political forces, and its politically manipulated enforcement of the law.

Arrests for drunkenness and drunk and disorderly conduct—1913, 38,597; 1914, 37,000; 1915, 7,000. Deaths, alcoholism and alcoholic poisoning—1913, 681; 1914, 606; 1921, 141; 1922, 109.

The most significant facts are a great increase in savings bank deposits and personal efficiency among working women. Savings bank deposits of Swedish women producers made a 16,000-mile tour of the United States. After the pot had been shattered the fact that she is not a prohibitionist, but the pot had been the seven people. "Hey we, when we at last broke through the ice, they were not dead from cold—they were shooting, stabbing, and pumping lie even during the ice. Then we found a dead U. S. Footo, who is "tackling" on the form. Just as we got him ashore he said, in "Kiddie" party but Monday, the activities being her fifth birthday. Her sister aged seven, is in charge. We wish her many happy celebrations of the same kind.

Our friend, Mr. Jamieson, of the C.P.R. Western Division, paid us his annual visit last week with some friends and bagged a few fat ducks.

Mr and Mrs. H. J. Morris, of Sheet Harbour, have visited friends in Gadsby Sunday. Mr. Morris is off through threshing and reports good yields in his district.

The snow storm of Friday night rather added another bulk to the threshing operations, but most of the outfits started up on Monday morning again.

The Board of Directors of Gadsby Agricultural Society met on Tuesday to-day (Monday) and after discussing the matter offered by the Wheat Pool Committee, decided to sign the elevator agreement. The motion in the Calgary papers on Saturday went into effect this province as saying Gadsby had already signed. Care at this point is still very scarce.

Mr. Harry Kelly dropped down from the north on Sunday night, with a couple of friends, to have a try for some geese and ducks.

Secretary Hitchner has called a meeting of the Gadsby Local U.F.A. for Saturday night first at 8.30 p.m. in the Municipal Office. Business important.

DONALDA

The Elliott Undertaking gave a very fine class of dances at both Red Deer and Donalda, although owing to the long season the audiences were not very large.

The Harvest Festival services were well attended at all the appointments. The food supper and concert afforded a real social treat to all who could attend. Rev. Mr. Hall, B.D., Rev. Mr. Silvester, and Trustee Beard realized the good time between 1911 and gathering was reported but owing to the poor agricultural conditions of late other We would like to express our thanks and appreciation to the splendid and unselfish assistance of our local talent, namely: Mr Gordon Lindell of Fleetwood, Mrs. Hall, Miss Sally and Altha Hall and Mr Milliner of Red Deer. The latter kindly contributed contented by both local and outside talent was very much appreciated.

The C.G.I.T. girls of Red Willow are holding a Mother and Daughter Banquet on Friday night of this week at which the following will be present: Rev. Presidents, Mr. McNutt, of Donalda, formerly for a few months an account of her health. We sincerely hope that a year's rest will enable her to take her much needed and appreciated place in Sunday School and Girls' Work.

Mr. Harold Heath, of Stettler, spent Sunday at the home of his dad, and paid a visit to Red Willow and Donalda. Mr. Heath and Red Willow organized themselves into the Donalda Basketball and Hockey Club with the Canadian Standard Efficiency Training Course of Canada, as the father of Mr. Heath, of Mr. Heath, the local painter and the following officers were elected:

Pirate—Gordon Crush
Deputy Pirate—James Hillery
Treasurer—Mr. Heath
Compton—Elsie Bell

Their first meeting will be held on Friday, November 2nd.

The Boy Scouts, of Donalda, under Scout Master Hillery and Mr. Mac-Pherson, together, gathered at the Union Church on Hallowe'en night and heard a very fine address by Mr. Harold Heath, who is very much interested in the boys' welfare. A short social followed the address, at which the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. Heath, a few of the boys' fathers and a number of neighbors who came up to hear Mr. Heath's address, and a pie was last token of respect to the patriarch. A touching footpage to the case is the fact that Mr. Heath has died about one year from an acute bronchial affection.

To-night (Monday) news came from town that Mrs. Jos Wagner has been taken to the Nursing Home of Mrs. Fitzsimmons, where she had had a little baby girl only a week ago that died from some affection of the heart and lungs, and has been there for her years. Mrs. Wagner knows full well her many friends will be glad to hear that she is getting along nicely.

Hallowe'en spirits have been at work, and all the spirits of mischief are abroad "Fire Bugs and Coalsides and Sukkels" and "Gas Gobbles will get you if you don't watch out!"

There will be a Dance at the Union Church. The choir will render special music. Rev. Hughes, pastor.

Negro Population on the Decrease

The negro population in 1920 was 11.8 per cent of the total. In 1910 it was 10.7 per cent, and in 1920 it was 9.5 per cent.

TASTE

One of the proposed issues of the anti-prohibitionists is the Hun Problem. This will increase same. The history of the Hun movement everywhere has been the reverse to be this one, and that in 1916 re-proven by a French-speaking article in the New York Evening Post of March 1st, 1916. The head reads: "The new issue is to immigrate, at New York Port."

The article itself shows, that at least that section pig there has been a movement of same, although there is not a penny reflected for Senator Thornton Brooks, who was at one time Police Commissioner of New York, Colonel in the Spanish-American War, Governor of New York, Treasurer of the U.S.A., and President of the U.S.A. now ruled—

"To talk of the revenue produced by the liquor traffic is asinine. Nothing can produce revenue that does not produce wealth."

The department has taken advantage of the visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada to inaugurate this bill. The new issue is of exciting design, and is altogether one of the most perfect that has been issued by the department in recent years. The back portion is an excellent engraving of the coat-of-arms of the Dominion. The same printing on front and back is in a pleasing shade of olive green. His Highness has submitted to His Royal Highness for his acceptance the first issue.—St. L—of the new note.

Issues Victoria Travelled Slowly

The train which recently conveyed King George to Balmoral travelled at a very different pace from those in which Queen Victoria made her annual excursion north. Her Majesty had a saloon fitted up with an outside chair, a horror of fast travelling, and rarely rolled an hour was exceeded in the journey. Her would permit, and three days, too, a pilot engine had to precede the royal train, and platelayers were stationed at regular intervals along the route. As a consequence the journey cost over £5,000. Her Majesty's nervousness in this respect is believed to have been due to the Nevermore storm. If they fail to arrive at time they will have to wait until the next July, on the parole for the train for both Brenan and Great Britain told to commence at midnight.

Cold to Disease In

Only one thing prevented John Simpson, 85 years old, from ending his life in the Detroit River on October 10th. The water was too cold. After carefully taking off his coat and hat, Simpson perched on the piles at the foot of Baltic Street, Detroit, and dived off. The water chilled him. He changed his mind. Whatever fears may have been entertained of Simpson's death in a watery grave were quickly dispelled when he grabbed the piles as he came up. "I am not suicidal," he chattered, "it's cold." Willing hands gave him a lift, and a police patrol took him to the station.

Two Tribes to Get Into Stamps

When the Aeropagus sailed from New York on October 19th she carried back to England the largest number of passengers ever carried under the 1 per cent quota law. They were 1,067 Russians and British, who arrived at New York on the Berengaria and the Cunard Line. The October quotas for their respective countries had been exhausted. By an arrangement between the steamship line officials and the Cunard Line, the Russians and British, who arrived immediately to the Caronania when the Berengaria reached Cherbourg, were taken back to this country, in the hope of returning them under the November quotas. If they fail to arrive at time they will have to wait until the next July, on the parole for the train for both Brenan and Great Britain told to commence at midnight.

Paper on "Citizenship," Given by Mrs. E. MacDonald of Scollard, at the Teachers' Convention

There is an incident in the public school system of every child but few more finish on the part of the teacher than Citizenship. This is especially true in the Junior department.

We may teach a lesson in arithmetic. We may give a pupil the ability to weigh and measure and handle. We may make him a reader in literature and even if we have made a remarkable failure in any paper we have failed if we may present the problem effectively and by questions test whether or not our teaching has been successful but when it comes to citizenship there are no such definite tests. Only our own measure the success of our lessons. Life alone is the test.

Now, we in Western Canada have a problem all our own in this respect. Most of us have come from the older settled provinces of the East and before the pupil that former our influence there we have two or three or more generations of Canadian citizenship. But what we call for convictions, loyalty, interest and citizenship is dead in the hearts of those who are behind the pupils in our class before us. We do not know. Take for example the class I had last year. There were the pupil's whose parents had come to America, never whose interests were born in United States. Then in England, then in Eastern Canada, some in Bohemia, two in Switzerland and one in Jerusalem. The blood of many nationalities runs in the veins of the children and it is quite possible that the lesson we have tried to teach at citizenship would be misunderstood in many of the pupil's minds.

It is at once then that the teacher's first duty is to get in touch with the home. Sometimes the re-called parent is a problem to us. Often the first cause to Alberta my mother's husband was a foreigner. We could not talk to each other very well but one day I invited her to come over to have play. Luckily the little tots came. The little girl had a parent for me, a present, and she and I had a good time and would never come what it was—a present for each of our lives to say that there was only a few things in the same language. Now, I should need those saying infants.

The best of ground is to get in touch with the home, then we must commence with the children's natures of the lessons we arrived at New York on the Berengaria and the Cunard Line. October quotas for their respective countries had been exhausted. By an arrangement between the steamship line officials and the Cunard Line, the Russians and British, who arrived immediately to the Caronania when the Berengaria reached Cherbourg, were taken back to this country, in the hope of returning them under the November quotas. If they fail to arrive at time they will have to wait until the next July, on the parole for the train for both Brenan and Great Britain told to commence at midnight.

We believe that as much or more is done in the home with the school and school hours as within them and, believing this, may I tell you a few of the things we have tried to do in Scollard.

We have organized the mothers into a club, believing that where the mothers are efficient so are the children, especially the younger ones. This club meets once a month in the school but it is better. At every meeting we have some interesting subject considered such as the betterment of the home, child training, school problems, hygiene, the franchise, the aims of the mothers who do not speak very good English have been found profitable as other lines. These have been encouraged to demonstrate what they do best. We had two such demonstrations during the past year. We hope to arrange a dental clinic in the near future. The "home" age girls are also organized under the supervision of one of the ladies. Some of my pupils attend these meetings, though most of the girls belong in the Border room. Last year the girls took "First Aid". This fall they intend to put on a play. We also plan a play for the Junior room, in July we had a "Tea" camp in the Brenan. The ministers from the south deserve credit for this. It is in part that the mothers in the immediate district have been encouraged to donate supplies for lunch and lunch each day and thereby enabled boys whose parents do not feel that they could pay their board to take advantage of the school. To them we owe the privilege of spending a day at the camp the second a very

Pending Relationship

The Prince of Wales and Lord Birkenhead, former Conservative Lord Chancellor, are now interested in [illegible] Their friendship is also cited as working out the completion of two matrimonial adventures in boards which the table of affinity appears ridiculously simple. The latest two years ago, when a 29-year-old millionaire owned land recently in the village India, a maid of 22, who then became the step-mother of her husband's 40-year-old son. Encouraged by his father's example, the son married the mother of his step-mother, by which his own father became his father-in-law. IF IT'S PRINTING WE CAN DO IT.

That is precisely the situation today—the mountain—BUSINESS—will not come to you—you will have to go after it and go after it hard. You have one great advantage over the prophet—he had to take the going as he found it—you can pave the way with advertising.

THE OLD COUNTRY FOR CHRISTMAS

The Canadian National Railways, as in previous years, will again provide excellent through service to the homeland for Old Country travel for this Christmas and New Year. Owing to the popularity of these trains, which are over last year, it has been decided to operate three through solid special trains from Winnipeg to Halifax instead of the customary special boat train, in addition to through sleeping car, all of which will run direct to the ship's note at port of embarkation as follows:

Through sleeping cars from Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Regina and Winnipeg will be consolidating and operating as special trains.

First train from Winnipeg 7.00 p.m., November 21st, direct to ship's side, Montreal, for sailing of S.S. "Regina", November 26th, to Liverpool, and S.S. "Antonia", November 28th, to Plymouth, Cherbourg and London.

Second train from Winnipeg 8.30 a.m., December 6th, direct to ship's side, Halifax, for sailing of S.S. "Antonia", December 8th, to Liverpool and S.S. "Saturnia", December 9th, to Belfast and Liverpool, and S.S. "Scythia", December 9th, to Glasgow.

Third train from Winnipeg 9.30 a.m. December 11th, direct to ship's side, Halifax, for sailing of S.S. "Princess Marguerite", December 14th, to Liverpool, Cherbourg, Bremen, and S.S. "Canada", December 15th, to Glasgow and Liverpool.

In addition to the above, special through sleeping cars will be operated from Western cities direct to ship's side for the following sailings: S.S. "Regina" and S.S. "Antonia" (Montreal), November 26th; S.S. "Antonia" and S.S. "Doric" (Halifax), December 8th; S.S. "Princess" (Halifax), December 14th; S.S. "Canada" (Halifax), December 15th; S.S. Round the Country

THE DAY BEGINS

Clinton D was by over 25,000 majority on Monday November 4th and if the claims had been underplayed or if votes "honored phrase" had been left out altogether the majority might have been much higher Many voters, especially women, were fright ened by the "menace of the law" and the trial for Clinton A was swollen for that reason more than for any other.

Stettler town voted for Clinton A by a majority of 64. This vote was a victory for the women's organizations connected with some of the churches. The leaders made a better than usual canvass, each member being given a certain territory to cover, with an appointed canvass for each division and his assignment was overlooked to in sure all the women a born to vote for A, but the chief one was to "save the children" Those the name of Clinton, Hon. Hon. came pouring argument but the women had the ladies. Although outvoted by the highest real, did not have full knowledge of the enrollment that chosen under the Alberta Liquor Act. The local paper endeavored to supply the information but failed to do possible, but coming from a "dry source" it did not gain much credence. The chief power on the platform for the temperance cause was Hon. Mr. Kinsey, who told moving stories of conditions in Vancouver but spoke to empty chairs sometimes in Drumheller and Edmonton. The Modernists should have brought in Hon. Mr. Bishop, the chairwoman of Edmonton School Board, who, although a prohibitionist, took the stump against Clinton A. Her very good reasons were that her son daughter and many of her friends had been carrying on illicit stills and that the Alberta Liquor Act was a fine one for the young folks, but especially for the young.

Bringing Back the Bar

This was the real cloister for many Stettler people when Clinton D. We have a strong idea that beer will be sold with more restrictions under government control than it is now "under" the present Act. Beer can be obtained in most of the towns and all of the cities of the province at 5 cents a bottle over the bar or with meals Beer is dispensed at practically every country club in the province at the present time. In a country where beer is cheaper than tea or coffee, and where the Albertan was the least drinker of all provinces, the real danger now has always been the hotels and road stations, chiefly by the boys around town. Under Clause D we believe that the Saskatchewan government will go, if they go that far, which we doubt, will be the licensing of standard hotel premises to serve beer with meals. A prohibitionist neighbor will hardly go that far and the only change that is likely will be the substitution of vendor stores for the prescription trade. That will satisfy the majority of those who voted for Clause D.

The government will make no move to "drag" or conduct the control operation without consultation either with the Hotelmen's Association or the Social Service Council. Both are selfish organizations in this respect.

that one is selfish from the standpoint of price and the other from the standpoint of taking their own special hobby to death. The last feature is the one that the writer prefers by the officials of the Control that probably a hundred should perhaps be sold to each something that it may very an that they don't Clause C should lead out Clause B at the second chance, in order to afford a guide to the grocery trade. Why not have a straight vote headed on Clause C The argument that prohibitionists would not vote for B, C or D, because they were all "wets" sounds ridiculous now that they see that the real temperance is no longer a virtue.

Our prohibitionist friends have lost a fine opportunity of boosting Clause C, and if the annual advances have Clause B, (and they will be goes over to see) the Liquor Control may come to the rescue. Is it reason that people favor the sale of beer because it is cheaper, or because it is possible, but coming from a "dry source" it did not gain much credence? The chief power on the platform for the temperance cause was Hon. Mr. Kinsey, who told moving stories of conditions in Vancouver but spoke to empty chairs sometimes in Drumheller and Edmonton. The Modernists should have brought in Hon. Mr. Bishop, the chairwoman of Edmonton School Board, who, although a prohibitionist, took the stump against Clinton A. Her very good reasons were that her son daughter and many of her friends had been carrying on illicit stills and that the Alberta Liquor Act was a fine one for the young folks, but especially for the young.

Bringing Back the Bar

This was the real cloister for many Stettler people when Clinton D. We have a strong idea that beer will be sold with more restrictions under government control than it is now "under" the present Act. Beer can be obtained in most of the towns and all of the cities of the province at 5 cents a bottle over the bar or with meals Beer is dispensed at practically every country club in the province at the present time. In a country where beer is cheaper than tea or coffee, and where the Albertan was the least drinker of all provinces, the real danger now has always been the hotels and road stations, chiefly by the boys around town. Under Clause D we believe that the Saskatchewan government will go, if they go that far, which we doubt, will be the licensing of standard hotel premises to serve beer with meals. A prohibitionist neighbor will hardly go that far and the only change that is likely will be the substitution of vendor stores for the prescription trade. That will satisfy the majority of those who voted for Clause D.

The government will make no move to "drag" or conduct the control operation without consultation either with the Hotelmen's Association or the Social Service Council. Both are selfish organizations in this respect.

Alberta Farmers Make Splendid Response in Offering Work for British Harvesters

Will Take All There Are and More Prompt action by the Dominion

Government to avert any unemployment promised British harvesters to obtain the need for these new comers in return to Great Britain his readiest in the country. It is a permanent easier position on the farm for every one of the desirous women.

The Honorable J. A. Robb, Minister of Immigration and Colonization to utilize the machinery of the Soldier Settlement Board in an endeavor to locate opportunities of interest to keep these Britishers in summer. The Board's staff was not interrupted during their regular duties and the thousand three hundred (4,300) permanent wester positions were offered. Many applications for harvesters alone. The newcomers themselves are experienced by the striking contrast of conditions where a prosperous country and a shortage of labor to a condition of job waiting willing hands and the conditions in the Old Land that have prompted their coming and encourage the harvesters to stay with us.

VETERAN BELIGERANCE IN CONSPICUOUS ROLE

Romantic to any ordinary years is the story of how Alfred E. Shattuck, the aged Boer veteran, who marched down Gabriel A. Mooney, the French speaker, who robbed him twice, and who has served for a year and a half, in the course of which Mr Shattuck has been in prison, in exile, in flight and in hiding.

Mr. Shattuck had not been in this province more than a few days when he met Mr. Mooney, who was then in the employ of the Soldier Settlement Board, and who was looking for a man to take charge of the Soldier Settlement Board's property at Vermilion. Mr. Shattuck was the man. It was to him that Mr. Mooney went when he left the former hot Mooney and his gang of associates had robbed him of the second robbery the Shattucks moved out of their fire old Washington Ranch and went to live in the house of every foot of his interior Mrs. Shattuck, the gentle, motherly, no-nonsense sort of woman who cooperate their efforts to make a comfortable home for the latter. Her husband said that he would devote the remainder of his life to the task of bringing the guilty accomplices.

It was in December, 1917, that Mooney, alias Sollit, who had secured employment with the Soldier Settlement Board, left with $12,000 in Jewish Prize investigations failed to locate him, but his identity was established. He was Mooney with a criminal record as long as Prince, who had found a easy to pose as a well-trained servant to the Under Secretary of State. For seven months Mooney was at the head of the Soldier Settlement Board, and he carried on his operations with the utmost success. He was a man of the world, and he was a man of the world. He was a man of the world, and he was a man of the world.

In 1919 Mooney was transferred to Ottawa, where he re-opened shop with the Employment Service of Canada with whom copies of the complete lists of opportunities have been filed. Then the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Canadian National Railways, the Employment Service of Canada, The Soldier Settlement Board cooperated and the Immigration Department of Canada and other owner was writing Mooney's requirements have resulted in a cooperative endeavor with one object in view, namely, to find work for every employment for those newly arrived Britishers and to assist them to assert every possibility of discontent or distress amongst them and to endeavor to retain them in the country as new Canadians.

The first month of the re-apportune effort for each a short period is that 14,000 positions are waiting for these men, information is coming in daily and already by any of these open application to any railway station through the Soldier Settlement Board supervisor, or Emp.-ployment Offices.

Last, the Soldier Settlement Board all has been found the Alberta farmer who has manifested a supreme desire, immediate, generous and farsighted manner and it was the spontaneous and whole-hearted response of the farmer himself who rendered it necessary to appeal to the Dominion Government after two weeks, during which time the Board received three hundred (4,300) permanent wester positions were offered. Many applications for harvesters alone. The newcomers themselves are experienced by the striking contrast of conditions where a prosperous country and a shortage of labor to a condition of job waiting willing hands and the conditions in the Old Land that have prompted their coming and encourage the harvesters to stay with us.

This favorable response from Alberta farmers offers striking testimony to the fact that a demand here for the better type of British immigrant to this province. It also illustrates the faith and confidence of the farmers towards this country class of British immigrant. The great majority of the Britishers who have been brought here who have signified their willingness in writing to take a job for the winter months at wages ranging from $40 to thirty-five dollars per month with board. If men and wife can be procured forty to sixty dollars and board is offered. Each is the opportunity to give attention to the northern part of the province as a number of these men of four dollars a day, one dollar of which must be paid to the Board. Transportation is also available at the going rate which the employer takes offer from $40 to $45 per month. Thus all the positions offered are immediately converted with the development of our natural resources, there can be no doubt that the entire winter and offer wages which are remembered for subsequent the newcomers requiring experience.

The success made by The Soldier Settlement Board, United in this operation, has revealed the fact that Canada's work points. The Soldier Settlement who desires to remain in the country and the lists of actual positions are submitted for the newcomers, the bulk of whom are at present engaged in the city of Edmonton, crop, are ready to take them. All the employers have signified in writing their willingness to take a man and The Soldier Settlement Board has co-operative very closely in this work with the Railway Companies and the Employment Service of Canada, with whom complete lists of the vacant positions are filed. Each Board has a number

The funeral of Mrs. Joe Wagner on Wednesday afternoon last was attended by a large number of her neighbors from the north end district where her home was. The unseasonable state of the death are partially ill, Mr. Wagner left with four little ones, a baby of 1 week old of the family. We tender our sincere sympathy to Mr. Wagner in his terrible bereavement.

Mrs. Geo. McTaggart, an old-time resident of Strettler, and well known in Gadsby, has been in very poor health lately and has had to go to Calgary for special treatment. Her strength has become very much reduced and it was considered necessary that a transfusion of blood should be tried. This has been done, her son Harvey and Mr. McTaggart himself contributing some blood to help her over the crisis. We are glad to hear there is considerable improvement of late and those over the week-end to see her, Bill, our local genial man, was in Calgary over the week-end to see his mother, returning to-day (Monday).

Rudeness is never a very convenient thing to have—there is no local manufacturer—but when it is the worst possible time for a fellow-citizen to be held aside. This is the fate of our friend, Henry Gambler, who has been fighting off an attack for some time but had to succumb last Saturday and had a doctor in. Dr. Shields, of Stettler, has pronounced it pneumonia and prescribed penicillin and sulphathiazine at least to the point of peace. We hope he may soon get over it.

Mr. D. Robson, Dobbin Municipal Secretary, went up to Convention at Edmonton last week and returned on Tuesday, returning on Friday. This is a very useful and important gathering, and proof of this is shown by the big attendance of members of the Municipal, business men, financial representatives, and other full delegations.

The monthly meeting of the local Women's Institute on Saturday had a very fair attendance and an enthusiastic one. Mrs. Deuis was the speaker and she showed her home in Stettler on some lantern, reading the latest article by Hollie McCaleg on the question. Miss Sybal read a very nice paper and was most appreciated. Amongst other business transacted, was a suggested Christmas Supper to be held on the second Friday in December There will be a special programme for that occasion, for which, and of which, further announcements will be made.

Charlie Elliot has just added to an already fine crop—a big bouncing boy the time. He is fast becoming quite a family man. It is good to hear that Mrs. Elliot and son are doing fine.

The Omaguh House Circle Sunday (Communion) took the annual Church Friends that this important event is timed for December 8th (Friday) October 27th, and all are useful home parts will be very gratefully accepted by Mrs. Ford, Mrs. R. E. Everett or any donation you propose to send in.

Elmer Jewett has returned to Olds School of Agriculture for another session course. He did so well last year that his parents decided to let him go back again and "their" was started to go. This involves some sacrifice on their part, but as many boys men and needed his son's help. We are glad to see him back and wish him the future. Olds School has a splendid reputation.

Mrs. Mary Brisbeen will spend the winter in Washington this year for the benefit of her health. She is not yet so well as her friends could wish and it is thought the milder weather there may be beneficial. We extend best wishes for a speedy return.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gambler, who have been fighting off an attack for some time but had to succumb last Saturday and had a doctor in. Dr. Shields, of Stettler, has pronounced it pneumonia and prescribed penicillin and sulphathiazine at least to the point of peace. We hope he may soon get over it.

The Institute card party on Hallowe'en will be held next week instead of next. Too much rush of work in the week-end and Saturday of each week for the men folks to get away to social events. The results in town last night by the Three-Innocents Orchestra, assisting on Friday. This is a very useful and important gathering, and proof of this is shown by the big attendance of members of the Municipal, business men, financial representatives, and other full delegations.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS IN SOWING OF OATS

(Agr Advertiser)

Some interesting experiments have been carried out by Dr. Bowden, Jack & Son, Haydok regarding the sowing of oats. These experiments in a difference of opinion as to the depth at which seed should be sown. Some advocate shallow sowing, others deep sowing, and the experiments at Haydok Experimental Farm certainly tend to confirm this opinion.

The new machine was on one acre plots, the first plot being sown at the new B.F.C. machine attached to harrows at the usual depth of 2 inches, at about only 10 of the new pattern machine, 3 inches apart. The next B.F.C. plot of 1 acre was sown with a one drill, 6 inches apart. The third plot was sown with the new machine at 6 inches apart. The bottom portion of the field was sown in the middle of the field with a one drill at 2 inches apart. The fourth plot was sown with the top portion of the field by the new machine at 6 inches apart. There is to be a marked difference between the portions sown with 1 bushels per acre the new method, and the other sections sown with 2 bushels and 3 bushels per acre respectively, with the ordinary drill. The stand in the plots sown with 1 bushels is certainly strongest and more robust than in the others. As regards yield, there is little difference. The heads are also stronger and heavier, and the should certainly take the place of the ordinary drill. Only a new-method may be used for sowing to and from the shed. The machine is also said to be much less costly, and there is a tendency for tops to come off the ends of the B.F.C. one machine sown with the B.F.C. 6 inches there is a fine level crop, and occasionally. One sheaf to five or six pigs is sufficient at one time.

Lastly sowing at 6 inches gives the more profitable but when counting during February or March a better plans for harvesting is usually necessary. When the pigs are given the corn in a room large enough for them harvesting pens and the like. Then the pigs are given the corn in the ear. When the pigs are given the corn in the ear they can stand comfortable well-weather corn, there is no need to take the corn in the ear to the shed or cabin to make room for other litters in the warm room. On the average farm a granary could be used for a farrowing room. The disadvantage would be only that it seemth to take the chill from the air, and in the winter months the pigs outside may be too great. This plan has been followed in the corn time at Scott Station with good results.

THE BEST KIND OF POTATOES

(Experimental Farms Note)

Much has been said in particular potatoes. Last winter it was very prevalent in Eastern and storehouses in Western Canada, and caused much loss. It is the most common cause of rot in the Western Canada. Dr. D. Marshall Turnberry, second assistant Chief Tottagan cuts at the rate of 4 bushels per acre, 2 bushels per acre in the ordinary way. The results are very similar to the Haydok experiments, the earliest sown plots giving the highest yields, and probably 4 or 5 bushels longer than his others. Mr. M'Fadzean, Hamilton, also reported that he cuts at the rate of 4 bushels per acre, which turned out entirely satisfactory. put on Mr. James Craig's farm, at Forehill, Ayr, Burnett cuts were sown at the rate of 4 bushels per acre by the new method.

On the farm of Mr. Marshall, Turnberry, 10 bags of new oats were threshed on Monday last, and a sample is wonderfully good for their season. This is the first lot of new oats threshed in this district.

BERLIN IS NOW WORLD'S FIRST CYCLING CITY

Berlin is now the leading bicycle city in the world. Bicycles are used by commercers as the town with the greatest concentration of cycle users in a surface in a recent number of the Berliner Tageblatt. Every morning and evening the streets leading from the suburbs to the business centers of the town are filled with hard workers, clerks and business men who have found that bicycles are cheaper and more dependable than the street cars and elevated railways.

The enormous increase in use has coupled with shortage of cars has made the bicycle essential to thousands of middle-aged merchants of Germany's capital and more and more they are using their parents or sellers for the delivery of goods. Many merchants who rather for their own personal use or for the purpose of selling them to buyers of second-hand wheels at from $10 to $20 apiece.

Bulmes of bicycles are reaping a harvest. Films demand for their cars are at present ranging from $50 to $60.

HEDLINE AS IT IS SPELLED

A lawyer in our local was interviewed by a reporter on spelling. He thought it would be easy to.

At length we are spelling. He tried to write, but couldn't quite. Learn when to original it and spell. He couldn't tell just where he stood. When using coal or wood or shovel. He had to stand a lot of spelling. When cruel people started hitting. Then other people would get mad. As doe and dough and rou and row, And bear and beer and rose and rose, and many more that turned him pale and sick.

He'd tried to write to wright and write. Rite and ritte and rout and root. "I left my wife and daughter, In other hands nerves the weaghing. I wented work to bring them home, But they will have to stay I know, And I must leave you." With a sigh he added, "How I'll envy sigh."

The construction of poultry houses is a subject of perennial interest to poultry keepers, as the whole success of the poultry business depends largely upon the kind of house in which the birds are housed. Extremes of temperature in the winter seldom occur for any length of time, but we have all experienced cold spells when the temperature in the outer air has been as low as zero, and sometimes we have all experienced warm spells during the winter months, spells of weather when the temperature has been from 40 to 50 degrees above zero. Between these two extremes of temperature we have many days when the temperature is around freezing point. It is

THE CHALLENGE

A Message to Our Women

Low Dollar A Menace to Civilization

It is not the foreign born citizen who is the greatest menace to our civilization. It is this Canadian citizen, born under our flag, hallowed by the sacrifice and blood of our forefathers, who snaps his fingers in the face of law and says, "I am above the law!" Good citizens must respect and obey all law. Not long since a prominent Conservative of my acquaintance violated the speed law in the city in which he resides, in his extreme haste to reach the jail in order to hold a service with the prisoners, for those who were behind the bars. Was there ever greater inconsistency? He constantly preached law enforcement from the pulpit, then deliberately violated the law himself.

What is to-day's duty and privilege of the Women's Christian Temperance Union? It is ours to arouse the Canadian conscience, and raise the standard of Canadian ideals; it is ours scrupulously to obey the laws of the land; it is ours to secure the appointment of sincere enforcement officials; it is ours to support faithful officials; it is ours to arouse the election of dry lawbreakers, who will not sign repeal bills; it is ours to stand for a National administration committed to the enforcement of law.

These are simple things, yet they are fundamental. The prohibition law has not had a fair trial either by its friends or its foes. Its friends have not been protected—it does have been over vigilant. What we need to-day is a new baptism of the Canada-wide proportions. Baptism of Canada evangelistic. Little did those arrayed against the cause of evil—the liquor traffic—realize what a new tremendous power the old story taught to be true: "Blessed are the children of Israel that they go forward."

Will we accept the challenge of the Heavenly Host? Will we carry on the battle for their cause? Will we fight for our flag, and God we make it plain? Will we have the courage of the colors bearer, amid a storm of shot, who never thought one of the flag, his cherished possession? He died rather than allow the colors touch the ground.

Women of America, women of the white ribbon, in the name of liberty, in the name of God, in the name of sacrifice, in the name of patriotism, in the name of Calvary, in the name of beloved America, I implore you, "DON'T LET THE FOE TOUCH THE COLORS!"

DON'T LET THE FOE TOUCH THE COLORS

My message is not to the opponents of cause but to you, women of the white ribbon, of the great nation of the people's battlers to-day. Oh, if the power of an angel to help arouse you—the mighty host which has before us! The challenge we need challenge us and defy us to go forward. The long line of Canadian men never challenge us and defy us to go back. Methinks I hear the tramp, tramp, tramp of Carnegie, Knox, Lumbers, Doc Gough, Wood and Mother Confederation, Frances Willard, Lillian Bruce, Clara Hoffman, Mary Lathrop, Mary Lowrey, Deborah Kerr, Ellen Fairclough, Rose Cleary, and one of others saying to us, "Speak into the children of Israel that they go forward."

Will we accept the challenge of the Heavenly Host? Will we carry on the battle for their cause? Will we fight for our flag, and God we make it plain? Will we have the courage of the colors-bearer, amid a storm of shot, who never thought one of the flag, his cherished possession? He died rather than allow the colors touch the ground.

CURLING MEETING

The annual meeting of Stettler Curling Club was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening last, with a good attendance present. The chair was taken by the President, Wilson, who called upon the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Hall, to read the minutes of the meeting held last year.

The president then made a few remarks about curlers and curling and the prospect for the future. Owing to the opening of the new skating rink at the fall of 1922, the membership for the curling rink dropped considerably and there were only 40 paid members for the year. This made a big financial loss, as fees dropped from an average of around $600 to a little more than half that amount. Ice making was also delayed last year and the first games were not played until Christmas. Also the schedule did not start until New Year's. However, the schedule continued for a month after the skating rink was over-run, the first week in curling became stronger as the season advanced. This season the executive should see that the ice is ready by the first week in December and every effort should be made to have it so. A question of officers for the season of 1923-4 was then made with the following results:

President—I. Wilson
Vice-President—Dr. Kennedy
Sec'y-Treasurer—W. F. White
Executive—H. C. Allen, P. P. Garfield, W. H. Mackie
Reception Com.—W. W. Sharpe, I. Shiell

The question of appointing a janitor was then brought up and left in the hands of the executive to deal with. Each member of the club will be put on the ground for two of the rinks, and it is the intention to get things under way immediately.

Fees for the season were fixed at $10.00 for gents and $5.00 for ladies, and the president and vice-president were appointed a committee with power to add to their number to make a membership committee.

The executive committee placed on record a vote of thanks to the ladies for their efforts and work for the club during the year, and it is hoped that the members will do all in their power to help them the club for the season. There are a number of members in town and enough of the old members to make a substantial club this year, while the season will last from December to March or at the rate of $2.50 per month for members.

On Monday evening the Science Club of Mound will entertain the Literary Society. The convener of the Mr. Long" Edwin Tea will be served at close of program.

Round the Country

The local prohibition committee at Red Deer have passed a vote of thanks to the Red Deer Advocate for refusing to publish the Moderation advertisement at the recent election. That's nothing. We heard of a committee man who kept a man in jail for declaring that the earth moved around the sun, and in the old days newspapers were sometimes so refuse to publish the speeches of the side opposite to them in politics on the grounds that the bunk would contaminate their readers.

HOUSE TO HOUSE

Here at Hanover we do most of our shopping in the street, where goods are displayed for sale. Perhaps in Toronto has an Oriental love of trading and bargaining.

Along the curb this summer there are lines and lines of fruit-sellers, for fruit is plentiful and cheap. You might have a polish that is obtainable by either grocer and the owner of stock-taker. A complete lunch can be bought between one end of the street and the other, for here are the usual with coffee with their white cafe, at which the shoppers may rest or lunch or arrange so as to share the commons to the grocery, and here is the sour milk man.

By the Bloor Bowlers chains, under the arches that lead to the rest square and the Kremlin, the throng is thick at 11 and stronger toward noon. Not only do we find cakes and cigarettes and bootlegging, but here is a man who makes a living selling the wire needles with which we clean a Primus stove—a good trade in a country that uses oil and no gas. Very few people pass now to cross Bonsfort before the Black Virgin, whom only attendants see the performance being over, are crowded at the door. The other happy poet is where at the corner a bootblack plies a trade in every thing that a shoe man could want. He will sell you an electric shoe, a tin of polish, and he will mend your boots as you as a blacksmith shoes a horse. It is the safest method. Here and there a movie basket a solitary artiste that he has picked up some how better not assess his chosen field. He will offer you, for a consideration, a pair of shoes, an ear-ring, a pair of boots, or a pair of shoes.

Every transaction is the seemingly simplest task, for it would be if a customer had to pay for it. Everything is done on credit. You buy from a grocer on Monday morning, and on Tuesday he is selling you the same commodity at another shop, and so on. He appears you to have the same service in the Lifetime, because the former you and the latter cannot. Then with the necessary balance of trade, and a profit, everyone can prosper—as in peace.

THE WOMEN OF LUTSELBURG

Coming from Fairy Mere, or Brussels to Lutselburg, the difference in the women is startling. Up-stuk is a discount to Lutselburg as also is the "surface to point person," and unless interested by the fairway or the season's confusion of "rough and ready" to correspondent's expression, staple fabric is unknown. Lost also is that elegant feminine accessory the Continental youth with glossy hair and accentuated waist line. The girls here never dress above or in couples. There are no youth in the streets during the day save being the truly colorless calico. They are accepted in the breweries and the cheese factories as a matter of course by agricultural colleges.

The Lutselburgeoise is not ashamed to be ruled by a woman, but is proud of the quality young coolness she looks down on one from the pedestals in the shop windows with emphatic contempt. The Grand Duchess is very popular but not especially modern: rare are the sight of cut-pets and the union of a Continental century rules, and the Duchess herself holds with wise and tactful during these extremely difficult years of the war.

The market-place of Lutselburg would be said to be run by women and horses. In this roomy square, which forms the point of view of the tourist as the centre of the city, the peasants of the Duchy hold their weekly fair, drawn by a little horse-cart or by motley pantomime of the Duchy's army. Here the women are in their element and the men of a horror attached to the market-place. Here they are the sole pink parasol, and on the occasion a woman may appear in the streets without a chaperon. Here they are the sole pink parasol, and on the occasion a woman may appear in the streets without a chaperon. Here they are the sole pink parasol, and on the occasion a woman may appear in the streets without a chaperon.

THE WHEAT POOL

As one of the elected advisers to the Bloor Directors, I am glad to transmit of the Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers. I do not think there who gave me their unanimous confidence vote I am proud to have the honor of taking part in the initial stage of the great movement. We are aware that it means stabilizing prices the mean and more satisfactory prices for our farm products. We have come from many to say it means bad times again. The years of the wheat pool have something to say about the price of wheat.

If there is any be unsupportable. Men and women, who have answered our group membership of the society, and who have signed the contract, are there ready to support the pool. The pool is a wonderful system of co-operation on a square frame and it needs only to take the keys to which our members hurnt their memberships. Remember that they don't produce the right answer from this pamphlet, and I am told that nothing can be done on this system, which they seem ever child-hood. To the wheat I speaks of a major The old measures are retained, though the pressure among these propagandists for the metric system itself is hungry to the "Wheat Pool" and the "Co-operative" brought of one's area. There is undoubtedly a flavor of advocacy in buying "half a pound of" to-gooning rice and a pennyworth of "seeds."

A New Method of Suicide

Demetrio Kahakopit, 31 years old, originated a new way to commit suicide when he walked in front of a motor train while engaged in walking on the railway track. The accident occurred on the C.P.R. line at Springwells on Sunday night for a last train to come through.

At the time chatted for the evening Demetrio started up his motor and drove slowly toward the train. Then, when the oncoming flyer was about a block away, Demetrio stepped on her," and, at a speed of fifty miles an hour, the car crashed into the side of the railway train. The automobile and its driver were smashed to pieces.

Aliens Against Preparedness

In a statement made public by the Canadian Peace Society League of New York, General John J. NEW LAMP BURNS 50-C AIR

Needs Neither Oil or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an unusually brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been invented by a U.S. Government and is now manufactured and sold by the Coleman Lamp and Stove Co. of Wichita, Kansas. It burns common kerosene (coal oil) and needs no pumping. It is simple to operate and is entirely clean and safe. Common wicks are used and the lamp is filled in the usual manner. Users say it burns for hours on one filling and gives a light that is almost as bright as sunlight. The manufacturers are offering to send a lamp on approval to anyone who will write them at their Wichita address.

Sometimes in the fight a bag or a basket is split, and, with the friendliness of shipping lights, the gather gather cannot be held. Very few arrests are made, and the culprits often set up drinks for the house. Another act, besides, a fine for minor offences is a single thing by the town. Ten pay it direct to the policeman, who gives them receipts.

For many ambitious shopping there are miles of markets where the articles are sold by permanent booths. Part of the ordinary shops, which are little used by the people, still in a state of construction. Commercial-on-line, however, enlarged itself to the provisions made of thought. There before my eyes they sold plates and handkerchiefs, and the permanent portraits of the young Ex-c and his family, they now—with the Duchy's initial success of business the move to more since—sell the same goods with the portraits of Louis and Trotsky. To-day is the day for shopping in the Government co-operative shops, as the private shops are deprived for a generation living on the accumulated stock. All the 12 shops chose four one to three, for the employees work in rotation.

The co-operative is a wonderful system of commerce on a square frame and it needs only to take the keys to which our members hurnt their memberships. Remember that they don't produce the right answer from this pamphlet, and I am told that nothing can be done on this system, which they seem ever child-hood. To the wheat I speaks of a major The old measures are retained, though the pressure among these propagandists for the metric system itself is hungry to the "Wheat Pool" and the "Co-operative" brought of one's area. There is undoubtedly a flavor of advocacy in buying "half a pound of" to-gooning rice and a pennyworth of "seeds."

ASKING FAVORS OF THE MAIL ORDER HOUSES
Interesting Remarks Might Be Obtained by Making Certain Requests—And Some Merchants Might Be Surprised—But For Community Welfare Order Them Not In
It has been said that three-fourths of mail order business is done each by proportion—the exact figures do not matter—of the business of the world is done on credit. If this was not true there wouldn't be such a thing as mail order business. Cash is the best thing in the world for the man who has it, and the man who has it cannot find a better friend than the merchant who is willing to sell him what he needs on credit. If there is any merchant who is not willing to sell on credit, he is not a merchant. He is not in business. He is not a merchant. He is not in business. He is not a merchant. He is not in business.
The greatest of financiers need credit. They buy on their resources—employed and at times are in need of ready cash. The same thing is true at times of most of smaller means. The retail grocer, who is in business, especially in the smaller communities, is almost and wastes a service basically upon the best of credit. Some of the finest farms merchandise, in actual fact, are owned by retail stores of the private or corporate ownership. Without the credit system the small stores of the private or corporate ownership would be unable to sell good—at a lower price than their competitors, operate sterilely on a cash basis, and still make a reasonable profit. Credit is necessary, and everybody gets their share of it. The small order and the bulk order, the purchase of a change necessary and the clothes are that come out of a credit system, properly administered, are the basis of the prosperity of the community.
ARE CATALOGUE HOUSES FOR CREDIT
Yet who have a reputation for being honest and fairly responsible and upright are to that when you order it at home. You can make inquiries, at least some of the merchants in your town will tell you what you can get from the mail order house. Then you are in a position to make a fair price of mail order money, order what you want from a mail order house in Winnipeg or some other city, and ask them to send it C.O.D. on the first of the month. The arrangement of that sort is not unusual, and any reputable mail order house may refuse you to give a little thought to the difference between trusting with the mail order house in some city far away and paying the merchants in your own home town.
Some mail order concerns are now operating a so-called credit system, but it is not a credit system such as is understood by most retail merchants. The mail order concern makes its credit terms on the installment plan, but they not only demand an initial cash payment, but require the purchaser to sign a contract which gives the mail order house a mortgage on the article sold. Many other persons have gotten the impression that the customer may possess. There is nothing in it—system that bears any similarity to the open credit system that is the basis of the prosperity of retail merchants.
There are some other reasons you ought make of the mail order man when the customer arises and a complaint is made. Complaints are equally numerous. For instance, Mr. Farmer, you have received from the catalogue house last month, ought write the manager and ask him to beg your house and to see that you get the proper consideration. You wouldn't be considerable more trouble to get that than it is to take them or to your local grocer who is always ready to pay you the smallest price for them, but then may be very much interested in having you pay enough above that to make the difference worth while. Ah then, again maybe he wouldn't.
Then there is that item on the mail order bill you—Mr. Farmer, have been figuring on trading a for a new machine. Suppose you write to the mail order man from whom you bought that were freezing and ask him what he will give you for your old machine as a trade for a new one. Of course, the local hardware dealer in the town where you sell a million his many You products will allow you a fair price for your old machine, but what if you are one of the few who are not? Isn't it worth while to find out? It will do no harm to ask, and it may help you a lot. You be will not.
LIST IS ENDLESS
There are a good many things the mail order man is or will not do for you. The list would be too long to record and we have not the space to do so. Mr. Farmer, we will not go on further. We will just say that we will not buy the farmer's produce. He will not pay a dollar of taxes to help support your schools or build your roads. He will not contribute a cent to the support of your churches or your hospitals. He will not lend you a helping hand in time of trouble. He will not do anything for the people in that community that the mail order man will not do for them. This fact should make it easy for the people of the community to decide which is to be their interest to be honest with.

Closing Out Their Business in Stettler

After 15 years successful merchandising at Stettler, Pride, Nash & Co. have decided to put on a Big Clearing Sale, dispose of all their stock and leave this point.

For a period of 15 years we have tried to make this Store an aggressive and enterprising retail store with a reputation for clean, up-to-date stock and unusual value giving to make this shop a favorite place to do business, and from the large number of our customers who have traded with us in the time we have been here, and still with us, proves to us our methods and system have been successful and we have their confidence. Here are the reasons in a nutshell for our closing this business and putting on a Live Sale:

Our lease is about to expire, and we cannot get a satisfactory renewal; we have a stock amounting to about $35,000.00 and we can neither leave it here nor take it with us. It must be turned into money, and that transfer made quickly and thoroughly. As everyone knows nothing will sell goods as quickly as genuine Reduced Prices, we have therefore cut our Prices down so low that they cannot be overlooked by anyone.

Unfortunately it has not been possible to get it all in but Al the shrewd-eyed Pelt up and says we are getting on nicely as to the very little hoodoo is getting the pressure on our steamer accommodation. The various man agers are doing their best—perhaps say U.F.A. executive here myself—to ease past by an official protest to the traffic manager

Mrs. Fitzsimmons has left for her holidays at Brooks, as our housekeeper, our friend, the Hotel, last week.

Mr. Charlie Anderson has sold his threshing outfit to Fred Benning, of Bank, and Fred has certainly got a big engine. This outfit has made a good record this year and is in fine running shape. Mr. Anderson has not yet got to be a resident to return to the Coast, where he will step a handle cream creamery work on the biggest scale. The cannon ball already fueled engine is down in Gadsby and is headed to and he has sold the outfit at a surprise to many of us, right away! I understand he will have a sale of stock and machinery on his farm before leaving for the Coast.

Mr. A. Avery, of Wainwright who has been making enquiries in this district as to the possibilities of a livestock shipping centre, is an official of the Canadian National Railways, township agent, I believe. His visit has a close connection with the projected new railway into Stettler, Weston to Hanna, that decennial development for which our south country friends have been sighing and praying for many years. It is coming in the near future without doubt.

Mrs. Sorrell has been at Calmar for the past two weeks helping to nurse her sister who has been very sick there. Her patient is now well on the way to recovery, and, having escaped a good girl's help for her, Mrs. Sorrell will return home at the first of the week, her holiday having taken a turn on these for that purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Bateson, Sr., of Bodega, B.C., are just celebrating their Golden Wedding and their sons, Harry and W.J., have gone up to congratulate the old folks and help them to make merry. Mr. Harry was of the party but Mrs. W. J. could not make the trip. We offer our sincere congratulations to the happy old couple, whom we had the pleasure of meeting on a visit this age.

Lots are rounded out summers in Gadsby Church Service will be held in Gadsby Town Hall on Sunday, 18th inst., at 11 a.m., and that everybody is cordially invited to attend goes without saying.

Mr. Shaw, of the Royal Bank staff, went to Stettler at the week-end and was absent from his place in the shop on Sunday night. Hon Brother came to gentler attention for friend Shaw.

Rev. C. A. Steele had a splendid congregation on Sunday night when he preached his Thanksgiving sermon, which included the Armistice Memorial as well. His address was very much enjoyed, and was the subject of many favorable comment. We have taken heard him to most advantage. The good attendances are a testimonial to the great work he is doing amongst us and are sure to be crown still more. Rev Riley was very good on that score, and we could wish to hear her oftener

Miss Walker, of Open, who is visiting at the parsonage is a name of Mr. Mrs. Steele will be with them for a few weeks.

Gadsby put it a few good links for Provincial politics, but had to acknowledge defeat. We accept the verdict from the province generally and hope it will be a good thing for us to say it a couple of years. "I told you so." When the new order of things is instituted it will be the duty of every good citizen to endeavor to see the law and try to put it in force.

THE HERD

By Edgar A. Guest

We were sittin' there an' smokin' of our pipes, Clarence Billings an' I, like before I married Clarence, an' the torments' thrones o' things,

When he says an' strokes his whiskers, with his hand an' says t' me "Changes are us' bachelorses can't do for I can see.

Goin' to make the world much better, but when our youth was new

Find a way to make a better an' a finer sort o' man.

The trouble ain't with statutes or with laws—but all;

It's with humans jes' like we are an' the way we're reared an' youth,

We could stop our conflict law-books an' all our human rules

If a better sort of manhood was the product of our schools.

For the trouble that we air needin' isn't written' from a pen

Or typed upon a sheet with ink, but a bigger type of men.

"I reckon all these problems air just misery like the result.

Of a lot of folks that neglect manish only cannot decide,

But I reckon that we'll have an' free as when, if we train thoughts' straight, we'll be right, they wouldn't be as terrible as' great.

A good horse needs no curbin, an' a good man needs no laws,

Doesn't need a hoss to check him or to force him into line.

"If we ever start in headin' to our hearts for things that's fine,

Here to live with one another there'll be less of trouble an' pain,

If we'd teach 'em how to neighbor an' how to walk in home's ways,

We could settle every problem which the mind o' man can raise.

What we need is men, not laws; not systems or some regular plan,

But a bigger an' a finer an' a truer type of man."

Inspector Pye of Mount Royal College, Calgary, spent Thanksgiving Day in town.

The weather continues fine and mild, for November, and the past two weeks have been more like August than November. The thermometer ranges from 60 to 70 degrees by day, and the coal dealers are even planning of the trade.

Messrs. Griffin and Kennedy attended the Thanksgiving turkey shoot at Dunsdale on Monday and succeeded in getting two of the turkeys, out of a total of eight. Lefty Davidson also won one, which makes a 40% win from that part of the district.

At the service held in the Lyric Hall, Rosebud, on Armistice Day, November 11th, Comrade Bro-thers spoke in a most moving an-tender way of the boys in the Great War, who so duly took part in the same service a year ago—and was unable to "return to the fire". He was always a good friend to the returned men of the district and did noble service overseas.

Threshing continues every day at present without any let-up, and it is said of the trading that about 80% is finished for this district. The next two weeks, with similar weather, should see the stook all cleaned up. Fortunately there has been no rain or snow to make threshing impossible from the stook, as sometimes happens at other years.

The Thanksgiving service in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening attracted a large congregation, and the collection on Thanksgiving by Rev. Mr. Peacock was most appreciated. The choir rendered the anthem, "What Have They Given for Me", with Mrs. Lang giving the soprano solo, and the Erskine male quartette sang the anthem, "Peace Be Still." Members of Erskine choir assisted the local choir, and Mr. Roy Wilson also gave assistance with his violin.

The Board of Trade will hold their annual Banquet on Monday evening in the National Hotel, commencing at 6:30 o'clock. About seventy-five guests are expected to be on hand, the tickets being $1.00. Anyone who wishes to attend, whether a member of the Board of Trade or not, can obtain tickets from the committee. Messrs Bradford and Mc-Lachlan is expected that A. Speakman, M.P., A. L. Sanders, M.P.P., and Judge Morrison will also be present and give addresses.

Stettler Board of Trade Banquet

The annual banquet of the Board of Trade was held at the National Hotel on Monday evening, November 19th. There was a large attendance of business men and visitors, the total aggregating about one hundred.

Tables were set at nine o'clock and the banquet was served by the National Hotel manager, and consisted of chicken, roast, steak, ice cream, and tea, coffee, and cigars. Yes, they had everything but booze.

The chair was taken by President Blair, of the Board of Trade, and speaker started at ten o'clock.

A. L. Sanders, the local Member was the first speaker called upon and gave an interesting address. Mr. Sanders spoke in a humorous way of his experiences as a pioneer in this part of Alberta. He first came to the district in 1918, and not being able to secure a homestead at the Dominion Lands Office here, he journeyed to the Hanna district where he took out a pottest. He made 13 trips to Stettler the first summer and at the end of the trading year was supplied with a hat by Messrs. Sharpe and Page and a razor by Abner Bros., the hardware men. Both these articles were good. Mr. Sanders stated that he was the representative both of the town and the country and asked for co-operation between the two, stating that he endeavored to give equal attention to both.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. W. H. Alexander, of Edmonton, who has held the position as professor of Classics at Alberta University for fifteen years, and has had many experiences in Alberta, particularly on the affairs of the High and Public schools. Mr. Alexander was asked to speak on Co-operation, and he gave a most interesting address on that subject, speaking for nearly an hour.

The speaker's language expressed his sense of difficulty in getting started as Judge Morrison, who sat at his right, had made so many cuts at the various international and local gatherings that he had left practically "nuthin'" for the balance to say. He referred to the fact that he had been told that afternoon by a friend that he would speak on the "tooth and nail" principle. It was his opinion that if Stettler people would co-operate with the Board of Trade in the same way as the Rotary Club of Stettler, and expressed his profound belief that the success of Rotary in Alberta was the story of the success or failure of its individual units. If Stettler failed, Rotary would be short of both failed in their possibilities. Co-operation was a necessity, and co-operation was a growing necessity. Co-operation was a necessity because we were all willing to promote the welfare of our particular [illegible] Mr. Alexander referred to the Board of Trade of our individual [illegible] as the local Capitalistic Association of our community.

The chairman then called upon Judge Morrison for another humorous effort, and the latter responded with a few remarks, in which he implied in their town affairs, and that the town people [illegible] from everywhere, because they [illegible] and [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] for [illegible] offer all these years of credit.

Turning to the question of the possibilities of a Board of Trade the speaker referred to what he had heard [illegible] at the meetings [illegible] and [illegible] among the business men of the town, and co-operation is a great way ahead co-operation in all sorts of ways as well, Commerce and manufacturing. It wasn't really possible to quarrel violently with men whom you knew well socially. Then he the spirit of co-operation was well established, it would be open to the men of the Board of Trade to plan ways and means by which business might be entertained and prospectors directed to the right sources for information. They would also study the resources of their town, and be able as individuals to [illegible] and also to decide on the best methods of publicity and advertising.

Dr. Alexander made it clear that of course all these things depended very largely on the willingness of the individual to sacrifice himself for the good of the larger body, the Board of Trade, and emphasized this point by reading a series of fourteen suggestions for "Success" in Board of Trade work, which we publish in full below:

Finally Dr. Alexander conveyed the greetings of the Edmonton Board of Trade to the Board of Trade of Stettler, and expressed his profound belief that the future success of Alberta was the story of the success or failure of its individual units. 1 Don't come
2 If you come, come late.
3 When you come, come with a grouch.
4 Never accept office. It is better to stay out and criticize.
5 Never voice your opinion. Then if anything goes wrong you can blame the officials. Etc.

The laughter with which the reading of these rules was received was an indication that they all had some local application, and that everyone felt a little more or less convicted on some point or other.

WORLD NEWS

Lord Cecil Gordon Bennett, Admiral Sir Lewis Bayly, Admiral Sir Reginald Tupper, and many others, have been in the news recently, but the name which has appeared most frequently in the public opinion pronouncements on the subject of the reparations question and the British policy therein, Cunliffe, was not mentioned. Cunliffe was associated with the non-official discussions of British Empire delegates to the Assembly in Geneva, and it was understood that the United States was still bent on lending a hand in solving the reparations problem. Premier Poincare, of France, was in Belgium talking of a conference of the powers recently interested in the reparations question, apparently with a view to great possibilities.

General Pershing, commander of the American forces in the "no-man's" zone between the British and French lines, has been trying to reunite the battered Conference debacle. As usual, he suggested, but the powers, particularly the commissioner of the French military in the reparations commission, would not accept.

Premier Poincare, in a speech recently, declared that the Ruhr occupation was necessary to the Control Entente, and that the Ruhr would be occupied until Germany paid. Premier Poincare, however, declared that the Ruhr occupation was not a military occupation, but a financial occupation of the Ruhr with the object of collecting reparations. The customer will profit from the transaction because he will be dealing with a merchant who stands back of the goods that he sells, and who is interested in seeing that you get full value for your money and are pleased with the purchase and come to us for all the supplies you require.

The last word we wish to say to you you need something which you cannot find in any of your home stores? The chances are that we can supply you, and cannot carry in such everything that you will find in the pages of this paper at all times. It would require a separate store three times larger than the one we occupy to carry such a stock, so we do not be does the best he can. Remember that we are always glad to order anything in order that we may serve you to the best advantage. We are opposed to the sale of articles by public places. We are with all reputable dealers and with the continuance of the closest possible relations between us and the public at large.

GADSBY NEWS

Mrs. Shuster, from Cherokee, Iowa, is a visitor in Gadsby these days and very much enjoying her experiences in looking over the district. She has been the owner of a half section near the Commercial for some time but ever as it has the first town last week. It has been good, she says, and believes it will be a good farm some day.

The Imperial logs have finished up their work here and have moved to Gadsby. It was very successful one, and the crew left many friends behind them. Mr. Clark Taggart, Sr., has returned to his present home in Edmonton after a short stay here. Mr. Taggart intends to move back to Alberta before spring.

Mrs. Tom Wheeler has accepted a position as saleslady for the J. Reason Co. and took up her new duties on Monday. We are sure Miss Wheeler will make a good clerk.

We regret to hear that Mr. J. E. Hall is confined to his home for some days with a bone bruise, some sort of a mishap suffered on the farm. We hope it is improving and we trust it may soon be himself again.

Mr. Wm Gillies gave the people of Gadsby a surprise party on Friday night last Friday afternoon, which will be very much remembered by all who had the timeliness included. Mr. Gillies is a good speaker, an old local product in the district and a favorite amongst the residents of the young. He has grown a big family and they are all welcome to Gadsby and over the years.

The big crop of this year and the good progress of the threshing of it, has caused a number of new buildings to be erected in Gadsby, or in the vicinity of their own. Mr. Geo. Dalmer has bought the south portion of the lot held by the Lumsy boys, while John Bovey, and I hear Mr. Shuster, of Cherokee, Iowa, has also purchased a lot in the Village limits. Of course, others will be bought by others, but probably the above will be the principals for some.

Mrs. Bert Arnold, from R.R. of Galata, is a visitor at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Shuster. Mrs. Arnold has been in Gadsby for a few years but has lately bought a farm and moved to the vicinity of Galata.

Mr. Jack Schaefer has been working on a farm in Saskatchewan since last spring but arrived home unexpectedly on Saturday morning to surprise his wife and to thresh. Jack enjoyed his visit to Gadsby and the people had their fine crops, saw all threshed out.

The Young People's Mission Band gave an entertainment last Friday night that was very much appreciated by a good-sized audience. We have a fine collection of budding talent in our young people. Rev. G. A. Reads gave some interesting magic lantern slides during the evening.

The local members of the Brethren family who went to Innisfree, B.C., to help in the celebration of their parents' Golden Wedding returned on Saturday. They had at the time said formal the old folks in fine trim for the great anniversary.

DEATH

The parents of the deceased are in unsettling public have been very much disappointed and inconvenienced in the past because the local hotel would not be kept open positively for the year, or in other words have our rooms, our sausage, and what we stand for, raised aloft. We are proud of our town and we are proud of our Christian organizations, and results in the town and district would not work in co-operation with the Public Library Board, and as a result we are not down-hearted—at least not enough so to sit down and give up. We are sorry for the Co's. action, but stand, and with a clear conscience, and not for any personal gain or enjoyment, and now, at this hour, we have taken a further stand to "carry on." Let us "buck up and not down, and work and not in, look forward and not backward, and hand a hand." Let us send forth a trumpet blast—"We are coming."

We assume home a powerful temper to enable it to face the future, and to prove our true motherhood that Gadsby possesses, and the world and Eamonton has said: "God could not be everywhere, and so he made mothers," and that it was near the assertion that any mother would ever, by her ballot, lay bare for the success of her home and her boy and girl. And those mothers will not rest content with a broken hearth, for they will vote as they know best.

It is sure, we cannot obtrude, to obey the laws. It was not the prohibitionists who violated the laws during the past seven years, and it will not be in the future. The realization upon the devotees and professors of the liquor traffic, and will be so again.

Let it be our work to raise the standard of Canadian ideals, to arouse in the non-often tamed or changing Canadian consciences, to see that the voters of future—and the children are the future—would seem to ever vote as against a thing as vile as John Barleycorn. Let us have "pep" and the courage of our convictions for Prohibition, and world-wide Prohibition is sure to win out and will win out. So all "Cheerio" for now.

In the course of the president's address, he raised the question of the "immorality" of "bridge over" parties and its effects upon the present day generation, the composition of the Labor Party of Great Britain, and the question of the next local place at the close. Other points touched on were Esperanto, in which subject the district has a class, and the educational fund for the rural child; Canada's international relations, and the necessity of preparing for leadership who-ever in Government the U.F.A. by a thorough study of Economics, History and Sociology.

After the reading and adoption of the Secretary's report there were addresses from the Federal member, Mr. Spankman, on the business of the last session, and Mr. Bevington on Credit and Banking. In the course of his very interesting address, Mr. Bevington stated that with a tariff of 25 per cent and a sales tax of 6 per cent, $150 worth of dry goods purchased from a manufacturer in the United States, and landed at Montreal, would cost $300 before it reached the consumer, the purchaser paying $150 and the rest being paid to the Government. Local Associations were urged to get busy to study the question now is to get ours to ship it.

Messrs. Dallolio and Bentzen, who run the garage here during the summer months, have moved their machinery into the premises in the Brotherton block, on Main street.

H. J. Swan had the misfortune of losing the bunk belonging to his Chevrolet coach in the river left in the morning apparently O.K. but was surprised to find it missing shortly after. Most of the blankets and covering appear belonging to the owner were burned.

Mr. J. Read is busy building chicken coops and other poultry houses. Messrs. Lee and Allenson are having the house on Main street and it being remodelled. H. McDonald doing the carpenter work.

The Red Willow Cemetery Association have erected a building on the cemetery grounds to be used as a tool house and also to provide a place of shelter in the cold weather.

Although there has been a petition with the Local Government of Stettler to have the road from Stettler to Erskine, there has been no action taken.

Friday next. This should be a very enjoyable evening and a large crowd is intended home to Mrs. Ann's home and the ladies of the district extend a hearty welcome.

A big crowd is expected from all nearby parties have been invited and we hope soon to commence a game where there are lots of others.

RED WILLOW

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Cooper, who have been residents of this district for over twenty years, are selling their splendid farm and intend leaving November 20th, and are leaving for the States. Their many friends regret very much to see them go from their midst, but wish them every success wherever they may decide to settle. On Tuesday evening of last week Mrs. J. C. Hilbery gave the Coopers a farewell party, which was attended by a large crowd.

Bodies are the order of the day at present. Mr. Chas. Hilbery and Scott installed one last week and W. J. Bunyan is putting one in this week.

Threshing is about completed in this district. The highest yield reported was sixty-two bushels wheat to the acre, being on Mr. Bellamy's farm and was Mr. Osborne using the farming. The yields were nearly all over the forty mark and the question now is to get ours to ship it.

Messrs. Dallolio and Bentzen, who run the garage here during the summer months, have moved their machinery into the premises in the Brotherton block, on Main street.

H. J. Swan had the misfortune of losing the bunk belonging to his Chevrolet coach in the river left in the morning apparently O.K. but was surprised to find it missing shortly after. Most of the blankets and covering appear belonging to the owner were burned.

Mrs. Harris Ward is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiffin. Fred, we are still go to Consort to join her husband, who is the C.P.R. agent there.

Mrs. Melrose, of Trenton, N.S., visited at the Empey home recently. She was a teacher in the Mayerthe school before the days of consolidation.

Mrs. Bright has gone to Blackfalds visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Townsend.

The weekly meeting of the Botha High School Literary Club was held Friday afternoon in Miss Mayerthe's room. The program was opened by singing "O Canada." Chapters of the serials being written by some of the pupils were read. The "Club Advocate" was read by Winnie Carter. The main feature of the program was the paper read by Mrs. E. Foland on "Former Days", which was enjoyed by all present. Miss Mayerthe read an article on "Good Manners", which was very interesting.

FERN NEWS

We hear that Lee Legg is now home from the hospital somewhat. Mr. Lee Legg has received a lot of ground this year and despite many delays has managed to get a lot of grain into land grannaries.

Mrs. Irving was a visitor last week with her daughter, Mrs. Lee Legg, but returned home on Sunday.

Mr. MacHardie, Dominion B.O.P. Poultry Inspector, was in this district last week visiting the B.O.P. flocks of Mr. Legg and Mr. Strange. Mr. Paton, also of the B.O.P., a new inspector, was a visitor at Legg's. Pullets are now picking up and the birds will soon be through with their moulting, so that we may expect some big eggs from local pleads in the near future. Local stores report that supplies are coming in very slowly and this should mean a good increase in prices.

We hear that there is much competition in the Hasher family for a Christmas hero. every Monday night and Willie have been taking it in turns regularly every Sunday and it looks as though Bay has Dominion to join in. What is the great attraction?

Little Betty Wallace suffered a slight accident to her arm last week. Doctor Sagatiz, of Bay Valley, happened to be passing at the time and rendered her every possible service. Incidentally Doctor Sagatiz remarked that Mrs. Bob Wallace looked more blushing bride than he had ever seen her look since her marriage.

Mrs. Stromp gave a small birthday party for Eleanor Vickery on Monday night. Miss Rosie Hills, Pauline Pierkun, and Minnie Epp came down, and Mrs. Pierkun and her son Jack, from Big Valley, arrived unexpectedly. In fact the young folks were only favoring a little impromptu dance.

Don't forget the Concert on the 30th. Attraction Etc, and we hope that there will be lots of ticket purchasers at our Sale, which will precede the concert. At the last U.F.W.A. meeting at Mrs. Dan Wallace's, there was much interest concerning the purchase of a piano for these affairs and an issue it is an excuse to shirk out some good selected by which sufficient money could be raised to purchase a piano for the use of the ladies at the schoolroom. An organ is very inadequate to provide enough accompaniment for the singing of a crowd.

We understand that Mr. George Ann is holding a dancing party on

Annual Convention of the U. F. A. Association for Red Deer Constituency

The Annual Convention of the U.F.A. Association of the Red Deer Constituency of Red Deer was held in the town of Stettler on November 22 and 23. Due to the unfavorable rush of the season it was found almost impossible to get the locals together before the convention was called, hence the number of elected delegates was small. This was compensated for, in some extent by the number of visitors, and altogether the convention was voted a success, many present remarking that of a purely social nature had been seen so much that one would like to see.

Practically all the business of the first forenoon was the choosing of the committees. The afternoon session was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Lytle, the pastor of the church in which the gathering was held. Nominations for chairman resulted in the election of the president, Mrs. Leona B. Barrett, to be assisted by Mr. Stevens, M.L.A.

In the course of the president's address, she raised the question of the "immorality" of "bridge over" parties and its effects upon the present day generation, the composition of the Labor Party of Great Britain, and the question of the next local place at the close. Other points touched on were Esperanto, in which subject the district has a class, and the educational fund for the rural child; Canada's international relations, and the necessity of preparing for leadership who-ever in Government the U.F.A. by a thorough study of Economics, History and Sociology.

Curling Notes

A meeting of the ladies of Stettler curling club was held in the secretary's office on Tuesday evening at which all were present, except Lo Drake. A full town called out of the curling rink has been working on the ice during the past ten days, and have secured a number of new members and there is every prospect that curlers rinks will start the season and continue throughout. In fact there are two or three prospective curlers who have not put away up their minds, and there is a probability that another rink will be included in the list made up.

Rink Draw

The following is the list of rinks as chosen on Tuesday night:

Skip—Dr. Hodge (sk.), Peggy McElhone, Ashboyd.

Willis (sk.), Watkins, Morton, (Todd, Morris)

Two more farmers' rinks are expected to join.

All members are asked to pay their fees to the secretary, the committee, or to those about.

Among those who are also expected to join are Messrs. Thomas, Dunlop, Beckie, and Ballantyne. A rink for the players will be decided this week.

At the meeting meeting on Thursday night, a committee was appointed to look after the interests of the members of the club. The committee consists of Messrs. Hodge, Willis, Allen, Lee, Duckworth, Corrigan, Parrish, Wheeler, Cassidy, Kennedy, Hodgkinson, and Mrs. Jordan.

Adjourned Meeting of The Town Council

Held on Friday, December 23rd, in the Town Office at 8 p.m.

Present: Mayor Sharpe, Deputy Mayor Mollison, Councillors Mrs. Jordan, Bechtel and Lee.

A communication was read from W. J. Tee & Co., offering a reduction of $1,000 on the price of the Lot on Railway Avenue, Brookfield Concreting Co., submitted a communication from their Consulting Engineer Cunningham analyzing the comparative merits of the Hunter Gravity Oil Engine and the engines of the Bellis-Morcom and recommending the acceptance of the latter.

Councillor Jamieson suggested that the purchasing of the New Unit be referred until the result of the operation of Utuflex Engines at Edmonton is known by other plants be ascertained.

Moved by Councillor Ballantyne that we purchase a Bellis-Morcom Oil Engine complete for the sum of $15,500.00 as per amended quotation subject to valves being set for lower steam consumption as specified in J. Tee & Company's tender on behalf of all other sizes.

Seconded by Councillor McElhone, and carried Councillor Jamieson voting contra.

Moved by Councillor Ballantyne and seconded by Councillor Jamieson that we adjourn.

THE WHEAT POOL

A meeting of the contract holders of the Alberta Co-operative Wheat Producers Ltd. will be held in the Town Hall, Stettler, on Saturday, December 8th, at 2 o'clock. Mr. Arthur Ford, secretary of the Wheat Pool, will give a report of that meeting. There will be an open discussion of matter relative to the Wheat Pool.

It is important that every contract holder in the district be present. All farmers and townspeople will be welcome.

It is necessary to carry on the Pool effectively, to institute an organization that will take effect on every shipping point, a permanent organization that will take effect on every farm, a permanent organization that is independent of any other—for our purposes—but one that will co-operate with the other organizations in the district. Until recently, the Alberta government will give attention to oppose the application of the express companies for an increase in rates, and has asked the co-operation of other Western provinces in the matter. Mr. Bevington will be present at the meeting and will explain the details of the Pool's operation.

The pastor, Rev. I. N. Hepburn, was assisted by Rev. Peterson of the Lutheran Church. A very impressive and thoughtful sermon was delivered by the pastor on the subject, "In God's Garden." Impressing I think it is the habit of the late Testament fact of immortality. The male choir rendered most feelingly the hymn, "Abide With Me." A PLANT OF MANY USES

Artificial Silk, Cotton and Fiber Obtained From Cut-Stuff

It is predicted that at no distant future all of the world's supply will be seen in bread advertisements in the newspapers. Religious things there now have happened since scientists began stirring nature's wonders.

The cut-loaf is a plant of many uses. The pollen is used to make an emulsion good for bread, and it was so used in Germany during the World War, according to A. A. Hansen in the Nature Magazine of Washington. In fact, the stress of war time scientists in Germany developed a number of practical uses for cut-loafs.

The surge of curiosity led to the discovery that a cotton substitute could be secured from dry brown cobs. The fibres are neither so fine nor so soft and white as are the fibres of cotton, but they were so easily and cheaply procured that the man-days spinning machine began to appear to the extent that the cut-loaf producers became of considerable importance as a fibre plant. The fine fluffy down that comprises a large part of the husk is also of value in stuffing pillows and cushions. In addition, a process has been developed recently for making cut-loaf silk from the cut-loaf fibre.

The heavy, matted roots attain considerable size and they are fairly rich in starch and sugar, the magazine writer continues. The Iroquois Indians formerly dried and pulverized the starchy roots, which yielded a sweet-tasting flour from which excellent bread and pudding was made. Have pressed for food during the war, the German people followed the example of the Iroquois Indians and the cut-loaf root came to be known as a hungry Teuton family

His Overdrawn Account

Will you look up and tell me what the balance was on April 1st?" was the curt reply came the answer: "You had a credit balance of £127—Well, did I? rang you up to tell you that?" and the Jew rang off

Steel Contracts Approximately One and One-half Billion

Towering steel structures in New York will be approximately one and one half times taller than they were in August. The shrinkage of the skyscrapers will not be noticeable to Gothamites, nor to the residents of other cities where the change ultimately is taking place, but to the structural and technical engineers of steel the fact will be known in Heaven.

A study made by the building planning service of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, covering thereat effects upon buildings, proved New York's highest structures, will have been shortened from one and two-tenths to one and a half inches.

According to the estimate of Chairman T. Colley, operating manager of the Equitable building and former president of the Building Managers, Owners of Building Owners and Managers, the probable loss in temperature change is about 25 degrees.

Because of the expanding and contracting of the steel used in high buildings it is important that the ends of the building be built so that a certain temperature is possible, to prevent the steel from contracting and expanding, according to Colley. Mr. Colley "The limits are probably 15 degrees on the hottest summer day and 40 degrees on a cold winter's day, when the building is adequately heated."

If the buildings should ever be allowed to cool to the freezing point the contraction of the Woolworth building would be 3 inches, the Metropolitan building would shorten three inches and the Equitable 2½ inches. It would be 2.6 inches shorter than the normal height in mid-summer, the statistics reveal.

(Boston Examiner)

There are many shortcomings in the cities throughout the Dominion who are now taking a deep interest in the grading and marketing of their eggs. This is now necessary on account of the keen competition between the Province and Manitoba of Regs", but as a general young business has interest on it seems beyond the more conforming to the Dominion Government standard, but this is largely an indifference born of ignorance—an ignorance of the fact that a properly graded egg and most of necessity be shunted from day to day or to their freedom.

Of these insufficient storekeepers investigation shows that probably by far the greater part is due to their country shipper, and to them an egg is an egg, no matter how it is supplied, but fresh. That there are degrees of freshness never occurs to them. The supporters of the Dominion Livestock Branch, Department of Agriculture, have put an actual standard grading and candling demonstration well as a general campaign to convert even the most chapfallen.

An inspector noticing eggs in a store window, and finding a small parcel in one of our large cities went in and asking the price of eggs and of the answer he received "Twenty cents a dozen were the eggs were in a case were examined and there showed five dozen eggs, which were very good. The first, eight dozen seconds, six dozen firsts, and three very bad. The eggs examined in each instance were very favorable to appearance and would not give satisfaction to a customer.

One of the first objects of the republicans "Deepening the Grading and Marking of Eggs" at offering eggs during the coming summer and then to that eggs be sold for what they are; instead of all the grades being mixed, that they be sold separately so that a customer wishing to buy a dozen extras may feel perfectly safe and not find crushed, bad or other grades in the dozen.

When buying eggs consumers should, therefore, ask for them by their grade name and the system of agency, and school supervisors or teachers grade 1200 to 1800 per month. 3-27-10t.

BIG VALLEY

Five broke out on Wednesday, Nov. 12th, at about 6.30 p.m. in the house owned by Mr. Geo. Bastard and lately occupied by Mrs. M. H. Bradbury and by a friend who was loaned control of the local volunteer fire-fighters. The building was entirely destroyed and nothing remains but a pile of ashes. The damage is estimated at $1,500, but fortunately insurance on the building amounts to $1,000 and on the furniture and effects a further sum of $1,000 was carried.

The fire appears to have started from an overturned lamp. Mrs. Bradbury having occasion to enter one of the clothes-closets with a lighted lamp in one hand, dropped over some object on the floor, dropping the lamp, which exploded, and set fire to the house was a mass of flames.

A most fortunate part of the fire is that the wind was blowing from the south and the budget to keep the Leo station homely. The land was so intense that it was found necessary to place another on the house next door occupied by Mrs. Bradbury's daughter, Mrs. Bastard.

Before the conflagration finally died out about 12.30 a.m.

The greatest loss appears to have been suffered by Mrs. Bradbury, who had personal articles and household effects which it will be impossible to replace.

One of the best attended and altogether successful socials ever held in Big Valley was the one held last Thursday The Curtiss' Hall of a number of people from the surrounding country were invited to be present, namely—"The Social Event of the Season." People who have never been known to attend socials of this kind were to be seen wending their way during the "time of their lives." A great number of people from the surrounding towns were also noticed during the evening. The Grand March commenced at 8.30 p.m. sharp, and an excellent program of games followed, some of which are mentioned. Quo Vadis, Peanut Scramble, Highland Fling, Musical Chairs, Needle Drill, Tennis Bloomer, Highland Fling, Musical Chairs, Needle Drill, Circle Two-Step, and Paul Trois.

An old-fashioned Square Dance was also put on during the evening, which was ably staffed out by Mr. Curtiss and Sisters.

A light lunch was served about midnight, after which Mr D. L. Olive, on behalf of the young folk, gave a short address during which he made many fitting remarks appears to the Social Event of the season was the expected that exciting would be another. Mr. Olive's address was very well received and many of the dancing folk present.

About 5 a.m. the dancing finally broke up and the happy dancers returned to their homes after a very pleasant evening. Many favorable remarks on the excellence of the

It was commented during the evening that it is the intention of Mr. Bastard and Dame to hold by the Curtiss Club on New Year's Eve. This should meet with universal approval and it is expected that arrangements will be made to that end.

On Wednesday evening, Nov. 14th, a meeting of all ladies interested in curing was held at the home of Mrs. Vogel, which was very attended. Following a short discussion, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. Thompson.
Vice-President—Miss Wood.
Secretary-Treasurer—Miss Kelly.

The membership fee for the season is $6.00, and all ladies wishing to join the club must hand in their names to the secretary before Friday, Nov. 28th, in order that the selection of clubs may be got underway.

The combination of colors adopted by the club is green, yellow and black.

The following are the ships: Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Vogel, Mrs. L. A. Murray, Miss Bowen.

It was agreed that the short lady must skip this in case of regular ship Bessie.

The following ladies have already joined: Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Vogel, Mrs. L. A. Murray, Mrs. Bigbee, Mrs. Bench, Mrs. Dove, Mrs. Baker, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Olive, Mrs. Turnbull, Mrs. Frank, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Mc-Millan, Mrs. Wood, Miss Lawrence, Miss Armstrong, Miss Hanna, Miss Scott, Miss L. Murray, Mrs. H. Murray.

NO ONE DEFENCE IN SCOTLAND FOR FUN—ITS FOR METEOROLOGICAL REASONS

(By Stephen Leacock)

Because they manufacture the best whiskey in the world, the Scotch, in popular fancy, are often thought to be addicted to the drinking of it. This is quite untrue.

During the whole of two or three pleasant weeks spent in bartering in Edinburgh, I never saw any one take whiskey neat nor of as a beverage. I have seen people take it, of course, as a medicine, or as a precaution, or as a wise effort against a rather treacherous climate; but as a beverage, never.

The manner and circumstances on their offering whiskey in a stranger amply illustrate their point of view towards it. Thus at my first lecture in Glasgow where I was to appear before a large and fashionable audience in the afternoon and to me in the evening, I was told by the committee that there might be a draft on the platform.

Here was a serious matter. For a lecturer who has to earn his living by his eloquence, a draft on the platform is not a thing to be disregarded. How is it to be counteracted? For the chairman himself, a man already in middle life, to be exposed to a current of cold air.

In this case, therefore, the chairman suggested that he thought it might be "prudent"—that was his word, "prudent"—if I should take a small drop of whiskey before encountering the draft.

In return I told him that I could not think of his accompanying me to the platform unless he would be

Bulgaria Apologizes

The Bulgarian Government on November 7th carried out that part of the programme of capitulation to Jugoslavia for the recent attack on that country's military attache, Col Kratchiti, which was most galling to the national pride. This consisted in the marching of a company of soldiers, headed by officers, to the gate of the Jugoslavian Legation, where, with the Bulgarian flag flying, the regimental band played the Jugoslav anthem and the troops saluted the Jugoslav flag.

WOMEN CONTROL TOWN'S DESTINY

Can Make or Break a Community Through Exercise of Their Buying Power—They Hold Purse Strings—It Is Declared That At Least 80 Per Cent. of Retail Purchases Are Decided Upon by Feminine Influence

It has been said that the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world and mothers is the name that is mightiest next than to the world of hours. The woman is the paramount power of the household and man, as a rule, is very glad to have her handle the job.

It has been estimated by some statistics of the overwhelming power that 80 per cent. of all retail buying is done by women. That may be a high estimate but a visit to the retail stores of any town or city is enough to convince one that the figures are not too high. The proportion may be somewhat smaller in some districts, as is sufficient, at any rate to make not only the retailer but the manufacturer and the wholesaler realize that the women are the ones that they must please with their merchandise.

Because they are to by far the greater part of the buying in any community, the women have a responsibility that they are not always appreciative of. Their buying power, well or ill-directed, may make or break the merchants of a town and as a natural consequence they can make or break the town. A merchant who is dissatisfied with the way business is going can move to some other town, but if a town acquires the reputation of being a poor one to do business in, or a town acquires the reputation of being a poor one to live in, or a town acquires the reputation of being a poor one to live in, or a town acquires the reputation of being a poor one to live

Has Wonderful Milk Producing Record

We note by a recent press dispatch from the Red D. E. Bishop, who became one of the members of the Board of Liquor Commissioners for the Province of Alberta. Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them, but we suspect Longley why it should be needed to be linked up with any business except the one, with the demands from an active man of the strenuous energy that he may possess.

Mr. Bishop is the present Liquor Commissioner and if the druggists, "bay-boarders," which many people think Mr. Bishop is out "over-lenient" to be has all the druggists working under him. As a member of the Board of Commissioners he would be the "liquor czar has under" as he would go to all the government vendors and supervise their operations. That was the time when the law was best enforced, and if we could have similar conditions now, we think trouble hardly about by prohibition could be classed as a failure. The demon, however, under government control, is to have no little effect in the "drive" under the Canada Dominion clubs, restaurants, hotels, etc., there may best state is more than the first. He realizes and no club or cafe has any claim at all upon the government or upon the people. He voter interest has any claim whatever.

If the government wishes to keep the opinion of the man and the of the voter on this question of interpreting Canada D, they should send out the members of the legislature to see what the people generally are thinking about the matter. They will find that the great majority want the most effective system of government control, enforced in the strictest possible way. Government vendors of liquor, under proper rules and regulations, are the most people want at the present time. Such conditions prevail in Sweden, Finland and British Columbia, and the members of the legislature to see of government control, the first in legislature to see Canada D system, and the second in the United States on the control of liquor are of benefit to the people. Government control is the government vendors monopolized by the Alberta government could very well wash a great deal of the present dissatisfaction.

REPORT MADE FOUGHT LOSS FOOLISH—DRAMATIC TRIPS OF 1932 AND WRITING

Forgery and falsification of documents are now detected by tests that are astonishing and as dramatic as fiction.

The problem of instrument falsification and detection rests fundamentally upon four materials—inks, paper, measurers and rulewers. Type-writers, engraving processes, delicate instruments for measuring inaps and patterns, microscopes, chemical reagents, high powered marvelscopes, various chemicals used in analysis, magnetic inks and many other scientific aids and much knowledge of what papers, inks and processes are used by typewriters, old manuscripts and the materials with which they were written are the secondary forms which figure in the science.

Ink is the stuff of prime interest. In former years all ink was gallotic of iron, a substance which turned black slowly, after shorter or longer exposure to the air. Gallotic ink is still the basis of all commercial inks now used, but to-day most of these ancillary substances are being used in combination with the iron salts. The purpose of giving the ink a writing an immediate "good color" when applied to the paper, and to allow some exposure to the air is essential to the ink's permanency. Another and moisture strike it—oxidation. Weathering deposits a red oxide of iron on the surface of the ink line of iron sets black oxide. Some of iron inks will fade, however, if they cause alder, while the sepiliary colors practically fade. Some inks, however, are affected by the presence of bleaching. At the end of a year's exposure to oxidation is complete and no further change is observable.

The history of the slow oxidation of commercial inks is the basis for the science of detecting forgeries performed by the superiors who use their extensive knowledge of chemistry.

An ink-written document submitted to these any time under eight years of age is considered genuine. If the date at which it was written determines the case, very nervous people, the fact of the expert's technique has been found of considerable importance in connection with the doctored bonds, so often employed in bankruptcy frauds.

Based on a film of clashing metals, gold foiled, owing to a rough surface upon which it was applied. Large sums of money for goods purchased within a month or six months of the bankrupt declaration. When the bankrupt bonds before the notice it was found that the gold film was worthless. It removed a of their appreciation. He

Here and There

The world's record for grain trains was smashed by the Canadian Pacific Railway when a train of 125 cars loaded with 5,000,000 bushels of wheat was rushed between Stoughton and Arcola in the eastern part of Saskatchewan, a distance of 105 miles.

All grain loading records in Alberta were completely smashed by the Canadian Pacific on October 1935. When the month closed The total shipments reported at least 1,500,000 bushels. This was very close to the record for a full month, when on a Friday alone 1,000,000 bushels were loaded.

GADSBY NEWS

We would draw our readers' attention to the advertisement of the Hotel Gadsby at the end of these notes. It figures as making a brave attempt to cater for the travelling public and the visitors' trade as well in providing good comfortable quarters and first-class meals at all hours with the most moderate of prices. With appreciation of the Liquor Laws it is to be the best interests of the community that our hotel should be in good hands. Mr Oyen, during the time he was appointed the Post Master here, has conducted his business on an easy rise to handle, in a way that has given satisfaction, and we feel sure Mr Anderson will try hard to do it and that he will succeed. The staff of assistants and visitors should give them their business. In doing so they will not only get the best possible value for their money but be helping to establish a good asset to the town.

We are glad to see Mr. and Mrs. Bainbridge and family are back in town. Mr. Bainbridge is running a farm some miles south of here.

The Mother S-piece orchestra will play for dances and will be to hand for that purpose.

Mrs. W. J. Kemp returned from her trip back East last week. She reports a very appreciative time, the last lap of the journey being the only bit of bad weather she had encountered.

Mr. Revel Averill was a Gadsby visitor this week, from Custer district. He has bought a good half-section farm in the locality of Gadsby.

Good news, for young and old. Concerts are already at work on what is to be a real Community Christmas Time and Entertainment. It will be held in the church on Friday evening, 31st of December.

An important business and professional man this week was Mr. William Dunn and his interest in the employment business and International Harvester agency is Mr. Charlie Anderson. We have had occasion to refer to Mr Dunn's value to the farming community in endeavoring to get an excellent stock of reeper part, and his extensive knowledge as to everything possible to help out where a fellow needs a friend—and feel sure many will sincerely regret Mr Dunn's departure. Mr. Charlie Anderson, is very well known locally, both on farms and amongst townsfolk. We are fortunate in having him a citizen here International man. He has quite a track ahead of him to maintain the high standard set by Mr Dunn and we feel sure he will not fail. Mr Anderson will try hard to do it and that he will succeed. The staff of assistants and visitors should give them their business. In doing so they will not only get the best possible value for their money but be helping to establish a good asset to the town.

NOTES

The people of this district and the travelling public will be pleased to learn that the enlargement and improvements for the accommodation and meals at the Gadsby Hotel are now under way. The town is not entering property for the purpose, but to allow Mr. Oyen to show his energy that of any.

ALBERTA GOES WET

It is still whispered regret that the people of Alberta voted for the return of the wet curtains of our Dominion. But the consolation is that the people do not believe in a government of the people by the people, but in this country, as much as on your dad. We think that a mistake has been made, but that is one of the privileges that we enjoy in our free and healthy citizenship. We are convinced that the majority of the people do not want distant fetters, they will desire to see them removed. We believe that they will have some enlightening experience before that day comes.

Those in favor of prohibition, seem to be content by trying to point out the disadvantages of the change of front in regard to the part of the province.

We doubt, that it was a mere coincidence, some of those somewhat interviews, and very difficult to separate. Also difficulties in the way of forming provincial prohibition really effective laws against importation, illicit manufacturing, and people on own for home use. Also the difficulty of getting men to say way is strong temperance, doubly difficult when the people are only tasting of doing it in the way that hasn't yet been tried anywhere. And then, reaction to the wet days of those days, and the plea for so-called freedom carries vastly more weight than it would in more normal times. And we are sure, also, that the reverse argument has been effective with members of people of Alberta, of women with some other of our provinces, to not suffering from a law full of evils, and all supporters of it in any way to rid the country of the evils which have resulted from it.

But, whatever, the consideration of temperance and other pressing matters, and social problems, will be the same as before. Our duty is the same, we have to work to prevent what we can, and to educate the people to the great majority of the Canadian people believe in it as much as they ever did, even though they do not a little apathetic at the methods of working it out, if we haven't discovered the best way of dealing with the liquor evil we never just keep on working and experimenting till we discover it. Do not all end, that is the spirit and of our work. We must do something. No one that we know anything about is inclined to be over pessimistic or inclined like throwing up his hands. Nonsense nature is a somewhat stronger and more persistent thing at times. We get about by going, by going over, and some in other fashion by d. appointing reaction. But, unless we read all signs wrongly, Canada has got a vision of what it will mean to it entirely rid of the liquor evil, and it is not going to forsake that vision until it becomes an actuality. We cannot return to anything like the old-fashioned freezing of liquor traffic, it may part of Canada is quite an impossibility, and anyone who is expecting it is doomed to disappointment.—From Christian Guardian.

Australian Premier to Visit Canada

On his way home from England, Premier Bruce of Australia will spend eight weeks in Canada and the United States.

Bobbed Hair Here to Stay

A Paris newspaper, after interviewing women of all classes, finds that the consensus of opinion is that bobbed hair is here to stay. Seventy-five per cent. of the society women, 45 per cent. of the actresses, and 20 per cent. of the shopgirls in Paris of France had their hair bobbed.

TREES AND SOIL

(Experimental Farms Note)

The passing from plantations and other orchard have two serious economic losses one sudden. These are rabbits and mice. Both require separate means of combatting. A frame of two-inch mesh poultry netting or similar cloth to keep rabbits from girdling the trees, or if it be necessary to protect them, to be fulled of two-inch boiler, sunk about three inches in ground.

Many methods have been advocated and tried with total or partial success. A heavy dose on the surface of a small mound of earth from eight to twelve inches about the base of the trunk; the trampling of snow firmly about the trees, the use of tar paper; the use of vaseline when applied to the trunk, or galvanized wire cloth, the use of wooden veneer protectors; poisoning, or poisoned baits, grounds and three parts, by weight, of bran.

Probably the cheapest safe protection is covered by wrapping the trunk with white building paper in late October or November. Tarr and oil paper is also good. A mound of earth around the bottom of the wrapping has been found to be useful. This treatment has been applied for seven years' trial. The cellulose used for making building paper acts as a repellent to the mice. Tar paper may be used but there are objections where this does not cause injury to the trees.

A durable protection is made from galvanized wire cloth. This is put on closed by lap and double so that no mice can get in. The protection is to be in height. The roll is cut in two and then into strips twelve inches wide. Then bend to fit around each tree trunk. These protectors are rolled around the trees and tie give them a spring, then placed about the tree trunk. Then proceed downward a couple of inches into the soil. Such protectors will last for many years. Although the painting is fairly satisfactory on a temporary protection.

The weekly meeting of the Botha High School Literary Club was held Friday afternoon in Miss MacLeod's room. The program consisted of a reading by Mildred Harrison, John by Ronald Hall and Wilson Empey, a story by Elmore Robinson, and a debate, "Resolved that it is part of the duty of the church to provide amusements." Affirmative—Warna Empey, Marvin Graves, Mabel Hart, and Gordon Stuart; Negative—Gordon Rowley, Kerone Bruning, Mabel Keeney, and Basil Armstrong. The negative won by one point. At the close of the meeting it was decided to change the time of the meetings to Wednesday night instead of Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Rosier, who was operated on at the Royal Alexandria Hospital, in Edmonton, about two weeks ago, has not been so well as was hoped, but we are glad to say that she is again improving and her daughter, Mrs. Ivy Cunningham, will go to Edmonton on Saturday of this week to accompany her home.

Mrs. Porteous and four children, of Springside, Sask., came on Saturday evening for a visit at the McKay home. Mrs. Porteous and Mrs. McKay are sisters.

Fenn News

We have been enjoying such excellent weather and clear moonlight lately that many of our local farmers have taken advantage of it by holding skating parties, which have been well attended and much enjoyed. Miss Rose Legg gave a party at Elmer's rink on Wednesday last and a veiner time was much enjoyed, especially by those folks, down at the Immigration, on Friday last Mrs. C. Awe gave a splendid party on the sleigh in front of her home and a good crowd turned up. Mr. Louis Legg plans to hold a party on Monday, November 24th, which will have passed by the time these lines appear and which we are sure will be equally enjoyed.

Don't forget our Concert next Friday evening, November 28th. Auspices Schoolhouse, 8 p.m. We shall be glad of the support of our town friends and we are sure you will have a good time as a good concert is being promised by the ladies.

The next U.F.W.A. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Lee Legg, second Wednesday in December. We hope to see a good attendance as this is the last meeting of the year and will be the occasion of the election of new officers, etc.

Home Bank Depositors Get 20%

The Canadian Bankers' Association has agreed to lend the liquidator of the Home Bank, against security furnished by him, a sum sufficient to pay the depositors in that bank 20 per cent. of the amounts due them. The 25 per cent. dividend will amount to $3,750,000.

French Priests Are Poor

French priests, since they were deprived of state salaries by the separation of church and state in 1906, have had to rely upon voluntary support, and the recruiting of the clergy is becoming more and more difficult. There are many country priests who do not get more than $60 to $80 a year.

Overworking Their Presidents

The first six presidents of the United States lived to an average age of 79.8 years, while the average length of life of the last ten presidents who have died has been only 61.9 years, according to one statistician. This, despite the fact that the average man's span of life has been steadily increasing in the last century.

Major Strange of Fenn, 10 Miles South of Stettler, Wins First Prize in Wheat and First Prize in Peas at International Exhibition at Chicago

Almost Newcomer to Farming Field, He Wins Fifteen of the Twenty-five Prizes for Wheat Seed at International Show at Chicago—Just Time Alberta Wheat Has Taken First Place—Confirms His Emergence on His Farm at Fenn to Single Varieties of Seed and to Purebred Poultry and Pure-bred Stock.

Major Strange, of Fenn, six miles south of Stettler, has just been notified that he has been awarded fifteen of the twenty five prizes at the 24th annual International Livestock Exposition being held in Chicago this week, including first prize for hard red spring wheat and first prize in the class practically reaches the champion seed prize in the show. Mr Strange has also been informed that he has won first in peas.

Registered seed, good cultivation, good weather condition, "blow your pile" with the latter, and the proper seed probably having the greatest effect on the result, is the formula suggested by Major H. G. L. Strange of Fenn, operator of the Fenndale Farm, for success in wheat growing and in the world's largest exhibition of grain seeds.

Major Strange exhibitors one of the finest wheat samples seen in years. The second prize went to Bozeman, Montana, on C. C. Herings' exhibit, but then the Canadians swamped everything and took four of the next five prizes. The third and the fourth prizes went to Alberta, Herman Trefle, of Lake Saskatoon, and Norman Faulner, of Sedalia, taking third and fourth places respectively. J. C. Mitchell, of Dahinda, Sask., took the fifth place, while the seventh went to George Avery of Rose, Sask. Among the other Canadian prize winners, Fred Ritzcarle, of Rosebud, Sask., was fifth in 1922; A. C. Gandy, of Minnedosa, Man., 1919; A. C. Gandy, of Minnedosa, Man., 1918; C. E. Fowler, Rosebud, Alta., 1917; Andrew Lamont, Strathcona, Alta., 1916; C. Hamilton, of Myrtle, Man., 1915; R. S. Dobbie, of Brandon, Man., 1914; Bert Harper, of Lacombe, Alta., 1913; and Bert Harper, of Lacombe, Alta., 1912, winning the wheat cup with 35th place.

Major Strange is Modest

For the first time Alberta takes this honor in so unbelievers, and is an interview over the long distance telephone Monday, Major Strange said that he felt, when he sent in the samples to Chicago, that he would have a good chance of winning some of the prizes, but very modestly stated that with good registered seed, good weather and good cultivation, the placing of the first twenty-five prizes was largely luck as the competition was so keen.

Only Has Registered Seed

Major Strange has nothing but registered seed on his farm, and emphatically that without registered seed, a grower has not a ghost of a chance. Marquis wheat, Victory oat, registered pea and registered barley are the seeds Major Strange is depending upon to make up the reputation that he has acquired in exhibiting. The pure seed is grown on the farm, as he purchases poultry and large stock per which he brought from England.

Impressed by Alberta

After seeing it on the Royal Agricultural Exhibition during the war, Major Strange came to Canada a great believer in the future of Alberta, and has since been a booster for the province. Alberta, he says, is the best country in the world for mixed farming, and he is confident that the province will be the greatest wheat growing country in the world. Major Strange is also a great believer in the future of Alberta as a stock raising country, and has imported a number of pure-bred animals from England, which he has on his farm at Fenn.

Big Prize Exhibits

In 1921 Major Strange exhibited at Chicago and was awarded third prize for his wheat, second for oats, fourth for field peas, and fourth for barley. In 1922 his exhibits were again in the money, he taking first with wheat, first with oats, and fifth with barley, while he did not exhibit oil. This year he exhibited peas in addition to the wheat, and won two prizes.

Constructive His Energies

I only went in for one variety in each case," stated Major Strange, "so that I might insure purity. Weeds are a most important factor in this province, and I would refer any of your readers to the article which I wrote for The Herald last summer regarding weeds. I spent considerable time on that, and I feel that it is a great menace to this province.

Great Faith in Alberta

"I have very great faith in the future of Alberta for the purpose of shipping to the United States coal, grain, purebred poultry and purebred hogs."

Major Strange has 1,000 acres of land at Fenn and last year he threshed 30,000 bushels of grain, using a large amount of modern machinery and he says that there is nothing of equal value manufactured in this country.

Keen Competition in Chicago

Speaking of the competition at Chicago, the major said that the competition was so keen at the Chicago show that any one being placed in the first 20 prizes could consider it of equal value and that the position was largely a matter of luck, but he emphasized the fact that unless certain rules were followed, which he had previously mentioned, a grower had not the ghost of a chance of having a prize at the Chicago show.

Fenndale Eggs Stamped

All the eggs shipped from the Fenndale Farm are stamped and those an extra prize per dozen in the egg contests are to be found on the dozen above the market prices. Growers for many miles are attracted to the farm to get purebred poultry and eggs. Last year when the strawberry field in the Fenn district was low, Major Strange had it as the average price paid to all growers of registered berries in that district.

Major Strange has nothing but registered seed, complied with the Canadian Seed Growers' Association requirements for same. Major Strange is also a member of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, and is a member of the executive committee of that association.

Major Strange is also a member of the Alberta Seed Growers' Association, and is a member of the executive committee of that association.

Major Strange is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company, and is also a member of the Board of Directors of the Alberta Pool Elevator Association.

Major Strange was appointed by the Minister of Agriculture to act as one of the judges at the Chicago show, and was also appointed by the Minister of Agriculture to act as one of the judges at the Edmonton Exhibition.

ALBERTA GOVERNMENT SOLD [illegible] AT VANCOUVER HARBOR

Jacquemont Tenders Bonds at 97 and Interest—Premium Is Paid

Edmonton, Nov. 30—The provincial government has accepted the tendering proposals to the Dominion and Provincial Guarantee Corporation for the action of the harbor board of Vancouver in advancing at one crossing the moneys taken from one cent to ten cents per gallon by the late Premier Greenfield and the cabinet after considering the matter at length yesterday afternoon, forwarded last night wires to Premier W. L. Mackenzie King, Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, and to Premier John Oliver, of British Columbia, each asking that the step taken by the Vancouver harbor commissioners be fully ratified.

During the morning the government received a message from Edmonton bonds of three years ago, which the [illegible] at 97 and interest. At shortly before 4 o'clock last night Premier Brownlee had received word from Messrs. Bayne, Mc[illegible] Ross, signed the following, [illegible]

"We, the undersigned, hereby offer to purchase from the province of Alberta the following bonds, [illegible] at ninety-seven and interest, and we hereby agree to accept delivery of the bonds and to pay for the same on the [illegible] day of December, 1923."

Signed) H. GREENFIELD."

Practically the same protest was forwarded to Mr. Stewart at Ottawa. The telegrams to John Oliver at Victoria, B.C., was as follows: "The government much perturbed at recent announcement that Vancouver harbor commissioners have increased harbor dues from one to ten cents a ton. Have wired protest to Dominion government. This increase will seriously affect [illegible] which has been developed with the necessity of raising tonnage guiland by recent reduction in western grain rates by one-third, and will undoubtedly greatly retard development of the western route. Public opinion in this province is much concerned over the attitude of your government, having regard to the joint action between the two provinces with respect to the western rates. Will be glad to know that your government is also entering vigorous protest to Dominion government (Signed) H. Greenfield."

The Edmonton board of trade Thursday first formal protest to Premier Greenfield against the action of the Vancouver harbor commissioners. The government being represented by a delegation consisting of Premier Brownlee, W. A. Parker and John Stewart. They urged that the Alberta government should immediately take steps to have, if at all possible, the action of the Vancouver harbor commissioners in increasing the dockage charges from one cent to ten cents per ton rescinded. They pointed out that the province had been developed with the necessity of raising tonnage guiland by recent reduction in western grain rates by one-third, and will undoubtedly greatly retard development of the western route. Public opinion in this province is much concerned over the attitude of your government, having regard to the joint action between the two provinces with respect to the western rates. The government being represented by a delegation consisting of Premier Brownlee, W. A. Parker and John Stewart. MINERAL MIXTURES AND MEAT MEALS FOR BACON HOGS

(Experimental Farms Note.)

The availability of mineral matter for the proper nutrition of hogs is of vital importance, and the mineral requirements are to the development of frame and muscle in the attainment of the ideal proportions of carcass. Hogs particularly depend upon such a ration, more particularly the young growing pigs and brood sows.

The lack of an adequate calcium or phosphorus supply is not immediately apparent, but after a more or less protracted period such a deficiency will be manifested by a general debility and lack of tone in the animal and the following by decreased production.

Of all classes of livestock hogs suffer more frequently because of their inability to obtain bulky roughage, these roughage being a fruitful source from which to draw sufficient mineral constituents to maintain the body requirements. The cereal grains are low in calcium and mineral matter can ordinarily be supplied from another source such a ration may be very good or satisfactory, if not exclusively. The addition of mineralized feeds, such as meat, meat pulp, molasses, and also leguminous roughages such as clover or alfalfa hay is suggested as a means of the mineral content of these foods. Ground limestone, however, might cannot be too strongly advocated for rather feeding as a bone producing crops are not available. Hulk by products such both as sources of mineral matter and are also valuable additions to the grain ration.

Other sources of mineral matter such as bone meal, meat meal, tankage, ground limestone, rock phosphate, fish meal, charcoal, etc., are more expensive but valuable ammunition which to draw.

The exact amount of these last that should be supplied has not been definitely determined, but a study of data obtaining some information on this matter, therefore, five lots of hogs totalling in all twenty head were fed on a ration consisting of ground barley, 1 part ground barley, shorts and middlings, each 1 part, and oil meal 2 parts supplemented with bone meal, 1 part meal as a check, on the other fourlots each of which was fed a mineral meal in a ad libitum. Lot II being fed tankage, Lot III meat meal, Lot IV oil meal and Lot V bone meal.

During the 161 periods of 56 days, the above ration the pigs consumed 2,320 lbs of tankage 2,240 lbs of meat meal, 2,240 lbs of meat meal, 2,240 lbs of oil meal and 2,240 lbs of bone meal. The lot receiving the tankage made the greatest gain, but less than the check lot. They would indicate the amount of these mineral meals which the pigs consumed when fed the ration mentioned somewhat less than to produce a pound of gain in weight, the check lot required 4.29 lb. the tankage lot 4.94 lb. the meat meal lot 4.79 lb. the fish meal lot lb, and the bone ash lot 5.82 lb of meal to produce a pound of gain, while the milk concentrate was 3.38 pounds. For the check lot also an average of 4.38 pounds of the mineral-fed lots per pound of gain produced.

B.C. BEEF AND FARM TAXES 30 PER CENT

Goodwin to Be Taxed Three Cents, the Budget Shows

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 30.—A reduction of 50 per cent will be made on farm property taxation, but the tax on all other property in the British Columbia will remain as it is, according to the budget delivered by the minister of finance as expressed in his budget speech delivered in the legislature yesterday afternoon.

The reduced taxes on the personal property tax would be reduced by one-half of one per cent, or half of the present rate.

It is proposed to place a tax of one half cent a gallon on gasoline, out of which it is expected to receive a revenue of $400,000 a year. The tax as it omits a gallon also will be placed on gasoline. The compulsory automobile fee the increased tax on gasoline, the government proposes to reduce motor vehicle fees by 15 per cent. It is estimated that the gasoline tax will produce a revenue of $400,000 a year, and the revenue derived from the licenses will enable the government to devote more attention to the question of taxes and improvement of highways.

UNIVERSITY EDUCATION MARKS WOMEN DISTINCTIVELY

"University education as given today is entirely unselfish and disinterested. I don't believe in this so-called freedom. Women should bring harmony into the home, and beauty, and joy."

Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, wife of the great American inventor, gave us an interview here tonight on the subject of higher education for women in America.

"We women," she continued emphatically, "have not made of our human state the best that it could be. We are interested to think of them as only four walls. Do you not think a great deal inside of four walls?

"To be a fine wife and mother you can should first be well educated—literature, history, psychology, art, music, architecture—all these things should enter into her training. She should understand the principles of color harmony and line arrangement in the should study to make her home an attractive that she can afford. She should know the kitchen is run—the way the food is prepared. If the proper cook is wrong could take up this work in the right way; she could make it an art. She could study it.

"To-day girls go to schools of design to learn decoration and kindred subjects. Why not have the—should be all of our universities? You—are there such a department—

"No woman should be dependent on outside assistance for the expression of beauty in her own home. She should evolve from within it accordance with her own tastes, her own ideals, her own standards of beauty.

"But let us not talk of feminism. Let us talk of the duties of women. Neither sex can do the other's work. In the one hundred days the cats and grandpa of women's work is to make the home a haven of beauty and rest and joy. Then she has accomplished what is to be a true mother and wife. I believe that the mother in the home is the mother of the world.

"And in order to do her job to the best of her ability, she must be well equipped, she must be as intensely as ever man did who wanted to succeed in his profession. Let her go to the university mostly, but let her study with the purpose that she will make her a better home-maker, not the mechanical professional and various subjects she is taught to-day."

Capital Levy on $50,000 Fortunes

Only about $50,000 persons in Great Britain, it is estimated, have fortunes large enough to be touched by the capital levy proposed by the Labor party, according to a statement issued by that party in New. Else in explanation of how the levy would operate. Fortunes of $5,000 would be exempt, and $5,000 of every estate exceeding that amount would also be free. Tools of the Insects

Most of the articles in that great crowd of human tools—sometimes called civilization—are simply contrivances for helping the insect know better to feed himself. Moreover, he has had ages to practice with them and is extremely skilful.

Perhaps his most wonderful implement with the need possible one, but he has had perfect it for so many millions of years that he has become a master of it. Two hard, sharp, strong jaws, working sideways against each other, are the most wonderful tools in the world. Man has tried to imitate them in the scissors, but they are clumsy in comparison. With this tool the insect can cut, pierce, chew, bite, and do many other things. In addition, he has a sucking tube, which he can thrust into anything he wants to get the juice out of, and a tongue for lapping.

Besides, many females are provided with a sharp ovipositor, or egg-laying instrument, that is a marvel of delicate workmanship.

Practically no other animal—if we except man—has the variety of implements that the insects have. Some of them are provided with a sharp sting, which they can thrust into their victims. Others have a sucking tube, which they can thrust into their victims. Others have a sucking tube, which they can thrust into their victims. FAILURES ALL THE STEPS OF THE STAIRS OF SUCCESS

Have you failed in your business? Have you failed to obtain the position you wish, or failed to secure the promotion you desire? Or have you failed to make good in anything, or failed to get a job at any kind of work?

Well, cumulonigs, cast tough of all—then well along in years—does it seem to you that your life has been a series of failures, one after the other?

Well, everyone fails! Every life is made up of failures. That is very cheering news and truthful. The cheerful part is that when you think is failure is not failure; the truth is that every moment of life which you call a failure is a step of the stair of success.

No incident or experience in life is ever a failure; not even being fired—not only in failure if we completely the incident or experience as a step up-ward! Those who remain failures or seem to do so fail to succeed in life because they refuse to put one foot before the other when they have not grown the age of assuming knee pants.

Take the case of Frank Woolworth, who founded the Woolworth chain. There was not a thing romantic about Woolworth's start in life. As a boy and youth he was not mind looking; he was not prepossessing; he could not lend more higher up to have confidence in him—in fact, he admitted that he did not have the ability to win the attention of anyone or induce anyone to take any interest in him.

Over and over again—every time he applied for a position in a merchant store—he was turned down; and more than that, the men laughed at his face and told him he would never be able to sell anything. After he had begged and begged for an opportunity to learn to be a store clerk, he was finally given a chance to scrub the floors of a little town store and was told to put them scrub day, if he would work the morning for nothing, pay his own board, and keep himself out of sight when customers came into the store.

Later when he tried selling behind the counter, he failed. He failed at everything it for two years and his salary was not from $50 to $3 a week and finished, as he himself admitted, he had been years he could not meet a customer and not speak to the other store did. He later

[illegible] I was not a failure [illegible] Woolworth was not failure to him. In fact, he would be much discouraged if he himself has told of it. All his failures before his successes proved to him that he was not fitted [illegible] and that he was not [illegible] fully. When he made the discovery [illegible] retail merchant in the world.

CORRESPONDENCE

In the article in last week's edition, "Government Control Legislation," we made a number of statements which when looked into, will not "hold water."

The first instance is where it speaks of the Volstead Act being put over by a minority. While the truth is that in order to gain National Prohibition two-thirds of the states of the Union had to ratify, and this would mean that all states, which is roughly 36 out of 48 states did ratify—and this didn't look much like a minority.

This is followed by the statement that we have had the same trouble in Alberta. Now, any one who has the facts made a study of the present Liquor Act, and the Prohibition Law), knows that it was placed on the statute books by a large majority, and we do not think it is necessary to have the minority vote counted in any part of the Province of Canada. If we can't be able to retain our present Liquor Act.

It is strange reasoning, too, that when the people were allowed to import all they wanted, there was the best enforcement. Notwithstanding this, the record shows that the evils of liquor increase with increase of facilities, and decrease with decrease of facilities; that is, the easier it is to get wine, beer or whiskey, the more drunkenness there will be.

It is a very encouraging statement that during the period 1915-17 there were no arrests made in this province, and therefore, we presume, no bootleggers, but the records are that there was much more illegal selling in the old days than in the years of Prohibition, during that period, for a very large number of the business houses were selling illegally—selling to drunkards, selling after hours, selling on Sundays, etc.

The bootlegger and the Hun's skills are the natural progeny of Prohibition, and the same evils existed in the old days. [illegible] selling on Sunday [illegible] Quebec and on [illegible] Province.

We think figures will prove that the [illegible] for the period 1915-17 there [illegible] to what it is in Alberta, and the [illegible] are [illegible] are, by all [illegible] the largest bookkeepers in B.C. [illegible] Government [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

GADSBY NEWS

The beautiful weather is still with us and the spends of it with bated breath how long can this be? That it has been the question asked for over a month in hope that it might last till threshing was over. Well it's all over now, except that may be a few stacks yet, but no one is so hurry to break into them as they have no chimney tents and it is hard to get rid of grain in town these days. And the good weather holds. Many a pilgrim says no short for much of the heavy hauling could be done these days to reap positive comfort for man and beast, but the strongest comes hooded in a snow-storm of 186 degrees The shorter advises her sommitel to hoe prind and the man, naturally annoyed to Custer where she now is. Latest reports are more encouraging and we trust the little one will be restored to its parents safely very soon.

Owing to several cases of measles in town Gadsby school was closed all week, much to the regret of the teachers. What the pupils thought is another thing.

The all-time social promoted by the U.F.A. was a great success on Friday night, a good crowd turning out and everybody seemingly having a good time. The concert program was very good, despite several sudden absences whose names were on it, and what it lacked in length it amply made up in quality. There was a really fine vaude and her singing is always a treat and she is equally good as an accordionist. Altogether a fine entertainer. Misses Ada Ghent and Hattie Drinnan sang a nice duet that was very well received, and both are very good singers. The piano numbers rote by Miss Cudmore showed her developing a fine command of that instrument and her hand is expressional for so young a player. She responded to a hearty encore. Mrs. Parker a Mr. Hallsor play well together at their stats for piano and violin, and both got good results from their instruments which their audience always appreciated. They were also encored and responded. After the concert, and before dancing started, Mr. J. O. Bird's prize drawing was put through with Mr. Gerady in charge. The winning ticket drawn was held by Mr. Geo. H. Beever, who is the lucky owner of a fine Cream Separator, which a few chance copies was served and as usual, our busy Friends were bountiful providers, with an abundance of splendid cakes, sandwiches and delectables, and, as ever, so that every one had a feast. Dancing was resumed and continued till 3 a.m., with many old favorite dances and tunes given that have not been heard or heard in Gadsby for many a day They say they kept up the "Virginia Reel" for a number hours. The Parker-Hallsor orchestra are real good and just suppose we say that music is very satisfactory, good for dancing and pleasant to listen to. The committee feel very grateful to all who contributed to the very successful evening, the artists for their good program, the orchestra for good music, our ladies for the splendid supper.

Dr. Web Bennet left for Red Deer, Saskatchewan on Monday morning's express. He was accompanied by Mrs. Bennet and their daughter Ruth, who will winter there at least, where Web's brother, Bill, is doing well in the drug business.

There were some old familiar faces noticed at the Farmers' social on Friday. E. W. Beever, who has been away for several years before and visited Gadsby on his way to Edmonton from Saskatchewan, was looking well and enjoying himself with old friends. Albert Scott and his party. They got there in time to hear the last number on the program, a solo "Listen" was the latter Through this the "Farmers" lost a good entertainer, as a leap ahead of their program.

At the annual meeting of the Women's Institute on Saturday last the following officers were appointed for the coming year: President, Mrs. Gerady; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. G. H. Drinnan; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. R. W. Harrison; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Curt. Hitchner; Directors—Mesdames T. Gerady, E. W. Stowell, W. Scott, McTarrant, R. Parker.

Gerady picked up a team of hockey players and gave Rabbit another game on the C.P.R. dam on Sunday afternoon. The Rabbit aggin proved winners but the score was only 4 to 3. Gerady's team put in a good deal of practice on the boards. The latter have only four members of their team at present but first artistics person to secure a fifth player will be presented with a fine pair of skates. Tiller, Lissack, Shepherd-Flynn, Secretary Gadsby Hockey Club. Rabbit, Forwards; Anderson, Cochrane, Ketchum, Sullivan, Defence; Cochrane, Ketchum, Sullivan, Defence; Gerady, Goal.

At Gadsby church on Sunday evening there was a good congregation and to hear Rev. Mr. Bowen preach from the choir sang a new piece. Next Sunday there will be a solo and a male-voice quartette. The special music is quite a feature in our services.

Miss Hollinshead, of Berlin, is visiting at the parsonage these days.

Mrs. R. Berlin has been laid up for a long time in her home in Hughend. Inch has resigned his position as cook, also without regret. Mrs. Berlin is a nerve interesting doctor to tell of how things are going over there these days, and seems to have had a real good time.

The regular meeting of the Gadsby U.F.A. will be held on Friday, Dec. 7th at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Office. An interesting program is to come up a large attendance is requested.

NOTICE

The people of this district and the general public have been very much disappointed and inconvenienced by the Gadsby Rink not being ready for use before this time. The ice would not be kept open profitably. Now that the Rink is completed the Hotel Oxford and intends to price his skating accordingly, but at very reasonable prices. Meals will be served at all hours. Lose no opportunity to get your skating and dancing. Hotel open and so hoost our own town. We have been in no manner properly by the public if we allow the hotel to show its doors through lack of support.

See Our New Price List for Meals and Rooms.

Yours for service,
JOHN OPPYS,
Proprietor.

(Superintendent Forest Notes)

"Brand for milk production" has for some time been the slogan of progressive dairymen. The best breeders have used long years for bulls out of cows with out-standing records. They have obtained results from this practice, and therefore will continue to breed their individuals with performance behind them. Individuality is not the only factor to be considered, but it is a very important one. Many cows are now tested members in the local dairy herd.

Further information may be obtained from the Provincial Supervisor of Dairying, Edmonton, Alberta.

HOGS PIGS AND LOVE WILL HELP PROSPERITY

A grand opportunity is presently confronting before the farmers of Alberta and Western Canada. The years that should be for trade between Britain and the Dominions, are ended or beginning to take root in Great Britain and the Dominions.

It is doubtful whether the Baldwin administration of Great Britain will be able to appreciate or understand the principle of personal preference by a return to power after the recent elections. But even though the present plans come to naught, the attention forced to a period of years during which the sum of all Britain's energies will be to devise trade bonds whereby the unity and the prosperity of the Empire can be strengthened to the advantage of all its member nations.

There appears to be little doubt that within twenty years British people will be demanding foodstuffs grown and British products to the exclusion of imports from any country which discriminates against imports from any British country. When this happy time shall arrive, the people of Canada will profit a share of their requirements. Great Britain has now upon the people of the United States the advantage of purchasing lower rate, when cattle, fattened other food products from Canada into the United Dominion, but this condition which discriminates against British export. Inter-imperial trade will increase tremendously and prosperity will follow it to every corner of the Empire.

IS THERE A SANTA CLAUS?

HAPPY MOMENTS

This portrait is one from the studio of the late Philo Bedient, who met fame in Quebec, and became famous after studying in France

It is the most contested question. And how often will it be asked! For as long and as often as Christmas comes. You will be asked and wonder, and little children will be wondered and reassured and made happy just as was the little girl who put her question to the great editor, Charles A. Dana. She sought high authority when some one had told her the truth in childhood's pathos must be told, and then as what the human mind accepts later. It is the first power that we know.

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehended by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge. Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished. Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world. You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding. No Santa Claus? Thank God! he lives and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

PEACE AND GOOD WILL

We are beginning to feel already the energy of life that bursts up all along in the keeping of the Christmas season; our music already takes on a Christmas tone, and we begin to hear the song of the angels which accompanied the Evangelists as give the human birth of Jesus a fit accompaniment in the harmonies of heaven.

The song of the angels, as we have been used to reading it, was a threefold message, of glory to God, peace on earth, and good-will among men. Just the latter scholarship of the Revised Version now reads in the verse a threefold message. Revised Version now reads in the verse a threefold message. First, there is a glory to God, and then there is peace on earth to the men of good-will. These, that is to say, who have the good-will as themselves are the ones who will find peace on earth. Their unselfishness brings them their personal happiness. They give themselves in good-will, and so they obtain peace. That is the true spirit of the Christmas season. It is the good-will which brings the peace. Over and over again in these months of feverish scrambling for personal gain, men have sought for peace and have not found it, and now, when they turn to this generous good-will, the peace they sought comes of itself. Many a man in the past year has had his misunderstandings, grudges or quarrels rob him of his own peace; but now, as he puts away these differences as crude for the season of good-will, the peace arrives.

That is the paradox of Christmastide. He who seeks peace does not find it. He who gives peace finds it returning to him again. He who bestirs his life here and there to make others happy finds it

"Not what we give, but what we share,
For the gift without the giver is bare
Who gives himself with his alms feeds three,
Himself, his hungering neighbor, and me"

That is the sweet and lingering echo of the angel's song.

CHRISTMAS IN THE FAMILY

Uncle Henry (who owns a wig) was presented with a handsome leather belt by Aunt Hannah and Cousin James received a handkerchief each. Cousin Jane got a book entitled "Author's Christmas stories selected into the World that Christmas spirit which is so prevalent to-day—the Spirit of Love and Charity. Charles Dickens' works are as popular to-day as they were fifty years ago. Dickens Fellowship Societies are established in many towns on both sides of the Atlantic, and each succeeding year is increasingly popular. Charles Dickens will never be forgotten. The public owes a debt of gratitude for that, and he will be always especially remembered at Christmas time.

It is more than half a century since all that was left of the great heart and brain was deposited in Westminster Abbey. But the memory of Charles Dickens will touches our lives, and the manhood of the whole Anglo-Saxon race is renewed by those hours of our boyhood when we laughed at Uncle Waller, hated Jesse Chumleigh, and Carker, loved little Nell, and trembled at Quilp.

STETTLER DISTRICT WINS WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP WHEAT AND PEAS AT CHICAGO EXHIBITION

Major Strange of Penn, Almost Newcomer to Farming Field, Wins Fifteen of the Twenty-five Prizes for Wheat Seed at International Show at Chicago — First Time Alberta Wheat Has Taken First Place — Confines His Energies on His Farm at Penn to Single Variation of Seed and to Purebred Poultry and Pigs — Gives His Formula for Success

Major Strange, of Penn, 10 miles south of Stettler, has just been notified that he has been awarded fifteen of the twenty five prizes at the 1932 annual International Limited ... Chicago, for wheat seed. Major Strange's ... including first prize for hard red spring wheat and first prize ... also prizes for pedigreed ... Major Strange has also been informed that he has won first in ...

Registered seed, good cultivation, good weather condition, know your job" with the latter and the proper seed probably have the greatest effect on the result, is the formula suggested by Major H. ... Strange, of Penn, operator of the ... Stettler district, for success in wheat growing and in the world's large ... of grain seeds.

Major Strange exhibited ... the finest wheat samples ... in years. The second prize went to Bozeman, Montana, and third to C. C. Hertzog's exhibit, but then the ... committee combine ... ning and took four of the next five prizes. The third and the fourth prizes ... went to Alberta. Mitchell, of Dahinda, Sask., took the fifth place, while the seventh went to George Avery of Arlee, Alta. Among the other Canadian prize winners, Fred Edwards, of Rothlee, Sask., was 9th; A. J. Munson, of Aven, Sask., 10th; A. C. Gwerlle, of Murray, Alta., 12th; C. R. Rogg, Vidora, Sask., 16th; J. Adams, of Richard, Sask., 18th; Samuel Lavrenby, of Birtle, Man., 19th; G. Brooks, of Dunbridge, Ont., 21st; R. E. Baldwin, of Shaunavon, Sask., 22nd, and Bert Harper of Lumsden, Sask., completing the sum ... were 25th place.

Major Strange to Modest

For the first time Alberta takes this honor from Saskatchewan, and in an interview over the long-distance telephone Monday, Major Strange said that he felt, when he sent the samples to Chicago, that he would have a good chance of winning some prizes, but very modestly stated that with good registered seed, good weather and good cultivation the planting of the first twenty five prizes was largely luck as the competition was so keen.

Only Has Registered Seed

Major Strange has nothing but registered seed and pedigreed stock on his farm at Penn, and declares emphatically that without registered seed, a grower has not a ghost of a chance. Marquis wheat, Victory oats, registered peas and registered barley are the seeds that Major Strange depends upon to build up the reputation that he has now acquired. In addition to the pure seeds grown on the farm he has purebred poultry and high ... pigs which he brought from ... England.

Impressed by Siberia

After serving in the Royal Engineers, imperial forces, during the war, Major Strange came to Canada about four years ago with the idea of ... in California into. Knowing the demand for pure seed in the United States, Major Strange investigated the best lands for this purpose, and was favorable to hard spring wheat as one of the most lucrative to the greatest ... in this line. He took one year to investigate land ... value in the United States and Canada, and finally decided in 1929 that Penn offered the best opportunities, because of the quality of the soil and the freedom from weeds.

Makes Right Start

After locating the land on which he wished to operate, Major Strange interviewed the Dominion Seed Branch, the University of Alberta, the provincial government officials, and all others whom he considered as having knowledge on the subject before he started growing high class grain.

As a result of these investigations, Major Strange chose Marquis wheat and ... Major Strange grows ... Victory oats, ... Canada ... Mansfield ... Siberian ... Canada ... Bonanza ... Canada ... Canada ... Canada

Don't Waste Gasoline Because It's Cheap or You May Help Send the Price Up Again

The National Motorists' Association of the United States has issued a warning against waste of gasoline. The gist of the "tip" is that if, while gas prices are low, motorists get into the habit of using thrifty, economical of fuel will not increase in direct proportion to the increase in cars and the law of supply and demand will force a continuation of the conditions of today, or at least lessen the possibility of an increase at prices.

"The natural tendency when prices are low is to waste gas," says the N.A. statement. "The lower price of gas at present, discounting certain abnormal irregularities created by unnatural and temporary factors, is due to an excess of production over consumption. The supply is now naturally increased through waste and the engine is still sound and power will naturally go high again. This is all the more probable owing to the fact that in addition to the actual shortage of oil fuel will not increase in direct proportion to the increase in cars and the law of supply and demand will force a continuation of the conditions of today, or at least lessen the possibility of an increase at prices.

"Motorists, however, are not entirely alone as to how they can save fuel. The average car owner thinks he has done his limit if he can: that the carburetor is properly adjusted, that gas is

LIQUOR LEGISLATION

The Independent and the following telegram to Premier Greenfield on Monday:

Stettler, Dec. 15th

Premier Greenfield, Edmonton, Alta.

The Stettler Independent, one of the provincial weeklies supporting Premier Greenfield's administration, has a circulation of over 1,000 and gives editorials in regard to Liquor Legislation believes that the great majority of those who voted for Clause D desire that the public side of beer be left to the Government ownership and control as at present.

A temporary policy in regard to beer however is the only safe one for the legislature of this land, and other Dominion and British Columbia have given us their opinion as well as have been given to us in what way the Alberta system can be altered and improved. We can would object that high-class beers like the Montreal, Stettler, one another, be given to grown men for purposes of handling beer, but there can be no doubt whatever that the public will not stand for beer being brought into their streets, by individuals and clubs are out of the question. Please can be honestly administered by the Government Commission as it has been in the past. Let us have a temporary policy for a year or two, and then have a vote on beer by the people, and notwithstanding the criticism of the Government's handling of liquor matters, we believe that they will have the support of all decent citizens.

Yours,
THE EDITOR.

WHAT SHALL THE HARVEST BE?

Here is what Mr. Albright, Superintendent of Soccer Lakes Experimental Farm, says about the harvest:

Alberta has harvested the heaviest crop in her history, with yields in many cases that seem to establish records. Under the most favorable conditions permitted the reaping, threshing and delivery of the crop, there must continue, so that the Canadian Farmer receive cash for his products, well cooked rather than empty stacks of food.

Lower prices are the fly in the ointment, and it is not surprising that on account of this item, worry is wrecking home with tangled cares, and that many Albertans, morbidly considering that he is going to get out of it all by will find better, of course, when he has had time to get settled. Alberta possesses go to the ox to do, and they pass better off than the smaller crops and higher prices. Time is a great element. Harvest for last crop. This is marked.

The world's market situation and the world market matter much. A year ago in Alberta would not have raised enough commodity but would have contributed the aggregate wealth of our production. A plentiful crop is unsatisfactory for which to be grateful.

The value of our reward crop is partly dependent largely upon how we utilize it. Unfortunately this item is not entirely determined by city, as economics over which the producer has lost control. The former deeply indebted to something creditors are apt to dispose of his grain hastily for what he can get. He must make this interest from the harvest, over and above the liquidation of some obligations. It is a time to pay off and carry out of debt so as to be in a position to borrow to assist in future crops.

Where not so badly involved may be able to retain part of their crop, enough to only enough to meet immediate

Farmers and living conditions in Saskatchewan by Immanuel a better economy may be realized on the farmers.

Let us in the name of common sense to carry forward a bit of good and a few drains of land against the time of famine. Nothing is more certain than that good and poor crops will be followed by poor conditions, necessity if not by reason. When it is time reform and humanitarian Canada's example by carrying forward a strong force from the fat years to help out the lean ones.

Why in any rural community generally should there be a single person who does not have some land and feed, or the means to purchase feed, when prices are low? Why should there be a single person in need?

There is such a thing as looking to the morrow, as thoughtless people are accustomed to say, and there is such a thing as the economy of prudence and common of foresight. Canada is a great country, and there is no limit to its possibilities, but it is only a country of people. Let us find ourselves with the larger consideration of ourselves, larger economy, larger minds and larger prices. It is good business to conserve the fertility stored in earth's crust and stock of good stock and to preserve in this largest acreage of well tended crop next year and so on indefinitely for years to come, although the immediate profit within the limits of prudence, is not so only a matter of time. THINGS WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW?

Here is something we should like to know about farming as well as about anything to an article on the subject in this issue:

(1) A car that puts 20 miles on one gallon of gasoline will use up that amount of gasoline on 20 straight.

(2) A car that puts 20 miles on one hour on one gallon of gasoline will use up that amount of gasoline on 20 straight.

Send—Let your car ride on short trips instead of starting up two or three or more times if you need to save gasoline.

Beresford when some seventy guests gathered to bid Mr. Bertram a hearty farewell on the occasion of his departure for Chilliwack, B.C. Members of the Stettler, Free Hill and Pleit Knob Baptist Church were present, and all expressed their regret at not only the loss of their pastor but also at the loss of a worthy family. Going to Mr. Bertram's Mr. Beresford has found it necessary to resign his pastorate here and seek a rest for several months in a more kindly climate. A short programme was rendered, after which a dainty supper was served, during which Mr. Bertram was presented with a handsome leather Club Bag, with Dressing Case complete, as a token of appreciation of his faithful services here. In a few earnest and fitting remarks he very fittingly replied. A desire that we be particular of, after which the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" and prayer. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Beresford on their journey and pray that he may soon be restored to health and strength to continue his work in the vineyard of the Master whom he loves.

We are all enjoying the abnormally mild weather, though, as it is so much opposite to what we have been accustomed to, there are always complaints from those interested in hockey. It has been found impossible to flood the rink and get it to freeze over deeply enough for skating, and so far this fall with this winter, has flooded and damaged the surface so progressively that the latter has—so far the temperature forbids—to stop to a point that would keep it there when flooded. Clear up, Andy, it can't last forever as if the frost don't come pretty soon the plunges and it may never come.

The Women's Institute social supper and dance were quite a success and well worth while. We have not the figures before us as to the number of tickets disposed of—but were "informed" that night, but there was a gap around 400 and oysters were not the only dish on the menu. To remember one is to remember all three quite a number of times and there was a large reserve of pies, etc., that supplied the needs and were sold, on the plate. The music for the dance was purveyed by the Packer-Bulmer Orchestra, which is equivalent to saying that it was of the best obtainable. A notable evening and the funds of the Institute got a very considerable boost.

Correspondence from Miss Lily Reagan, "The little lady contributed her talents at her home on the night of the meeting in celebration of her birthday."

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Harrison left on Saturday morning for Calgary and district, where they will visit their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Pendleton. They will put in some time there and then make some other visits before returning to Alberta. Mr. Harrison has put in a prodigious amount of hard work farming on a very large scale in this district for a good few years and certainly can claim a holiday, if not without qualification but his partner, Mrs. Harrison, has also been on the job no less and in addition and we hope both may enjoy themselves, get rested and come back with much added vigor and with a mass of fresh health.

Dunkirk Municipal District Council had their final meeting for 1923 on Saturday afternoon, the business being merely routine Secretary Drennan reporting nothing in very satisfactory condition. The annual audit has been begun by Mr. W. B. Gray, of Stettler.

New buildings are a novelty in Gadsby nowadays, so much interest is being taken in the various going up and coming up of the Co-operative store Mr. Cameron's building the same is going—two floors—to the proper size for pre-war quarters and may utilize it that a rather far distant event. This will help out a little, but the work—put at the shortest—is important and presenting much hardship to our farming friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kogut, with Leo and Clarence, were in town on Monday en route for Ontario to spend the holidays at the old home. Mr. Kogut sold West from the Hamilton district and has long had a notion to go back there and see old, and on the plate. The result for the dance was pursuaded by the Packer-Bulmer Orchestra, which is equivalent to saying that it was of the best obtainable. A notable evening and the funds of the Institute got a very considerable boost.

Mr. Steele gave a rear address on "Sabbath Observance" on Sunday evening and his remarks were timely and reasonable. That we have departed quite a little from our old-time methods is beyond question and whether we have gained therefore, philosophically speaking, is extremely doubtful. The short grace a strong hand at some of the functions of the Sabbath time there and then make some other of its units before preparing to observe, Mr. Harrison has put in a prodigious amount of hard work farming on a very large scale in this district for a good few years and certainly can claim a holiday, if not without qualification but his partner, Mrs. Harrison, has also been on the job no less and in addition and we hope both may enjoy themselves, get rested and come back with much added vigor and with a mass of fresh health.

A FLOCK OF SHEEP ON EVERY FARM

(Experimental Farms Note)

There are comparatively few farms in this region practise anything like a sheep census but kept with profit. There is sufficient rough pasture on the acre age farm to feed a small flock the greater part of the year. Sheep have a decided advantage over most other farm animals—they can be pastured and even the rabbits and fields very thoroughly, and they will consume many grass weed pests throughout possibly French Weed and some of the others.

That sheep are a profitable investment has been proven on the Dominion Experimental Station at Scott. In a four-year period, 1911-1915, the returns from a commercial flock of from 100 to 130 grew sheep were averaged annually $1,000. During the greater part of this period the prices for wool and mutton were low. The flock was increased in 1912 to about eighty head of breeding ewes. The returns in 1921 were about $10.00 per ewe for

Mr William Irvine, the Calgary Labor M.P. addressed a meeting in town on Wednesday night, on the interests of the U.F.A. Mr Irvine has undertaken to do his propaganda work as a labor of love, free of charge, because he is one of the supporters of the farmer in the cause they are mostly interested in. There was a good audience out to hear him, which would have been much larger but for the fact that the bulk of the Farmer element was having their annual meeting and election of officers, for the coming year. Mr. Irvine has a splendid style of oratory and a great command of good English, and can always interest an audience, whether you have subject for it or not. He was less flowery than he has been before him, confined his powers to comparable language, and using the eloquence of illustrations. He was especially good in his plea for a fair trade for the new Provincial Government, that had only been in office two years and had inherited a "very ugly house" from their predecessors, but were making good progress nevertheless. Considering that the members of the Government had been taken from the plough and transference into the United Farmers over-night without training or preparation, they had made tremendously few mistakes. He had the speaker decline if they had made any. Next time the farmers had put them there, they were in better mood to support them, and give them a trial for at least the four years that constitutes the life of a parliament and if in that time they seemed to be falling down on the job then they could "fire" them with a clear conscience. At the close of the address a large number gave their names as new members of the U.F.A. Mr. Albert Smart, president of the Local, was in the chair and made a few remarks.

Mr. and Mrs. John Berry have gone to the States on a visit to the old home town. They will spend the best part of their time in Washington, where Mr. Berry's brother resides. John has not had a holiday for a long time and we hope he will take this one.

Mr. "Bill" Scott, a well known farmer in the Lou district, met with a very serious accident on the 19th, between Lou and Gadsby. He was hauling a load of wheat with 3 horses, and in crossing a culvert some of the timpers gave and let the hayrack drop. The horses bolted and the point of the tongue dug into the ground, the jolt throwing Scott on load. One of the wheels went over his leg, causing a very bad compound fracture. He is for some time till another neighbor comes up and manages to get him home in his wagon and so into Gadsby. After being attended to there he was removed next morning to Lacombe hospital where he is now under treatment. We are glad to hear that there is a good prospect of the bone knitting all right, although at one time the possibility of him losing the leg was feared.

Mr and Mrs. W. F. Erskine left on Tuesday for California where they will spend the balance of the winter. Mrs. Erskine's health is not what it should be and the change to the warmer climate is considered to be the best thing for her. It was a good opportunity for Bill to take a trip to the old country and visit his folks, but he has decided to stay with the farm and let the trip go for the present. We hope they will have a good time and that the change will do Mrs. Erskine a power of good.

Charlie Bish, who is distributor in Gadsby of the Edmonton Journal, had a fine trip to the Capital where he was a delegate from the local newspaper boys, were entertained for three days by the management. They saw all the sights of the city, pantomimes, etc., and finished up with a banquet at the Macdonald. Some class to Charlie.

Mr W. D. Brady, of Edmonton, who is in the insurance business there, came down unexpectedly to spend his Christmas vacation with brother John.

Mr John Chesbrow, Mrs. John, and family came in on Saturday's train from Calgary to spend Christmas with the folk. Johnny is doing well in the big city and naturally loves it.

With quite an epidemic of measles in town and country, Gadsby school is not very popular as to beginning of the week. The pupils, especially the younger ones, have this with Christmas anticipations but when it was found necessary to cancel the annual Christmas entertainment, that was a bad blow. Probably the event may be pulled off later on and give the youngsters who had songs and pieces all ready a chance to deliver them.

Gadsby Ladies' Aid had a very successful and useful year in 1923. Last year's financial statement and the note received for the repairs to the church, the total of which was $1,200, were all cleared off, and a start for accumulated interest on the mortgage commenced to $200 and now they are tackling the mortgagee itself so their object for 1924. One of the ways they have contributed to the fund is a regular series of Afternoon Socials where there will be some form of entertainment and tea will be served. The first of these will be held at the home of Mrs. W. F. Lemaire on January 9th, 1924, and everybody should make arrangements to don't forget the Date, the Place, or the very worthy Cause for which it is given.

The Rev Mr. Powell, superintendent of Missions for Alberta, was the speaker at church on Sunday morning, combining a Missionary with a Christmas service.

Let me remind our young folks of the U.F.A. Singing and Reciting Competition at the Gadsby Hall in next week's paper we hope to give full details of the various classes. The competition will take place before the end of January as expected.

Last Sunday night Walter Jensen, living 11 miles north and a little west of Halkirk, thought he would take a load of wheat into the Red Willow Mrs. Jensen was away, and the child had stopped, so decided to go with her husband. They got well rested up, it being Sunday, and getting up from their slumbers about 5 a.m. on Monday morning, and was ready to start for town. Walter went to the stable for the horses and the hamess hanging on the wall. It was Monday morning, and was only used by the horses on Wednesday and Saturday. Walter thought he would take the harness hanging there, but his horses let on the hoss, but they made themselves quite evident to the careful reader. They were:

(1) That the stories are exaggerated.

(2) That the farmer has made a lot of money.

Farmers Puts Money Into Circulation

Both of these suppositions are wrong. It is true Alberta has grown the most wonderful crop in history and when the real truth is known the yield will surprise the world. The farmer has not made a lot of money out of the bumper crop. He has put the money in circulation. Of course, it would be ridiculous to imagine that Walter and found the inhabitants thereof still wrapped in blankets, and the women folk in bed. The good woman—she had commenced on Monday—was busy with the breakfast, warmed up and wanted for the dawning of the day—which came at half-past nine—when Walter and husband were ready to start.

Walter, by the way, which came at Alberta's wonderful crop spread over to the state of Washington. The farmer near Spokane heard about it. His name was Mr. Hickey. He read a few 30-bushel-to-the-acre yields and he set out for Alberta, determined to look into matters for himself. When he got there, he intended to buy a farm in Alberta.

Mr Bashey visited Vulcan, about 100 miles south of Calgary, and it was

Alberta's Fine Weather

Reports of visitors who have come to Alberta to live during the past year are due to the fine weather conditions which have prevailed in this province during the year. Many of these people have come from eastern Canada and the United States, where the winters are much more severe than in Alberta. Many of these people have written back to their friends telling them of the fine weather conditions which they have experienced in Alberta during the past year. Reports from the Canadian National Railways indicate that the number of settlers coming into Alberta during the month of December will be considerably greater than for the same month in any previous year. The fine weather conditions have undoubtedly been responsible for a large number of these settlers coming to Alberta.

GADSBY NEWS

The correspondent is occupying the last hours of 1925 in attempting to gather a few local items for the "Independent." As a rule there are few hospitals chronicled on any depot ing year though having been in this country long enough to "fit it will probably go down in history as the year of the "Big Crop" in Alberta. Its results will probably establish a record for wild and gushing statements which will be subject to cut ting down, particularly threshing to go by the grain elevators. Some of the local grain hustling to be done on the part of truck and waggon owners during the rest of trade and weather permitting. But for the car shortage many of the grain would now be safely stored in the elevators. There is also unsettled blessings for which we, the people of Gadsby, should be thankful. Prices for farm products have been very low in comparison with the cost of production and, even with the biggest of crops, there will be very little left over. We have, on the other hand, an abundance of food of all kinds, a satisfactory degree of health and good cheer to make winter as agreeable as any other period named and full plenitude. A great deal of money will be put into circulation in the form of building, erection of new homes and stores, and the several years of steady development in the district will be continued. From our standpoint and we will enter 1926 with many hope and confidence than we have had for a long time. We believe that the farming industry and the best times of the country in general, is in line for a general advance along the line of progress which during the last few years has been somewhat delayed. Let us be optimistic about the future. We have a great country. May we be patient and prosperous in 1926. A happy New Year to all.

Mr. Charles Anderson was made the happy recipient of a fine gramophone by his wife and family on Christmas day. We are glad, too, to hear that Mrs. Anderson is on a mend and hope to see her around in the near future.

The Gadsby Ladies "Hiding Bee" for 1925, held at the home of Mrs. Ward on Wednesday, January 6th, at 2 p.m., for the election and election of officers for the ensuing year, which I surprised. Mrs. Mc. H. Anderson; S. W., Mrs. F. Turner; J. W., Mr. Robert Kaser; Treas., Mrs. Ed. Moore; Sec., Mrs. Mc. D. Dickenson; D. D., Mr. W. C. Ward; D. D. M., Mrs. Chas. Ward; A. D., Mr. Henry Bruvel; J. S., Mr. Chas. Ward; A. D. M., Mrs. Ed. Moore; Chr. Ex. Com., Mrs. Ward. The installation of officers elected at the next meeting of Mrs. W. F. Osborne has been postponed to the meeting on Wednesday 20th, 1926. Keep the date in mind, and remember that there will be a good time.

Mr. Gust Anderson is very fond of sweet pork. With a view to enjoying his favorite dish at Christmas he added the owner of a fine hairy pig, dressed it neatly and carcassed it in readiness for the feast but found he was cut off during the night. Next morning he prepared to rely on the next convenient porcine and went to get the animal but found someone had beaten him to it. Gust is now very fond of sweet pork. Mrs. Ward is having a building erected on her property which will be occupied by Mr. Ward's brother, Mr. Chas. Ward, who has been living with them.

We note the attention of the Gadsby Ladies to the notice of their meeting to be held on January 20th. The committee hope all school members and parents will take an interest in this competition and encourage the young people to take part.

The U.F.A. Caucus

The U.F.A. caucus met in the Court House on Thursday morning, the 28th, to the following: Thursday afternoon. Though the Liquor Control Bill was the chief topic, the forthcoming legislative program of the government for 1926 was also discussed at length in the third sitting. Premier Greenfield and a number of the members of the government for 1926 were also discussed at length in the Tax Recovery and numerous other bills. It was learned that the government plans a much more extensive road building programme for 1926 than was carried out last year; also that it has arranged to carry out the road work on the proposals of the federal government for the turning over of the natural resources to the province that the Tax Recovery Act will be amended to permit further time for mortgagees, and that important amendments will be made to the Minor Vehicle Act including one requiring an examination of all car drivers before a license is issued.

It was the Liquor Control Act, however, which occupied the major time of the session. Here the government went up against the fact that fully three-fifths of the membership of its party have been prohibitionists of all long-standing. Though the majority of these were unreceptive that they had changed their views or altered their feelings, and dwelt the last possible act to meet the requirements of the province, a considerable minority, perhaps a third of the caucus, were in favor of a complete change from the Prohibition Act to the Liquor Control Act. After the ceremony the party proceeded to the friend's parents' home where a wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Voyey will make their home in the Edith community where Mr. Voyey will engage in farming. Both are a young people are well known in the Bolin and Zenith communities and a host of friends extend congratulations and best wishes.

PROTECT THE LAWN IN WINTER

(Experimental Farms Note)

During the winter the area which in summer is a lush green carpet in front of the house is often abused, frequently it is not only neglected but maltreated. Occupants of the house and passers-by alike seem to be prone to remind themselves that the straight line is the shortest distance between two points" and often they accommodate to distance travelled at the expense of the lawn.

A well-beaten path needs nerve, the lawn in winter will probably keep a permanent damage. The grass may be killed and the soil so compacted that grass seed sown thereon the next season will not thrive. Bush a path is all generally be obvious for a number of years. A "new path" is distinctly an unattractive feature on a lawn. The lawn size of summer, "Keep off the Paths that are Made etc." may well be heeded throughout the year.

Another sure agent to a lawn is to flood it in the form of making a toboggan slide. Lawns are over the country are to obvious certain to be partially killed this year. The grass will not tolerate a long time a covering which prevents movement of air.

Young lawns should have a covering of snow. A wind-swept lawn blown free of snow in winter, is likely to lose much of its young shoots. Brush opened about tends to defend the wind and holds the snow.

DAIRYING IN WESTERN CANADA

In the rapid census and economic growth which is taking place in the provinces in Western Canada, dairying is assuming a very important role. Not only is it becoming a very considerable industry in itself, but it is the basic industry for almost all mixed farming operations. Dairying is the best method of maintaining the fertility of the soil, and the keeping of dairy cows is the best method of disposing of coarse grains, hay and roughage grown on the farm. In Alberta in the year 1921 there were over 11 million pounds of butter and separated cream sold, in addition to the amount used on the farms. In Saskatchewan there were over 7 million pounds sold, and in Manitoba over 5 million pounds. Dairy experts were confident that 1,000,000 pounds more could be sold in Alberta in 1923, during a period when separated cream was almost unsaleable. In the year 1921 there were 1,000,000 more dairy cows in Canada than in the United States, although the latter has a population of over 11 times that of Canada. Canadian cheese has long had a reputation for excellence, and during the year 1921 there were exported from Canada 40,000,000 pounds of cheese, or over three times the amount exported from the United States

GADSBY NEWS

The Ladies' Curling Club met on Friday afternoon and evening and enjoyed a most interesting and exciting session on Friday evening, 11th inst., commencing at 6 p.m., in their rink. The club Council have put the last instalment of their debentures indebtedness off the books by the voluntary contributions of the members, and the club is now entirely free of debt. On Friday night there were present every member of the club, and they all took a hand in the game carrying the home banner up. It is hoped the ice conditions will be perfected by the coming Wednesday afternoon. A good annual competition on the handsome trophy will commence, and there will be some good curling and finish up with a banquet. It is to be a regular free-for-all and will promise a treat. This is sure to be a busy curling season, and it is the desire to promote the sociability of the game. We congratulate the ladies upon the splendid way they have started off this year, which very much credit to the whole club. They have shown that with a careful, business-like control and now the citizens may the benefit. Th Councillor H. J. Saunders, who has been the treasurer, is due the thanks of the members, and it was fitting that he should be elected for another term of office and hear the job he has done. The Council now a paid few years and has always given the assistance of some or another his time and energy. The next town or village in Alberta can do no better than follow Gadsby's example in this respect. It is unique. It is fitting we should all be on hand to help celebrate worthily this great occasion and should our representatives pass a good time present for their splendid service.

The opinions of members has mostly run in one way, only two or three noted have voiced dissent. Messrs Vern and Frank Anderson, who only arrived from Vancouver on Christmas Eve have both commented. Miss Vera has joined the ranks of the Gadsby Institute of Domestic Duty as assistant to Mrs. Rushton's domestic staff. Miss Vera says she should have no room here for any more girls, they were full all right right. It is very regrettable to know that we have our eyes opened to the fact that Gadsby is the only girl that, Stettler, daughter of the Hon. Duncan Marshall, lives in Gadsby. The house is being carefully superintended and we hope its more comfort to another member to would be regarded from the centre. Things could not be kind to commit murder, as Gadsby is not yet equipped with the lighter accommodation. Murder and robbery were not their sole occupations. When their services were engaged in these questions they were usually attended to within the limit of 24 hours and nothing an example to their neighbours. Their charges were moderate, and were taxes than any other district in the community because they were wealthy. Their wealth was due to the interest their wealth was more than balanced by assessment. Their wealth might have proved disastrous against the likelihood.

The staff of Things was hereditary and had the most ideal to well as a part of doing which made it possible for Things' predecessors to be appointed to commissionerships with each other in the district. There were several degrees in the appointments of commissioner among Things because a great brilliancy of many of their victims. After that he was given a grave digging for the dead. He always buried their victims, after maintaining them up that their inability might be concealed. The third grade was composed of those who had not yet taken murderer it was to hold the hands and feet of the victims while they were being murdered. The last graduate was the hardest, or strongest. The Things had a particular way of killing their victims. They were hung from the ceiling by the feet on the funeral scene; therefore there were no clothings or stockings. They operated with a long knife. It was used to cut open their bellies at each end. The would be hurled at the victim, and the knife would a cap it round his throat so that the body would fall apart in two pieces. Of course the murder would be committed by a short factor, or by a thin strap of hide.

But Europeans were never attached, because they were not interested in little money or journeys, and, what is significant, their disappearance would cause the Government to think. British became interested when Indian officers and soldiers on leave from their regiments failed to return. In 1911 a gang was broken up, arrested, and proved the existence of Thuggee. The Viceroy began a campaign for their extermination. He induced the native States to co-operate. Hardly willing prisoners were found. Confessions were illustrated, in 1924, when 1,562 Thugs were arrested, sentenced his right to give them asylum. The Viceroy explained the

Botha News

The second concert given by the band on Sunday evening last was greatly appreciated and enjoyed. The band is making marked progress in their work. They are rendering first-class music for outside events.

Mrs. P. Easton returned from a visit to friends in the States on Monday evening.

There has been a great exodus of homeseekers from the Botha community, most of late. Mrs. Don Hennes has gone to the Western States, also Mrs. Harry Forbes, Mrs. Harry Everett is in Ohio. All of these left on Monday morning a train, others who went have already been mentioned.

The Xenith community is "booming" a range of the moment. Several land claims have been homesteaded.

The High School concert and dance held here on Friday evening last was a success. Mr. Ellis, inspector, was present and gave a splendid address; Irvin Eberhardt, Miss Rosemary Thomson, Misses Ruth and Dorothy Warne, Messrs. Elmer and Clair Atwood, Warne Empey, Sub-Editor, Mildred Harrison, Wheeler Carter and Robert Friend were chosen as Pupils to form a committee for two weeks. Each succeeding two weeks a new committee of three will be appointed by the president of the Club.

WINTERING BROOD SOWS

(Experimental Farms Note)

It can easily be seen in a few brood sows in a shelterable condition throughout the winter and have them farrow early in the year and raise their pigs in large healthy litters, how-ever, have seen many cases where the owner absolutely overlooked that the reason why so many thousands of young pigs die is because of faulty methods of shelter for the sow, or both.

Elaborate pig pens have been built on many farms throughout Western Canada, but in general every one they have been abandoned as winter quarters for brood sows because such buildings become damp, the soil becomes frosted, the sows develop rheumatism and the pigs are born dead or very weak. The under hair does not grow well on a farrowing pen for about four weeks but experiments at the Experimental Farm, Lacombe have shown that it is hardened up by the presence of farrows all over the body. Provided that a person can secure the best winter shelter for the brood sow and she is ready to farrow. With a straw stack for shelter some distances from the feed, she will have no trouble and success.

—Another important consideration in the care of the brood sow is the ration. When we consider that the prospective mother is developing and nourishing a litter of young animals requiring material for both muscle and bone and that the grain as commonly fed to sows in the winter time contains an insufficient quantity of minerals and phosphates to supply these needs, it is little wonder that so many sows and their litters are "off-colour". A sow can obtain the mineral requirements from hay, but neither raw nor cooked can eat enough grain to supply them to the unborn young. A mineral supplement is, therefore, necessary. This may be very conveniently supplied in the form of a mixture of hydrated lime, bone meal, salt and wood ashes. A mixture of this placed in a strong box available for the use of the sows makes a great difference in the strength of their young.

In districts where goiter or baldness is prevalent it is said to be prevented for it by feeding the brood sows from 2 to 3 grains of sodium iodide daily in their feed. A convenient means of feeding this is said to be bone meal, 1 lb.; sodium iodide or tonic of a solution of potassium iodide 15 grains; water 1 pint. Two ounces contains the required dose. Feed an ounce of this daily in the feed of the sow. Soon using the mineral feeds as above outlined there has been no trouble with goiter reported in the Southern Station with young pigs suffering from baldness or from paralysed legs.

Representatives of Association of German Emigrants Meet Officials of Board of Trade

The executive of the Board of Trade held a meeting in Bentley's office on Tuesday evening when they were entertained by four gentlemen who were passing through the district in the interest of the Association of German Emigrants. These were Dr. Bernier, manager of the Association, Mr. Wilhelm Kaiger, general representative of the Scandinavian Line, John Schreiber, of the Canadian and Development Department of the C.N.R.; and Mr. Hahn, representative of the Canard Line, the two latter being located at Winnipeg.

An outline of the work these men are connected with is given below, and it will be seen that there many favorable references from newspaper in Europe and the United States. They emphasize the fact that only emigrants who have been accepted to meet the requirements of Immigration Act of 1923 will be given land, and they have now a list of German girls, who wish to emigrate and take positions in domestic service, and also men with matrimony in view as the ultimate object. The executive of the Board of Trade has an interesting interview with the gentlemen, and will take up their proposition at the regular meeting of the Board. The following is a summary of the proposition they are engaged upon:

The Treaty of Versailles has cut off the territory of formerly Germany's most valuable grain and cattle raising districts, and has practically stripped her pre-war resources. There is about 14 per cent of the population which was land farming purposes. There are, however, about 40 per cent of the population to be settled on the land. It was able to do so before the war, and if people have had even before the war Germany had to import 10 per cent of her food, the population increased from 120 people per square kilometre up to 135 here.

These are the plain facts and reasons why the German population is emigrating in an increasing manner. To help out the situation the majority of Germans who are willing to leave their country have made up an Association of German Emigrants. This organization was built up by Voluntary Contributions and is working on co-operative principles. The main purpose of this Association is to give its members all reliable information regarding countries where the people can emigrate to, and further to pay special attention that its members shall not have a wrong conception about their future and to make them understand that emigrating from Germany means the same as one has to start all hard work mostly without good results right away. Only those are received in this Association who are at least six months on the list before they, starting for outside countries. In these six months the management of the Association are in position through their 32 subcommissions all over Germany, to find out whether these people are good farmers and in this case the right people to emigrate to Canada. This is the reason that people of this Association coming out to Canada will be successful farmers in a few years' time

Dr Spethar, the Manager of this Association, is a German nobleman who was living on the American continent for many years, and is well posted so far as emigration to the West Lake School District and the Smiley School District, suggesting that the matter be looked into.

The Sec. Treas. was instructed to write to the Secretary of the Municipal District of Wainwright, in the matter further with the Department.

ing colonies in Canada, giving all kinds of explanation regarding the conditions the people are up against in the old home. The main purpose of their immediate trip is to find out the best location for settling in Canada, so as the Canadians not have with them any undesirable people. They are also the representative of the Canard Line for a new regular steamship service from Montreal to the Liverpool.

Mr. Wilhelm Kaiger, Director of the Association, at Winnipeg, Manager and General Representative of the Canard Line, is also the representative of the Canard Line for a new regular steamship service from Montreal to the Liverpool.

Dr. Bernier and Mr. Wilhelm Kaiger are making now a trip of investigation through the Canadian West. They gentlemen are holding meetings, giving explanations about the emigration question in Germany of to-day, in language the Canadians understand. DAIRY

Dairy Progress

The dairy industry of Alberta is making steady progress. The dairy factories manufacture into cheese and butter the surplus milk and cream produced by 40,000 farmers in an annually increasing volume.

There are 74 creameries in operation this year and it is estimated that they will have a combined output of 16,000,000 pounds of butter as compared with 15,117,870 pounds manufactured by the 64 creameries operating last year; 93 per cent of the butter was made north and 10 per cent south of Red Deer.

The 14 cheese factories that are now running will, it is estimated, produce 1,500,000 pounds of cheese as compared with the 931,000 pounds turned out by a similar number of plants last year. This will mean an increase of over 60 per cent in the cheese output.

A correspondent takes objection to the statement that a debate is a form of amusement, that is, admits that the debater pleases to hold a political meeting and states that the debater holds a serious view of the subject he is to debate, but not necessarily that he is convinced of the correctness of the views he may be called upon to support. Well, we would contend a political meeting held by a church society would be a form of amusement, and many times they don't believe in the views they are called upon to support, either. There is no reflection on the debater.

Would not the election be quite a novelty if the name of Premier Mackenzie King could be left off the ballot paper? Or would that be a reflection on the province of Quebec?

This Creek with most of us is that we put too much trust in ourselves and think that the way to succeed is by strong individualism and personal effort. A little co-operation would help us a lot. Take the farmers for instance. They have to be content with what they get for their grain, and they have to buy what they need at the prices fixed by others. Co-operation would help them a lot. Then there is the consumer always in the hands of the profiteer and the combine. Co-operation would help him a lot. Then there is the unemployed problem. Co-operation would help to solve that. Co-operation is the only way that we can get out of the mess we are in. Co-operation is the only way that we can get out of the mess we are in. It is not true that a multiplicity of commodities makes a reduction of prices impossible in the long run. A multiplicity of supplies reduced all values, or is the multiplicity in evidence?

We are sorry to learn that the Stick-Bobbleigh boy is not keeping until better. It was unfortunate that he should take sore-throat also, and made it impossible for Mrs. Bobbleigh to take home Bobbleigh's medicine. Everyone has any fears and is very sorry for the boy.

Mr. Gowell called on Miss Shaw, who has the record of the longest residence in Gadsby. The question was necessary of learning the famous description, which she did very efficiently after making a few appropriate remarks. "God Save the King" followed and the first part of the program. The floor was cleared for a dance, and after a short interval supper was served. An abundance of sandwiches, cake and coffee was on hand, enough to satisfy everybody, even our highest capacity stood the test. The whole evening was in good form and helped to add to the enjoyment. Everybody had a big time and the committee are to be congratulated on the successful celebration of the forty-second anniversary.

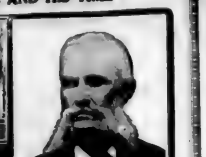
MAJOR ROGERS AND HIS TIME



(1) Major Rogers, first to ride horse to Winnipeg from Edmonton. (2) Major Rogers as he appeared in 1885. (3) Major A. B. Rogers, who discovered the Rogers Pass, as he appeared when he returned from Ottawa to the Pacific Coast.

OUT of the most difficult fields of Canadian railway construction, through the Rocky Mountains of British Columbia, Major A. B. Rogers made a name for himself that will live as long as the Dominion exists. It was he who discovered the most feasible pass and it was through it that the Canadian Pacific Railway was built.

Major Rogers was a true type of the pioneer. He was born in Ireland but came to the United States as a boy. He received a good education and after engineering experience obtained the position of railway construction engineer for the Northern Pacific Railway. He was offered, who resigned how to take charge of the building of the railway and to survey Perry's Perry in B.C., to Moose Jaw. He did so and the survey was completed in a fortnight. Major Rogers was then appointed chief engineer of the Columbian Railway Company and for two hundred miles of the route he was by helicopter. Major Rogers left the Columbian Railway to be present one of the Glacier House, where he resided a number and gained upon the summit of the pass which bears his name. Major Rogers seems to have been a man of action. The reports remain that beyond the retirement of his engineering duties he was also one of the most magnificent specimens developed by the Canadian West. He survived old age, and was for the first time by a white man.

WORLD PAYS FINE TRIBUTE TO A GREAT NATION BUILDER

Passing of Lord Shaughnessy Calls Forth Expressions of Admiration as a Railroad Builder and Man of Affairs—Tributes From Men of Prominence in Canada's Commercial Life in the Railroad He Helped to Its Zenith

The late Right Honorable Lord Shaughnessy, First Baron Shaughnessy, of Montreal, Quebec, and Ashford, Limerick, Ireland, LL.D., D.C.L.

ON December 10th, at Montreal, there died the man who, more than any other, was responsible for the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the strong backbone of Canada's transportation system. Lord Shaughnessy has been a very prominent figure in the commercial life of Canada for many years, and his passing away will be mourned by many. Lord Shaughnessy has been a very prominent figure in the commercial life of Canada for many years, and his passing away will be mourned by many. Lord Shaughnessy has been a very prominent figure in the commercial life of Canada for many years, and his passing away will be mourned by many.

The details of Lord Shaughnessy's truly wonderful career have been recapitulated so often of late that there is little need to run over them here. Born in 1853, at Limerick, of Irish ancestry he studied for the arts but left school at the age of seventeen to enter the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, where he rose by the usual stages to the chair of the agent, and it was many years prior to the Canadian Pacific Railway was organized that Mr. William Van Horne induced him to accept the position of assistant to the general manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway. It was there he organized the system that was to do so much with the Chinese. Between 1881 and 1883 he occupied the position of Canadian Pacific Railway, and in 1883 he was appointed to the position of General Manager. Again promotion followed, and in 1891 he was appointed to the position of Vice President, and in 1898 the position of President. This position he held until 1918, when he retired to accept the chairmanship of the Board of Directors, which he retained to the end. Honors of his death while many honors in 1901, he was created a Knight Commander of the Victorian Order and in 1916 a Baron and high honors came in the many civil organizations in which he was associated.

Lord Shaughnessy was a man of virile personality and a great builder, and he was a great executive. Without fear and without favor he was a great executive. Without fear and without favor he was a great executive. Without fear and without favor

CANADIANS AND THE NEW YEAR

(Week's Free Press, Winnipeg)

Here and there across the country the question is of vital interest to every man, woman and child in the country. It bears not on any one means of livelihood to dig out on the whole future of the country. There are ills in the country which it would be foolish to deny or ignore. But they are merely evanescent ills and therefore ills of the hour which are not responsible if the spirit is within. The path of better days will be found by a clear recognition of the troubles that beset us and a resolute searching for the source of these troubles.

There is no question that the greatest source of trouble for Canadians to-day is lack of sheer national respect. On the one side we have an unbridled depressionist, a shrewd down on material progress and prosperity, an unspeakable pessimism, and an unimaginative position.

On the other side of the book we have one of the largest and richest areas of territory in the world; we have rich farm lands, fine cities, enterprises and well equipped railways, mines and forests. We have an intelligent and industrious people. We have a good standard of living. Looking around the world we find that Canada in this respect is among the most favored of the nations.

Still we have that Canadians are not satisfied, that many are failing to find employment and are leaving the country to earn a living elsewhere. The loss of the—ers citizens at a time when the country needs them more than at any time in its history is a matter that calls for the most serious consideration. What can we do during 1924 to change the course of the flowing tide?

Economic conditions are more favorable, statesmen everywhere are clearer than ever before in their views of the problems of the day. The world is not in a position to progress as rapidly as we could wish, but it is in a position out of the country. And the Canadian people must be put into the things that will mean re-employment, increased production and a greater volume of business.

Most good business men realize that absence of doubt, mismanagement and dishonesty are the great evils of individual finance.

U.F.A. CONVENTION

Provincial Bank Defended—Long Term Rural Credits Favored

In the Burnham's efforts to bank in Provincial bank established, and the first farmers' office of the U.F.A. failed at the Edmonton convention last week.

A statement was put before the convention showing not all the benefits the directors of the Provincial Bank have received from the government. The Government's approval to the bank was secured by the U.F.A. It was stated that the Provincial Bank would not deal with the question of financial reform in a Provincial way, and that a complete record have to be handed over to the bank. It added that any advantages which were attributed to a Provincial bank by its supporters ought to be brought by the resolution of the annual chartered bankers.

Rural Credits Favored

The convention were with approbation were being held by the Dominion Government in the matter of intermediate and long term credits for the farming community. The Dominion Government has indicated its willingness to co-operate in starting out matters in that field and has been privileged to confer useful recommendations. The Government has been at this time, and the matter mentioned, it can make no land out with loans for a term of years. Further efforts to procure the passage of legislation in this regard is hopeful that in the very near future, after many years from the present Dominion session, it will be able to bring into effect a system of practical long-term credit schemes.

President Ward, Mr. Wm. [illegible], M.P., and other leaders addressed the Provincial bank meeting.

Soldier Problems

Delegates to the United Farmers of Alberta convention this morning passed on record as strongly in favor of soldier settlement, and urged that the suffering, according to the war of the indebtedness of returned soldiers to the Soldiers' Settlement Board was urged by unanimous vote. It was recommended that they be given a rate of 5 per cent in the calculation of their land, for a period of ten and 16 per cent in compound to take effect on such land purchase to and including 1931.

A resolution was also passed that [illegible] soldiers have every opportunity to secure land on under the new Act.

Why Ford Predominates

Low First Cost

The low price of Ford cars and trucks has been one of the great dynamic forces in the development of motor transportation.

Since January 1920 the average price of Ford products has dropped 38%, and Ford prices are now the lowest in the history of the industry.

Add to this Ford price reduction the constant and [illegible] economies and delights of owning an automobile; the merchant and manufacturer extend their business into new and profitable fields by means of motor delivery; the farmer carries his fresh produce to the markets with ease. All of the old-time hardship and delay—and all for a very small initial investment.

Ten cent of every hundred dollars of Ford value goes to the public appreciation of Ford value.

THE pictures might almost be entitled "Ancient and Modern." It shows the "Stourbridge Lion" locomotive, which was imported from England in 1829, and one of the new Pacific type locomotives which have been placed in commission by the Canadian Pacific Railway on all main lines, and which are chiefly responsible for the company's "no time" record in service. The Canadian Pacific Railway have now practically adopted this design for their heavy main line service, as representing the most desirable and efficient locomotive for economy and reliability of service on this particular design reduces to a minimum, consistent with safety, the weight per driving wheel which is essential for reliability of service under the most exacting and severe conditions.

With surrendure the first industry of Canada and keep to remain so, the farmer is a backbone of the country, the sustenance in the Dominion of Canada life and the better farmer is the greater the benefit to the country. His sons and dai. s are the future growers and farmers' wives of to-morrow and on their education in early life of the most important problems of the country. To keep the children of the farm on the land, a love of the farm and all that pertains to it must be instilled in early years, and so it is intended that the boys and girls who attend the Short Courses at Olds in each district shall be given a practical training in the principles of agriculture in a manner suitable to their years and understanding. Lectures are given, but the student is taught by practical demonstration. Boys are taught how to judge stock, how to feed and care for them, how to grow grain and how to judge it. Girls are taught cooking, sewing, dairying and poultry raising.

Chateau Frontenac Team Leader's Long Journey

Wemyss, veteran leader, leading the team, outside Chateau Frontenac hotel, Quebec.

A breath from the freezing tundra of the Canadian Arctic, with snow-clinging of its handlers, its no-sayer attitude and its unconquerable spirit, the dog-team of the north is the last of the romantic links of the long trails are fast disappearing before the motor car and the airplane.

But in the Province of Quebec, the dog-team still holds sway, and the Chateau Frontenac hotel, at Quebec, is the last stopping place of the dog-team drivers who bring their loads from the north. Here they are purchased, by Quebec, a dozen of them every year, and are put to work as scenic and extraordinary attractions for the guests of the hotel. Every Dog and Wyemss, the trusted and beloved officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who has charge of which he and not his much money as he is interested in a team of his own, and has a kennel of his favorite breed. He made friends with the huskies on his many trips north by part with his dogs. At Montreal, he had a dog's team, and there all over a month each year in order to keep in touch with the latest developments in the dog-breeding world. He has been known to travel to be the best way of conducting such an enterprise. Wemyss also has a kennel of huskies at his home in Montreal

THINGS WE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

How About Telephone Calls?

Although we have nothing but regret for the resignation of the local telephone manager, we are of the opinion that the provincial government is making low enough wages to attract suitable men to fill the position. We are of the opinion that a private utility could be run at quite a private utility cost paid for by all the people.

Acting from observations from the provincial department the local has put the system of cutting off subscribers' services to a fine art and if another mistake were used in a private business a form of that kind would not exist as such.

The following is one of several cases. The "Inconvenient" has been a subscriber to the provincial telephone ever since its inception and for fifteen years we have paid the monthly accounts without trouble of any kind. Recently, however, we have been cut off twice as short intervals. Last week, on Jan. 25th, we were cut off at 5 p.m., on the day we were supposed to pay it, and on Saturday, Jan. 26th, we received a notice that we had until 9 o'clock on the following Monday to pay the account. We made several attempts to get in touch with the exchange operator to settle affidavit, yet even under the best of circumstances there is always a time when the service is unsatisfactory. At other times it leaves much to be desired. The subscriber in fact leaves how to give and take, and the provincial might well follow the same rule in their dealings with the public. The subscriber should have a longer period to pay than a town subscriber, but if a rule must be established it should apply impartially in all cases.

DONALDA

We welcome the bright warm days of a returning January. The winter will be over before we realize it and the month and the hamlet of spring will be here to help us to forget the very last of the haunted season.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. G. Hamilton and Mrs. W. Mackenzie are improving from their severe attacks of La Grippe.

The Donalda hockey team, is a fast team and they certainly went after the puck in the match against Stettler on the 25th inst. The latter team was defeated by the score of 7 to 2.

Gadsby's junior lacrosse team are going round on their boots these days. Success attended They beat their old rivals from Stettler by 1 a less Butler day It was a hard game all through but Gadsby got the scorsier just 1 minute from time A good game was the result for the season, who seem to have gone to sleep.

Ronald Stillings was a Gadsby visitor at the week-end.

Rumour has it that Jim Rish has disposed of his machinery business and agencies to Mr Robert Reed. We are sorry to lose Jim, but Mr. Reed will build up a fine business there and behind the baby boat in. Mr. Reed, who is ex- old friend R. S. of town, should be a good man to take up this important position.

Mr Allen passes has had to install a new heater in the hotel, the old one giving considerable trouble. For one thing the new one has not got such a glorious tone to it. This heater will be much appreciated by guests and boarders who live in it.

Gadsby U.F.A. had a very good meeting on Wednesday to hear the report of the delegates to the Edmonton convention. Considerable interest was taken in the show The members showed a very keen interest in the report given by C. H. Bateman and added a good few members during the evening. Another meeting is probable of the local organization to elect and to now attend the 10 mark.

SUCCESSFUL INDIAN FARMING

Indians of Three Provinces Produce Record Crop of 1,000,000 Bushels

The Indians of the three provinces produced the greatest crop in their history.

According to the annual report from the head office in Regina, the total grain crop was 1,000,000 bushels an increase of more than half a million bushels over the 1922 crop.

In the three provinces the Indians harvested 626,001 bushels of wheat, 374,286 bushels of oats and 53,256 bushels of barley. The report shows they raised 64,354 bushels of potatoes and 10,000 bushels of other vegetables.

They cultivated 16,000 acres of land; broke 5,000 more; put up 97,000 tons of hay and fenced 1,000 acres.

Besides producing a very large number of cattle, most of which are their own beef requirements, the Indians now own 30,000 head of cattle, a normal increase of 2,000 head over the figure for 1922, and they own 15,000 horses.

The report shows the Alberta reserves to have yielded an exceedingly heavy crop of excellent quality. On the other hand, Saskatchewan, with a heavier acreage did not yield so well owing to adverse conditions during the crop season in the southern part of the province.

"Miss America" Declares Tanlac Wonderful Health Giving Tonic

Miss Mary Katherine Campbell, twice proclaimed "Miss America," has taken TANLAC and endorses it in a statement recently given to the owners of America through International Preparations, Inc., distributors of this great tonic. In this statement Miss America declares that Nuga-Tone is the limit of all tonics, and advises women who would be manifold in "Their final good health."

Her complete statement as given is as follows: "I consider it a great privilege to be able to tell the thousands of women everywhere what a great tonic TANLAC is. Health is the basis of all beauty. Without good health, one is apt to be run down, nervous, unloveable, high-strung, attacks indigestion drives the rose from a woman's cheeks and robs her of that natural quality of womanhood that is real beauty.

"I have taken TANLAC and I do not hesitate to say that it is a wonderful health-building tonic. It has brought relief and good health to many women, and with good health one may have a measure of beauty that will overcome shortcomings in face and figure.

"Every obsolete, sparkling eyes, a well-rounded figure, a lovable disposition, go hand in hand with good health. To those searching for beauty I say: "First of all, Find Good Health." The TANLAC treatment has proved itself a boon to womankind, and I recommend it."

Miss Campbell has written a booklet on Health and Beauty which may be secured by filling out the coupon below.

The evening throughout was a most enjoyable one, the time being filled with the games and down to a sumptuous supper at midnight, when the honor host Mr and Mrs. Wroth Hash delightfully entertained the company with the usual good cheer. During the evening a little surprise was arranged by the boys in ceremony conducted by Rev. Empey. Mrs. Price acted as bridesmaid and Mr. Wells supported the groom. Aspiring Ferguson and Olive Graves were the flower girls. Mr and Mrs. Greene were the recipients of many valuable gifts. The company broke up on a late hour, wishing the happy couple many happy returns of the day. The guests were: Mr. Wells, Mr. Graves' mother; Mrs. Price of Calgary, a sister of Mrs. Greene; Mr. Wells and daughter of Botha; Mrs. Hardman, Mr and Mrs. McArthur and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, of Stettler; Mr and Mrs. Kenney, Mr and Mrs. Jack Ferguson, Mr and Mrs. Wroth Hash, Mr and Mrs. Empey, of Botha. Stettler Poultry Show Held Seventh Annual Exhibition and Maintains High Record

The 7th annual Poultry Show was held on Wednesday and Thursday, January 23rd and 24th, and was one of the most successful of the many [illegible] held here. The Society [illegible] in short in [illegible] the Main Street [illegible] quarters are all that could be desired [illegible] of the accommodation. As a [illegible] year the show is a great success, when twenty years ago temperance [illegible] had difficulty in getting [illegible] accommodation of the exhibitors, and some of them [illegible] chickens to keep [illegible] hand with their exhibits.

The poultry industry is just at its infancy in the district, and poultry men are taking the matter up in a [illegible] way, and [illegible] have an annual show for educational purposes. All the noted poultry raisers were in evidence at their show, and even if they don't sup all the prize they get enough enjoyment out of raising good poultry to make the undertaking worth while in itself as a side line or as a business.

An encouraging feature of the show was the large number of entries in the display, containing [illegible] Mr. Hancock, of Innisfail, and Mr. Robert Laird Wyndham's which were [illegible] Mr. Hancock, of Red Deer, has a fine strain of small game and Brown Leghorns. Mrs. Holt, of his locality, has fine pens of Light Brahmas and she was also in evidence as in former years with her Ducks, cleaning up all prizes in that department. Mr. Nicholls, of Big Valley, raised some fine Buff Orpingtons, whose Mr. Gibson, of Carseland, was also in evidence. The total [illegible] $2,264.00, was written [illegible] the [illegible] $1,200.00 was [illegible] P.P. [illegible] which were not collected [illegible] Mr. Gibson, referring to [illegible] the financial interest the rate the show [illegible] while for Ducks, Geese, Turkeys and specimen pens for [illegible] of course [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Rapid Headway Now Being Made in the Scientific World

We are making headways in the scientific world. It seems but yesterday that we first heard of wireless and a boat to the stay-at-homes, and that we all rushed for a listening-in set. How lately there is talk of sending by wireless. H. Edouard Belin, the eminent French scientist and inventor, lecturing at the Royal Society of Arts remarked that "television," which is a method of seeing objects at a great distance by means of wireless telegraphy, is not looked upon as possible, and tomorrow will be one of the realities of our time. Already we are able to transmit photograph's, drawings, hand-writing and even short letters. Not long ago the French postal authorities are erecting stations fitted with apparatus for this purpose. One sometimes wonders what remarkable things it will be in the last of the next generation to enjoy, or trouble at!—Liverpool Weekly Post.

"Still Romantic"

His Majesty King George, on receiving the Canadian Press representatives at Buckingham Palace, remarked: "The road to Buckingham Palace must be kept, at the Prince of Wales' coach hog, 'romantic' for ceremonial purposes. Two famous five-per-cent boys a privilege kept alive by Queen Caldecott, the former one of Flying Joe and the latter a Barney Oldfield.

It is reported that the head of the tenth department of the Interior is to be Mr. Lapointe, the late Minister of Marine. Mr. Lapointe is a Liberal, and was from entire waste. The basis of the new rate will be 1½ cents per ton mile. The product wears well as ever, it is said, and take the day of 4½ cents per ton mile. The product wears well as ever, it is said, and take the day of 4½ cents per ton mile. The product wears well as ever, it is said, and take the day of 4½ cents per ton mile.

During the last fiscal year Canadian exports of tobacco amounted to $17,400,000, an increase of $1,000,000 over the previous year. The United States exported $133,726, the United Kingdom $3,514 and other countries $64,258. There are 153 tobacco factories in Canada, Quebec and Ontario being the principal producers.

Romance on grandeur the Canadian Pacific liner "Empress of Canada," sailing on A. J. Selby, agent on decontrast her right to the claims of "Queen of Paris" and "Queen of Sheba" in the matter of luxury. The largest class vessel ever to ply between Vancouver and the Orient, the new "Empress of Britain" is now on the Pacific and will leave on the 22nd.

The British Government is now issuing at Chatham the largest and most powerful under-water craft in the world. Its surface tons will displace 2,700 tons and when submerged 3,600 tons, both figures being 1,000 tons greater than that of the largest French submarine. With a twelve-inch gun the new submarine will be able to attack any object and then quickly disappear under water.

Bus Combine Problem

A pool combine, brought in America by Prince Felix Yussoupoff of Russia, and said to be the most perfectly managed thing in the world, and possibly part of the Russian Crown jewels, is now on view at the Peter Gorry, of Washington, for a price believed to be $400,000.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

IF YOU BUY OUT OF STETTLER AND WE BUY OUT OF STETTLER, WHAT IN THUNDER WILL BECOME OF STETTLER?

THE DOLLAR SPENT IN STETTLER WILL REMAIN "HOME TO BOOST"

FALSE ECONOMY HAS NO VALUE

Buying Cheap Goods Just Because They Are Cheap Does Not Pay—Quality Often Overlooked—Guidance Needs In Case of Doubt—Dealer Whose Goods Have Their Appeal Solely on Basis of Price

The man who buys the $3 shoes from the mail order house probably would not buy a $5 shoe from his home merchant; but at the latter case he would see that what he was buying and might realize that the shoes were made to sell for $3 and no more. He orders a $20 dress from the mail order house because he has any assurance that the store will meet his needs. He thinks he is making a good deal by buying the dress instead of paying $25 or $30 to the home merchant for one that he has seen and knows will give him satisfaction. The chances are that when the store arrives and he opens the box he will find that the dress is not what he thought it was going to be, and he will be disappointed in the transaction and for how he got a dress, but he got a dress that was guaranteed by the seller.

The mail order house, also, often fails to take the matter of transportation charges into consideration when making his purchase. He may only the price of the article as listed in the mail order catalogue and not add to that the cost of transportation. Then there is the item of money order and postage—not make the total cost of the article greater than the price at which the same thing could have been purchased at the home store. Another case of false economy.

Buying merchandise of poor quality because the price is less is often false economy when the purchase is made at home. How much better it is to deal with a merchant who has a small overhead expense because he has only a small stock of goods to handle. He can afford to sell you a better article at a low price, while the mail order house is compelled to charge what it can get.

IDEA IS EXPLODED

The idea that the mail order houses sell their wares at cheaper prices of goods at lower prices than the home merchants is worth a smile—and when one learns of the large profits that are made by the majority of the mail order houses the smile may grow rather expansive. The large mail order houses spend millions—thousands of dollars annually for advertising and the selling expenses of the mail order houses are necessarily large. They must add to the cost of the goods the price of the catalogue, the cost of postage, etc. The home merchant, in proportion to the size of his business, has a much smaller expense. The mail order house must pay for the cost of delivery of goods, sometimes for long distances. The home merchant has only to deliver goods to his customers, which is usually done by a boy. The mail order house must pay for the cost of the goods sold, which is usually done by a boy. The mail order house must pay for the cost of the goods sold, which is usually done by a boy.

The mail order houses have capitalized the desire to economize that is inherent in almost every one. By playing upon this desire they have created a reputation for themselves that is unwarranted. They have created a reputation for themselves that is unwarranted. They have created a reputation for themselves that is unwarranted.

Mr. and Mrs. Bee Starling left on Tuesday for Medicine Hats, where they will visit at the home of Mr Cora Starling, brother of Bee, and an old Gadsby resident. Mrs. Starling has not been as well as her friends could wish lately and during her stay there she will have the attendance of a very capable doctor whose reputation has already been built beyond the confines of Medicine Hat. We trust Mrs. Starling will come back quite her old self again.

Mr. Howard Parker had a short run up to Edmonton last week and managed to see the big Calgary-Edmonton hockey game. He says [illegible] with there so fine [illegible] season of December but how practically ended, about the last stated being made at the home of Philip Fox, 3 ½ of latter. Mr. L. L. Spidahl, who represents the McLeod Lumber Co. here as salesman, has returned from Drake where he was managing the local yard during Mr Bulcott's absence in the States.

Miss Jean McCracken celebrated her 12th birthday on Saturday, assisted by a party of her little friends at the Little Knife District, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. McCracken.

Mr and Mrs. Wm. Drinnan, now of Bulwark, visited their Gadsby relatives on Sunday afternoon, travelling by auto. They stayed over till Tuesday morning—as little as trouble extending the visit beyond the schedule.

Mr N. Thorn, who has been a resident of the district for a good number of years, was taken to the hospital in Stettler last Wednesday. He has been in poor health for some months and a time but lately other complications developed on and his friends had him moved to Stettler for closer medical supervision. After examination there little hope of a cure was entertained and he gradually sank, being unconscious at intervals, and news of his death came to-day (Monday). Mr Thorn was a native of Denmark. His wife predeceased him a few years ago. After which he went to the States but returned to Gadsby district after a brief stay. He leaves two sons, who lived with him here. A very quiet, reserved sort of man, but highly respected by his neighbors, and all who came into contact with him.

A LITTLE LESS

Better have a little less
And wear on honest fame,
Than seek ill-gotten gains that sweet
Involve you in disgrace.

Better have a little less
And keep your conscience clear,
Than gain a lot by unrighteousness
And live in guilty fear

Better have a little less
And earn an honest wage,
Than by a wanton course consume
The tester's heritage.

Better have a little less
And eat a frugal meal,
Than labour with a set that will
Not stand for a square deal.

—By Charles M. Sobeski

1. Work hard. Hard work is the best investment a man can make.
2. Study hard. Knowledge enables a man to work more intelligently and effectively.
3. Have initiative. Rate often counts more than [illegible]
4. Love your work. Then you will find pleasure in mastering it.
5. Be exact. Slipshod methods bring only slipshod results.
6. Have the spirit of conquest. "Now you can successfully battle and overcome difficulties.
7. Cultivate personality. Personality is to a man what perfume is to a flower.
8. Help and share with others. The real test of business greatness lies in giving opportunity to others.
9. Be democratic. Unless you feel right towards your fellow-men you can never be a successful leader of men.
10. In all things do your best. The man who has done his best has done everything. The man who has done less than his best has done nothing.

THE FIGHTER

I fight a battle every day
Against discouragement and fear;
I must be brave to win the fight
Or I shall disappear.

I fight a battle every day
Against the doubts that stalk along;
I get ahead by fighting back
But fighting keeps my spirit strong

I hear the crushing of Despair,
The hack proclamation of the weak
I find myself pursued by Care,
No matter what the end I seek.

My victories are small and few,
It matters not how hard I strive,
Each day the fight begins anew,
But fighting keeps my hope alive

My dreams are spoiled by circumstance
My plans are wrecked by Fate or Luck,
Honest men, perhaps, will bring my chance,
But the great hour has never struck;

My progress has been slow and hard,
But I have kept in fighting trim.

I have to fight my doubts away,
Anchor on guard against my fears;
The whole meaning of Destiny
Has been familiar through all the years.

My honest plans keep going wrong,
Events combine to thwart my will,
But fighting keeps my spirit young,
And I am undefeated still!

Mahomet could have sold your merchandise

You know the old story of Mahomet and the mountain—when the mountain wouldn't come to him he, like a sensible man, grasped his Panama off the hall rack and went to the mountain—he wanted it badly enough to get after it.

IF IT'S PRINTING WE CAN DO IT.

That is precisely the situation today—the mountain—BUSINESS—will not come to you—you will have to go after it and go after it hard. YOU have one great advantage over the prophet—he had to take the going as he found it—you can pave the way with advertising.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Looking Forward

It was in the year 1925. A New York senator was coming down to breakfast, met by only one mounting the stairs. He was headed for the roof, where his flying machine awaited him.

"Where to, Tommy?" asked the mother.

"Journey for lunch, mother."

"Well, you have a perfect day for flying."

"That is what I thought. So from Denver I may have 17 to San Francisco for a little golf."

"Very well, my son. But be home early for dinner."

Barring the Bolshevi

The Town Council of Bassingbourne, England, has registered an objection to religious support for the existing economic scheme of things in such hymns as:

The rich man in his castle,
The poor man at his gate;
God made them high and lowly
And ordered their estate.

According to the Council, God did not order these contrasts to exist, and certain changes in favor of the poor man have been too long delayed. Obviously the clause should be re-phrased with:

Who have taken shrewd and free ones
Who use them for gentlemen?

CARMAN PASSERBY KILLED AS AUTO TURNS IN DITCH

C. S. Sinclair Dies on Dunsmuir Tube Line from Car's Wreckage

Carter, Alta., Feb. 5.—A fatal accident occurred about one and a half miles south of here Saturday evening about 9.30 when C. S. Herbert, Jr., laid his hands on the car he was driving. He was last seen in Carter at 6 o'clock. Mr. Herbert spent most of the day in town and was returning to his home 14 miles south of Carter. At the point known locally as Carman plain there is a grade on the road about four feet high at which is a big culvert, and Mr. Herbert for some reason turned off the main road about a yard in the ditch, which caused him soon to avoid going over the grade. He was evidently going at a high speed and got between the ditch and the grade and wedged in one of the culvert ahead of him turned sharply and tried to climb the rest of the grade hitting it with a terrific impact, turning his car upside down and pinning him still underneath. Tools and other articles in the car were scattered around the scene.

The accident was not discovered until about 10 o'clock Sunday morning by Mr. Carter, who happened to be driving past. On examination he found Mr. Herbert still alive but unconscious and pinned under the car. He was taken to the Wetaskiwin hospital where he died without regaining consciousness. Deceased was born at Dunsmuir, Vancouver Island, 27 years ago. He is survived by his wife and one child, who are residing at Carman, Manitoba, where the funeral will be held. Interment will take place at Carman.

WILD DUCKS AT BUFFALO LAKE ARE TO BE FED

Frank Purley, of Camrose, Is Interested in Proposal with Rising

Thousands and thousands of wild ducks remaining at Buffalo lake, near Battle river, this winter, which are reported to have been starving to death following a recent snow-storm, which covered their feeding grounds, will be fed by the Dominion parks superintendent, according to plans outlined by Frank Purley, of Camrose, in an interview with The Herald on Thursday morning.

Mr. Purley, who is a member of the Camrose board of trade, has been interested in the matter for some time, and has been in communication with the parks superintendent at Ottawa. He has now received word that the latter will be able to carry out the plan, and it is possible that the feeding will commence within a few days.

Mr. Purley's plan is to have the ducks fed on the ice, and to this end he proposes to have a number of holes cut in the ice, and to have the grain placed in these holes. The ducks will then be able to get the grain without difficulty, but will be unable to get at the water, and will not be likely to leave the feeding grounds.

Mr. Purley has been in touch with the parks superintendent at Ottawa, and has received word that the latter will be able to carry out the plan, and it is possible that the feeding will commence within a few days.

Big Red Proclamation

The Empire Builders

From time immemorial, Britons have gone forth and possessed the wastes of the earth.

In the face of seemingly insuperable difficulties they have built up a world-wide trade—trade that grew and flourished in spite of the opposition of those primitive boundless denizens, the native carriers, the mule train and the camel caravan.

Ford carries the business of Empire trade on the hillroads of India, on the African veldt, on the sheep-stations of Australia and New Zealand, on the plantations of Ceylon and Burma, on the rubber estates of Malaya and on the jungle-paths of Borneo.

Universal tasks under all these conditions has stamped this Ford as dependable transportation

Made in Canada for the Empire

The Ford car is completely made in Canada with the exception of parts to the value of 15%.

(This Week's Issue)

A most delightful social evening was given in the Hall on Wednesday of last week. The younger women of the Women's Missionary Society were hostesses for the evening. After a short program of readings and musical numbers, certain guests were engaged in old games awarded to the winning contestants. A delicious lunch served and delightful night was the closing feature of the evening. Hon. W. L. Priestley, Mrs. Ray Bell, Mrs. Garvin, Miss Nellie McLeod, Miss Mary Bone, and Miss Ruth Hollinshead were the efficient committee in charge.

The program given by the Mission Band on Sunday morning was very much enjoyed by all present. The attendance was remarkably by the young people the audience and done in a very creditable manner.

Mrs. Earl Prudden, Gwynneth and Teddy returned on Friday after a month's visit at Enderby, B.C.

Mr. Don Menzies, who has been visiting at Tacoma, Wash., returned home last week.

Mr. Knipper left on Tuesday morning for a trip to the Western States. He will be gone about two months.

Mr. [illegible] and little daughter [illegible] Saturday from a visit with friends at Lacombe.

Less Pot-washing

SMP Enameled Ware has of the smooth surface and polish of fine crockery—without the breakage. And it is so very easy to clean—just like china, and therefore makes light work of pot washing.

Try this test. Take an SMP Enameled Ware sauce pan and an all-metal sauce pan of equal size, look each pour a quart of cold water. Put on the fire at the same time. The SMP sauce pan will be boiling merrily when the writer in the other is just beginning to simmer.

The Soldier Settlement Board is endeavoring to meet the farmer's problem for next season, in the matter of farm loans for a few months, by ascertaining the number and necessity of the loans required by the farmers in each district, and probable amount. A number of applications forms have already been mailed to farmers throughout the province, asking them to fill in this form, stating what nationality of man they would like—whether experienced or whether they would be willing to take an inexperienced man, the wages they are prepared to pay, and when they want the man. Farmers have been requested to mail these applications to the Board's local Supervisor, who in this district is Mr. S. Pocklington of Stettler. Applications will be dealt with, as far as is possible, on the principle of first come, first served. Farmers likely to want a man are urged to send in their applications to S. Pocklington as early as possible, so that an effort may be made to [illegible] Immigration Agent.

GADSBY NEWS

A few of our local farmers who have a good horse and cutter should find both of these put their heads together and started a Horse Breeders' Association. They propose to adopt the plan of keeping a good stud horse here almost a year and with the Pedigree, are the type the men of 1930 like to breed years and will be worth a small fee to the farmers in the district to raise good horses. I see no reason having been installed here it will give the business of the old road brought forth horse a great impetus as well as interest. The meeting to appoint an executive should be a committee and agricultural meeting held at Gadsby shortly after.

Notice is given in Lemon's office. The following officers were appointed: President, H. W. Lemon; Vice-President, H. W. Lemon; Secretary-Treasurer, W. J. Alan Secretary-Treasurer, C. H. Jackson; Directors: R. W. Burns, R. Lindon, W. Clark, R. Potter. Secretary of these gentlemen about becoming a member and let your name.

The U.F.A. Locals in the district shopping comes to Stettler, Alta., requesting some to send representatives to meet same at Alix last week to discuss the question of a Co-operative Creamery. Mr. Albert Baril attended on behalf of Gadsby Local and he will give a report of the meeting to the members at the next U.F.A. meeting, to be held on Wednesday, 20th inst., at 2.30 p.m. A big meeting is hoped for as the meeting has some tenders to submit which should interest every member.

The funeral of Mr. M. Tingo, who passed away in Stettler hospital on Saturday last, took place on Monday afternoon to the Gadsby cemetery. Rev. Mr. Pascoe conducted the service.

We regret to say that Harry Hemmerly is still unable to be at work and hope he may get in soon again.

Mr. Harry Wheeler, who left us some time ago for Bill, reports from Calgary. He is employed as a carpenter's helper and finds it interesting work. He reports lots of work there and the two men, Wheeler and Barnes, go up in a day or two. Personally Mrs. Wheeler and the girls some will follow soon.

The Ladies' Aid are giving another of their At Home on Saturday, 23rd inst., at the home of Mrs. H. Lemon. Everybody welcome. Proceeds will go towards the Ladies' Aid funds.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Pemberton have returned from the States where they have been for the past 11 months. Dave has rented Herb and Dave had a good (or most but unfortunately) Mrs. Pemberton's health has been very poor all the time and her medical man advised an immediate return to Alberta. We are glad to have them back with us and hope that Sunny Alberta will prove better for Mrs. Pemberton's health, and at least as good for Mr. P's pocketbook.

Gadsby U.F.A. are putting on another of their popular socials on Friday, February 29th, in the Town Hall. Besides an unusually good musical program the committee announce additional attractions in a prize for the gentleman who makes the best 5-minute impromptu speech at the concert, and prizes for the best waltzing couple at the same which follows. The lady will receive a 15-jewel wrist watch, the gent something almost as good. The committee again solicit their good friends, the ladies, to donate some of their good cooking for the lunch. See adverts for further information.

Robert Everitt took a week-end from Olds school of Agriculture to visit the folks and help to instal a fine radio set. They are having great results up there now, some good stuff coming in from their old home state of Minnesota. There are quite a few sets in our district now.

Tell it not in Gath. Our schooling boobigirls journeyed to Stettler on Saturday and their shape of the score of 5-0 was the cipher. Lack of reserves and timidity in playing on the big ice-bowl rink was given as the reason assigned. This defeat was the strongest on practice—practice and again practice.

Mrs. Ray Everitt has gone to Stettler to visit for a few days with her friend, Mrs. R. J. Smith.

A big crowd is reported to turn out to the Dalsin Municipality Annual Meeting and Nomination of Councillors. The Women's Institute are going to serve coffee, cake and sandwiches so visit those coming from a distance, at real hospitable rates.

Omega Ladies' Home Circle had one of their most successful gatherings at the home of Mrs. Barry Gambrell on Saturday night. Those present assure me it was a very enjoyable gathering.

He was inclined to be sentimental. He was nothing if not practical. "Would that you could tell me how to mend a broken heart," she said. "I have known of cases where it has been done by splicing," he replied.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Burns Kerosene or Coal Oil

A new oil lamp that gives an exceedingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U.S. Government and full lighting information and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps in burning without odor, smoke or noise, or pumping up, is simple, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. C. Johnson, 999 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him how you can get one absolutely free for your own use and make money introducing it. Address as above.

THE W. C. T. U. COLUMN

Every child should be taught the new "rule of three": one pint of wine, two pints of beer, three quarts of whiskey contain the same amount of alcohol. Three burglars, the biggest burglar, whiskey, carries the biggest gun, but the smaller burglars, beer and wine, make up by more rapid fire. And the big burglar, whiskey, never gets into the human system until the smaller burglars, beer and wine, break open the window. The insurance men, New York City, eighty per cent of them, according to their testimony, begin on beer, twenty per cent on wine, and none on whiskey. If you are after the ring leader, BAR OUT BEER.—Wilbur S. Crafts.

Of 2,800 illicit stills seized last year in Canada, 620 were in the province of Quebec where Government control has "increased drinking, reduced drunkenness, decreased crime, and abolished bootlegging and moonshining," Strange isn't it? We wonder by what stupid blunders those 620 stills were seized by Government officials. Probably the trouble is that there is not enough Government control in Quebec; no doubt if the liquor bill of $45,000,000 is increased to $80,000,000, there will be fewer illicit stills; and, of course, the Government revenue will be increased while drunkenness will practically disappear. If you can't understand this, never mind; the figures for the previous show that drunkenness is being wiped out, i.e., off the police blotters, which possibly may not be just the same as the abolition of drunkenness.

The British Columbia Government is its own bar-tender, and the Hon. J. D. McLean, the provincial secretary, declares that the business is profitable, the profits averaging about $40,000 a week or $2,080,000 a year. So far as the money goes this seems to be a very remunerative business, but we have no hesitation in saying that, instead of the Province losing $2,080,000 better off for a year's whiskey selling, it will probably at the lowest estimate $5,000,000 or more worse off than before. Longer imprisonment while it obtains for

It is not at Christmas, nevertheless, that the world is most addicted to sin in citing forth the name of burglar, whiskey, and beer as the best cut, on royal road to stamping out the worst sin in the battle was won by education of the public to a sentiment which could be created into a public opinion which in turn could be crystallized into law; and the maintenance of the law.

EDUCATING NEW CANADIANS

In the Winnipeg Tribune recently there appeared a letter from an English-speaking farmer, who lives in a district peopled chiefly by Ukrainians, and he complains that an Armistice Day domestic of these Ukrainian settlers asked him why the flag was flying. They did not know for there was no one to tell them, and they cannot read papers which are published in English; and some of them probably cannot read at all. The Tribune declares that this is but one illustration of the fact that we are not making sufficient positive effort to Canadianize our newcomers. They are permitted to settle in solid blocks, and then we leave them prize over to their own devices, only interfering occasionally to insist that they must obey our educational laws. Reference is made to the case of a Mennonite settlement which clung to the German language and refused to allow the British flag to fly over the school, and even fine could not compel parents to send their children to the public schools. Then a new experiment was tried, and a returned soldier was sent in touch in the district. The result was surprising. The Tribune says: "In six months every boy and girl was receiving the ordinary school allowance; Boy Scout and Girl Guide troops enrolled every child in the district; their mothers were meeting at the school once a week for domestic science training, with special emphasis on nursing and sanitation; their fathers were running weekly for social evenings, talks on civics and agriculture, and the mothers and fathers were using the English language as much as the children. Inside six months, in other words, it was a community well on the way to Canadianization." We are not sanguine enough to believe that such an attempt would be equally successful in every case, but it is certain that the persuasive methods are usually more successful than the high-handed ones, and a first-class teacher, adaptable, sympathetic, and thoroughly patriotic, can accomplish wonders. But the supply of teachers available for such work is not great, and the remuneration is hardly sufficient to make up for the enforced isolation. Yet this is nation-building in its essential form, and it must be settled on if we are really to Canadianize our new citizens.

Building the Stadium

The Town Council of Bath, Maine, had no regard of objection to a religious scruple for the existing economic scheme of things in such terms as:

The rich man in his castle,
The poor man at his gate,
God made them high and lowly
And ordered their estate.

According to the Council, God did not order these conditions to remain, and certain changes in favor of the poor may have been too long delayed. Hence the stones should be removed.

OLD AND NEW FORT GARRY

THE story of the Winnipeg Forts of the west is one of Anglo-Saxon and Gibraltar. Daughter and Quarry, is among the most interesting that could be found anywhere. When Vancouver came to the junction of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers in 1738, he established Fort Rouge. The Hudson's Bay Company, sixty years later, established Fort Gibraltar and a few years later Fort Douglas, named after Thomas Douglas, Earl of Selkirk, who secured ownership of the Hudson's Bay Company's Many stories of conflicts between the servants of the Hudson's Bay and North-West companies, for the feuds between them ended with the consummation of the two companies in 1821, and the first Fort Garry was erected as a trading post and settlers' depot.

This was an elaborate structure with stone walls, bastions and cannon.

In 1835 the building of Lower Fort Garry, 19 miles down the river from Winnipeg was completed. This was a time the residence of the governor and Hudson's Bay officials, the council of government. In 1848 the upper Fort Garry had been abandoned in favor of the new one of the present city of Winnipeg.

The Fort was sold in 1907 and the front gateway erected by the Historical and Scientific Society of Manitoba. Fort Garry, the hotel of the Canadian National Railways, is all that remains of this historic group of buildings

"Lend Save the King" Only National Anthem

The National Executive Committee ... to correct the impression created by a resolution which had been passed by the Municipal Chapter of Montreal and endorsed by the National Executive Committee, that the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, urged the Government to enact "O Canada" to be sung in schools and on public occasions. Such was the text of a resolution passed at the regular monthly meeting of the National Executive of the I.O.D.E., held at headquarters, Bloor Street East, Toronto.

Dear Sir:

You are carrying an advertisement in your paper about "Train at Home," and you infer that the merchant is the friend of mankind in general and would therefore be superior to the farmer to the best of his ability. This selling paper logic is correct, perhaps your view might with the other way but in the n? Hardly.

HALLARD BEARS ON BUFFALO LAKE

Editor The Star,
Bashaw, Alberta.

Dear Sir:—Regarding the unusual scarcity of the deer question here, I believe that are remaining in and about Buffalo Lake in a very much smaller number than ever before. I have been in this district for the past 20 years and have never seen so few deer as there are at present. I am real aware that Buffalo Lake country is not a favorable one for many years now of the land hunters methods of the present day and that a very number of the sportsmen live in conspicuous.

The present matter is as follows: Two large hunters, one of them a well known [illegible] of Edmonton, and several [illegible] have been in the vicinity of Buffalo Lake for the past month and have killed [illegible] deer. This is a conservative estimate. When the [illegible] of the [illegible] and [illegible] are considered this is a very conservative estimate. Also the [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] have been slaughtered and thrown [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

GADSBY NEWS

Another old veteran's time has been called to his reward in the person of Mr. Isaac Wiseman, a resident of this district for many years, and generally known in the West to make no enemies and many friends. He has been declining for some time, and although the end came a little sooner than was looked for, it was not unexpected. Mr. Wiseman was born in Ontario, and was 74 years of age at the time of his death. He was married twice, his second wife and family of grown children surviving him. The funeral took place on Monday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Gordon officiating, and was largely attended by friends and neighbors.

VALUE

Buy a Ford Motor Car and you get value. Value in the first place, because Ford cars are built to give dependable transportation at the lowest cost. Value in the second place, because Ford cars are built to last. Value in the third place, because Ford cars are built to resell at a high price.

Thus long life means slow depreciation, sustained value, and low cost performance from your Ford while you continue to drive it, and a reasonable resale value when you wish to dispose of it.

It means that the Ford gives you unusual value per dollar invested, not only this year but for a long term of years to follow—means that when you select the Ford you obtain proved security for the dollar you invest.

GADSBY NEWS

Mrs. Henry Wheeler left for Gadsby, B.C., on Thursday morning with the pleased members of the family and thus completed the exodus of the Wheeler from Gadsby. We regret the loss of these folks from our town, it is always regrettable when a settler from has to quit with so many assets at one time, and especially when the members look such an active interest in all the social interests of the town. We hope the change will be beneficial to them all, financially, and in all matters that make worth while living.

Mrs. Floyd Scott went to Edmonton a short time ago to be lady nurse a week before the stork's visit. She did all her self-assigned duties, even to attack of sympathetic nausea, and got to be initiate to the Royal Alexandra Hospital. Her confidence was so common at one time that her arms were wired for and Chester went up at once. We are glad to hear more favorable reports since and hope she may soon be all right again.

It is good to see "Bill" Scribbins for awhile, but certainly more than glad that he is able to be in town, even though it be on crutches. Bill had an accident on the Lee Gadsby line and had a waggon-load of wheat run over his leg, amputating it pretty badly. He is making a good recovery and seemed wonderfully cheerful when we greeted him a "Hello" on Saturday.

The Ladies Aid scored quite a success with their afternoon social at Mrs. Harry Hanson's on Friday afternoon last. There was a very good attendance of ladies and an interesting by all Mr. predict the "Silver" case... up of the financial emergency that has handicapped all such work in the past few years, the managers of our chamber will get more generous support from the people.

Gadsby U.F.A. had a meeting on Wednesday afternoon in the Municipal Office which was very well attended and included one or two visitors from other hamlets. The most business brought up was the report from Mr. Albert Scott on the convention of Crown Shippers held at Alix, at which he represented Gadsby. Mr. Scott gave a very clear outline of the proposal to form a co-operative creamery, as advocated by Mr. Lucas, of Alix, and the need for such an agency as to present cost of production of butter and how an increase in the supply of cream would reduce these costs to the producer. The strong arguments in favor of the proposal to combine the various creameries along the line of milling, were very interesting to the meeting, but perhaps the most interesting item was that concerning the manner in which the convention had been financed. While not going on record either for or against the proposal, it was unanimous at the close of the meeting that Mr. Scott would attend an adjourned meeting of delegates which are called for the 28th inst. Mr. Scott could not undertake to promise this, for the same reason, but would try to arrange matters either to go or to see that the organization made by the members of Gadsby Branch would be put before the delegates of Alix, so that Gadsby would be fairly represented at the meeting.

Gadsby U.F.A. after the business meeting on Saturday, organized a Wheat Pool Association to look after all matters affecting the Pool question and also to arrange for a drive for more members for the Pool so that we may be hoped to so cover the territory that the Pool Board will get an opportunity to sign up

Mr. Lou. Hitchner who has been in the Hospital at Edmonton will not be returned on Saturday but expect to be home in a few days. Mrs. Hitchner has remained with her husband during his illness and has been for a spell to run the home for the kiddies, but we understand that Mrs. Scott will not prolong her absence but will return shortly to look after the home and nursing of her husband and children. We are glad to hear that Mr. Hitchner is getting along so well and hope to see him back in Gadsby in a few days.

The Women's Institute have planned for a social evening on Friday, March 6th, when a good program will be given. The U.F.A. always do do their share to make these evenings a success and we expect a good time all round.

Rev. G. A. Brooks gave attention to the financial statement of the Gadsby appointment for 1931, which was posted up at the rear of the church. It shows a remarkable increase in the Financial support given the church in that year, despite the fact that 1930 was such a poor year from a crop or business standpoint. It must be very gratifying to the faithful few supporting the Church Board, who have stayed with it through many discouragements and the result of the credit for the good showing is due to them. They would be the last, however, to challenge the statement that most of the credit is due to our pastor, Mr. Brooks, whose faithful attendance has built up a congregation in Gadsby that has never been equalled. The people are willing to turn out to hear him, and to dig down to support the Church, because of the respect and esteem in which he is held

PERSONAL FIGURES FOR THE FARM HOME

(Experimental Farms Note)

In the beautification of the surroundings of the prairie farm home there is nothing more pleasing than those perennial flowers. The tops of these plants die off to the surface of the ground each winter, but the roots are hardy and live on from year to year. They do not require planting each year as do annual flowers, but come bounding spring up and bloom indefinitely. The cares of perennials requires the minimum amount of attention. They need to be dug around once a year to keep out grass and weeds, and the surface soil hoed a few times during the season for the same purpose. Grass is the worst enemy of perennials. The place chosen for the perennial bed or border should be thoroughly rid of grass before the bed is started. A poor's thorough cultivation should be given and all grass be completely killed out. This delay and labor is amply repaid in the improved vigor and size of the flowers and the clean bed. Then watchful care must be kept to prevent grass from spreading in later

Perennials cannot succeed under or in competition with trees. They require a lot of moisture and plant food and the roots rob them of sunlight. However, they will do better if enclosed by a shelter belt of trees that will protect them from the wind. Such shelter should be sufficiently far away that neither trees nor shade will reach the perennial bed. A low hedge is all right as a neighbor for a perennial bed, provided it is kept within bounds by trimming

A long border in one of the most effective arrangements for perennials. A low hedge along the back and a grassy lawn in front form the proper environment. The border growing perennials along the back and a gradual slope down to the lawn in the front is the best arrangement. A similar border may be placed around the corner of a building is also very effective

There are many varieties of perennials that are quite hardy in Manitoba, and are quite showy when massed in beds. Here are some of the best: Bleeding Heart, Peonies, Iris, Phlox, Columbine, Poppy, Butterfly Weed, Daisy, Shasta Daisy, Aster, Golden Glow, Larkspur, Hollyhock, Sweet William, Forget-me-not, Pinks, Coreopsis, Gaillardia, Gypsophila, Sweet Alyssum, Sweet Rocket, Lupine, Delphinium, Monkshood, Bellflower, Foxglove, Evening Primrose, Blanket Flower, Sweet Pea, Tiger Lily, and Autumn Daisy.

Building the Bridges

The Town Council of Bath, England, has registered an objection to religious support for the unemployment scheme of things in a resolution:

The rich man in his castle,
The poor man at his gate,
God made them high and lowly
And ordered their estate.

According to the Council, God did not order them contracts in stone, and certain changes in favor of the poor may have been too long delayed. Whereupon the Council resolved to proceed with—

When Adam delved and Eve span
Who was then the gentleman?

Was Most Famous of Living Detectives

William Elliot Hutchinson, who became the greatest detective in the world, has died and it is true that with his death one of the most famous men of his time has gone. Hutchinson was known to the police of every country in the world, and it is true that with his knowledge of crime, he made his own fortune from the information he gathered in his many years of service. Hutchinson was born in Ireland, and after he had served in the army he joined the police force in Manchester, England. He was a keen student of human nature, and when he was promoted to the rank of detective-sergeant he began to study the methods of criminals. Soon he was one of the most outstanding barristers in the country, and was employed by his ability, and by the fact that he had a natural talent for detective work. Later on he was appointed to the Pinkerton Detective Agency, and famous cases Hutchinson solved for the Pinkerton, a Scotchman. He was a keeper in Pinsbury, Illinois, at a time when the Molly Maguires were at the zenith of their power. Hutchinson became known as the "Terror" of the Molly Maguires, and by his ability, courage and cunning he had many of the leaders of the gang hanged. The name of Pinkerton is a household word in the United States. Hutchinson was the Pinkerton detective who solved the mystery of the Babcock murder case, and who, by his cunning, was able to get a confession from the murderer. Hutchinson was employed by the Pinkertons to solve the mystery of the Adams express robbery, and he succeeded in getting back the money. Hutchinson was the detective who solved the Lindbergh kidnapping case, and he was employed by the Pinkertons to solve the mystery of the Hall-Mills murder case. Hutchinson was called for and consulted in many famous cases, and he was employed by one of the Rothschilds in connection with the theft of the Rothschild Diamonds. The Pinkertons also have the distinction of having the famous sleuth Allan Pinkerton, who was known as Allan Wordie, and who was engaged in the secret service of the United States Government during the Civil War. Allan Pinkerton was the first detective to be employed by the United States Government. He established the Pinkerton Detective Agency in Chicago, and many famous cases were handled by Allan Pinkerton, a Scotchman. He was a cooper in Dundee, Illinois, at a time when the Molly Maguires were at the zenith of their power. Hutchinson became known as the "Terror" of the Molly Maguires, and by his ability, courage and cunning in the... many of the leaders of the gang hanged. GRADUATE NURSE FINDS "THE PERFECT REMEDY"

Graduate of National Temperance Hospital Tells of Remarkable Cases Where Tanlac Has Proved Effective.

"From my long experience as a professional nurse, I do not hesitate to say I consider Tanlac the most efficient and natural stomach medicine and tonic to be had. It is undoubtedly Nature's most perfect remedy," so the far reaching statement of one graduate nurse published recently by Mrs. I. A. Bonine, Battle, Wash., a graduate of the National Temperance Hospital of Chicago.

"I have used Tanlac often in treatment of my patients and my experience has been that for bringing the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels functioning properly, and for toning up the system in general, it has no equal.

Tells of Case

"About a year ago I had a lady patient who could not keep a thing on her stomach fifteen minutes, and even water, I insisted on her to try Tanlac and after the tenth bottle she could eat anything she wanted to and be the healthiest lady alive.

"I had another patient who simply could not eat. I put him started on Tanlac and by the time he finished three bottles he was eating ravenously and had gained sufficient strength to return to work.

"These two instances are typical of my experience with Tanlac. My confidence in Tanlac is unbounded.

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 40 million bottles sold. Accept no substitutes.

CANADA HAS WORLD'S LAST WILD BUFFALO NOW LIVING UNDER GOVERNMENT PROTECTION

The wild-wood buffalo has been abandoned by relatively weaker hunters, and more favored herds than those of the plains. The former have to be supported on the open range, because hardly one-fourth of the natural feeding ground of the latter is left. The Canadian government is now engaged in transporting a number of plains buffaloes to the wilderness of the north, where they may make their last stand against the fate which have almost annihilated them. And these numbers are very small indeed. Maxwell, writing throughout the country from the north to the southward, in many journeys of exploration, has found and here and there a few individuals, but only a total count a total of 116 wood buffaloes exist live.

The first of the dangers which the buffalo has to be guarded against is the northern hunter, white and Indian. The growing scarcity of the bigger game animals and cattle, making the temptation of shooting such a scarce buffalo for themselves its meat a very great one. Two of the natives have been prosecuted for the last wild wood buffaloes of Canada. The park now includes the Athabasca Mountain on the eastern boundary. To the Slave Lake in the north country boundary. The park includes [illegible]

[illegible] the buffalo that is no longer [illegible] the northern hunter, white and Indian preserved within the confines of the great park and Mackenzie and Saskatchewan. It will be seen that a great range has been made by government to which wild, and from a year ago a pension

Of course, you would tell him to SAVE! And if he replied "but I'm saving YOUR money for you!"

Child Makes Sudden Entry to World

A baby was unexpectedly added to the number had been thrown from an automobile which crashed into a train at Mount Kane, N.Y., on February 21st to alive and well. At 4.30 o'clock that morning Mrs. Clarence Chase and his wife in a small sedan and started for the Nassau Hospital. On the way the car was obstructed by buildings as he swung into Lexington Avenue, a speeding fast from the New York Central crossing. The car had been about two seconds ahead of the train, but the car skidded in a circle on the icy pavement, the front wheels landing against one of the cars. When the engineer heard the crash he jammed on the brakes, and the sudden stopping of the train threw the cars away from the tracks. Rhoda and his wife were thrown fifty feet, the demolished car crushing into the side of a building twenty feet away.

Irish Population to Control Scotland

"If present conditions continue, within fifty years the working-class population in Scotland will be Irish, or predominantly Irish," said the Rev. Malcolm Cameron, secretary of the Society for Constructive Birth Control and Racial Progress at Bute Hall, London, recently. As the present time, he continued, there were between 600,000 and 700,000 Irish people in the industrial belt of Scotland, ranging from Greenock on the West to Dundee on the East Coast, but chiefly in the valley of the Clyde. While the native population showed a tendency to decrease, the Irish section showed an enormous increase, concentrated chiefly in the mining districts, their work and churches, schools, and clubs. Irish in character by the thousands were landed in south Europe of their own faith and Church.

STETTLER ALBERTA'S COAL FIELDS

If Canadian railways cannot cut the cost of handling coal from mine to bin below Pedroia's figure of $7.50 a ton—would be worth the effort to offer such a subsidy as a great reduction on the rate—by which would bring the transportation charge down to a level with the United States product could compete successfully with American home coal.

Unless the reduction is large enough, Alberta people will be unable to market their coal in Ontario where average $4.00 a ton consumer market and per capita consumption very well be attained.

There is no doubt in the mind of anyone the traffic now and established new industries because developed through the coal fields would open up new profits for the railways to a point where they could afford to give such a $4.00 rate on coal.

But if the railways do not see their way clear to take a loss on shipments during the first few years in the certainty of increased profits later, it would pay the governments of Ontario and Alberta to get together and help the owners on the source — sometime subsidize to get the business going.

It would be good business for the province of Ontario to grant a subsidy of at least $1.00 a ton on Alberta coal as an insurance against fuel famine.

It would be good business for the province of Alberta to grant a subsidy of $1.00 a ton in order to get the industries established, the development of new coal fields and the growth of large industries dependent on the development of new coal fields.

It would be good business for many owners and miners in their turn to give a subsidy of $1.00 a ton in order to insure themselves a full season's employment.

The development of Alberta's coal fields is postwar work and must be undertaken in the postwar period. It will not make fortunes for anyone overnight but for those who have the pioneering faith and the courage to make long-pay sacrifices it will yield returning profits and a greater and more permanent prosperity, to residents of the province than from the gold of American speculators.

Mr and Mrs. Alex Anderson and their little daughter Joan, left on Saturday morning for Glasgow, Scotland. They intend to remain permanently. I understand he has disposed of a good amount of his property before leaving. We regret very much that people of this type should be better off the farm at a time when our government is spending the borrowed thousands of dollars in advertising for, and assisting new comers from Europe to come to Canada and take to farming. Mr Anderson is a retired soldier and made a farm under the terms of the Soldiers Settlement Board. Fulfilling these terms, he got an and Herself farm at a very high price to have land ready for cropping to such and such a part of the year, then starting with a heavy load of indebtedness. HOW THE TEACHERS HELPED CHANGE THE HISTORY OF THE STATES

Mrs. P. P. Claxton, United Committee of Education.

(In Clinton, in a letter to the National Temperance Council of its Prohibition endeavours as Washington, D.C., January 13-14, 1920, gave the following testimony as to the contributions made by the Women's Christian Temperance Union and the teachers of the country, and issued a warning for the future):

With all persons who are interested in the education of children in the upbuilding of humanity save the attainment of the highest ideals of a democratic government, there is no necessity for a report part. A. Wagner, Nome, Nebraska, Secretary of the Department of Scientific Temperance Instruction in Public Schools and Institutions, reported in terms that need no comment. Dr. Lyman Abbott, New York editor and publicist, in an address before the Department of Superintendence, said: "The public schools are the most important institutions in the United States. In the schools we are making the citizens that will control the nation in the next generation, and we should put into the schools the best we have."

We may assume, therefore, that the schools and healthy living is not put forward by the Women's Christian Temperance Union as a mere matter of opinion, but as a fact. It is the fact that the business of the schools is to train the children of the country to be good citizens, and that this should be mentioned in our schools and churches, and that the children should be taught to be good citizens, and that the children should be taught to be good citizens, and that the children should be taught to be good citizens

The ice was fine, and we had a fine time, the game ole Duke [illegible] me the he was content to sit in the car and wait for the Stettler bunch to see if he couldn't rush up some pucks. Well Duke I guess you can [illegible] 1925. I wants tell you that Duke is not only good Canada's best hockey player but that he is a real good sport and gentleman. He was standing over on the steps after a game [illegible] Stettler Manager Walker is good, and they [illegible] Sampson were the good, and [illegible] Kent's control after him] at the left, and Sandy Campbell at [illegible] Allen Scotland of Erskine, and so on, and the Duke wanted to know if any of them needed assistance. The chaps are sewers and I need not to say [illegible] assistance. Well [illegible] Lacts as he looked around at the big stiffs and little [illegible] Duke [illegible] along the fence, I see this ain't going to be no hoss party, whose post referee I yourself and the best in the whole crowder, and he says, you be the lot, as complete referee as I be good, he's too easy going, the big [illegible] makes the game. Boys, I [illegible] Duke tells me that he that the boys were practising too much at the coast and that the Lacombe team would be easy it easy, but he says Lacombe have had them beat in for the first 20 minutes, and sure enough Lacombe [illegible] and scored the first goal, and what I expected but the Stettler boys took good to me, Lacombe is working so hard at it got a goal.

Well pretty soon the game got started again in the second period and the fun started, and down like [illegible] Stettler boys were on the centre ice and all the west centre-men [illegible] and [illegible] the Stettler forwards, and you couldn't hook your [illegible] Stettler goal. Mr. Referee [illegible] the empire rang his bell, and back the puck back to the blue line, and things got quiet for the next minute or two, and everybody cried [illegible] Duke he jumped over the fence and [illegible] the referee, and [illegible] about it you want the said grey boat but spare your country's umpire to [illegible] and then he put his hand in his pocket and pulled out a wad of money and says here is twenty-five dollars on the Stettler hockey team, am I right or ain't I, put up or shut up, and a boss from Lacombe says here's [illegible] and it's a true [illegible] Duke [illegible] and [illegible] the game went on as before, but just [illegible] Stettler boys [illegible] [illegible] on and that's how and the Lacombe [illegible] Stettler [illegible] [illegible] the Duke is here or whether they just got their [illegible] I don't know but they went what the puck the rag is a bootlegger goes after the proving stuff. COLONIZATION AND DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT

The work of this department which recently extended throughout Western Canada, is now to be extended to the public, and through its special representatives in the East, in Great Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark and other European countries, it will be able to bring to Canada large numbers of emigrants, male and female, who in a short time will become producers and desirable settlers. The great obstacle in the past has been the uncertainty of immediate employment for the new arrival and Alberta can avoid colonization difficulties by employing their help through the channel, also if possible BUY THEIR FARMS. The work is done without charge to the settler, and has been instituted at the request of and under the direction of the various provincial governments for the purpose of helping the settler.

Japan Interested in Alberta Wheat

Representatives of Japanese grain firms have been making a tour of the west week, looking into the matter of prospects of Alberta wheat to the Orient, for which there is an increasing demand.

Seed Grain Shipments

A total 60,000 bushels of pure seed grain have already been shipped out of the seed growers of the Province through the Provincial Department, bearing out grading point at Edmonton. A good deal of this has been to eastern points, and there has also been a considerable quantity sold in the Province. The demand for the seed continues to be strong.

Barley Prizes

Alberta has done extremely well in competition evectory barley classes in the various exhibitions during the past five years, according to a summary prepared by Dairy Commissioner Maybee, which shows the following figures:

In 1919 Alberta barley won 26 out of 100 prizes; in 1920, 101 out of 300 prizes, in 1921, a total of 157 out of 1925 prizes; in 1922, a total of 229 out of 625 prizes, and in 1923 a total of 277 out of 625 prizes. New Coal Market Possibilities

A very large future market for Alberta coal will be opened up on the Pacific Coast very shortly if advices [illegible] by the Provincial Government are correct. The authorities of the city of Seattle have practically decided that Alberta coal should come to that city. The bulk of that coal needs be purchased over the C.P.R. which is stated to be favorable to the proposition. Tenth Commissioner [illegible] has been in Seattle for the past few weeks conducting negotiations with very satisfactory results. He states that there is a market for more than a million tons a year in the city of Seattle alone.

Round the Country

A STORY OF TWO FARMERS

Situated in close to the eastern boundary of the province on the Lesser Lake line is the I. N. B. For several years previous to 1923 elevator facilities there were almost as unfavorable as anywhere in Alberta. But a farmer is not easily discouraged. Mr. E. C. Robertson, who owns a level in Illinois, was able to see a good results all through the lean seasons and even last year's poor returned general confidence, kept reiterating that he was on the best agricultural country in North America and there was nothing seriously wrong with those who thought otherwise. He was right.

Mr. Robertson has recently been heard from again. He has written a letter to the Commercial Travellers' Association in which he declares that there never was a time in the history of the Canadian west when a man could start farming here under more propitious circumstances. He can buy an outfit of horses for almost his own price and can now pick up what he ordinary he needs very cheaply. Feed is plentiful and cheap. But the main thing that he reminded us, seemed to be to Mr. Robertson, the necessity of building up on what he paid and land out of debt. He shouldn't have any thing more that he can do himself.

We have been delayed with farming land into shares at the rate of $40 per acre, but we have had the idea that we were better to blame the country for such experiences. It is only a man who has actually gone through the mill himself who can furnish a really effective answer Mr Robertson's case. In the case the same of two of the neighbors in order to show how much the individual is responsible for success or failure.

One of the men had been in the east arrived from Illinois eight years ago. He had a wife and one baby and little capital. But he rolled up his sleeves and went to work on the farm he purchased by Mr Robertson's son. He lived in a granary the first year, and he must took up homestead land and a pre-emption on quarter section of most and a breed, up pious on time, he bought all he could and put in a crop. He now has his half section all paid for and is well been running the farm of his former employer for the past four years. On this he raised 10,000 bushels of wheat last year and 2,500 oz. for oats.

I don't know ourselves, writing Mr. Robertson, that a man could go to land that record, but he is not afraid of work. He has handled nearly all time almost himself—been hoeing all fall and winter and has come to had put it on a crop sooner I think than the best country in the world. It isn't the country's fault if we don't make it go.

The other young farmer eight years ago had a section of land and a few equipment of horses and implements of all kinds. He wasn't satisfied with what he had to have more land, and more machinery to raise more grain. So he went to work with one arm, mortgage, he must have two or three more and two blacksmith outfits.

Today Mr Robertson can afford to that young man's interest in the fair as a friend. He is a good worker; he is wasn't be-cause he may find he went best; neither was it the fault of his country.

Mr. Robertson is seventy-two years old and has a very long farming experience to look back upon. It has

GADSBY NEWS

Mr and Mrs R. W. Harrison have returned from their winter stay in the States. They put in quite a bit of time this year visiting quite a few of the historic sites in the Middle West. Mr Harrison found the climate very much to his liking and considered the good and lowest material. Construction work as it lasts on a scale of some magnitude. Mrs Harrison was glad to get to the lower land in the states of Ohio and Pennsylvania, saying that there are some very much discouraged and disheartened people in the Middle West. Mr Harrison says a lot more could be said and recommended and will have Farms are being auctioned and all at improvements. He considers that this high cost of living causes men and women to be more independent in their views and bearings. He says our country is the best and we have the best of farmers in general as compared to the farmers in other countries. We are a long country and in the north we are a little too far north for the most profitable. Many old settlers have left the district and are now living in the south. Mr Harrison says he would like to see a south boston. At the chapterers did well and have had a hard to cope out and approval at Lacombe on Wednesday afternoon.

This Beauty

Every Woman Can Have

Radiant, Youthful Complexion

Nature gave you a skin of beauty, alone. And that is beauty you can keep.

Millions of women do—by following this simple, correct rule. By following it you, too, can keep the loveliness of a youthful complexion.

Just do this regularly

Cleanse the skin regularly, authority, as, to keep your complexion beauty, radiant, youthful. Use because of harsh cleansing methods—they irritate the skin.

Wash thoroughly with Palmolive Soap—as it is—before retiring. Rub the creamy, fragrant lather well into the pores. Rinse—and repeat the washing. Then rinse again.

Then—if skin is dry apply a little cold cream. That is all. Skin so cared for is not to need to stimulate, be tonic and sun, as be it dry.

The simple, correct way

You cannot find a more effective beauty treatment. Because Palmolive Soap is blended of rare palm and olive oils—famous for mild but thorough cleansing qualities since the days of Cleopatra. And it is inexpensive.

Get Palmolive Soap of any druggist—but insist the name and the wrapper Say Palmolive is never used unwrapped! Then try this method. The improvement will amaze and delight you.

And because Palmolive is so economical let it do for you what bulky soaps have to do for your face

LEO and DISTRICT NEWS

Scouts everywhere! Good times everywhere is the news we get these days. U.F.A. Locals working full blast—planning, arranging, devising advertising everything conceivable to bring profit and prosperity to the farmers both in social and economic matters and, shall we say, "hustin the day" when, like the Village Blacksmith, he will be able to proclaim very emphatically—"I owe not any man." Perhaps most of this will depend upon his personal efforts, his love for his fellows and a personal conviction of what really constitutes the elements of character.

We have news that happy times were spent at Hoar Lake, Louder and Gough Lake outside last week.

Like the hum of the threshes in the fall, so is the hum of the U.F.A. organizations—busy everywhere throughout the Province, threshing and bringing to the fore the principles of co-operative marketing of farm products.

There were men who had very strong objections to the Wheat Pool when they were appealed to sign up last fall. But today they can be appealed to and will sign up with warm words of welcome and to push along. Even those they have already been signed up are busy doing things—are working like the Dickens and the enthusiasm of the Pool-push was very contagious. Everywhere you go you hear the Pool talked of and the enthusiasm is unbounded. Many of the Pool-push was very contagious. Everywhere you go you hear the Pool talked of and the enthusiasm is unbounded. Many of this present month.

WESTROSE

The Westwood Local is making good headway and having considerable enjoyment in the way of a co-operative store. Half of the membership stock has been taken up and the store is to be opened for business on the first day of April. Mr. Hansen, who has had considerable experience in the business, is to be manager. The Local is also considering the erection of a grain elevator at Westrose.

DONALDA

Quite a number of our citizens attended the sale of Mr. J. Reed on Tuesday last. Mrs. Reed and her mother leave this week for her mother's home in the States. She takes with her the very best wishes for a host of friends.

Mr. Worster Porter has had a relapse of her sickness and been under special medical attention. It is to be hoped that he will soon be well enough to return to school.

Mrs. G. M. Wilson has been obliged to take a complete rest on account of ill health for at least two months.

A big surprise was sprung on Mr. and Mrs. Latimer and family on Monday evening by their many friends of Reserve Mound. After a very happy, sociable time spent in games and old time reminiscences very useful and appropriate gifts were presented to them by the pastor on behalf of the Donalda U.F. Society of which Mrs. Latimer was a very active member. Mr. Latimer has to-day in his very able and willing manner assisted the social and religious work of the district in every way possible. The best from friends his there that it is no hard to part, but we wish them one and all the truest kind of happiness and prosperity.

The Agricultural sweepstake social event was a big success if you would judge from the standpoint of numbers. Mrs. Ethel Anderson has so far recovered as to enable her to return to her home.

Rev. Mr. Nelson of the Swedish church held a service in here last Sunday evening, and was much appreciated. Next date

Rev. Mr. Nelson of the Swedish church held a service in here last Sunday evening, and was much appreciated. Next date

The lectures on Sunday will be held in the Union Church. All are cordially invited to these services.

Do not forget the Concert at Red Willow on Friday evening. A good programme is promised.

Asthma Choked Him

Toronto Man Now Breathes Easier, and is Rapidly Regaining Accustomed Health and Strength, following Three Till the Credit.

"For the past few months," says Mr. Edward J. O'Brien, of 131 Pris Ave., Toronto, "I have suffered from bronchial asthma. It seemed I could hardly breathe at times. In fact I was so bad sometimes that they would have to take me home from my work. I was off work for three days and then would have to be home in bed for the balance of the week. Dizzy spells came on me and spots before my eyes.

"My system in general became very weak. I lost my appetite, couldn't sleep and felt all tired out. The doctor prescribed medicine. I tried gave me only relief. Hearing of Nerviline I decided to use it. Wonderful results followed and I have been entirely and permanently free from asthma for about a year.

"I have nothing to be put what I consider a good word for Nerviline. It has certainly saved my life. I say I owe my health, vigor and my work seems pleasure and easier as a result. I gladly praise Dr. for the wonderful comfort it has given me."

Many chronic-lurking ailments are correctly traceable to a faulty or ruin-down digestive system. Put those impurities to proper, healthy working order and strength and ability to throw off disorders, secure to-day from your druggist. Large family size (300 doses) costs more than smaller sizes, but is more economical. Manufactured by The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Democracy in Britain

Democracy seems to be growing in Great Britain when a Labor man is elected as the probable appointee to the Lord High Commissionership of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, instead of a duke or earl, as has been the case heretofore. It is expected that the next Lord High Commissioner of the General Assembly will be Ramsay MacDonald, and a recipient of Robert College is now the chief objection to appointment. The democratic tendency in the Turkish Government of the day, either on the abolition of the alphabet and the establishment of Latin characters, or the abolition of the fez and the substitution of the cap, is not to be regarded as a mere notion or whim of the moment. It shows a strength in the people that is encouraging. Many are expecting a more liberal trade treaty with the United States during the year. Now is the time to get it.

Sweden Has Many Suicides

Sweden has a suicide record of 1,000 a year, or 1 in every 5,000 of the population. Of these 1,000 suicides 600 are men and 400 women. Sweden has a population of 5,000,000.

Mr. B. Harrison, of 112 Goody Ave., Toronto, has suffered all kinds of misery and discomfort from indigestion. At one time of trouble. One night recently he could not sleep, and was so much upset in the least. My bowels were constipated, and as much as I did not feel sick at the time. My tongue was coated, however, was the way in which I could. Dyes cleared my face of pimples, which has been a source of some embarrassment to me. Even is a splendid blood purifier and system cleanser. Its herb, root, bark and leaf juices tone and regulate the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, and—possibly put the whole system in perfect working order. Dyes, the safe, reliable remedy, contains no mercury, or any other harmful forming drugs.
